Site of the accident was the north end of the curve in Highway 69 where it swings around a set of farm buildings a little less than five miles north of the Wright-Hamilton county line. Sheriff Bob Blecker says the smash-up occurred about 8:45 a.m.

Peterson was driving north in a '47 Chevrolet and Ennis south in a '56 Ford when their cars collided. Dr. Robert Eaton, county coroner, was of the opinion that Peterson must have been killed outright. Ennis had one leg fractured in two places, suffered a broken jaw and also sustained multiple cuts and bruises.

Insofar as the authorities could learn, Peterson was en route to his home at Schafer, Minn., on terminal leave after having completed a period of enlistment from the Marine corps. Papers indicated that he was due to be formally discharged from the Marine corps this Saturday, June 16.

Sheriff Blecker stated that Ennis was on brief leave from his duties at Waverly and was on his way to his home at Kamrar. Both of the young servicemen were driving alone.

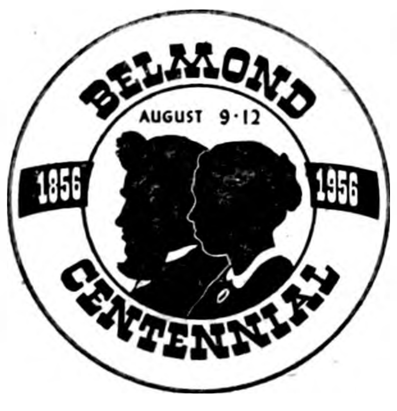
The only other fatal traffic accident in Wright county since the first of this year took the life of Mrs. Goldie Veronica Beasy, 42, of Des Moines on March 13. She met death in a car-train crash as the M. & St. L. crossing at the south edge of Belmond.

21 DEFY HEAT ON SUNDAY TO ENGAGE IN TRAIL RIDE

Temperature in the high nineties didn't stop 21 members of the Belmond Roughriders club from turning out for last Sunday afternoon's trail ride. Riders from Clarion and Meservey joined with those from the Belmond vicinity in enjoying a 2½-hour jaunt.

At the end of the afternoon, the group returned to Tyrrell park, where refreshments were served by the Harold Vanness and Dick Ersland families. Larry and Lynn Mennenga and Meredith Jenison will be hosts and hostess for the next ride, scheduled for July 15.

OFFICIAL CENTENNIAL BADGE



Limit Necessary On Swim Classes

It was necessary last weekend to start rejecting applications for participation in Red Cross summer swimming classes at the Clarion pool, according to Mrs. L. M. Helland, the local chapter's water safety chairman.

Dale Brand, Clarion coach who is in charge of the pool, informed Mrs. Helland that inability to obtain more instructors made it necessary to take this step. A total of 242 boys and girls were signed up at the time, compared to an earlier planned maximum of 250.

Fifteen members of the swimming class are from Goodell, the rest from Belmond. At the outset of registration it had been necessary to limit the swimming instruction to children from age seven to not more than 14. Older children have also been accepted in most previous years.

Mrs. Helland says that enrollment of high school students will be still further limited this year because of early registration of a record number of youngsters in the seven-and-eight year age bracket.

All children who have signed up are asked to report at the city park at 8:30 a. m. Monday of next week, the day the program gets underway. As in the past, lessons for the Belmond youngsters will be on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays over a six-week period.

ACQUAINTANCE RENEWED

Mrs. Joan (nee Swenson) Watson had the pleasure of renewing old acquaintance last week with a couple who were friends of her and her late husband, Lt. Vernon Watson, when the two families were living in Japan. Her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Ackley, left Tuesday morning to return to their home at Deerfield, N. J. They also have a home at Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. Ackley, a former U. S. Air Force pilot, was with the same outfit as Lieutenant Watson overseas.

Driver's License Examiner Slated For Dates Here

Thanks to arrangements made by the Belmond Chamber of Commerce, a driver's license examiner is scheduled to be on hand at the city hall here one day each month, starting in July.

According to the state highway patrol's schedule of driver's examinations and renewals for July through October, Belmond is being assigned an examiner on the second Friday of each month.

Patrolman Mel Allen of Hampton will be the patrolman in charge here.

First date on which Allen will be here to renew licenses and conduct license examinations will be Friday, July 13. The ensuing Friday dates will be Aug. 10, Sept. 14 and October 10.

Persons who receive cards reminding them that birthdays falling on July 12 or before will require them to renew their licenses before the patrolman's first appearance in Belmond will have to go to a neighboring town.

An examiner is at Garner every Friday, 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m., and at Clarion every Friday except the last in the month. The fourth—or fifth Friday, if there are five—he is at Eagle Grove. Renewals may be made at Hampton every Tuesday.

You Need Money For College? Aid Funds Available

Belmond High school graduates of last spring and the past several years are reminded by the Lions club that that organization has several hundred dollars in its student aid fund, available for loan. This fund was set up a year ago to provide assistance to Belmond boys and girls, who wish to continue their educations after graduation from high school, but lack sufficient money to do so.

One BHS alumnus was granted a $150 loan last year, which enabled him to continue in college. The Lions would like to see the student aid fund used to the fullest, possible extent and cordially invites loan applications for consideration.

While the money is given in the form of a loan rather than an outright grant, repayment will willingly be delayed until the borrower has completed his schooling and is in a position to pay back the money. A gesture interest charge of only two per cent is assessed on the loans.

Any BHS alumni interested in making application for a loan or learning further particulars may contact either the Lions' president, Dr. P. A. Rietz, or President-Elect Len Collier.

Council Gives Woman's Club, Jaycees $400 to Carry on Park Improvements

Money for park improvements was appropriated at last week's city council meeting, to be used by the Belmond Woman's club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The city fathers gave the women's group $250 to be spent on the city park and the Jaycees $150 to carry on their Tyrrell park project.

Mrs. B. B. Thompson, chairman of the Woman's club park committee, says that volunteered assistance and contributed supplies will enable her group to make improvements exceeding considerably in value the $250 appropriation.

All of the picnic tables have been given a coat of white paint, four trash barrels added to the park grounds and both the old and new barrels given an initial coat of green paint. The women also planted the center flower garden and the decorative urn by the tennis courts.

Another urn, near the southeast corner of the park, was cemented to its base preparatory to being planted; but youngsters swinging on the urn undid the repair job by the following day. Mrs. Thompson also reports that the newly painted tables were walked on while the paint was still wet and left liberally covered with foot tracks.

She and her committee urge the cooperation of children, and the help of their parents, in assuring proper respect for the park equipment. The Woman's club would like to see the park put in the best condition ever; but Mrs. Thompson points out that the members' efforts will count for little unless the public is willing to protect rather than destroy the park property.

Two charcoal burners have been installed at the park, and the women plan to have a large fireplace built in the near future. Plans also call for planting a hedge along the north fence of the tennis courts and adding several new shade trees.

The club would welcome donations of bridlewreath, spirea and honeysuckle bushes. Mrs. Thompson believes the club possibly could get all it needs if some hedges around town were thinned out, to the mutual benefit of the hedges themselves and the park project. Due to plans for a "street dance" to be held at the tennis courts during the centennial celebration, the hedge planting may be delayed until after that time.

The Jaycees received their grant of $150 to finance grading of a road to the west exit at Tyrrell park. Last year they built an entry road from the north and a parking area. They wish now to construct a second road leading from the parking lot to the southwest corner of the park.

Water is now available at the park, thanks to a well that was drilled at city expense late last summer. Future plans of the Jaycees also call for construction of a shelter house and the erection of some playground equipment.

Last week the Lions club was approached on the matter of providing funds with which the Jaycees could purchase some piping, planks and other material from which a teeter-totter, swings and other play equipment can be built. While no action was taken, the Lions — who helped finance building of the entry road last year — were agreed that the club would help if a detailed account of the requirements are provided by the Junior Chamber.

ACCEPTS D. M. POSITION

Geraldine Halfpap, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halfpap of Belmond, has completed her training at the American Institute of Business, Des Moines, and has accepted a secretarial position with Randolph Foods in that city.

Jack Johnson Will Head Alumni Assn.

Jack Johnson, BHS graduate with the Class of '53 who has been teaching this past year at Radcliffe, was elected as president of the Belmond High School Alumni association at a meeting held Monday afternoon of this week. Others elected to offices were: Dick Gowdy, vice president; and Ethel Brunes, secretary-treasurer.

Monday evening, these officers met with Retiring President W. P. Tyrrell to draft plans for incorporating a general reunion of BHS alumni as a feature of the Centennial program. It is proposed that Belmond graduates meet at the high school for registration on Sunday, Aug. 12, between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m.

A set of by-laws will be presented at that time and the group will decide whether the aumni association should be revived and plans made for an annual reunion — possibly at Homecoming time. Refreshments will be served and then individual class reunions held at designated locations in the various school buildings.

Belmond High school graduated its 71st class this spring and over the years of its existence has awarded diplomas to an estimated 1,700 students. It is hoped that representatives of a large majority of the graduating classes will find it possible to be present for the Centennial celebration in August.

Letters are being prepared by the Centennial committee to be mailed to BHS alumni and other former residents, inviting them to return at the time of the celebration. All the alumni will be asked to reply to the invitation so an idea can be obtained as to how many homecomers to expect on hand Aug. 12. Families of the graduates are being cordially invited to take part in the reunion, too.

Copies of the form letter will also be made available to lodges, churches, clubs and other groups that might wish to plan reunions during Centennial time. Groups wishing to obtain a supply of the letters should contact Thera Fitts.

HAS TEACHING POSITION

Mrs. Howard (nee Mary Lou Baker) Tice, who was graduated last week from Iowa State college, has accepted a teaching position at Fernald for the coming year. She will teach home economics, in which she majored at ISC; also English and art.

Pals, Gabrielson Buy Out Roskamp

Phyllis Pals and Ed Gabrielson of the P & G grocery this week announced purchase of Roskamp's neighborhood grocery from Bernard Roskamp, of which they will take possession Friday. While there will be no interruption in business, the "little store" across from the high school gymnasium will be extensively remodeled and rearranged and the proprietors ask the indulgence of their customers while the changes are in progress.

Fred Pals, husband of the co-proprietor of the P & G store, will be manager of the neighborhood store. He will be assisted in its operation by Mrs. Rex (June) Hawley and Mrs. Ed (Beulah) Reasoner.

The store will be converted to self-service and will add a full line of fresh meats, fresh fruits and vegetables and frozen foods. New cases and shelving will be installed and the partition that has separated the east section of the store is being removed to provide more display space.

Mr. Gabrielson and Mrs. Pals estimate it will take at least two weeks to complete all the changes in the store that are contemplated, but state that it will be able to serve its customers much more conveniently and efficiently when the job is finished.

It is presently planned to keep the store open on Sundays from about 3:00 to 6:30 p. m. and on weekday evenings until 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock. Prices at the store will be just the same as those prevailing at the P & G.

No new name for the neighborhood store has been selected, as yet.

EXHIBITED CHAMP BULL

Danny Aldrich showed the grand champion bull exhibited at the North Iowa Angus sale held recently at Mason City. The prize-winner sold at a nice price to a man at Britt.

BOELMAN GRANDSON DIES

Mr. and Mrs. Will J. Boelman and their daughters, Ruth, Mrs. Henry Abbas and Mrs. George Kuhlers and their sons, Joyce, Herman and Bud, also Mrs. Kuhlers' daughter Sharon, went to Savanna, Ill., Thursday of last week to attend graveside services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Boelman. Daryl is a son of the Boelmans. Ruth stayed for a longer visit.

REYNOLDS TO MANSON

Bob Reynold, who for about the past eight months has been an employee of Model Cleaners, on Monday of next week will go to work for a cleaning firm at Manson. He and his family are moving this weekend. A baby son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds at 11:30 p. m. Sunday. They already had a son and a daughter.

Ted Moves Into New Shoe Store

Ted Behrends moved the stock of his shoe store from its temporary location in the Hill building into his new store on Wednesday of this week. He says he plans a "grand opening" to celebrate the completion of the new building a little later and will soon have an announcement to make in that regard.

Many compliments are being received by Mr. Behrends on the attractiveness of his new store. Colorful asphalt tile flooring inside and the concrete split-block facing in a variety of colors lend distinction of the new shop.

Air conditioning has been installed to assure comfort to the store's customers during warm weather.

Ted feels that he is now in a position to conduct all phases of his business, shoe repair as well as sale of footwear, to greater satisfaction of his customers than ever before.

MRS. BOUGHTON DIES

Word has been received by Belmond relatives of Dwight Boughton that his wife died of cancer at Peekskill, N. Y., on Tuesday of last week. He's a native of Belmond and former mechanic in the employ of Followwill Implement and Feed company.

Candidates Have Sole Badge Sale Rights, 2 Weeks

Ten Belmond lovelies this afternoon launch campaigns that on Aug. 10 will produce the Belmond Centennial Queen, two Princesses and a retinue of attendants to receive the plaudits of Belmond centennial celebrants. Coronation of the Queen will accompany presentation of the centennial pageant, and at that time all of the Queen candidates will be rewarded for their efforts during the contest to determine Her Royal Highness.

Accompanying this story are pictures of the girls who have been nominated as Queen candidates. They are being sponsored by the following organizations:

Odd Fellows — Corrine Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Davenport. She will be 18 on Aug. 6 and was graduated from Belmond High school this spring, Salutatorian of her class. Corrine found time from her studies to engage in a variety of school activities and was editor of the student newspaper, "Hoofbeats," as a senior.

Junior Chamber of Commerce — Betty Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dempsey. She was 22 years old on Jan. 19. A graduate of Goodell High school with the Class of '52, Betty was awarded a nursing scholarship by Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society and was graduated from Mercy hospital, Des Moines, last fall. She is now on the nursing staff of Belmond Community hospital.

Veterans (American Legion-VFW) — Monica Jones, daughter of Mrs. John Jones. She will be 18 on July 28. Another BHS graduate with the Class of '56, Monica was candidate for Basketball Queen as a freshman and sophomore and a candidate for May Queen this spring. She also engaged in a variety of school activities.

Lions club — Judy Larson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Larson. She will be 15 years old next Oct. 15th. Judy will be a BHS sophomore next fall. She has sung with the girls glee club and mixed chorus, held membership in FHA and GAA and worked on "Hoofbeats."

Chamber of Commerce — Phyllis Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lee. She will be 18 next Dec. 20th. Another BHS graduate of this year, she was a candidate for Basketball Queen as a freshman; and in 1953 she reigned over General Mills Appreciation Days as Soybean Princess. Her school activities included singing with the glee club and acting in the junior and senior plays.

Belmond Co-op Creamery — Marilyn Mennenga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mennenga. She will be 15 on Oct. 1. Marilyn was an officer of her class (freshman) this past year. She has been a member of the FHA and sang with the glee club.

Farm Bureau (Belmond-Pleasant townships) — Shirley Pals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick D. L. Pals. She was 17 on April 18th and will be a BHS senior next fall. Shirley was a Football Queen candidate as a freshman. She has engaged in a wide range of school activities, with particular emphasis on music. She is an accomplished pianist and frequently serves as an accompanist.

Sportsman's club — Sondra Stoltenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg. She will be 15 on July 30th and will be enrolled as a BHS sophomore next fall. She's been a participant in activities of the Future Homemakers of America and the Girls Athletic association.

Belmond Fire department — Sandra Swenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Swenson. She was 17 on April 28th and will be a BHS senior in the fall. She has been especially active in music, but has also taken part in speech, dramatics and journalism and has held membership in GAA, FHA and Pep club.

General Mills Men's club — Vicki Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wolfe. She will be 15 the day before the centennial celebration opens, Aug. 8, and is to be a sophomore next fall. Vicki, in her freshman year, was a member of FHA and the Pep club.

The official centennial badges, which the girls will start selling this (Thursday) afternoon, will have one additional purpose in addition to serving as a memento of the Belmond Centennial. They will serve as admission for a street dance to be held on Thursday night, Aug. 9, as one of the opening features of the celebration.

Ziller Included In Honor Guard

NURNBERG, GERMANY — PFC Lawrence J. Ziller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ziller, Belmond, Iowa, recently was a member of an honor guard that greeted Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, new Seventh Army commander, on his first visit to Merrell Barracks in Nurnberg, Germany. He is a 1952 graduate of Belmond High school.

All That Money Going to Waste!

Here are $400 worth of numbers that were left at home Tuesday afternoon: good for $50 apiece — 1,471, 2,304, 2,963, 3,659 and 4,412; and for $25 each — 1,155, 1,609, 2,170, 2,747, 3,318 and 4,126. If you want to risk feeling bad, take a look in the kitchen drawer and see if you had one of them. The only lucky number holder who showed up to claim a Cash Gift Day prize was Mrs. Chris Friesleben, for whom No. 1,932 paid off $50 at 3:00 o'clock. The CGD committee is replacing the missing "fifty" to bring next Tuesday's prize total back up to $450. Again there will be six $25's for the claiming at 2:00 p. m. and the same number of $50's at 3:00 o'clock.

1955 Corn Under Support Surpasses '54 Figure by More Than 10 Per Cent

A total of 2,970,954 bushels of corn produced in Wright county in 1955 was placed under government price support by the close of the application period on May 31, it was reported this week by the Wright ASC committee. The total was 270,803 more than the 2,700,151 bushels of 1954 corn which had been placed under price support by the close of the application period for that crop.

In the program just ended, 1,499 loans were completed on a total of 2,430,406 bushels of 1955 corn. There were also 265 purchase agreements covering 540,548 bushels of 1955 corn. A year ago, 1,377 loans had been made on 2,125,493 bushels of 1954-crop corn raised in this county. In addition, there were 278 purchase agreements on 574,658 bushels of 1954 corn.

Compliance Required

Only corn produced on farms in compliance with their corn acreage allotments was eligible for price support in both the 1954 and 1955-crop programs.

In the state as a whole, at least 110 million bushels of 1955 corn were expected to be under price support loans and purchase agreements by the close of the application period on May 31. This would represent a big increase over the 92 million bushels of 1954 corn under support in Iowa a year ago.

All loans and purchase agreements on 1955 corn will mature on July 31. Also maturing at that time are all reseal loans on 1954-crop corn and extended reseal loans on 1953-crop corn. In Wright county, there are 695,733 bushels of 1954 corn under reseal on the farms and 391,077 bushels of 1953 corn under extended reseal.

Reseal of '54-55 Corn

A reseal program for 1955 corn and an extended reseal program for 1954 corn have already been announced. So far, no provision has been made for further extension of outstanding reseal loans on 1953 corn.

Under the present reseal program, producers will receive a storage payment of at least 15 cents a bushel for keeping eligible 1954 and 1955 loan corn on the farms another year, or until July 31, 1957. A feature of this plan is that farmers need not deliver the grain to the government at the end of the extra year to earn a full storage payment, since they will have the privilege of repaying the loans and still receive the storage allowance.

Pro-Rated Payments

They may also redeem their corn at any time after Oct. 1, 1956, and earn a pro-rated storage payment. Those who wish to continue holding resealed 1954 corn will receive the earned storage payment for the past year when they extend their present reseal loans.

Holders of purchase agreements on 1955 farm-stored corn may qualify for resealing benefits by converting their agreements into loans. Resealing is a means of keeping corn on the farms or in the locality where it will probably be fed eventually and also a means of helping to meet the government's problem of furnishing storage space for increasing supplies of price-supported commodities delivered in settlement of loans and purchase agreements, ASC Office Manager O. J. Hansen points out.

Local Selective Service Chairman In Review of Draft Classifications

"Every family in the country is interested in Selective Service classifications and what they mean in terms of their own son and his past, present or future military life. Selective Service registrants may qualify for any of of 17 different classifications based on the current written information contained in their files at the local board office", says H. V. Schoonover, chairman of the Wright county local board.

"When a young man reaches the age of 18, he is required by law to register with the nearest Selective Service local board. Following registration he is required to complete a "classification questionnaire," setting out in detail facts upon which classification is based. In the event the questionnaire does not adequately cover the subject to the satisfaction of the registrant, he may file additional written material for the information and guidance of his local board. A registrant may review his file at any time at the local board office."

"Each registrant should understand", said Mr. Schoonover "that his classification is determined soley upon the written information contained in his file. From the time he registers at 18 until he has completely satisifed his military obligation, it is the responsibilty of the registrant to keep his local board informed, in writing, of any change in status which might affect his classification.

"Any change of address, school, work, marital status, or information that he has a child or is expecting a child must be filed with the local board prior to the time the order to report for induction is mailed to the registrant. When the registrant is expecting a child, he must file certificate of a licensed physician stating that the child has been conceived, the probable date of its delivery, and the evidence upon which the positive diagnosis of pregnancy is based."

Selective Service Regulations provide that each registrant shall be classified in one of the following classes:

CLASS I-A—Available for military service. Callable in the following order — 1. delinquents; 2. volunteers; 3. non-fathers, 19 through 25, oldest first; 4. fathers, 19 through 25, oldest first; 5. registrants, 26 and older, youngest first; and 6. registrants, 18½ and not yet 19, oldest first.

CLASS I-A-O — Conscientious objector, available for non-combat military service only. (Same sequence as Class I-A)

CLASS I-C — Member of the Armed Forces of the United States, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, or the Public Health Service.

CLASS I-D — Member of a reserve component or student taking military training.

CLASS I-O — Conscientious objector available for civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest. (Same sequence as Class I-A)

CLASS I-W — Conscientious objector performing civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest.

CLASS I-S — High school or college student deferred by statute.

CLASS II-A — Registrant deferred because of civilian occupation. (Except agriculture and activity in study)

CLASS III-C — Registrant deferred because of agricultural occupation.

CLASS II-S — Registrant deferred because of activity in study.

CLASS III-A — Registrant with a child or children reported prior to Aug. 25, 1953; and registrant deferred by reason of extreme hardship and privation of dependents.

CLASS IV-A — Registrant who has completed service; sole surviving son.

CLASS IV-B — Officials deferred by law.

CLASS IV-C — Aliens.

CLASS IV-F — Physically, mentally, or morally unfit.

CLASS V-A — Registrants over the age of liability for military service.

Soil Bank Acreages for Individual Farms in Process of Computation

Basic requirements for Iowa farmers to qualify for the maximum price support on 1956 corn and to participate in the newly enacted soil bank plan were announced last week by the Wright county ASC Office.

As the first step in putting the new farm law into effect, every farm having a corn acreage allotment will also have a corn soil bank base acreage. The corn soil bank base acreage will be 17.8 per cent greater than the corn acreage allotment fixed earlier this year. The corn soil bank base acreages are now being computed for individual farms by the county ASC office.

Choice of Four Plans

The individual farmer may follow any one of four possible plans of corn raising operations in the present crop year. In considering the plans, he should keep in mind that compliance with certain production adjustment requirements will qualify him for price support on 1956 corn at a national average rate of $1.50 per bushel, and that if such requirements are not met the support rate on his 1956 corn will be at a national average rate of $1.25 per bushel.

He should also keep in mind that for compliance with soil bank provisions for corn he will earn a soil bank payment in addition to qualifying for the higher price support on his harvested corn. For the purpose of computing corn acreage reserve payments at a national average rate of 90 cents per bushel, per-acre corn yield factors for the idle land will be fixed as soon as possible. It has been announced that the yield figures to be used in computing corn acreage reserve payments will reflect net income had the idle land been planted to corn under average conditions.

Plans Outlined

The four plans open to the individual farmer for his 1956 corn-raising operations follow:

1. He may comply with the corn acreage allotment fixed for his farm earlier in the year and not participate in the soil bank. Under this plan he will be eligible for the $1.50 national average support rate but he will not earn a soil bank payment.

2. He may raise corn on 85 per cent of his corn soil bank base acreage and put an amount of his cropland equal to 15 per cent of his corn base acreage into the soil bank acreage reserve. He cannot harvest any crop, cut hay or graze this soil bank land in 1956. Under this plan, he will be eligible for the national average support rate of $1.50 per bushel on his 1956 corn and will also earn an acreage reserve soil bank payment.

3. He may put his full corn base acreage into corn and put an acreage of his cropland equal to 15 per cent of his corn base acreage into the conservation reserve. This conservation reserve land will be covered by a contract with the government running from 3 to 15 years, depending on the type of conservation measures applied to the land.

He cannot harvest a crop, cut hay on or graze the conservation reserve land during the life of the contract. Under this plan, the farmer will be eligible for the national average support rate of $1.50 per bushel for his 1956 corn. He will also receive an annual rental for the conservation reserve land at a national average rate of around $10 per acre. The rental rates applicable to Iowa will be announced as soon as they can be determined.

4. He may decide to comply neither with his corn acreage allotment nor the provisions of the soil bank. Under this plan he will be eligible only for the non-compliance support rate on his 1956 corn, which has been fixed at a national average of $1.25 per bushel, and he will not receive a soil bank payment.

Complete Information Soon

In order to qualify for the higher corn support rate and to participate in the soil bank in 1956, farmers will be permitted to clip or plow under plantings already made up to a certain time. The deadline date for getting into compliance under the soil bank plans will be announced as soon as it is fixed.

In announcing the general rules for 1956, the ASC advised farmers not to make any adjustment in planted crops in anticipation of soil bank participation until they have entered an agreement with their county ASC committee and know exactly what adjustment is required. It was also pointed out that plans are being made to make information available soon to every farmer who so desires it. It was emphasized that farmers should make it a point to be on the alert for announcements of details of the new program.

Bond Quota Close To 50% Filled In Four Months

Investments in series E and H United States savings bonds in Wright county during the first four months of 1956 amounted to $730,375 for 47 per cent of the annual quota.

Compared with Iowa's average of 41 per cent, and the national average attainment of 34 per cent, Wright county's record is very good, according to Charles Kramer of Clarion, volunteer chairman of the savings bonds program.

"This month is the fifteenth birthday of the series E bonds, while the series H current income savings bonds are almost four years old," the chairmen said in reporting the sales figures. "These guaranteed securities, which permitted individual citizens to invest in their government, were introduced with enthusiasm; however, no one dreamed 15 years ago that savings bonds would become the world's most popular investment."

Four-month sales and percentages of quotas reached are shown for counties in this area: Franklin county, $436,963 for 42 per cent; Hancock, $562,459 for 54 per cent; Hamilton, $740,101 for 50 per cent; Kossuth, $692,743 for 40 per cent.

TERMINAL LEAVE BONDS AS YET UNCASHED, DRAWING NO INTEREST

Uncle Sam has 26 million dollars he is anxious to pay to 130,000 World War II veterans who are holding uncashed terminal leave bonds issued in 1947 to veterans who had not been reimbursed for leave they had earned but not taken.

Charles Kramer of Clarion, county volunteer chairman of the savings bonds program, says that the terminal leave bonds matured in 1951, and have earned no interest for five years.

"Undoubtedly, thousands of Iowa veterans are included in the 130,000 who still are holding their terminal leave bonds, possibly under the impression they are continuing to earn interest," the chairman believes.

"I should like to suggest that World War II veterans who received terminal leave bonds, or their survivors, examine their records carefully, and if those bonds have not been redeemed, take them to any bank immediately.

"These are not to be confused with series E savings bonds, which carry an automatic extension privilege, earning interest for 10 extra years beyond maturity," the chairman emphasized. "E bonds will make an excellent replacement for the terminal leave bonds, earning an average of three per cent interest, compounded semi-annually, when held to maturity."

The chairman also points out that owners of series F or G savings bonds should examine them carefully, because they do not earn interest beyond the 12-year maturity date. He recommends series H bonds to individuals who own F or G bonds.

NORTH IOWA NEWSPAPERS COLLECTED AMPLE GLORY WITH NATIONAL RATINGS

We would like to pass on our envious congratulations to three of our brother publishers with whom we're affiliated through association in the North Iowa conference. High honor came last week to "Chub" Elling's Garner Leader, Gordon Aasgaard's Lake Mills Graphic and George Carman's Buffalo Center Tribune at the National Editorial association convention at Louisville, Ky. In their circulation classes, Mr. Elling's paper won third place nationally for "best service to agriculture;" Mr. Aasgaard's and Mr. Carman's for "best typography." . . . We took a crack at "community service" and got what the little boy shot at.

Not only did these three, good friends of ours bring glory to themselves and the Iowa weekly press, but in general, north Iowa unquestionably pulled down more honors in national newspaper competition than any other corresponding geographical area in the United States.

Other papers that won high recognition included the Laurens Sun, the Algona Upper Des Moines, the Iowa Falls Citizen, the Eldora Herald-Ledger and the Swea City Herald. Every one of them placed anywhere from second to somewhere in the top six in one or more (Swea City Herald picked a couple of plums) of the prize categories.

Over 1,750 of the nations finest weekly, semi-weekly and small daily papers had entries in the national contest; and, believe us, it's a job cutting the mustard in that sort of competition. But we will say this. If you're good enough to rank at the top among north Iowa's fine weeklies, it just about goes without saying you've got few peers in the nation. The awards at the NEA convention can be cited as evidence, we'd say.

APPEARS OUR U. S. REPRESENTATIVES DO NOT PRACTICE WHAT THEY PREACH

We note in the Christian Science Monitor that the House of Representatives has voted $12,000,000 to start work on remodeling the facade of the national Capitol. Total cost is estimated at $42,000,000. Proponents of the bill explain that the money will finance a 40-foot extension on the much-used central portion of the building, provide more office and restaurant space and "correct an architectural defect."

This should elevate eyebrows for several reasons. For one thing, the American Institute of Architects three times has gone on record AGAINST the remodeling project, declaring it stands to violate the designs of three distinguished architects approved by two presidents, Washington and Jefferson — both of whom knew a plumb line from a plum tree.

On the same day, the House authorized ten million to start a new $64.000.000 House office building and $18.000,000 to remodel the two buildings currently occupied by Representatives' offices, to enlarge the congressmens' office suites and provide a new restaurant and garage.

This blithe expenditure of funds by the Representatives for their added comfort and convenience seems to us to have several dubious aspects. Basically, the need appears somewhat open to question. Then, in these days when the financing of private housing is the toughest it's been in a long time, the congressmen hardly seem to be practicing what they preach when they start $124,000,000 worth of work on a "down payment" of 40 million. John Q. Taxpayer couldn't get by with a stunt like that.

Then it comes to our mind how quickly our Chamber of Commerce post office committee was caught up on its suggestion that maybe we could get our new, much-needed post office on a rental-purchase basis. That would find the government owning the building outright within a reasonable time. But, no! Our only chance of a new P. O. is to get quarters built by private capital, leaving Uncle Sam to pay rent for ever more.

Contemplating the whole situation, we can only observe, "Consistency, thou art INDEED a jewel!"

THOSE BEER CANS ALONG THE HIGHWAY COST THE TAXPAYERS A PRETTY PENNY

When you see an object gleaming in your headlights from the roadside at night any more, you can just about gamble that it won't take to the weeds as your car approaches. The odds are decidedly long that it will be a cat or some other denizon of the night. Most probably, it will turn out to be a beer can.

It may come as some surprise that the state highway commission actually makes a determined effort to clean up these cans and other debris that litterbugs strew along our highways. R. C. Boyd, maintenance engineer of the state highway commission, suggests that keeping the roadways clear of debris is something akin to bailing a boat with a sieve. You just can't keep up.

He reports, "A thorough clean up of the right of way is made in the spring before the grass starts growing. Spot clean up is made for unsightly trash as necessary during the year. Trash thrown or dumped on the highway after the spring clean-up is sometimes hidden by the grass and not only damages equipment, but causes loss of time of men and equipment."

So the cost of picking up trash is only a part of the over-all expense of cleaning up after litterbugs. Boyd estimates that trash on primary highways cost the state $150,000 last year.

It should come as no surprise that the ever-present beer can was the most expensive item. Without considering lost time and damage to equipment caused by beer containers, Boyd says that simply picking them up cost Iowa taxpayers $42,000! Liquor bottles added another $8,500.

It might be noted that in a majority of cases, the presence of these bottles and cans along the road were prima facie evidence of a serious misdemeanor, drinking beer or liquor on a public highway!

Boyd admits that highway maintenance officials have no idea how to lick the litterbug problem. He says he believes the law would permit prosecution as a misdemeanor; but a litterbug is rarely seen at work. Actually, so long as the public remains indifferent to the cost, the problem of debris along the highway seems certain to continue — and likely will grow.

Contests for All ASC Community Offices Assured

There will be a contest for every position to be filled in the annual township-community ASC elections next month, the Wright county ASC committee emphasized this week. A community ASC committee of three members and two alternates is to be elected in each township, and rules of the federal farm program require each township's ASC election board to nominate at least 10 candidates for the five posts.

The rules further permit the election board to nominate as many as 15 candidates. In addition, other nominations may be made by petition of 10 or more eligible voters of the township. All nominations must be made by June 22.

Actual voting will take place from July 5-13, with farmers using printed secret ballots mailed to them by the county ASC office. In each township, the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes will serve as chairman of his community committee. Positions of vice chairman, regular member, and first an dsecond alternate will be filled on a similar basis in that order. All terms are for one year, beginning Aug. 1.

Newly-elected township committee chairmen will serve as delegates to the annual county convention to be held July 28 to select the county ASC committee.

Because of new legislation, including establishment of the soil bank plan, interest in the coming ASC elections is expected to be greater than in the past several years. The county and community ASC committees are responsible for local administration of the price support, production adjustment and cost-sharing conservation programs of the federal government.

Janice Kalkwarf To State Parley

Janice Kalkwarf of the Belmond Busy Bees, Jane Baker of the Norway Jolly Joy Makers and Gloria Arends of the Iowa U-Go-I-Go are among the delegates from Wright county 4-H clubs who are attending the girls' 4-H club state convention at Ames this week. The meeting opened Wednesday and continues through Saturday.

A girl is permitted to attend the state convention only once. To be eligible, she must be 14 years old and have had at least a year's experience in 4-H club work. Each club can send as a delegate a girl who will be active in its work during the ensuing year.

Other Wright delegates, in addition to the three mentioned, are: Janice Hill, Dows; Karen Tincher, Renwick; Marilyn Amundson, Clarion; Mary Lou Shadle, Eagle Grove; Patricia Baldus, Eagle Grove; Ellen Smith, Clarion; Kay Keller; Blairsburg; and Sharon Hilpipre, Clarion.

As newly-elected county president, Miss Hilpipre on Monday and Tuesday attended a state workshop for county presidents held at the state 4-H camp near Madrid. Purpose of the workshop was to provide the new presidents with leadership training to aid them both at the state convention and in directing their own county organizations.

Gordon Luckless At M. C. Tourney

Fred Gordon found himself short on luck at both the start and the finish of the Legion Invitation Golf tournament Sunday at Mason City, and as a result finished out of the money.

He barely made the championship flight with a three-over-par 39 on his qualifying round. But the Belmond ace came back with a pair of even-par 36's for a total of 111 to earn a fourth-place tie with Jack Edwards of Mason City.

His rally went for naught, howeve, when the flip of a coin gave Edwards fourth prize. Lyle Humphrey, a past participant in the annual Clarmond Amateur and a probable contender in this year's play on July 1, took the Legion tourney with a record 103 for 27 holes.

Fifty-nine women were on hand at the city hall Tuesday evening to take part in formation of the Belmond Centennial organization to be known as the Sisters of the Swish. Membership will involve simply the wearing of old-fashioned apparel on specified occasions to promote the centennial; but several activities for the organization are now in the planning stage.

A steering committee of 10 members was selected to guide the organization. Mrs. Grant Chapman heads it as chairman. Others in the group, and their telephone numbers — so inquiries can be made of them in regard to the Sisters—are:

Mrs. Orphie Anderson (435), Mrs. Maurice Buckley (324), Mrs. Lloyd Cunningham (421), Mrs. Ed Gabrielson (7117), Mrs. Bill Guthrie (505), Charlotte Kobbe (8844), Mrs. Ben Mehus (8367), Mrs. Don Nolan (354) and Cynthia Saunders (7952). Mrs. Chapman's number is 370.

According to Mrs. Chapman, old-fashioned dresses will be "required wear" for the Sisters every Tuesday during July, on the last two Saturdays before the celebration in August and on all four days of the celebration.

The steering committee is meeting next Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Chapman to develop further plans.

Procedure Team At Lions' Parley

Belmond FFA's parliamentary procedure team by special invitation gave a demonstration Monday afternoon at the state convention of the Lions clubs of Iowa. A 15-minute talk on the duties of a presiding officer was given by Advisor Francis Kelly, also.

Members of the Future Farmers' team were John Studebaker, Gary Gabrielson, Larry Stadtlander, Wayne Pals and Donovan Goeman. Their demonstration was given at Hotel Russell Lamson, Waterloo, site of the Lions' convention.

Through arrangements made by L. B. Oberhauser, the Belmond boys gave a demonstration last winter at a district meeting of Lions club presidents held at Mason City. The Lions' state secretary, who was in attendance, was so favorably impressed that he asked Mr. Kelly to bring them to the state convention for a repeat performance.

4 From Belmond Get ISC Diplomas

Four students with Belmond addresses were among 933 who received degrees or certificates last Saturday at the 85th annual Iowa State college spring commencement.

They were: Jerry Aldrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Aldrich, Jr., Route 1, who graduated in agronomy; Louis Oberhauser, son of Mr. and and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, civil engineering; James Riekens, son of Mrs. Martha Riekens, dairy industry; and Mary Lou Tice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Baker, home economics education.

Jerry Aldrich is an alumnus of Rowan High school; the other three were graduates of Belmond High school.

Army Commission To Jerry Aldrich

When Jerry Aldrich received his B. S. degree in agronomy at Iowa State college commencement exercises last Saturday at Ames, he was also commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserve. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Aldrich, who with Joan and R. E. Lee III attended the graduation exercises.

Lieutenant Aldrich will return to Ames to attend graduate school during the summer and fall quarters to obtain a Professional Certificate. He is scheduled to report on Feb. 1 of next year to Fort Bliss, Texas, for duty at the Army's anti-aircraft and guided missle school.

Recreation Starts Tuesday, June 19

Activity in the PTA summer recreation program will get underway on Tuesday of next week, according to Director Don Hoppel. Nothing is scheduled for Monday, as the movie that was to be shown that afternoon was inadvertantly ordered to late for delivery. First of the special films to be shown at the New Belmond theater under the auspicies of the recreation committee has consequently been postponed until Monday, June 25.

Hoppel asks all boys from the ages of eight through 14 who are interested in baseball to report at the school athletic field at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday. There will also be practice starting at the same hour on Wednesday. Hoppel says a game with a Webster City peewee team has been tenatively carded, but no date for it set as yet.

Free swimming at the Clarion pool will be offered Thursday afternoon for boys and girls from age seven through 15. They are asked to meet at the city park at 1:00 p. m. There is a possibility that three school busses can be obtained for transportation, and if so it is believed that all the children can be taken over at the same time instead of splitting the swimmers into two groups.

A play day is planned for Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the school athletic field. Hoppel says that a variety of games will be included on the program.

Mrs. Van Gerpen Sick In Nigeria

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen from their son Emory that his wife is seriously ill in a mission hospital at Jos, Nigeria. This is the seventh time she has been hospitalized since suffering an attack of jaundice, complicated by malaria, a year ago.

The young couple have been serving as missionaries in Nigeria. Emory writes that his wife's doctor believes she can regain her health if she is able to return to the more temperate climate of this country. The Van Gerpens have applied for a year's furlough in the States and have been told it will be granted when a replacement for Emory can be obtained.

SUI M.A. Degree To Jack Shepard

Jack Shepard, former administrator of Belmond Community hospital, on Friday of last week was awarded a Master of Arts degree in hospital administration at the commencement exercises of the University of Iowa.

He wrote his Master's thesis on the topic, "An Evaluation of Credit and Collection Policies and Procedures as Adopted by the University of Iowa Hospitals."

At present, Jack is business manager of the University hospitals at Iowa City, a position in which he will continue. He left Belmond to take the graduate course at Iowa in late summer of 1954.

DON'T Let That Subscription Go!

Here's a tragic story that was passed on to us by Don Reid, manager of the Iowa Press association. Subscribers to The Independent can read it with the satisfying knowledge that it could never happen to them. . . . Seems a man who always refused to subscribe to his hometown newspaper sent his little boy to borrow a copy from his neighbor. In his haste, the lad knocked over a $4 stand of bees, and in 10 minutes he looked like a warty summer squash. His father ran to his assistance and, failing to notice the barber-wire fence, ripped a $5 pair of pants.

The family's cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and headed for the cornfield where she killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the man's wife ran out and upset a four-gallon church of cream into a basket of baby chickens, drowning the entire batch. In the excitement she dropped and broke a $35 set of false teeth. The baby left unattended, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor, ruining a $50 rug.

As the exictement mounted, the oldest daughter eloped with the hired man, the dog broke up 11 setting hens, the calves got out and chewed the tails off four shirts hanging on the clothesline. The local department store had a special on shirts that Saturday at $1 each instead of the regular price of $3.92 plus sales tax, but our friend didn't know about it. He bought six a week later for $16 and the $12 he didn't save on the shirts would have paid four years' subscription to his hometown paper! . . . We urge you to bear this saga in mind when those subscription reminder cards appear in your mail box.

The HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

As the car moved out of the darkened town, Ed, the district sales manager, settled more comfortably behind the wheel and grinned at the new man sitting beside him. He looked a little worn.

"Well now you see how it's done," Ed said. "We had a pretty good day. Does me good to get out in the territory once in a while like this. Keeps my hand it. Keeps me thinking right." He flicked on his brights, pushed the car up to 60 and settled down to the business of getting home before midnight.

The new man wanted to close his eyes. He was exhausted. All afternoon and late into that night he had followed Ed around the town from house to house, knocking on doors, giving the sales talk, the demonstration.

Ed was teaching him the business. After every sale that day, Ed would look at him sternly and say, "Now, this is the crucial moment. You've just made a sale and you feel like knocking off for an hour. If you're any good, you keep moving. Keep moving!" And they had kept moving.

"I'm a little tired myself," Ed said as the car moved swiftly into the night. "It guess I'm a little out of shape. I envy you young guys just getting started Half the fun of success is getting there. Just take a good look at where you're going and then keep moving. Yes sir!"

At the moment he spoke, Ed had absolutely no idea where he was going. He was driving 60 miles an hour. The car was covering 88 feet of highway every second, rushing into the void of darkness beyond the headlight where Ed could see nothing.

Ed fell silent and the new man began to doze. Just before his eyes closed he thought he saw some darker object just beyond the headlights. But he was too sleepy, too sleepy. If it was anything, Ed would see it.

But Ed's older eyes saw nothing unusual until about a second later. Then they were 88 feet too close. A few seconds more and Ed stopped moving.

IOWA'S OLDEST FATHER, AGE 94; YOUNGEST MOTHER, 12, IN 1955

The most popular age to have a baby, if you're a woman, is 23. If you are a man, the most popular age to become a father is 26.

Statistics just released by the Vital Statistics Division of the Iowa State Department of Health reveal that about 25 per cent of all babies born in 1955 in Iowa had parents 23 to 27 years old. No other age group accounted for so many babies.

The second most popular age to become a mother is 24 and 25 for a father. Women aged 22, and men aged 27 became parents of the third highest number of children in 1955.

The youngest father was 16 and the oldest 94. However, only one child was bon to a 94 year-old man while 16 babies were born to 16 year-old fathers. The second oldest father was 84.

The youngest mother in Iowa was 12 and the oldest 48. One child was born to a girl 12 years-old, two children to 13 year-old mothers, 24 to 14 year-olds and 155 to 15 year-old mothers. Three children were born to mothers 48 years of age.

"The oldest Iowa woman to give birth to a child since World War II was 58 years old and her husband was 37. The child was born to this couple in 1948. Since that time the oldest woman in this state to give birth to a child was 53," said Loren Chancellor, director of the Vital Statistics Division.

ADDED MILLIONS FOR IOWA TRANSPORTATION

Iowa's thriving transportation business has an income of more than $6,640,000 per year from the brewing industry. This includes $3,467,604.30 spent with railroads and truck lines, plus $3,173,017.69 for deliveries from wholesaler to retailer. These expenditures reach into virtually every section of the State, to add that much more to Iowa's wealth and prosperity.

Still Further Benefits, too

In addition, Iowa benefits in many other ways from the brewing industry. Take the industry's $30,000,000 per year Iowa payroll, or the more than $25,000,000 spent for taxes, or the huge sums which go into the purchase of farm products. These and many other items add up to the fact that . . .

Outbreak of Hog Cholera Possible, ISC "Vet" Warns

Iowa swine proucers may be face with a serious widespread outbreak of hog cholera if the past two years' trend away from vaccination continues, according to Dr. Maynard Spear, extension veterinarian at Iowa State college.

Preventive vaccination, he says, has fallen off until 30 per cent, or less, of Iowa's swine herds are protected against cholera. This means that the disease might spread faster than susceptible herds could be vaccinated.

Deadly Disease

Hog cholera, Spear points out, is still a deadly disease. Little can be done to save a herd once cholera becomes established on a herd basis. Until the hog belt has a well-established hog cholera control and eradication program in force it will be a big gamble to allow swine herds to go unvaccinated any year.

Outbreaks Come in Cycles

Spear says hog cholera outbreaks have appeared to come in 10- to 15-year cycles. The last widespread outbreak was in the middle 1930's. Spear reports many observers feel the present cycle has been prolonged because of the continued favorable price of hogs, with the result that the use of preventive vaccination also held up in comparison. With lowered hog prices the past two seasons the vaccination program has fallen off rapidly.

The shift away from virus and serum to the attenuated virus vaccine has been rapid the past two years. The virus vaccines, Spear says, appear to be performing acceptably when used with a simultaneous dose of immune serum.

It is important that only healthy swine be vaccinated. Spear warns that this is equally true rgardless of th method of vaccination used. Vaccinated swine may be spreaders of cholera for a period of two to three weeks after vaccination. Therefore unvaccinated animals should be isolated from those already immunized.

Swine may be vaccinated against cholera any time after they reach five weeks of age, provided they are growing rapidly and are free from parasites, both external and internal. All recently vaccinated swine, Spear says, should be closely observed for any adverse reaction. If any sick pigs are noticed a veterinarian should be called at once.

Good swine producers, he points out, consider vaccination a part of their management programs. They notify their veterinarians ahead of time as to when they would like to have their heards vaccinated.

Maj. Carl Sandberg Ends Furlough; Goes This Week to Fort Leavenworth

Maj. Carl R. Sandberg, a native son of Goodell who has carved a distinguished military career for himself, has lately been assigned to domestic duty after a year spent as area engineer at Narsarssuak Air Base, Greenland. His next tour of duty will be at the Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Army base as assistant post engineer.

Born at Goodell, Major Sandberg received his early education there and afterward attended Iowa State college, graduating in 1927 with a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering.

Although a reserve officer upon his graduation from college, Major Sandberg did not enter upon active duty until after the start of World War II. After obtaining his degree, he was associated for a time with the Quaker Oats company at Cedar Rapids as general engineer and later as a partner in the Hampton firm, Sandberg and Johnson Construction company.

He was called to active duty in 1942, seeing initial service at Camp Claiborne, La., with the rank of captain. The following January he was assigned to the 357th Engineer Training Regiment at Claiborne as acting battalion commander.

May of the same year he got his first foreign assignment, being transferred to the Newfoundland Base Command as assistant staff engineer. His first overseas assignment came in November of 1945 when he was transferred to the Military Government Headquarters Command in Japan. He returned to the States in June of 1946 and was separated from active duty in August.

Major Sandberg returned to active duty in August of 1948 and since then has filled a variety of assignments as an engineer both in the States and abroad. The major is married and the Sandberg family continues to regard Hampton as their home residence.

Major and Mrs. Sandberg with their son and daughter enjoyed dinner last Friday in the parental O. Sandberg home. His month's furlough following the year of duty in Greenland ends this week and they are leaving Hampton to take up their new residence at Fort Leavenworth.

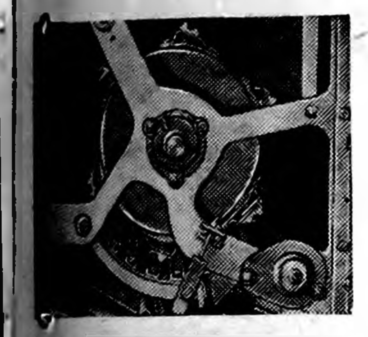
40 Harvests Have Proved This Original Massey-Harris Principle



Massey-Harris combines rub the grain out the natural, easy way. The corrugated rasp-bar cylinder — an original Massey-Harris development — removes the kernels of grain from the straw gently ... yet thoroughly. There are no cylinder teeth to crush the grain. Adjustments can be made quickly, easily for the exact speed and clearance best suited for particular crop you're harvesting. The Clipper successfully handles more than 110 different grains and grasses.

Stop in next time you're in town and see the Massey-Harris Combines we have on display. You'll see why they are the most popular in the field.

$50 PRIZE GOES TO TOP WINNER IN CENTENNIAL AMATEUR SHOW

A centennial program feature previously unannounced is the amateur talent show that has been scheduled for the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 10, at the city park bandstand. Entries are now being solicited and it is planned that advance auditions will be conducted if more than enough acts to fill the program are entered.

One hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded to the four top place winners. The $50 first prize is expected to attract some really first-rate talent from over a wide geographical area. Second place will be good for $25 and third and fourth $15 and $10, respectively.

Any person who does not make his or her livelihood by entertaining will be considered an amateur, for purposes of the contest. Consequently, the fact that an entertainer has received ocasional fees for public appearances will not bar him from entry. It is hoped by the centennial committee that acts in good variety can be obtained, so that a really first-class show can be put on.

Dancers, singers, instrumentalists and novelty acts are desired to round out the program. Any persons wishing to compete for the prizes are asked to address a letter to: Amateur Show, Belmond Centennial, Inc., % Belmond Independent.

It is the intention of the centennial committee to set up a well balanced program, with entertainment of the widest possible variety. Consequently, auditions will be held to determine the best acts in each category if this should seem advisable.

Amateur entertainers interested in appearing in the show should get applications in promptly, so ample time will be allowed for auditioning if that should prove necessary.

Corn Borer Once More Constitutes Threat to Wright County Corn Crop

Corn borer egg masses counting as high as 44 per 100 plants were found the latter part of last week on tall corn near Bellmond, Charles Wilmarth of Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company reported to Aaron Bowman, county extension director.

Average infestation in this area, though, was about 10 out of every 100 plants with egg masses to some degree, according to the Tomahawk research director. Bowman says reports from other parts of the county largely correspond with those from the Belmond area.

Bowman warns that a big buildup of egg masses may be occurring this week, with some of the earliest-laid masses already hatched. Consequently, farmers should be keeping careful check right now to determine if they need to spray and when.

The extension director believes it will prove easier to time spraying properly this year than in some previous. It is recommended that spraying be done for first brood when leaf feeding is noticeable on 75 per cent of the plants in a field. Even very slight feeding by newly hatched borers should be counted, Bowman emphasizes. This will require that farmers take careful and repeated counts.

For European corn borer control, sprays, dusts and granular forms of insecticides are all recommended. For ground equipment, three-fourths to one pound of five per cent granular DDT is recommended. An approved ground spray consists of 1½ pounds of actual DDT, using five to 10 gallons of water at 40 to 60 pounds pressure.

Bowman predicted that some fields may need to be sprayed this week, and urged farmers to keep close check so that sprays can be applied when they will be most effective in control of the borers.

A new leaflet, "Corn Borer Control in 1956," has just been released by the state extension service and is available by writing or calling the extension office at Clarion.

Hotvet Announces Two Job Changes

Walt Hotvet, plant superintendent, this week announced two personnel changes at the General Mills soybean processing plant that are due to take place on July 1.

Bob Kellerman, currently with the GMI research division at Minneapolis, will become refinery supervisor. Mr. Kellerman plans to move his wife and two daughters here as soon as he obtains housing accommodations. His daughters are Judy, age 11, and Mary, five.

A General Mills employee since 1951, Mr. Kellerman will be replacing Dick Nutt as refinery supervisor. Mr. Nutt is being transferred to the newly-created position of project engineer.

He came to the General Mills plant here in 1948 as a supervisory trainee and since February of 1954 has held the position he is relinquishing to Mr. Kellerman. He is a graduate chemical engineer, holding a degree from the University of Minnesota.

McClure Suffers Injury to Fingers

Roy McClure on Wednesday of last week shortly after noon painfully discovered that "lightning" in the way of injury from farm machinery can strike twice in the same place. He suffered multiple injuries to the fingers of his left hand when he attempted to unclog a cutter which he was operating in a field of sweet clover. Several years ago he lost part of a finger on his right hand in a mishap while filling silo.

Driving in to Belmond Community hospital himself after the accident, Mr. McClure immediately underwent repair surgery to save the injured fingers. He was still being held in the hospital at mid-week under observation.

He told his wife that he had shut off the cutter, but the machinery apparently hadn't come to a full stop when he tried to clear it. He had been having trouble with the cutter earlier in the day and had just returned to the field when the mishap occurred about 1:30 p. m.

CLAIM FORM AVAILABLE

Claim forms to be made out to obtain refunds on federal tax on gasoline used on the farm can now be obtained by Wright county farmers, the county extension office, Clarion, or at any Wright county bank. The form is to be filled out and filed by Oct. 1 for the period from Jan. 1 of this year through June 30.

4-H SOFTBALL PLAY STARTS

Play has been started by 28 Wright county 4-H softball teams engaged in a summer round-robin schedule that will be completed Aug. 11. All of the games will be played on the softball diamonds located at Rowan, Dows, Woolstock, Eagle Grove and Kanawha. The Pleasant Pioneers will field a team in only the boys' senior league.

Too Hot to Pick Up Cash?

Granted that it's been hot. But the question is, is it too hot to go out of your way a bit to pick up a bundle of cash? Ten holders of lucky Cash Gift Day numbers apparently thought so, for six $50 prizes and four of $25 each went unclaimed Tuesday afternoon. The only winners were Ben Heginger and Mrs. Peter Pals, who each got $25 for the trouble of coming in to town. Numbers at 2:00 p. m. that would have been worth equal amounts, if turned in, were: 2,612, 3,239, 3,955 and 4,436. Numbers that lost out on $50 each at 3:00 o'clock were 1,089, 1,351, 2,027, 3,104, 3,743 and 4,268. Next Tuesday, same prizes — six $25's at 2:00 o'clock and a half dozen $50's at 3:00. Don't let vacation money of YOURS get away!

Queen Candidates on KGLO-TV Today

Belmond's Centennial Queen candidates will make an appearance on the Super Valu show over KGLO-TV this afternoon at 4:20 o'clock, according to Mrs. Jim Cairns, chairman of the queen committee.

Arrangements for the telecast were made with Ken Kavanaugh, the show's master-of-ceremonies, through the auspicies of Harold and A. W. "Doc" Johnson, proprietors of the Tip Top Super Valu grocery. The Tip Top, through its affiliation with Super Valu, is co-sponsor of the show.

A spirited contest for the title of Centennial Queen had already developed by the middle of this week, although the girls first received their supplies of centennial badges on last Thursday afternoon. It was noteworthy that those candidates who received the most thorough cooperation from their sponsoring organizations got off to the best starts.

By preference of the girls, themselves, vote totals will not be reported as standings of the leading candidates are announced from time to time. Also, the rankings of only the three top place-holders will be reported. First announcement of these placings will be made next week. Badge purchasers are reminded that the candidate from whom they buy gets one vote for having made the sale. Then, in addition, the purchaser can cast one ballot for the candidate of his choice. In most instances, this vote has been going to the candidate who sold the badge; but it can be cast for another candidate if the purchaser prefers.

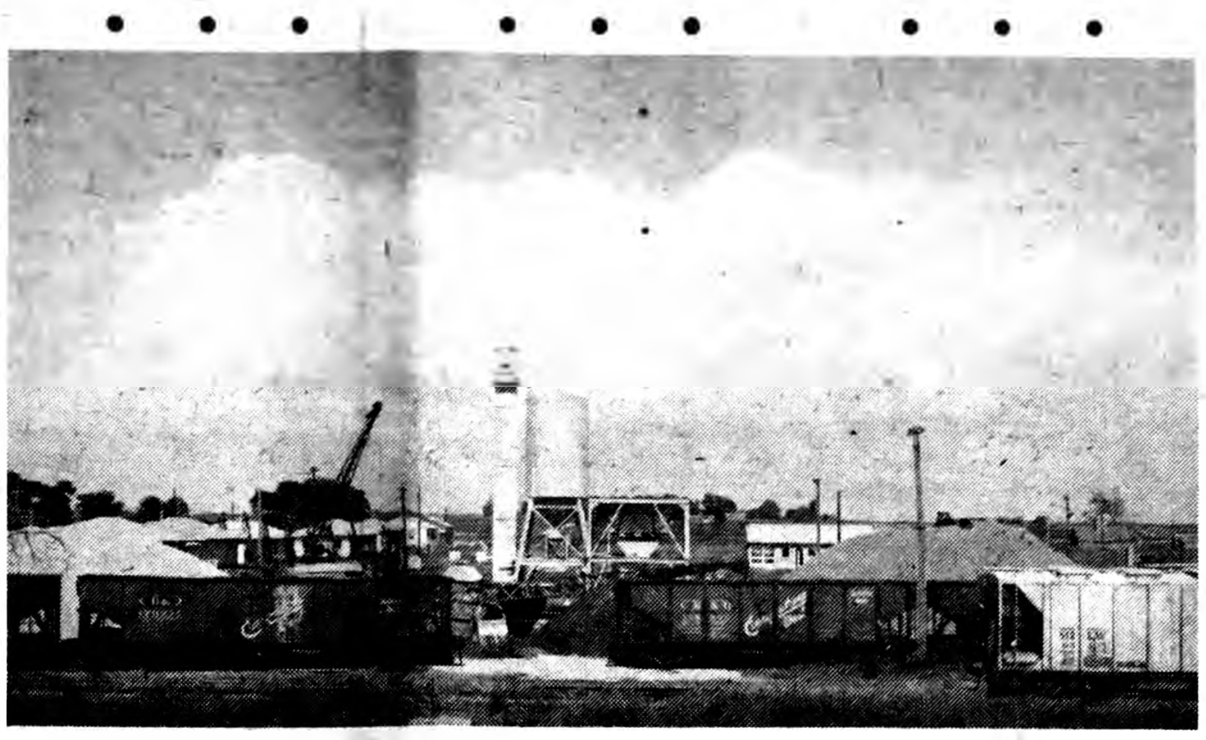
The girls will receive prizes amounting in value to approximately 15 per cent of the money each takes in on badge sales. These awards will be made on the first night that the pageant is presented, Aug. 10. At that time, also, the Queen and two Centennial Princesses will be crowned.

Admission to the street dance that is scheduled on the centennial program for the evening of Aug. 9 will be free to all persons possessing badges.

Candidates for the Queen title will continue to sell badges right up to 6:00 p. m. on the evening of the coronation. They have exclusive right to sell the badges until Friday of next week, when they will go on general sale. The public is asked to bear in mind, though, that the girls receive commission and a "sale vote" only on badges they sell personally. Badges bought later from a local business place entitle the purchaser to cast one ballot for the candidate of his choice, but do not otherwise benefit any of the candidates.



JUST GOING UP was the huge cement mixer by the Rock Island tracks in east Belmond when this picture was taken Saturday afternoon. The mixer will supply all the cement for a 25-mile stretch of the Highway 69 widening project. And as the scene indicates, lines of waiting freight cars on the R. I. tracks are no oddity for the time being, while some 35 hopper cars are required daily to supply the mixer's needs for cement, sand and gravel. A constantly busy drag-line, hustling trucks and chugging conveyors keep the construction headquarters an area of bustle and noise throughout the daylight hours.

DAVID PALS DISCHARGED

David Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pals, was discharged from the Air Force last week at Syracuse, N. Y., after completing a four-year enlistment and arrived home Sunday. His final 14 months of duty were spent at Thule in Greenland.

Owners of 57 Belmond Properties Told To Plat Holdings--or County Will Do It

Owners of 57 parcels of unplatted property in Belmond were perplexed last weekend to receive from County Auditor Myron Price a notice that they are required to plat their properties with 30 days' time or that the county auditor will cause the platting to be done. In view of the fact that some of the properties have been homesites for a half century or more and their unplatted status has caused no previous complaint, many of the owners were curious as to why platting should be ordered at this time.

Auditor Price was absent from the office when The Independent made inquiry into the matter this week, but general answers to the most widely prevailing questions were provided by Deputy Bernice Payne.

She explained that all of the properties involved in the platting order are identified in the auditor's plat book only on a small scale map of the entire incorporated area of Belmond. During the passing years, dividing of properties and periodical transfers of title has produced such a jumble of notations on the page that it has lately proved next to impossible to keep identifications straight. This led to the decision to require five unplatted areas in town to be platted; and the present time was chosen only because it is a slack part of the year in the auditor's office.

Mrs. Payne emphasized that the decision was prompted by no private parties, but was made solely by the auditor. While the notice gives each propertyowner the privilege of proceeding individually with the required platting, it is assumed that all will most likely leave it to the auditor to have the job done.

County Attorney Ralph Austin predicted that surveying will be required in virtually all instances to definitely establish boundaries. State law provides that costs involved in platting under the given circumstances are to be pro-rated among the propertyowners in each separate plat. Whether division of cost will be by lot area or in accordance with assessed valuation, Mr. Austin did not know.

Five separate plats were involved in the five group notices mailed out by Auditor Price, with from five to as high as 22 parcels of property involved in each of the notices.

Areas required to be platted might be described roughly as follows: the double tier of out lots lying just west of the street that adjoins the Rock Island railroad tracks; the properties east of the Rock Island tracks between Kirkendall Addition and First street SE; the square block on which Chapman service station is located; the south 40 acres of land in the incorporated limits, lying east of Highway 69 and to the south of the M. & St. L. tracks; and the adjoining area just to the north, between this 40 and the M. & St. L. tracks.

Quoting Auditor Price, Mrs. Payne said that the proposed platting will fill a need that has existed for a good many years. It has been increasingly difficult to keep tax records properly and it appeared that the only solution open was to have the plats drawn and filed in order to simplify future record-keeping.

Marcia Henn 3rd In Princess Vote

Marcia Henn, one of three candidates of the Belmond Co-op Creamery, won a special award at last week's June Dairy Month Banquet at Dows for placing third in the ballotting to select Wright county's Dairy Princess of '56. The Princess title went to Diane Rohrer, a representative of the Clarion Dairy; and Joan Sebert, nominated by the Dairy Herd Improvement association, placed second.

Approximately 425 persons attended the banquet sponsored by the Wright County Dairy Interests association. As usual, the menu placed particular emphasis on dairy products. The banqueters were served by the 22 girls who vied for the Dairy Princess' crown. By virtue of her victory, Miss Rohrer will represent Wright county in the state Dairy Princess contest later this month.

Ray Clark of Galt, chairman of the Dairy Interests association, served as master-of-ceremonies. As June Dairy Month chairman for the county, Curtis Rise, manager of Belmond Co-op Creamery, introduced the princess candidates.

Clinton Hentrich of Chicago, a member of the American Dairy association's publicity staff, spoke on the importance of promoting the use of fluid milk — particularly in the heavily populated areas of the country.

Hoppel Receives USAF Discharge

He had completed a four-year enlistment in the USAF, the last 15 months of which he was assigned to Oscoda as a GCA (ground control approach) operator. He attained the rating of Staff Sergeant 4½ months prior to his discharge.

It is Doug's intention to enroll for college study this fall, but he has not yet chosen his school. He is also uncertain at present what major course of study he will decide upon.

USAF Discharges Bill McLaughlin

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLaughlin returned to Belmond last Saturday after a year and a half in England, during which time he was serving with the U. S. Air Force at its Burtonwood base.

Bill, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLaughlin, was discharged from active duty in New York City on June 12, after completing a four-year enlistment. He had attained the rating of staff sergeant.

Ex-Sergeant McLaughlin plans to enroll for study at Iowa State college, Ames, beginning with the summer quarter.

Adults Can Get Swim Instruction

Mrs. Gunnar Kling of the Red Cross water safety committee announces that arrangements have been made for a limited number of adults to take swimming lessons at the Clarion pool.

The only time available for the lessons is at the same hours the children from Belmond and Goodell have their classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Fifteen adults can be accommodated, Mrs. Kling says, and the first to call will be accepted for the class. If bids are gotten in sufficiently early, the first lesson can be taken Friday morning. As with the children, bus transportation will be provided from the city park at 8:30 a. m. on the three mornings each week.

Cost to adults wishing to enroll for lessons will be $2.50 for a season ticket to the pool and $1.50 for instruction.

FRED LOATS HOME

Cpl. Fred Loats, son of Ben Loats, arrived home Monday to spend a 30-day leave from his duties at the Air Force base at San Antonio, Tex.

Historical Book Nearly Finished

Several intensive weeks of preparation by the Culture Study club have produced material that will soon be assembled in an historial booklet commemorating Belmond's centennial. Mrs. Merle Bonte, chairman of the committee in charge of editing the book, said last weekend that copy would be ready for the printer very soon.

Much historical data has been assembled for the booklet, which should make it an ideal memento of the centennial. There will be histories of Belmond churches, clubs and lodges; personal reminiscences of several early residents of the community; a section reviewing Belmond's industrial progress; and other historical aspects of Belmond's growth and development.

The booklet will be generously illustrated with pictures of old scenes. Mrs. Bonte and her sister club members feel confident that anyone who has called Belmond "home" will find the book a keepsake they will want for themselves. It is anticipated that many present residents will want to buy extra copies to send to relatives and friends who once lived here and still look back fondly on the years they spent here.

Price of the books will be $1.00. Mail orders will cost an extra dime. Orders may be placed for the present with Mrs. Lloyd Cunningham.

Carol Pals Wins Girls State Post As Representative

Carol Pals, Belmond's delegate to Hawkeye Girls State on the campus of Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls last week, attained the highest office ever acquired by a local representative to the annual civic training project. She was one of 16 successful candidates for membership in the Girls State House of Representatives.

Largely duplicating the regular government of the state of Iowa, the 300 girls assembled under auspicies of the Iowa department of the American Legion Auxiliary, choose a full slate of elective officers. These range from governor through commerce commissioner and also include eight senators as well as the 16 representatives.

The successful "Federalist" party was headed by Nancy Taylor of Mason City as candidate for governor. Key plank in her platform was a proposal that a girl from some other nation be invited to attend the Girls State sessions.

After their election on Thursday, the senators and representatives held legislative sessions on Friday to enact "laws" they believe should be on the statute books.

Meeting Tonight On "Soil Bank"

A special countywide meeting on the acreage reserve part of the "soil bank" program will be held tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 o'clock in the courtroom at the Wright county court house.

Chester Schoby, district fieldman, will be there to explain the provisions of the program and to tell how farmers can qualify for these payments.

An invitation is extended to all farmers and others who are interested to attend this meeting.

Haying Accident Kills Ed Dippel; Funeral Tuesday

Edward H. Dippel, 47, died about 10:45 p. m. Saturday of injuries sustained Wednesday afternoon of last week in an accident while he was helping put baled hay in a mow at the Tyrrell stock farm.

Eight bales of hay were being hoisted when the fork accidentally tripped as it reached the pulley. Mr. Dippel was standing on the hayrack underneath. Although he attempted to dodge the plunging bales, two of them struck him on the back of his head and neck.

He was rushed to Belmond Community hospital, but his inpuries were such that little could be done for him. According to the examining physician, Mr. Dippel suffered multiple fractures and dislocations of the vertebrae in his neck and the spinal cord was partly severed, leaving him paralyzed below the point of injury.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at Johnston Funeral Home, Rev. M. L. Jones of the Methodist church officiating. Interment was in Belmond cemetery. Serving as pallbearers were Harm Sandman, Mike Berhow, Arlan Lein, Dick Ersland, Ed Schimp and Dwight Tyrrell.

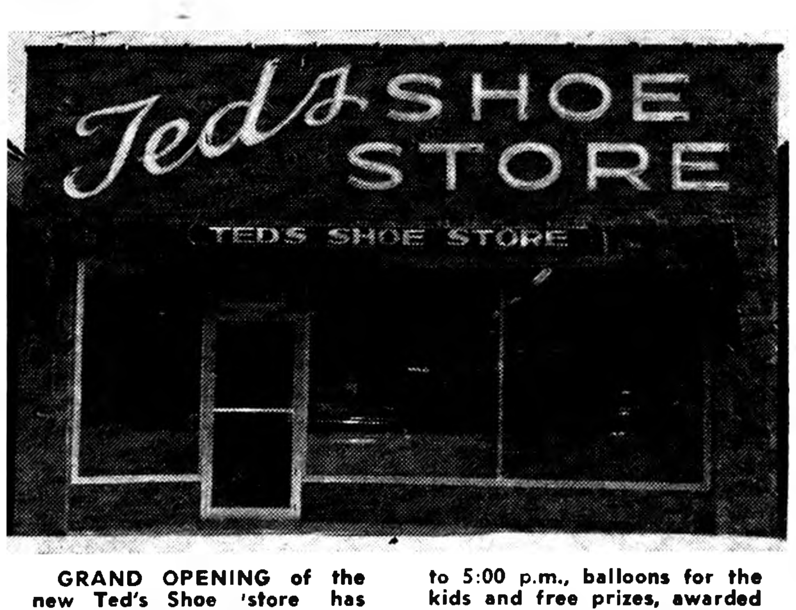
Mr. Dippel was a lifelong resident of the Belmond community. He was born on a farm near Belmond on Jan. 6, 1909, the son of Ervin and Gertude Dippel. He was married on Dec. 18, 1929, to Anna A. Adams at Hampton. He had been employed at the Tyrrell stock farm for more than 25 years.

Surviving besides his widow are two sons, Vernon and Gary; a brother, Lewis of Belmond; and a half-sister, Wilma Fulks of Waterloo. He was preceded in death by his parents, a brother and half-sister.

First Recreation Movie Next Week

First of the recreation program movies will be shown next Monday. It will be "Two Thorobreds," the story of an orphan boy who finds and cares for a straying colt.

Showings of the special pictures will be at 2:00 o'clock each Monday afternoon at the New Belmond theater. To partially defray the cost of the films, the customary admission fee of 20 cents will be charged.



GRAND OPENING of the new Ted's Shoe store has been scheduled for Saturday and Ted Behrends in this issue invites all his friends and customers to visit his comfortably air-conditioned establishment. There'll be free coffee and doughnuts, 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., balloons for the kids and free prizes, awarded on the basis of registration. Leo Dorr, Sr., was general contractor on the building job and his son, Leo, Jr., was responsible for laying the split-block that comprises the attractive front.

Big Cement Mixer Set Up by Tracks Of R. I. Railway

Belmond this week became the center of operations for widening approximately a 25-mile stretch of Highway 69. The job is being done by Hallet Construction company of Crosby, Minn., and Ralph Brown is superintendent of that part of the widening project for which Belmond is serving as base. Headquarters for the operation have been set up on property of the Rock Island railroad just north of Christie and Larsen stockyards.

Last weekend a huge cement mixer was erected at this location, which supplies construction crews working south from Klemme and south out of Belmond. Mr. Brown says it takes at least five freight car loads of cement and about 30 of sand and gravel to keep the mixer going during a day's run.

Day Starts at 5:30 a. m.

The mixer operates from 5:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Trucks carry the first loads of mixed cement away about 6:30 a. m. and the pouring continues each weekday until 6:30 to 6:45 p. m. The giant mixer puts out over 87 batches an hour, a "batch" consisting of 1.4 cubic yards of cement. The wet cement is trucked to the highway and dumped into a lay-down machine, which spreads it in a continuous slab 10 inches deep and three to four feet wide. The following day, contraction joints are cut by saws to match the expansion joints in the old paving at about 50-foot intervals.

Between the two of them, the lay-down machine working below Klemme and the second south of Belmond lay about 2½ miles of cement daily. An innovation with the Hallett company this year is covering the fresh cement with a plastic membrane during the curing period, instead of the water-soaked burlap employed in previous years. It takes the new cement four days to cure.

Concerned Over Cement

Superintendent Brown has his fingers crossed over the cement situation, in view of the strike at the Mason City Lehigh plant. Plans call for widening of the Belmond stretch of No. 69 in about a month's time, if no shortage in the cement supply develops and weather remains favorable for pouring. The construction work south of town is destined to meet with a similar project that is to be launched from Blairsburg intersection within the next few days.

Residents living in the neighborhood of Kirkendall Addition have been watching with interest the day-long activity at the highway project headquarters. Certainly the Rock Island railroad has not been involved in so much bustle locally in many a year. The entire scene has a behive appearance from early morning until nearly dusk.

But some housewives in the vicinity already are beginning to wonder if they aren't having to pay a rather high price for the diversion. Despite all possible precautionary measures by Hallett to keep dust to a minimum, clouds of the stuff constantly arise from the busy construction grounds. During the kind of weather that has lately prevailed, nobody seems inclined to keep windows closed to keep dust out — so it drifts into surrounding homes daily in copious quantities.

Beverly Couchman To Head Auxiliary

Beverly Couchman was elected president of the Belmond unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at the regular meeting of the group held Tuesday evening at Veterans' Memorial hall. She will succeed Nita Behrends as head of the Auxiliary.

Other new officers, who will be installed at the Auxiliary's next meeting, are: Eunice Slining, 1st vice president; Alice Svendsen, 2nd vice president; Jean Bamford, secretary; Toni Jenison, treasurer; Nita Behrends, chaplain; and Lillie Thompson, historian.

Carol Pals, who was the Auxiliary's representative at Hawkeye Girls State last week, gave a report on her experiences there.

Herschel Johnson Rites on Friday

Funeral services will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 1:30 p. m. at Johnston Funeral Home and at 2:00 o'clock at St. Olaf Lutheran church for Herschel M. Johnson. A local farmer and lifetime resident of the Belmond community, Mr. Johnson died Tuesday evening at Belmond Community hospital only a few hours after being admitted.

He underwent surgery for a cancerous condition at University hospital, Iowa City, in November of last year. His health had steadily declined, but it was not realized that his death was so immenent.

Born March 9, 1915, on the family farm west of Belmond, the deceased was the only son of Herman and Norah Johnson. He was married May 25, 1941, to Adean Mehus. Two children were born to them—a son, Kent Ray, age eight, and a daughter, Luanne Raye, 5½ months.

Final rites will be conducted by Rev. O. M. Severseike, pastor of the St. Olaf church, and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Precision Built Home

- Building is done with units instead of pieces. Precision-Built homes can be "under roof" in a day.
- Big wall sections and roof parts are built with assemblyline efficiency and speed.
- Piece-by-piece cutting and fitting is ended. So is the time these steps take. Scrap piles of waste materiel never appear.
- Precision-Building faithfully follows every long-proved principle of sound home construction. Has both FHA and VA approval.
- Materials used in Precision-Built houses are of selected quality, only the best is used.
- You can select any design, and style, any plan. No need to limit yourself to certain models.
- The system has been thoroughly tested and in use for 20 years. A localized business. Everything's done right in your area by a local firm and local craftsmen. And you pay no freight costs for transporation from a distant plant.

Cutworms Working on Corn; 'Hoppers Widely Prevalent in This Area's Hay

In addition to their concern over a moisture deficit — and to some degree, in fact, because of it — farmers of Wright county have the threat of severe infestations of insects to include among their worries this season. A separate story in this issue reports on the corn borer outlook. But borers are only part of the problem.

Several hundred acres of seed corn fields around the center of the county have suffered from slight to serious damage due to cutworms, Extension Director Aaron Bowman reports. Other sections have also detected cutworm damage.

Rotation pastures in Grant township are infested with exceedingly large numbers of very young grasshoppers; and Bowman predicts that this menace will prevail in many other areas. He warns that serious grasshopper infestations should be controlled early, before the 'hoppers move from pasture meadows to beans and corn.

And as if these insect pests did not represent trouble enough, Bowman adds that flea beetle damage was noted earlier on corn.

Several insecticides have been proved useful in combatting grasshoppers. Bowman says that two ounces per acre will make applications of Aldrin, Heptochlor or dieldrin effective against young 'hoppers; or Toxophene at a pound per acre.

Double these amounts should be used to battle full grown grasshoppers. Bowman adds that Dieldrin has been found to give best results in extremely hot weather, such as prevalent the past week or so.

Hay ground can best be sprayed for 'hopper control by covering a strip around the end of the field, including border rows of adjacent crops. Cut the hay, but leave a center strip standing. The 'hoppers can then be given a concentrated dose by spraying that strip after the insects have congregated on it.

Seven days should elapse between the time of applying Heptochlor and cutting hay or pasturing on the field. Bowman urges careful reading and observance of directions on the labels of the other insecticides. A leaflet entitled "Pest Control in Hay and Pasture Crops" is obtainable from the extension office at Clarion and may be found helpful.

As for those cutworms, Bowman recommends as a control a pound and a half of actual Toxophene applied to each acre.

SEEMS LIFE IS JUST HARDER ON MEN THEN WOMEN — THAT'S ALL

Women: When you've needed an escort to a dance have you ever wondered where all the men are? Well — they're dead. Records in the vital statistics division of the Iowa state department of health prove it.

While more boys than girls are born, more males than females die every year.

Loren Chancellor, director of the State Vital Statistics Division, says, "Records have always shown that more males than females are born and — that more die."

In Iowa there were 33,041 boys born in 1955 as compared to 31,372 girls and 15,189 male deaths compared to 11,720 female deaths.

More men than women die from nearly every cause of death. The four leading causes of death in 1955 in Iowa, heart disease, cancer, vascular lesions (breakdown in the blood vessels) and accidents killed 30.9 per cent more men than women.

Heart disease took the lives of 5,950 men and 3,906 women. Cancer was fatal for 2,177 men and 2,060 women. Vascular lesions were responsible for 1,933 male deaths and 2,021 female deaths. Accidents caused 1,167 men and 589 women to die.

Through age 79 more men than women die as the result of accidents. The greatest precentage of the male population is killed accidentally between the ages of 15 to 29.

There were 94 males, aged 15-19, who died accidentally and 22 females of the same age. Accidents claimed 98 men and 17 women aged 20-24. In the 25-29 year age group, 84 men and 16 women died as the result of accidents.

The HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

A man watering his lawn that evening saw it begin. "I knew Carl and noticed that he had been knocking at the door of the house across the street for a long time. He tried to look in the front windows of the house, then just seemed to stand there. Finally he gave the door a kick and slammed away in his car. That's the last I saw of him."

A man in a tavern saw it continue. "Like to have a couple beers at night and like to have them in a couple different places. Saw Carl in both places that night with three or four other fellows. Carl was buying the drinks and they were buying his troubles.

"Things were quiet enought until Carl's girl friend walked in with another fellow. Seemed that Carl had been stood up and the fellows with him started calling the girl some pretty hard names. They told the other fellow they would get him.

"The girl got mad and told Carl she was through with him an dthat this was a good way for him to find it out. Carl got excited and jumped up and told the girl he was through with her, too, but that he'd get back at her first. Then he walked out and his friends went with him. That's the last I saw of him."

A highway patrolman saw it just after the end. "Carl was driving when he apparently lost control on a slight, well banked curve. He died when the steering column entered his chest. Four young men with him were injured.

"The accident had its beginning when Carl found that his girl had broken a date. It grew with intoxication, the unexpected meeting with the girl and the friends who irritated the situation. When Carl climbed into his car he was in a mood to fight back at the things that were hurting him. He just chose the wrong weapon."

Gordon in Third Place at Algona

After being tied for top place at the end of 18 holes in the annual Algona Amateur golf tournament Sunday, Fred Gordon ran into some pitch and putt difficulties on the final nine and had to settle for third place.

All of the first six place-winners in the tourney were former contenders for the Clarmond Amateur title and it is expected that most, if not all, of them will be on hand for the Clarmond meet on July 1.

John Eymann of Forest City, who was tied with Gordon at 73 after 18 holes, wound up with a 37 for the best 27-hole score of 110. Phil Joselyn of Fort Dodge had 111 to Gordon's 113, after Fred finished with a 40.

Bud Judish of Fort Dodge was fourth with 115, John Marschall of Hampton fifth with 116 and Bruce Osmundson of Thompson sixth with 117. John and Don Eymann and Osmundson have already entered the 4th annual Clarmond Amateur and the others expressed hopes of being on hand.

2 From Vicinity Attending Luther

Two students from this vicinity are enrolled for summer study at Luther college, Decorah, among 263 who are registered for one or both of the summer sessions there this year.

Mrs. Gene (nee Mary Ellen McClure) Ersland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McClure, is attending the first session and will compete the equivalent of three full years of college by the end of the five-week period.

This is the minimum requirement for substitute teaching in Minnesota and Mrs. McClure hopes to serve part-time as a substitute at New Richland, Minn. Her husband, former athletic star at Luther, is head coach at the high school there.

Sharon Schulte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schulte of Alexander, is enrolled for both of the summer sessions at Luther. She also has had two full years of study there and attended summer school last year, too.

She will complete requirements for her degree during the first semester of the coming school year. When she has completed her course, she plans to enter the teaching field as an elementary teacher.

4 Book Friends Gifts to Library

Librarian Faye Colby reports that the city library has lately received four books as gifts via the BOOK FRIENDS club. Three were received from Mrs. William Schorman, all being books for children about the Bible. They were: "Picture Book of Palestine," Smither; "Picture Dictionary of The Bible," Tubby; and "Tell About the Bible," Jones.

The fourth volume was presented to the library by Thera Fitts in the name of her late father, F. O. Fitts, for many years a station agent here. Her gift was "Father Flanagan of Boys Town," written by Will and Fulton Ousler.

Election Boards Named to Conduct ASC Ballotting

Formal nomination of candidates for community ASC committeemen for one-year terms beginning Aug. 1 is now under way in all townships of Wright county.

As part of the local administrative set-up of the ASC farm program, each township has a farmer-elected official body known as a community ASC committee. Each such committee — consisting of a chairman, vice chairman and regular member — is elected annually. First and second alternate members are also named in these annual ASC elections.

Ten candidates for the five posts as committeemen and alternates will be nominated in each township by its own community ASC election board appointed by the county ASC election board. The community election boards have until tomorrow to make nominations. Other nominations may be made by petition of 10 or more eligible voters of the township concerned.

Voting will take place from July 5 to July 13, with farmers using printed secret ballots mailed to them by the county ASC office. This procedure will take place simultaneously in every Iowa county, and on July 28 each county will hold an ASC convention to elect its county ASC committeemen for one-year terms beginning on Aug. 1.

The county and community are responsible for local administration of the federal government's price support, production adjustment and cost-sharing conservation programs.

Serving on the community election boards in Wright county are the following:

3 Wright Doctors Take Part In SUI Training Program

IOWA CITY (Special) — A program which gives State University of Iowa medical students a first-hand view of general medical practice is getting under way in communities throughout Iowa this week.

All Students in SUI's college of medicine must take a four-week preceptorship between their junior and senior years in the home and office of an Iowa physician in general practice. The preceptorships start at various times during the summer, depending upon the doctors' schedules.

Sponsored by the Iowa State Medical Society and the University's college of medicine in conjunction with the Iowa Academy of General Practice, the preceptor program was established in 1953 to bring each student into intimate association with the general practice of medicine, and to "impress upon the student the social and community responsibility of the private practitioner in the smaller communities."

Dr. Stuart C. Cullen, professor and chairman of the department of anesthesiology at SUI and chairman of the college of medicine's preceptorship program, says the program "increases even further the wide experience which new doctors take with them from their training as students in the University Medical Center."

STOCK TANK CLEAN-OUT

Extension Director Aaron Bowman says that the green, moss-like growth noticeable in many stock watering tanks can be prevented by using a teaspoonful of copper sulphate to each 200 gallons of water placed in the tank. The growth is caused by little water plants called algae. Bowman says the tank should be emptied and cleaned before putting the copper sulphate to use.

And he came forth and saw a great multitude, and he had compassion on them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd. . . . — Mark 6:34.

IKE'S ILLNESS ONCE AGAIN STRESSES NEED FOR CAPABLE VICE PRESIDENTS

While President Eisenhower's latest illness further beclouds the presidential election picture, it is not without its beneficial aspects. We are not, like many over-eager Democrats, ready to write-off Ike as a qualified candidate for the GOP presidential nomination. However, we do feel that the situation places a healthy emphasis upon the need for careful deliberation in picking running mates for our presidential nominees.

Very obviously, President Roosevelt was in a much more precarious state of health when he was nominated for his fourth term than is President Eisenhower at this time. At least, there is every reason to consider this a safe assumption in view of expert medical opinion regarding Ike's physical condition.

How well qualified Harry Truman was to take up the reins of government after FDR's death will probably always remain a debatable question. But the obvious shortcomings he possessed pointed up the importance of selecting vice presidential nominees on better grounds than political expediency alone. It has been clearly established that he was, in fact, the rankest sort of compromise choice and that his qualifications for succeeding to the presidency were given small consideration.

For all too long, both major parties have been guilty of looking upon selection of a vice presidential nominee too much in the guise of a geographical patronage proposition. Importance of the vice presidency has by now certainly been adequately stressed that choice of candidates for the office should be viewed as the serious matter that it is.

In fairness to Vice President Nixon, it should be noted that he has won a reputation for competence, tact and judgment. He has carried much more responsibility than the average vice president of the past and it is to be hoped a permanent precedent has thereby been established.

It is also to be equally desired that our politicians will never hereafter forget that EVERY vice president is potentially the leader of our government. A large share of our presidential candidates, in acquiring the experience essential to attaining that status, are likely to be of an age that puts a question mark after their life expectancy. So it [illegible] ever be [illegible] [illegible] political hack is a dubious prospect to fill the president's shoes.

RUSSELL LUNDY DID EXCELLENT JOB AS HIGHWAY COMMISSION'S CHAIRMAN

As Russell Lundy's term as chairman of the state highway commission reaches its end, it strikes us that an enthusiastic word of commendation is due him for a job excellently done. He will be succeeded in the chairmanship July 1 by Robert Beck, the up-and-coming Centerville newspaper publisher. It can be confidently expected that Mr. Beck will continue the state highway program along the same lines as those that have been followed under Mr. Lundy's leadership.

While we can't quote figures to illustrate the progress that has been made while Mr. Lundy has headed the commission, we've traveled over the state enough to be favorably impressed with the efficiency and dispatch with which the program of highway construction and widening has been carried on.

Another thing that has pleased us has been the courtesy and consideration that motorists have received when inconvenienced by road work in progress.

At the time of his appointment, opponents of Mr. Lundy tagged him as being a "tool" of the "asphalt interests." It is noteworthy that subsequent complaints on this score have been virtually nil. The public seems satisfied that Mr. Lundy and his fellow commissioners have employed materials that best suited existing circumstances and that the over-all result has been a road program well administered and expertly carried out.

After the unjustified criticism that was directed at him at the time of his nomination, it is clear now that Mr. Lundy accepted his assignment as a public service to be performed to the best of his ability. He's proved the quality of his leadership; and Iowa owes him a vote of thanks for a job well done.

ANY TOWN IS A HAPPIER TOWN WHEN ITS OLDER CITIZENS FEEL "WANTED"

Special honors were recently paid a 79-year-old woman columnist, who writes for a Missouri weekly newspaper, for the many services she has performed in behalf of elderly residents of her community. After reading her story, it impressed us that she could be set down in almost any town you might name — including Belmond — and fulfill the same useful function that she does in her home town.

One of her objectives is to see that old folks in nursing homes are not forgotten. She keeps tab on their birthdays and makes certain that they receive letters, cards and small gifts on that occasion. She sees that those who are well enough to get about are taken for occasional rides into the country by volunteer drivers. If it is possible for some to stand the mild rigors of a picnic or an afternoon of fishing, that is arranged.

This ambitious oldster has gone a step beyond this and helped to organize a Golden Years club to provide a program of regular activity for the elderly of the community who still live in their own homes or with their children. A club room is provided where these people can indulge in hobbies and pastimes appropriate to their years.

This lady's community, we are told, is one of the happiest you'll find. There simply are NO old people in it who feel unwanted and forgotten. And it makes a big difference.

We have suggested before that Belmond unquestionably falls short, as do most other towns, in doing for its old folks what it might. Certainly some club or service organization could find no more worthy project than trying to amend some of our shortcomings in that regard.

It's something to think about before the fall season of organization activities arrives. Certainly such a sponsor would be called blessed by the elderly men and women who have grown to believe that the world is passing them by.

FARMERS : Please Note

This calls your attention to the recent change in personnel of the Belmond Rendering Service.

Fred Pals, who for so many years has given fine service in the communities of Belmond, Goodell, Thornton, Meservey, Alexander and Rowan, on removal of fallen farm animals, has gone into business in Belmond and has turned over his service truck to Rollin Mosiman of Belmond. Our phone (236) remains the same.

We wish to thank Fred for his years of good and efficient service and to welcome Rollin Mosiman to our employ.

Farmers are requested to call as always number 236 in Belmond, and to be sure to give name and location carefully so that prompt service can be maintained as always during the first few months as Rollin acquaints himself with the work.

VOL. 36 NO. 38 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

Wright County Farmers Showing Keen Interest in Soil Bank Plan

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

This week The Independent has been limping along on about half its cylinders, hence the size of the current issue. Mainstreeter Han[illegible], though he was released from the hospital June 15, won't be back for likely a couple of weeks yet. Mainstreeter Gowdy grabbed some vacation time by taking a long weekend. And Duane [illegible] of the back shop force is vacationing at Clear Lake. So we ask your indulgence toward this bob-tailed issue. Presumably we'll be back in the normal swing next week. (We hedge a little, because it doesn't pay to be TOO certain about ANYTHING these days.)

Members of the general committee of Belmond Centennial, Inc., who are currently sweating out the financial problems involved in making the up-coming celebration pay for itself, might take heart from an audit recently presented to the trustees of the Iowa Falls Centennial. The celebration down there was considerably more ambitious in scope than that which is contemplated here. Receipts for the Iowa Falls Centennial totaled [illegible], of which $16,486 represented funds subscribed by volunteer underwriters.

Every cent of the funds advanced to the centennial trustees to serve as working capital was returned to the underwriters. There is still left in the centennial "kitty" about [illegible] in cash, plus some miscellaneous items valued at a little over $700.

Belmond's Centennial committee also is hopeful that the August celebration can be made to pay for itself. Whether or not this actually transpires will depend largely upon whether or not the historical pageant and rodeo break even. In excess of $4,000 will be invested in these two entertainments. Rain insurance can cover the contingency of inclement weather (it DOES rain around here, sometimes), But attendance by good crowds at the two performances of each of the program features will likely be the deciding factor.

About $1,400 was subscribed by members of the Chamber of Commerce to give the Belmond Centennial committee advance funds to work with. The committee happily reports at this time that so far it has not been necessary to dip into this money. Income from Centennial badges, Whisker Club buttons, Shaver's Permits, ties, hats, etc., has kept the committee supplied with ready cash. But, of course, the days of heavy expense still lie ahead.

When pageant tickets go on sale a few weeks hence, it will behoove the various churches that will be responsible for selling the tickets to do the best job possible. The Centennial committee has pledged to pay each church a minimum of 10 per cent commission — IF the celebration finishes up "in the black." On the experience of Iowa Falls — and Goldfield, which turned a $1,200 "profit" on its celebration last year — the churches' reward might well surpass that 10 per cent. It is hoped that EVERY church in the Belmond vicinity, regardless of whether it is participating directly in the pageant production or not, will take part in the ticket sales.

Marlys McGarvey, BHS journalism instructor whom the Mainstreeters got to know well last year in her capacity of "Hoofbeats" advisor — sends us a note from London, England. She accuses us of fouling up her itinerary in a story we ran on the European tour she is currently enjoying.

"Your paper," she writes, "said I went to Iceland. I didn't. A fine Irishman like me went to IREland. I'm wondering, should I improve my handwriting or are you taking applications for a proofreader?"

Perhaps we might act on that proofreader suggestion, but the fact of the matter is that as the word appeared in her own handwriting, we were perplexedly convinced she was making a stop-over in Iceland. Just goes to show you that these days, NO place is looked upon as an out-of-the-way place.

Comes a note from Extension Director Aaron Bowman stating (as if most gardeners haven't already discovered it), "Grasshoppers are becoming a problem in gardens as well as in field crops." His communication becomes more helpful, though, when it proceeds to suggest what beleaguered gardeners can DO about it. Methoxychlor, he says, is the answer. Or one of 'em, at least.

"Grasshoppers in gardens can be controlled by spraying with Methoxychlor at the rate of a half cup of 50 per cent wettable powder to three gallons of water," advises Mr. B.

Suggested alternatives: mix one tablespoonful of Malathion per gallon of water, or as a spray around the garden border to discourage hoppers from trespassing, use three tablespoonsful of Chlordane per three gallons of water. As a [illegible] spray, also useful on lawns to discourage ants and chiggers as well as 'hoppers, he also recommends a one-half of one per cent Chlordane solution.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE ORDERED BY JUDGE HILL

Judge G. R. Hill recently ordered in district court at Clarion that a mortgage held by Pioneer Federal Savings and Loan association of Mason City be foreclosed on property owned by Floyd L. and Marie E. Wirtz of Belmond. Involved was Lot 3, Block 20, in the First Addition to Belmond.

Judgment had been granted to the plaintiff against Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz in the amount of $4,738.05, plus $87.38 in attorney's fees. The magistrate also ruled that costs of the court proceedings should be assessed against the defendants.

NEWLY COMPLETED VOCATIONAL SHOP BUILDING (LEFT) AND SCHOOL BUS GARAGE

Supt. Don Faris this week released figures on cost of operating the Belmond Community School district's 12 busses during the 1955-56 school year, which indicate that school transportation has grown into something of a "big business" in itself.

The district's busses traveled a total of almost 100,000 miles — to be exact, 99,529 — in transporting an average of 473 pupils per day. That aggregates the equivalent of almost four complete trips around the earth by bus, which any of the 11 drivers would probably shudder to contemplate. Particularly with said bus loaded with lively school kids.

Salaries of the bus drivers accounted for $11,988.05 of the year's total expense of $26,922.90. The 11 busses in regular use consumed 15,656 gallons of gas costing $4,023.67 and used 738 quarts of oil, for which $265.60 was paid. The twelfth bus is on stand-by duty, in case mechanical trouble puts one of the others temporarily out of commission.

Amortized cost of the busses added $7,785.77 to the year's transportation expense. This figure allows for replacement of a bus after seven years' use.

Seven new tires had to be bought, coming to a total of $442.01; repairs added $1,534.47 to the bill for transportation and miscellaneous expense amounted to $550.69 and insurance cost $332.64.

With the new bus barn now completed and providing space for repair work, the school district is currently seeking a maintenance supervisor to keep the busses in mechanical trim and fueled up for their daily journeys. The supervisor would not be asked to do the heavy repairs.

The school board considers it would be desireable to have the supervisor also serve as one of the drivers and is particularly looking for applicants who would be interested in the job on that basis.

S. Swenson Ahead In Queen Contest

Sandra Swenson, sponsored by the Belmond Fire department, was the leading candidate for Belmond Centennial Queen on Tuesday after centennial badges had been on sale for 10 days. Not far behind was Betty Dempsey, candidate of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; and in third place was Vicki Wolfe, sponsored by the GMI Men's club.

Also well started on their sales of centennial badges were the other seven candidates: Corrine Davenport, Monica Jones, Judy Larson, Phyllis Lee, Marilyn Mennenga, Shirley Pals and Sondra Stoltenberg.

Mrs. Jim Cairns, chairman of the queen committee, offers a reminder that the girls will have the exclusive right to sell badges only through today. However, badges bought other than from one of the candidates will count only one vote towards selecting the queen.

In contrast, a badge bought from a candidate gives her one vote towards the title, a sales commission of approximately 15 per cent, and also gives the buyer the right to cast a ballot for any candidate of his choice.

Mrs. Cairns urges the various sponsors to throw whole-hearted support behind their candidates in the queen contest. It is noteworthy that in most instances, she says, those candidates are doing the best so far who have received the most cooperation from their sponsors.

Oberhauser Gets Government Post

Louis Oberhauser, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, is now employed in the U. S. Patent Office at Washington, D. C. He was graduated this month from Iowa State college with a Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering.

He has enrolled for a night school course in the law school of George Washington university at the capitol with the goal of qualifying as a patent attorney. It will take him about three years of study to obtain his law degree.

REV. SCHORMAN ATTENDS CONGREGATIONAL PARLEY

Rev. William Schorman, Congregational church pastor, returned today (Thursday) from Omaha, where he was one of 1,500 delegates from over the nation in attendance at the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches.

He wrote that his room mate at Omaha has been one of the Negro ministers from Montgomery, Ala., who was a major figure in the bus strike earlier this year that gained nationwide publicity. Mr. Schorman reports that he greatly enjoyed his conversations with the southern clergyman.

Credit Bureau Set Up by Merchants

Last Thursday a new local enterprise came into being — the Belmond Credit Bureau. It is an association of Belmond business firms, banded together to exchange information on credit experience and to be of mutual helpfulness in collection of past-due accounts.

Although the movement to establish the bureau was initiated by the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce, the organization will be completely separate from the Chamber and have no relation to it in any way.

Dick Trout, who is affiliated with Roy Henderson in the local attorney's law office, has agreed to serve as manager of the Credit Bureau.

Several members of the Chamber were instrumental in bringing about establishment of the Credit Bureau. The proposal was aired at a meeting of businessmen held Thursday afternoon at the city hall.

It was regarded by those interested that the bureau would prove of mutual benefit to both merchants and customers alike, aiding the latter by making favorable credit ratings generally known.

Over 92,000 Meals Served at School In Conjunction with Lunch Program

The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe might have thought she had so many children that they comprised an insurmountable problem, but she had it pretty soft compared to the hot lunch cooks who provide noon meals for the children of Belmond Community district's schools.

During 1955-56 they served on an average of more than 525 per day. This includes meals served both here and at Goodell, but such a large per cent fell to the local cooking staff that they were kept busy ladling out the "vittles" from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p. m. each school day to get the hungry youngsters all fed.

Altogether, 92,136 meals were served at the local hot lunch room and at Goodell. Supt. Don Faris says the time problem may be solved to some degree this fall when serving of lunches will be started at Ramsay Elementary school, as well as at the high school hot lunch room. But the number of meals served keeps growing annually, so this will be only a partial solution.

Cash receipts for the school year for meals served came to $33,063.78, including $3,107.32 from the state that represented aid of four cents per meal if milk was served and two cents without milk. That most of the youngsters include milk with their lunch is apparent from the fact that 98,848 pints were consumed.

Not figured with the receipts was approximately $3,500 worth of surplus commodities received from the federal government in the form of meat, vegetables, fruit and orange juice, cheese, dried milk for cooking and other food items. This helped to bring average cost per meal down to 31 cents — which is a pretty respectable figure for a well-balanced meal, the parents should be inclined to agree.

Cash expenditures totaled $29,258.49, which was divided as follows: food, $17,467.89; labor, $6,581.29; equipment, $2,145.79; and other expense, $3,063.52. This money provided 85,836 lunches served to the children and 6,300 for adults — mainly teachers.

Disbursements figured about $3,800 less than receipts. Much of this "net," Mr. Faris says, will go to provide equipment for extending the lunch program to Ramsay school next fall. He adds that the program is not intended to be a money-making proposition to any degree. But the receipt of surplus commodities eases the battle to break even on the lunches; and in a year like this past one may even give the appearance that a meager "profit" has been turned on the operation.

Jaycees Eat Iowa Turkey at Parley

Dr. James G. Lott of Clarion is chairman of the Iowa delegation attending the National Junior Chamber of Commerce convention Monday throught Friday of this week at Kansas City, Mo. The Iowans are hoping that all the parley delegates will be talking turkey — Iowa turkey, that is — when they return to their homes.

All of the 8,000 Jaycees in attendance at the convention were due to enjoy turkey sandwiches provided as a special treat by the Iowa group. The Iowa Turkey Federation donated 100 turkeys for the purpose and the Iowa Dairy Commission enough butter to bake the fowls and to butter the sandwiches.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY

Ruth Circle of the Methodist church will hold a bake sale at the Tip Top grocery Saturday. Selling will start at 10:00 a. m.

Train Crash Kills Former Resident

Cortland G. Dorenkamp, 29, of Clear Lake, a native of Belmond, met sudden death early Monday morning southwest of Mason City when a bread truck he was driving ran into a Rock Island freight engine. The mishap occurred between 4:30 and 5:00 a. m. and was apparently due to failure on the victim's part to see the train approaching.

Born at Belmond Feb. 18, 1927, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hauko Barkema, he later lived on a farm near Klemme. He was married on Jan. 22, 1947, to Betty Brower. In addition to his widow and mother, he is survived by five children: Larry, age eight; Tommy, six; Georgene, five; Richard, three; and Marlene, two.

Also surviving are two brothers, Herman and Theodore, and a sister, Mrs. Holm (Arlene) Swenson, all of Detroit, Mich.

$75 Claimed

Only $75 in Cash Gift Day money was detached from Tuesday's bundle of $450. Mrs. George Mennenga took home $50 at 3:00 p.m., after Alvin Albers had picked off $25 at 2:00 o'clock. Awards will remain the same next Tuesday as they were this week: six $25's at 2:00 o'clock and six $50's at 3:00.

Fireworks at Morse Lake on Fourth; Sheriff Deputizing to Whip Traffic

Belmond Chamber of Commerce is joining with the Elcorn Isaak Walton league of Clarion and Oakdale Isaak Walton league of Corwith in planning for the public a day of pleasure at Morse lake on July 4th, climaxed by a $1,000 display of fireworks in the evening.

Clark McNeal, a member of the planning committee, says that Sheriff Bob Blecker is deputizing a number of men to assist with direction of traffic so there will be no repetition of snarl up that accompanied the fireworks exhibition at the lake last year.

By official estimate, some 7,000 cars and 18,000 people jammed the lake grounds and surrounding roads to see the fireworks a year ago. Sheriff Blecker is confident that, with enough personnel on the job, traffic this year will be controlled and kept moving smoothly throughout the day.

There will be free boat rides for the children in the afternoon, starting at 12:00 noon, and stands will serve cold drinks and lunches on the grounds. Families are invited to make a day of it, to bring picnic fare and to enjoy the swimming. The fireworks display is scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

No admission charge will be levied, but a free will offering will be taken at the gate. A large share of the proceeds from this source and from income of the refreshment stands will be spent on making improvements at Morse lake to make it a still more popular recreation spot.

2 Former Champs Have Entries In For Golf Tourney

By the early part of this week, the list of golf stars slated to contend Sunday for the championship of the 4th annual Clarmond Amateur tournament was still quite incomplete. Nevertheless, the tournament committee was confident that a strong field will be scrapping it out for the title and that there is a good possibility that the total entry will approach the record 180 that took part in the classic last year.

Fred Gordon, Clarmond's own No. 1 club-swinger, and John Marschall of Hampton — both former champions — were certain starters. Gordon won the '53 tourney with a 112 for 27 holes and Marschall was last year's champ with a 108. No word has been received from Jack Rule of Waterloo, '54 winner with a record-establishing 106, as to whether he will be back to seek the title again.

The same was true of the other top-flight golfers who rated second best in past Clarmond Amateurs: Bob Leahy of Cherokee and George Lee of Humboldt, co-runners-up last year at 110; Pete Oberhauser of Minneapolis, second with a 108 in '54; and Dick Schultz of Boone, who lost in a play-off with a 108 in '54; but Dick Schultz tournament was held, is "in."

John and Don Eymann of Forest City had their entries in; also Todd Tischer of Fort Dodge, Dave Chambers of Mason City, Bruce Osmundson of Thompson, and quite a few other golfers who rank among the best in this part of the state.

As tournament time drew near, the committee was much less concerned that the entry would fall below expectations than that the Clarmond course might be so deluged with golfers that it would prove a challenge to get the tourney run off with its customary promptness.

Local golfers, excepting former Champion Gordon, will be required to qualify on Saturday if they plan to enter the tournament. And it is hoped that seven foursomes of Clarmond entries will be out early Sunday to get their second nines played between 6:00 and 7:00 a. m.

DICK TROUT WILL OPEN MESERVEY LAW OFFICE

Attorney Roy Henderson announces that his law assistant, Dick Trout will maintain a law office in Meservey on a part time basis starting July 1. Mr. Trout will be available on Thursday of each week at the Meservey branch of the First State Bank of Thornton. The young lawyer has been affiliated with Mr. Henderson in his law practice since mid-May.

Final Rites Held For Jenison Baby

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Fulton Funeral Home for Gail Lynn Jenison, 4½-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Greydon Jenison. Rev. M. L. Jones of the Methodist church conducted the rites and burial was in Belmond cemetery.

The baby had taken ill a week before his death, but had seemed on his way to recovery when he suffered a relapse on Wednesday of last week. He was born Jan. 28 of this year.

Joe Reported As Getting Along OK

Word was received this week from Allen Holmes, assistant service officer for the Iowa department of the American Legion, that Joe Santee has been "getting along OK" as a patient at the Des Moines VA hospital.

Joe was taken there last week after suffering a serious eye injury while burning weeds on the Iowa river bank Wednesday afternoon. His blow torch caused an empty whiskey bottle to explode, it is conjectured, driving some sort of foreign object into his left eyeball.

He walked downtown unassisted, believing he had been "shot." However, x-rays of the injured eye taken at Steele Memorial clinic indicated very clearly that the object that had caused the damage was not a bullet.

According to the examining physician, the eyeball was collapsed before Joe was taken to Des Moines, leaving the doctors at the VA hospital no choice but to remove it. Mr. Holmes did not state whether or not the operation had been performed.

Gordon Runner-up; Wins Wristwatch

Fred Gordon won a handsome Bulova wristwatch with diamond-studded face as runner-up in the championship flight of the annual Clear Lake Amateur golf tournament Sunday. After starting with a pair of 39's, the local linksman concluded with an even-par for a 114 total.

Les Johnstone of Mason City won the tourney with a 38-37-33—108. Third went to Keith Powell of Charles City with 116. Powell will be a Clarmond Amateur contender this weekend. Larry Larson of Belmond tied for 9th in the championship flight with 39-40-41—120.

MRS. JOHNSON INJURED

Mrs. Gust Johnson, 89, was taken to University hospital at Iowa City on Tuesday of last week after she had fallen at her home and broken a hip. Her daughter, Clara Johnson, who was home for the summer from her teaching duties at Cedar Rapids, accompanied her to Iowa City. Edus Johnson reports that his mother was placed in a cast and that her condition was not too favorable.

Nine from County At Short Course

Nine boys from Wright county, including Loren Payne of the Pleasant Pioneers, attended the annual state boys' 4-H short course on the campus of Iowa State college at Ames last week. Voting delegate from this county was Ronald Swanson of the Lincoln Leaders.

Other Wright delegates were: Nile Smith, Eagle Grove Eager Beavers; Herb Hackbarth, Iowa Hawkeyes; John Mathre, Norway Ramblers; Larry Deakman, Vernon Victors; and Lynn Abbott, Wall Lake Beavers.

Accompanying the delegation were Extension Director Aaron Bowman and Gerald Anderson, who has been hired by the extension council as of July 1 to serve as youth assistant.

BELMOND SCOUTS TO CAMP

Twenty Belmond Boy Scouts and Explorers of Troop and Post 16 will be going to the Winnebago Council's Camp Roosevelt on the shores of Clear Lake for the period of July 1-7. The Scoutmaster is Robert G. "Jake" Freshwater. This year is proving the biggest camping year that Winnebago Council has ever experienced, with a total of 800 Scouts, Explorers and their leaders registered to attend camp.

Recreation Swim Period Pulls Well

Top turn-out for the first week of the PTA summer recreation program came to 134 youngsters on Thursday afternoon for swimming at the Clarion pool. Director Don Hoppel calls attention to the fact that the swimming is free only to those children signed up for the Red Cross program. Others must pay the usual fee of 35 cents, if over age 12, or 15 cents if under 12. Swimmers are provided free transportation from the city park at 1:00 p. m.

Ninety-four boys and girls attended the first movie on the recreation program Monday at the New Belmond theater. Next Monday's show will be "Challenge to Lassie," starring the popular dog star. Twenty cents admission is charged for the movies, which start at 1:30 p. m.

About three dozen boys have reporting to Hoppel for peewee and midget baseball each Tuesday and Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. Two games with Webster City have been scheduled, for both age groups — there on July 18 and here on Aug. 1.

There was a fairly large group on hand for last Friday's play day, which featured games and races. Tomorrow the "special event" will be bicycle races, with a special division for tricycle riders. Hoppel says that 40 prizes will be awarded, including a number of movie tickets.

Missionary Pair Back from Africa

Rev. and Mrs. Emory Van Gerpen and children left Nigeria by airliner Monday on their return to the United States for a year's furlough from their missionary duties. They arrived in New York City Tuesday noon, after about a 36-hour flight.

Emory's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen, were most thankful that the departure of their son and his family was not planned for Sunday. They left from Kano in Northern Nigeria, from the same airport from which a fatal flight departed on Sunday night claiming 30 lives.

Because a man at the Jos hospital, where Mrs. Van Gerpen has been a patient, was recently discovered to have mumps, she may be held briefly in quarantine at New York. As promptly as permission is given, she will be taken to Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., to undergo treatment for the jaundice and malaria condition which has kept her in ill health for more than a year.

'Sisters' to Hold Tuesday Coffees

Sisters of the Swish plan to hold regular Tuesday afternoon "coffee break" luncheons at the Odd Fellows hall weekly for five weeks, starting July 10, as a build-up for the August centennial celebration. Serving will be from 2:00 to 4:30 o'clock, with refreshments to be donated by various clubs.

Mrs. Grant Chapman, chairman of the steering committee that is directing the Sisters' activities, says volunteers to provide viands and coffee for July 12-24-31 and Aug. 7 are being sought. Clubs wishing to play a part may call her.

All women who have equipped themselves with costumes are urged to wear them when attending or assisting with the coffee breaks. She adds that the Sisters of the Swish are planning special events for the last two Saturdays before the celebration, which promise "lots of fun."

Membership in the Sisters' organization is still "wide open," Mrs. Chapman assures. Any woman willing to "dress the part" is automatically a qualified member.

Ferguson Funeral Conducted Monday

Mrs. Leonora Ferguson, 74, mother of Mrs. E. J. Elliott, died at Belmond Community hospital on Thursday of last week after an extended period of ill health. She had come to Belmond in August of last year to make her home with her daughter and son-in-law and had twice been hospitalized in the interim, the last time 3½ weeks before her death.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Congregational church at Newton, Rev. Howard Boardman officiating. Fulton Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Burial was in the cemetery at Victor, Mrs. Ferguson's original home. She had lived at Newton for 40 years prior to her coming to Belmond.

Leonora Harper was born Dec. 13, 1881, at Victor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harper. She was married in 1900 to Cecil Curtis Ferguson. He died in 1926. Mrs. Ferguson was also preceded in death by a son, Cecil Fredrick, who died at birth.

Surviving are three daughters and a son: Mrs. Russell (Doris) Stanton, Scranton, Pa., Mrs. Richard (Jeanette) Engwall, Moline, Ill.; Curtis Ferguson, Newton; and Mrs. E. J. (Madalyn) Elliott, Belmond. Mrs. Ferguson also leaves nine grandchildren.

She had been in poor health for about four years' time and had failed steadily after breaking her hip in a fall last summer, which required that she be hospitalized for a number of weeks.

RIEKENS WORKING AT M.C.

Jim Riekens, son of Mrs. Martha Riekens, is working during the summer as a tester in the dairy department of the Carnation company at Mason City. A dairy industry graduate of Iowa State college this month, he will take graduate work at the University of Wisconsin in dairy management during the coming school year.

Season's Program of Street Oiling to Abate Dust Was Gotten Under Way on Wednesday

Yesterday the city street department launched the fourth year of its street oiling program and hopes to have all unpaved streets in Belmond treated for dust-abatement before long.

Dr. H. J. Classick, chairman of the streets and alleys committee of the city council, reports the first tank car of penetrating asphalt was received Tuesday and another is scheduled to arrive the first of the week.

This will be the third year that the city has done the oiling itself. In 1953, when the program was initiated, an Algona firm was hired to do it. Doctor Classick says that is is now evident that no such "semi-permanent" surfacing as had originally been hoped for is being created by the annual oilings; but the program has been a success from the standpoint of largely eliminating dust until streets are scarified preparatory to receiving new applications.

It was tentatively planned by the streets committee to experiment with a thinner application of oil this season, using only two cars of penetrating asphalt compared to the customary four. Doctor Classick stated Tuesday, though, that he suspected that four might prove necessary again to do a satisfactory job.

Street Commissioner Al Stadtlander plans to keep traffic off of the newly oiled streets for approximately two full days this time, instead of 24 hours as in the past. It is his hope that this may help establish a longer-lasting surface by giving the light asphalt more time to penetrate before being traveled on.

He says that the freshly oiled streets will be marked by rope barricades and warns motorists to be on the lookout for them. Lanterns will be used at night as extensively as possible, but he urges drivers to be on the alert for the barricades at night against the chance that they are not illuminated or that the lanterns have accidentally become extinguished.

If a satisfactory test area can be found, Doctor Classick would like to see an experiment conducted in pulverizing with a Semanizer the mat from earlier years' oil application and hot oil mixed with the resulting aggregate. This "road mix" would then be rolled, and he believes a more stable surface would result.

To conduct this experiment, a street would have to be equipped with curb on both sides. He's on the lookout for a street that would satisfactorily serve the purpose and intends to make the test if he finds a satisfactory site. It is understood that a Semanizer machine could be borrowed from the county to conduct the test.

ASC Office Plans To Start Sign-up Early Next Week

Wright county's ASC (Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation) office at Clarion was a popular place this week as farmers assembled there to hear details of the soil bank plan. It was predicted by members of the ASC committee that, barring the prompt arrival of another rain to boost crop prospects, participation in the soil bank program seems likely to be widespread in this county.

Keen interest in the plan was shown by farmers in attendance at a special meeting held last Thursday at the county court house and by others who have since then called at the ASC headquarters in Clarion. Chester Schoby, district fieldman, and Oscar J. Hanson, ASC office manager, explained the soil bank provisions.

Major Provisions

The most important provisions, as applied to Wright county, are as follows:

Farmers will sign up for acreage-reserve soil bank payments at an average of approximately $45 per acre at the ASC office in Clarion. Contracts must be signed there not later than July 20.

Any oat acreage that is to be clipped must be cut not later than July 4. Any corn or soybean crop, which must be destroyed, must be plowed under not later than July 31.

Office Manager Hanson reports that the local office hopes to be ready for sign-ups by the early part of next week.

Governed by Corn Base

The soil bank plan will have as its foundation, in all cases, the farmer's individual corn base — which is 1.178 times the 1956 corn allotment he received.

To be eligible to participate in the soil bank program, a farmer's planting of corn — if up to his full base or over — must be reduced from that base by 10 per cent, but not less than five acres. If he's within his current year's allotment for corn, he can put up to 15 per cent of his base corn acres — in corn or other crops — into the soil bank acreage-reserve.

Example Provided

In instances where a farmer has planted fully up to his corn base or beyond, the only crop that can be destroyed to participate in the soil bank program is corn.

H. B. Vanderlip of the ASC committee provided The Independent with the following example. If a farmer has corn base of 60 acres and an allotment of 51 acres, he would have to reduce his corn to 54 acres (a reduction of six acres — or 10 per cent) to be eligible for soil bank participation. Reducing by the full, allowable 15 per cent from base would only reduce the corn crop to the allotted 51 acres, so only corn land could go into the soil bank.

One-year Contract

The soil bank contract is for one year. Acreage put in the program must be land in regular rotation (for example, permanent pasture does not qualify).

Payment per acre will be at the rate of the normal yield for the farm, multiplied by 60 per cent of the county's high support corn sealing rate ($1.42 in Wright). Normal yield will be set for each farm at such a figure that the totals will produce the county yield, which was determined as 54.2 bushels per acre.

Concession Space Applications Now Being Considered

Applications for the privilege of conducting booths or concession stands during the Centennial celebration, Aug. [illegible]-12, are now being accepted by the Centennial committee. They should be made to Chet Hiddleston. The committee is asking a franchise fee of 10 per cent of the gross income from any money-making projects that will derive their income from the Centennial crowd.

There is one limitation on the fee arrangement. In no case will the committee accept a commission in excess of $50. In other words, Mr. Hiddleston explains, if any undertaking to raise funds should realize in excess of $500, only the ceiling amount of $50 would be payable as commission to the Centennial committee.

Any lunch or refreshment stand serving soft drinks will be required to obtain them through the Coca-Cola bottling works at Mason City. An exclusive franchise has been granted this firm by the Centennial committee in return for a set fee payment to the Centennial fund on each case sold. In return, the firm has agreed to supply pop coolers to all stands wishing to sell soft drinks, and also to see that a ready supply of pop is available to these stands throughout the days of the celebration. Only the standard cost per case will be charged by the Mason City company for the pop it supplies.

About a half dozen organizations have already contacted the committee with requests for concession privileges. Quite a number of good sites are still available, but interested groups should not delay in asking for space, Mr. Hiddleston warns.

The stands may be of any type permissable by law. Gambling amusements are, of course, illegal. Several types of concessions that are traditionally good money-makers are as yet unspoken for, Mr. Hiddleston adds; but this situation may not prevail for long.

MESERVEY NEWS

E. U. B. church Youth Fellowship will sponsor an ice cream social Wednesday evening at Fischer's Implement store with all money going to missions of the Protestant denomination. This is an annual project of the Youth Fellowship.

Rev. Henry Raecker of Marshalltown was a visitor in Meservey Friday forenoon. He called in the home of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Raecker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wendel left last week for several weeks' trip through the eastern states and plan to also visit Nova Scotia.

Helping Hand Society Met Last Thursday Afternoon

The Helping Hand Society of the E. U. B. church met Thursday afternoon in the church parlors for their regular monthly meeting with President Barbara Morris presiding. Audre Nissen led in the devotions. It was decided to help the W. S. W. S. in their special Fall Branch project for the New Mexico missions, and to also serve again this fall in the Belmond Sale Barn. Thank You!

Yes, thank you everyone who participated in our OPEN HOUSE last Saturday. It certainly was wonderful, the many flowers, expressions of good wishes, as well as the help given us moving in and out and your patience over the inconvenience we caused during the time we were building.

We are mighty proud of our new store and promise you that we'll maintain the kind of a shoe store you will enjoy shopping in. You're always welcome at

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1956 AFFILIATE MEMBER

AG. LAND TAX CREDIT SIMPLY DOESN'T SOLVE PROBLEM OF SCHOOL FINANCING

It was announced recently that settlement of agricultural land tax credit claims based on 1956 taxes — which will actually be paid by the state until 1957 and won't be rebated to rural taxpayers until 1958 — will be down another dime from the 93 cents on the dollar that was applicable on 1955 taxes. This turn of events makes it crystal clear that increasing the appropriation for land tax credits from five to 10.5 million dollars is not destined to prove any sort of panacea for Iowa's school financing difficulties.

So long as the present basis of distributing these state funds continues, the appropriation will become steadily more inadequate as more land is incorporated into recognized districts. It will be recalled that, under the existing law, the land tax credit funds are intended to pay all general school taxes in excess of 15 mills on agricultural lands in all Iowa school districts.

Two things make the present plan inoperable, insofar as the intention of the law — to equalize the school tax burden — is concerned. For one thing, it does not compel reorganization of inefficient school districts that are struggling along with high per-pupil costs. And secondly, it greatly favors areas where assessed valuations have been left at obsolete low levels. In much of southern Iowa, both of these obstacles to school tax equalibation prevail in county after county. And until the state law is redrafted to penalize these shortcomings and reward schools for reorganizing into efficient units, no particular benefit to the "average" rural taxpayer or to EFFICIENT school districts will result.

Serious students of school taxation believe the answer lies in abandoning the principle of agricultural land tax credits entirely, and distributing all state aid on a per pupil basis — with due consideration given to division of enrollment between rural and town students. Setting up a formula on this basis would leave owners of agricultural land paying taxes in ratio to the portion of rural children enrolled in their particular district — and NO MORE.

At the same time, the large chunks of state tax money which they currently have to contribute to help maintain inefficient schools and schools in areas of low assessed valuation would no longer be required of them. Under the proposed pro rata plan of distributing aid, low assessed valuation (and resulting high millages) would no longer enter the picture; and inefficiently small districts would be encouraged to affiliate with other districts via reorganization in order that the per-pupil basis of tax aid would be of maximum benefit to them.

Until ALL state school aid is divorced from tax millage, equitable distribution will remain an impossibility. And children in districts that are inefficient due to inadequate tax base and enrollment will continue to be deprived of the educational opportunities they deserve.

THE LAW FINALLY STEMMED FIREWORKS' TOLL; IT CAN REDUCE AUTO TOLL, TOO

It doesn't take a really "old" old-timer to recall when fireworks claimed a ghastly toll of dead and maimed each 4th of July. But thinking persons at length revolted at the senseless, annual killings with the result that fireworks have largely been legislated out of existence as a personal hazard to life and limb.

Last year, just one death was caused by fireworks. Back in 1903, when a ridiculous-looking machine called the horseless carriage was just sputtering into existence, 407 lives were claimed by fireworks during the 4th of July holiday.

The National Safety Council regards that this halt to holiday self-destruction offers a lesson that could be applied effectively in reducing the modern-day mayhem caused by holiday traffic.

Of course, the Council concedes that the sale or use of automobiles cannot be banned. But it does insist that their MISUSE can and should be outlawed. It joins with the International Association of Chiefs of Police in recommending a RIGID law enforcement policy by ALL police agencies during the 4th of July celebration.

Declares the Council: "A traffic accident emergency faces this country, with a new all-time high death toll in prospect. It is time to stop temporizing with this problem. The 4th of July holiday is a good time to start getting tough."

To this we say, "Amen!" We hope that local law enforcement agencies will do their full share in implementing the proposed get-tough policy. It's the only way to protect the public from the reckless and irresponsible minority who habitually turn a deaf ear to all appeals for prudent and commonsense behavior.

FARMERS: Please Note

This calls your attention to the recent change in personnel of the Belmond Rendering Service.

Fred Pals, who for so many years has given fine service in the communities of Belmond, Goodell, Thornton, Meservey, Alexander and Rowan, on removal of fallen farm animals, has gone into business in Belmond and has turned over his service truck to Rollin Mosiman of Belmond. Our phone (236) remains the same.

We wish to thank Fred for his years of good and efficient service and to welcome Rollin Mosiman to our employ.

Farmers are requested to call as always number 236 in Belmond, and to be sure to give name and location carefully so that prompt service can be maintained as always during the first few months as Rollin acquaints himself with the work.

THANK YOU — —

Wright Republicans Urge McNeal's Selection as Speaker of House

Sheriff's Office Sets Up Free Java and Donuts as Safety Aid

Belmond auto insurance agents, along with others from over the county, joined with Sheriff Bob Blecker over the 4th of July in his latest "brain child" to reduce the toll of holiday accidents on the highways. It will be recalled that last year he spotted "police cars" along Highway 69 and 3, manned by store dummies, to keep travelers on the alert.

This time, Bob resorted to a new maneuver. At the "Y" south of Greyhound station at the junction of No. 69 and No. 3, he set up a refreshment stand where the wayfarer was invited to pause for a free cup of coffee and a doughnut.

"Sinkers and mud" were dispensed from 2:00 p.m. Tuesday until 8:00 p. m. Thursday. It was Sheriff Blecker's hope that the drivers would be encouraged to take a brief rest from their travels and go on their way refreshed and in condition to keep a sharper lookout for trouble.

If Blecker's theory was a sound one, the refreshment stand should have, been a real factor in helping reduce highway mishaps in this vicinity. Between 6,000 and 7,000 wayfarers from a number of states "dropped in." They consumed 6,000 doughnuts, 4,800 cups of coffee, 243 gallons of milk, eight gallons of cream and 15 pounds of sugar.

The sheriff's office also again employed dummy-manned "official" cars to slow down traffic, which aroused frequent comment and numerous questions.

Only accident of consequence in the county occurred just west of Clarion where a jog in Highway 3 crosses the railroad tracks. Bernard Norwood, 34, of Independence was hospitalized with serious injuries when the car his wife was driving rammed into a signal post as she missed the curve.

Early on the 4th, a car which Blecker deduced to be a '51 or '52 Chrysler slammed through barricades intended to keep traffic off the new, west side of Tyrrell bridge south of Belmond; but the concrete was sufficiently hardened that it was little damaged.

Sheriff Blecker on Thursday expressed the grateful appreciation of all his office force for the generous support that was given his refreshment stand by the 35 insurance firms that helped to finance it.

HOSPITAL PATIENT LOAD REACHED ALL-TIME HIGH AVERAGE IN JUNE

Administrator Stuart Kutz reported this week that the month of June saw all previous records for average occupancy at Belmond Community hospital wiped out as an average patient load of 21 was marked up. He added that through the first 20 days, the average was 23. Highest average for any previous month was 20, in August of last year. It is noteworthy that in two previous years, June was the "low" month of the year.

Last August also saw the patient total reach 28 during a 24-hour period for the first time. This record was also surpassed in June, when a new high of 29 was reached, Mr. Kutz says. Several days saw the load reach 28 and still others found it as high as 27 and 26.

When the heavy influx of patients occurred last August, Mr. Kutz had to scurry around to line up enough beds to accommodate all of the ptients. No such shortage arose this time, as the hospital profitted by the previous experience and increased its supply of beds.

June witnessed another shortage, though, of a less serious nature — pillows. Mr. Kutz says that at one time when a peak load prevailed, so many patients were sufficiently recovered to require extra pillows for props that the cushion supply simply was exhausted. This didn't present more than a momentary problem, though. More pillows were promptly obtained and the "crisis" was passed without consequence.

In regard to the hospital's steadily growing patient load, Mr. Kutz remarked that the size of the staff required on duty or "on call" obviously has had to be increased, too. A chart is kept to show the highest patient load that is exceeded 10 per cent of the time, to indicate the amount of personnel that must be kept available. A couple of years ago, this "emergency" number was 15. The past year has seen it advance to 22.

Sportsman's Club Builds New Dock

Belmond Sportsman's club last week completed work on two fine improvements at Morse lake intended to induce even greater public use of that growingly popular recreation spot.

President Lloyd Stevens says that members of the local club have constructed a dock extending from the sand beach on the north side of the lake and also built a bathhouse on the bank above the beach.

A T-shaped structure, the dock is 96 feet in length and has 14-foot extensions to both east and west at the end. The bathhouse, made from reclaimed lumber, is 12x6 feet in dimension and divided into two rooms to provide accommodations for both men and women.

According to Mr. Stevens, the Sportsman's club has also added three more rock dams on the west branch of the Iowa river this season, to create new fishing holes.

TOM ALDRICH NOW GETTING ADVANCED FLIGHT TRAINING

At Kingsville, the student pilots receive all-weather flight training in the T28B, then either fighter or anti-submarine warfare training in service-type aircraft.

CARL STADTLANDER DIES

Mrs. Eko Bekker received word last Sunday that her brother, Carl Stadtlander, had died that day at Mountain Lake, Minn.

See School Millage Same For Next Year as '55-56

Although a slightly larger budget for Belmond Community School district was approved for the year 1956-57 than that needed for the past year, Harold Simerson, president of the board of education, said this week that millage needed to raise the sum should be almost exactly the same as that levied this year.

The $10,000 increase, raising the budget figure from $299,561.95 to $309,785.15, is so relatively small that the year's jump in assessed valuations in the district is expected to provide the higher amount without change in millage. The district levy for the past year was 26.81 mills.

Mainly accounting for the larger budget is an increase in instructional cost of $14,713.33. An across-the-board raise in teachers' salaries of $100 each and addition of three more teachers to the staff and the annual increment in teachers' pay based on tenure make up most of the cost increase. Instruction supplies will run a bit higher, also. A total of $176,127.67 is budgeted for instruction.

The $25,185 to be appropriated for auxiliary services will be $2,600 more than last year, $2,500 being earmarked to fill the new position of bus supervisor and $100 representing a pay boost for the school nurse.

Maintenance of the new vocational shop building and bus garage is expected to add $1,250 to operation costs, bringing that item up to $23,910. Fixed charges will be $1,198.76 higher — totalling $13,421.04 — due to increase in state retirement and Social Security payments brought about by higher salaries and added personnel.

There are two major decreases in budget items. Capital outlay is about $8,650 less than for the past year, due primarily to the fact that the district will be paying on the purchase of two less busses in 1956-57. The difference would have been still greater were it not for the need to expend $2,000 to equip the new vocational shop building and $1,500 for bus garage equipment. Maintenance will be reduced $1,750 because that amount was spent last year on new lockers, an outlay not required in 1956-57.

Mr. Simerson reports that this current summer is seeing the program of converting classroom lighting from incandescent to fluorescent wholly completed.

Also, the replacement of outmoded desks is nearly finished. Two more rooms were outfitted in 1955-56 and two more will be equipped next year. All grade classrooms below the level of 6th now boast up-to-date desks and chairs. Two junior high and two high school classrooms remain to be outfitted after 1956-57 to see this program brought to completion, too.

The school board has set Tuesday, July 17, as the date for holding public hearing on the 1956-57 budget. It will be held at the superintendent's office at 8:00 p. m. Any criticisms or comments can be made or questions asked regarding the budget at that time.

Winners in the Belmond Centennial parade on the morning of Saturday, Aug. 11, will receive a total of $315 in prizes. Dwight Tyrrell, chairman of the parade committee, says that judging will be done in two divisions — commercial entries and organization entries. A special children's parade on Thursday morning, Aug. 9, will bring the parade prize money up to a total of $350.

Money in each of the two major divisions will total $157.50 and will be awarded as follows: 1st, $60; 2nd, $45; 3rd, $32.50 and 4th, $20. Any and all business concerns will be eligible to compete in the commercial division. The organization division will be open to clubs, lodges, service and church groups.

Mr. Tyrrell again emphasizes that commercial floats will be expected to be of a historical nature, rather than following an advertising theme. If firms desire, they may feel free to employ the "progress" idea in their parade entries, which would permit illustration of latest models or modes of operation employed in their businesses. But this type of entry should adequately illustrate the past, as well as the present.

As examples of this type of entry, Mr. Tyrrell suggested the contrasting of an automobile of ancient vintage with a current model; contrasting modern grocery store packaging with the bulk handling of merchandise in earlier days; or depicting the summer use of preserved, river ice with present-day refrigeration.

In such entries, properly costumed personnel on the floats will do much to carry out the past-and-present theme, Mr. Tyrrell points out, and will help materially to qualify such entries for prize consideration. He stressed that floats need not necessarily be elaborate to fit the motif of the parade.

While quite a number of business concerns and organizations have already indicated to Mr. Tyrrell their intention of having entries in the parade, he hopes that others are devoting serious thought to it. He would appreciate notification of floats that are being planned, as early as possible. This will serve both to estimate in advance the probable length of the parade and possibly provide an opportunity to avoid duplication of ideas.

Prize money totaling $35 will be awarded in the children's division. Ten dollars will go to the first-place winner and the other prizes will be, in order: $7.50; $5.00, $2.50 and five of $2.00 each. It is hoped that many of the children can be outfitted with centennial costumes. There is no restriction on the type of entry. Ingenuity will score heavily in the judging and entries in the centennial spirit will be given special consideration.

Plan to Start Mystery Farm Photo Series Soon

Within the next week or so The Independent, in cooperation with a number of its advertisers, will introduce a "Mystery Farm" feature which the publishers believe will prove of interest to all readers of the paper.

Aerial photos were taken recently of 26 farms in the area served by this newspaper and one photo is to be printed every other week for the next year's time with an invitation to readers to guess whose farm it is. The pictures were taken by the Zekan-Robbins company of Harlan, specialists in this kind of low-altitude farm photography.

The Independent instructed the pilot and photographer to snap the photos in various parts of the Belmond trade area, so all rural readers of the newspaper stand equal chance of having their own farms appear. Nobody, including the photographers, knows whose farms were photographed.

The editor of The Independent is relying upon readers of the newspaper to make the farms' identifications known, as the pictures appear. Those recognizing one of the "Mystery Farms" should notify the newspaper. Names of the first half-dozen to correctly identify the farm will be published the following week and the first person to do so will be entitled to run a classifed ad in The Independent without charge.

Identification of the "Mystery Farm" will be divulged the following week in the full-page, cooperative advertisement sponsored by a number of Belmond business firms. This page will also carry a story on one of the participating advertisers.

The week after a farm has been identified, the picture of the next "Mystery Farm" will be printed; followed in the next issue with the ad page giving the latest farm's identification and carrying the write-up on another advertiser.

15-Year-Old Girl Badly Injured Early Monday Morning When Kanawhan's Auto Crashed Barricade at Goodell

A 15-year-old girl from Ames was seriously injured about 6:40 a. m. Monday when the car in which she was riding dashed past a stop sign at the junction of the Kanawha road and Highway 69 at Goodell. It then hit a barricaded ditch left by the road-widening crew and flew about 40 feet through the air before sliding to a stop on its right side.

Maxine Mullin suffered a compound skull fracture, extensive lacerations about the head and a broken collarbone. She was brought to Belmond Community hospital as was the driver, Don Beukema, 24, of Kanawha. The latter, currently working for a business firm in Ames, received contusions and abrasions about the head and a broken nose.

L. M. "Dutch" Brower, Hancock county sheriff, reported the auto left skid marks along the blacktop road for a distance of 162 feet before leaving the ground. It was his opinion that Beukema must have been driving at a "terrific rate of speed."

Railroad ties forming the barricade were scattered like kindling as the Kanawhan's car crashed into them. At the point where the vehicle crossed the highway, the cement had not yet been poured to widen the road. But in preparation, the adjacent shoulder had been cut away to a depth of 10 inches and a width of about four feet. It was this hole that sent the car hurtling through the air.

While investigating the accident, Sheriff Brower discovered a pint bottle of whiskey, about three-fourths empty, in the rear of the car.

Beukema was released from the hospital Tuesday noon. Miss Mullin was reported at mid-week to be making satisfactory progress toward recovery from her severe injuries.

Miss Mullin, a former Kanawha resident now living in Ames, had been visiting friends over the weekend.

BEN BIRDSALL
Head County GOP Ranks

• • •

Republicans Pick Birdsall as Head

Following the Wright county Republican convention last Friday at the courthouse in Clarion, members of the central committee held a meeting to elect new officers.

Ben Birdsal of Clarion, former county attorney, was chosen to succeed C. C. Christie of Belmond, who declined to accept nomination to the post of chairman of the county committee again. Mr. Christie had been chairman the past two years.

Mrs. Bert Samson of Clarion was re-elected as vice chairman and Leona Bras of Belmond was appointed by Mr. Birdsall as committee secretary. Miss Bras had voluntarily served in that capacity for the past four or five years in an informal capacity and it was agreed that her loyalty deserved official recognition.

Mr. Birdsall has called a meeting of the county central committee for tomorrow (Friday) night at 8:00 o'clock at the courthouse. He urges all committeemen and committeewomen to be present, as there is important business to be transacted.

2 Stuck "Tight" In Fresh Cement

John H. Larson and LeRoy Wicks, both of Kanawha, were arrested about 2:00 p. m. Monday by Officer Doug Walrod after the car in which they were driving got stuck in newly-poured cement a mile north of Belmond. Larson, the driver, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and Wicks with intoxication.

The pair drove from the east onto the freshly laid concrete at the east edge of Highway 69 and after their predicament was reported to the state police radio station, Officer Walrod was summoned.

Monday night, Larson appeared for preliminary hearing in the court of Mayor R. C. Bowman at Clarion and was bound over to the grand jury. He was released after posting appearance bond of $500.

Wicks appeared before Mayor Henry Hokel Tuesday morning on the intoxication count, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Stoffer Appointed To Library Board

Mrs. C. C. Benson was reappointed to the city library board of trustees and Donald Stoffer was named to fill a vacancy on the board by action of the city council taken on Monday night of this week.

Mr. Stoffer was appointed to succeed Clair Hugh as a trustee, the latter having resigned due to his departure from Belmond. Mrs. Benson is the senior member of the board, having served longer than any of the other current trustees.

Local Legislator Regarded Ideal Candidate for Job

Wright county Republicans in convention at Clarion last Friday enthusiastically approved as a portion of the meeting's resolutions that State Representative Clark McNeal of Belmond be recommended at the next session of the Iowa legislature as Speaker of the House.

"His record in the legislature," this particular resolution stated, "his service in the legislature and his ability indicate that he should be seriously considered as speaker and we pledge our active support to his re-election to the state legislature and his selection as speaker."

Draheim Welcomed

A special welcome to the county's party ranks was extended to Arthur F. Draheim, Jr., nominee for the office of county attorney, who this spring returned to his home town of Clarion after two years' service with the Iowa Unemployment Compensation commission.

High praise was expressed for the capable jobs being done by President Dwight Eisenhower, Sen. B. B. Hickenlooper, Rep. J. I. Dolliver and Gov. Leo A. Hoegh, with particular commendation to the governor for his "progressive administration, his sound approach to problems of education, road modernization and industrial expansion."

Choose Birdsall Chairman

Ben Birdsall of Clarion served as permanent chairman of the convention and Leona Bras as secretary. Finance Chairman Ray Hagie made a report on the county organization's financial standing and the keynote address was delivered by Mr. McNeal. C. C. Christie, Belmond, central committee chairman, was elected chairman of the county delegation to the state Republican convention. It will be held in Des Moines on July 27.

At-large delegates chosen to attend the convention were: Clark McNeal, C. C. Christie, Dorothy McNeal and Leona Bras, Belmond; Ellen Samson, John Tallman and Arthur F. Draheim, Jr., Clarion; and Robert Blue, Eagle Grove.

Belmond delegates to the state judicial convention, also scheduled for July 27, are Roy Henderson, Richard Trout and Gerhard Thompson.

Demos Elect 14 State Delegates

Fourteen delegates to the state Democratic convention were elected at the county convention of that party held last week in two sessions at the courthouse in Clarion. One session was held Thursday evening, attended by those delegates who had obligations that would prevent their presence at the regular session on Friday morning.

Named to represent Wright at the state conclave were: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Courson, Belmond; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ketchum, Clarion, Lincoln township; Mrs. Martin Hill, Clarion, and Olaf Ellison, Kanawha, Norway township.

Margaret Winams, Margaret Thorne and Ruth Frakes, Eagle Grove; Mrs. Lee Porter, Clarion, Lake township; Don Spangler, Eagle Grove, Troy township; and Gerald Blackman, Wall Lake township.

Harry Groves of Eagle Grove and Mrs. R. W. Courson of Belmond were re-elected as chairman and vice chairman of the county central committee, respectively. Glen Pinkham of Goldfield was named to succeed William Morrissey of Clarion as secretary.

Belmond Jaycees Win 3rd Place Award In National JCC Milestone Competition

Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce at last week's National J. C. C. convention at Kansas City, Mo., was announced as winner of third place in the U. S. Junior Chamber's Milestone award contest for 1955-56. Milestone awards go to the three chapters in the nation judged to have carried on the most outstanding, most well-rounded programs during the first year of their organization.

Dr. James G. Lott of Clarion, who was chairman of the Iowa delegation to the national parley, says that the Belmond Jaycees have every right to take deep pride in their achievement.

He pointed out that the contest pays no regard to community size, and that Belmond was competing with chapters from cities of 30,000 and 40,000 and possibly larger. The Clarion Jaycees estimated that more than 100 entries likely contended for national Milestone honors this year. Ordinarily all state Milestone winners more or less automatically compete for national recognition, along with many other chapters who ranked high in state competition.

To give an idea of the number of new chapters that were chartered during the same year that Belmond's came into existence, Doctor Lott observed that some 30 new chapters were formed in New Jersey, 26 in California, and similarly large numbers in other populous states. Seven new clubs were chartered in Iowa, and it was out of this group that Belmond's chapter was chosen last spring as winner of the Iowa Milestone award.

The Belmond Jaycees were led in their outstanding program of achievement by Duane Anderson and Dwight Tyrrell, who spent about equal time as president of the chapter during the 1955-56 year.

A California chapter won first in the national Milestone competition and one from South Carolina was second, according to Doctor Lott. He could not recall the communities' names.

Clarion did all right at the national convention, too. Its Jaycee chapter was awarded third place in public affairs. It has been in existence only two years, so its high recognition also speaks well for strength of the new Jaycee movement in Wright county.

● OBITUARY

HERSCHEL M. JOHNSON

Herschel Milo Johnson, son of Herman and Nora Johnson, was born on March 9, 1915, at the farm northwest of Belmond which was his home throughout life. He passed away at the Belmond Community hospital on June 19, 1956, having attained the age of 41 years, three months and 10 days.

He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith at St. Olaf Lutheran church. He attended Belmond Township district No. 5 school and later entered Belmond High school, graduating in 1933.

In November of 1930 he met with a hunting accident which necessitated the amputation of his right leg. However, this incapacitation in no way hindered him from living an active normal life. When he completed high school, he entered into farming with his father, which occupation he carried on actively until his death.

On May 25, 1941, he was married to Adean Mehus at St. Olaf church. Three children were born to them: Curtis James, Bruce Kent and Luann Rae. The two infant sons, as well as an older brother, preceded him in death. The home was richly blessed by the adoption of a son, Kent Ray, in 1947.

In November of 1955 he underwent surgery for lung ailment, from which he never fully recovered. His immediate death was caused by a bronchial congestion, which occurred suddenly the afternoon of June 19 and claimed his life five hours later.

Herschel was a cheerful and willing worker in whatever capacity he was called upon to serve in either church or community. He was general treasurer of St. Olaf church for several years as well as serving on other church committees at various times. His church and its mission causes were very dear. He was a devoted husband and father.

He leaves his wife, Adean; son, Kent Ray, nearly nine years old; and a daughter, Luann Rae, 5½ months old; as well as his parents and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at St. Olaf Lutheran church on Friday, June 22, Rev. O.M. Severseike officiating. The rites were attended by an unusually large crowd. Besides many floral offerings, memorials for various missions were given in the amount of more than $600.

Pallbearers were Reuben Nelson, Russell Lonnevik, Herbert Hill, Wilmer Hauge, Duane Slining and Clair Hanson. Interment took place in the family lot at the St. Olaf church cemetery, with Johnston Funeral Home in charge.

Putt on Final Green Gives George Lee Victory Fred Gordon by One Stroke in Clarmond Amateur but four of the 166 golfers took part in the 4th annual Amateur tournament had concluded play when Lee of Humboldt and three championship contenders up their final rounds at 8:00 p. m. Up to that time, Gordon had turned in the best total — a one-under-par — and seemed likely to pick his second Clarmond Amateur He won the first playing of tourney, in 1953.

But Lee was on the 9th green in left with a nine-foot putt to the Belmond ace or two putts gain a tie. The Humboldt links- stroked the ball boldly, found center of the cup, and the ball dropped for a birdie — and the championship. His 106 tied the produced two year's ago by Rule of Waterloo, who was in the field this time.

Two-Way Battle

A strong wind that prevailed much of the morning caus- trouble for many of the good golfers. At the end of the first two Gordon was in front with a -71. Lee, with a pair of 36's, even par and only a stroke Tied at 73 each were Mar- and John Eymann of For- City.

the final nine, it turned into battle between Lee and Gordon as the other contenders fell by the wayside. Neither the new champion nor the runner-up figured in the contest for medalist honors, however. Lyle McConaughey of Clarion, Wayne Harrell of Boone and Bud Judish of Fort Dodge each clipped par by a stroke to share low score on the opening round with 35's. McConaughey won the prize in a play-off.

Six Clarmond Winners

As the wind let up after the second round of play got underway, some of the classy golfers who had qualified with high scores got into the groove and as a result some strange score combinations were produced in the lower flights. A 34 was posted by winner of the 1st flight, after a 40 start; and the 3rd flight winner tacked a 35 onto an opening 44.

Only Clarmond winners, other than Gordon and McConaughey, were Dwight Tyrrell of Belmond with a third-place tie in the 4th; Clark Holthaus and Jack Rowe of Clarion with third and fourth in the 5th; and Erv Matson of Dows with third in the 7th flight.

Mary Gordon Does Well In Western

Mary Gordon last week played in the Women's Western Open golf tournament at Wakonda Country club, Des Moines, which included in its field practically all of the top-flight women professionals in the country.

While the diminutive Belmond golfer was unable to tame the tough Wakonda layout as some of the pros did, she turned in a respectable performance in the field of more than 100 entries. She ranked 55th at the end of the first 18 with a 95.

Wind sent the second round scores up, in general, but Mary's 102 for a 197 total left her tied for 58th place in the field. This placed her in the second flight, in which a concluding 99-97 gave her 393 for 5th place.

HELLAND-LONG WINS

Helland & Long's softball team last Thursday night trimmed Kanawha on the General Mills diamond, 8 to 1, with "Coonie" Smith pitching three-hit ball for the winners. The H&L nine gathered eight hits, including a two-run triple by Gus Taylor in the first inning.

The HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

"I personally assume that every driver is trying to kill me."

That is one highway patrolman's answer to the question: How are you going to protect yourself in July traffic? The patrolman went on to explain that his answer came out of a philosophy of "defensive driving."

"I watch the cars ahead of me, the cars behind me and the cars coming in on the right and left. I think about the cars I can't see just over the hill or around the next curve," he said.

"I always assume there's a car coming over every hill, that a train is coming at every crossing, that the car coming onto the highway just ahead won't stop for the stop sign, that the car I'm following will make a sudden left turn at the next intersection."

The patrolman said he felt the most common mistake drivers will make during July will be too much speed. "That's the basic mistake and when a driver adds a little carelessness or inattention to it, he wakes up to find someone like me holding up his head in a ditch."

The patrolman passed on what he feels is an important safety habit he has developed in his own driving. "It sounds like a small thing," he said, "but I keep both hands on the wheel all the time.

"That gives you greater control of your car, and it also gives you a sense of really doing something important. When you use both hands to drive, you just naturally feel that what you are doing deserves all your attention."

Traffic this month may be the heaviest in the history of the state. Perhaps, like the patrolman, we'd better assume when we drive that every other driver is trying to kill us.

PFC GARY BROTHERS RECEIVING BOWLING TROPHY

GARY BROTHERS' BOWLING HELPS PACIFIC MARINES TAKE TOURNEY

Evidence that Gary Brothers, one of Belmond's top bowlers before his enlistment in the Marine corps two years ago last month, still manages to get in some time on the maple alleys was received last week in the form of a Fleet Home Town News Center release.

Gary helped the All-Pacific bowling team of the USMC take first place in a All-Marine bowling tournament that was held at Quantico, Va., in April. Presumably he and his team mates must have been flown back to the States to compete in the tourney.

Gordon Sets New Clarmond Record

Fred Gordon recently established a new course record for the Clarmond golf course with a phenomenal, five-under-par 31. He was playing a match with Bill Wright in the Clarmond challenge tournament when he set the new standard.

His only four on the first seven holes came on No. 3. Five of the six threes he recorded over that stretch — all except that on No. 6 — were birdies. He hit every green throughout the round in regulation figures and aided in achieving his birdie string by putts of eight, 12 and 20 feet.

After realizing that he had such an extraordinary round in the making, Fred tightended up a bit on the greens of the final two holes and lost the opportunity to cut another stroke or two off of his total. On both of the holes he failed to drop putts no more than four feet in length.

While there is some minor dispute among long-time members of the club regarding the holders of the previous course record, it seems generally agreed that it stood at 32. It is reported that Dr. R. T. Coe originally posted that score back in the 'thirties and there are some who contend that the well-known professional, Lloyd Mangrum, tied that mark about 15 years ago during an exhibition at Clarmond.

"Robinson Story" Next Special Film

"The Jackie Robinson Story," starring the popular Brooklyn Dodger ball player, will be next Monday's summer recreation film at the New Belmond theater, showing to start at 1:30 p. m. A crowd of 156 youngsters attended this week's film.

Not far behind in popularity was the Thursday afternoon swimming session, which drew 145 boys and girls. The turn-out for swimming has been so large that two, weekly sessions are to be held the final six weeks of the program — beginning this week. Girls will swim on Tuesdays and boys on Thursdays, busses leaving the city park at 1:00 p. m.

Only 21 boys and girls turned out for the bicycle races last Friday afternoon. Boys winners were: age 5-8, Bob Misner 1st, Paul Green 2nd; age 9-11, Denny Gallagher 1st, Neal Waddington 2nd; age 12-13, Gary Porter 1st, Kenny Johnson 2nd.

Girls, age 5-8, Janis Porter 1st, Candy McClenahan 2nd; boys free-for-all, Denny Gallagher 1st, Jay Mennenga 2nd; boys free-for-all, ages 5-8, Bob Misner 1st, Mike Ketchum 2nd; race for English-built bikes, Gary Porter 1st, Kenny Johnson, 2nd.

Special entertainment for this Friday will take the form of a junior hike and candy hunt, limited to children of age five through 13. Those participating should meet at the athletic field at 3:30 p. m.

On Friday of next week, the Sportsman's club will hold its annual Fish Derby for the youngsters as the Friday special event. There will be more details on this in the next issue.

'Hopper Increase Calls for Action, Bowman Declares

A fast developing grasshopper population is posing a threat to field and garden crops in Wright county, Extension Director Aaron R. Bowman warned this week. He reports that this year's level of infestation is higher than it has been for many years. Larger numbers of grasshoppers are also reported in other Iowa counties, with the heaviest investation being in the southern two-thirds of the state.

Four chemical insecticides are recommended by entomologists from Iowa State college for controlling grasshoppers. Use of these insecticides for field crops—dieldrin, toxaphene, heptachlor, and aldrin — is explained in a new Iowa State college publication, which Bowman says is available in his office.

Entitled, "Control Grasshoppers Now," the publication outlines the recommended insecticides and the levels of each to apply per acre. It also lists the safe "waiting period" and the "length of kill" for each of the recommended insecticides.

Selection of the proper insecticide is important in grosshopper control. If the crop is needed as soon as possible after treatment for pasture or hay, using a chemical with a "short" waiting period — such as heptachlor — would allow the field crop to be used safely for livestock consumption in about a week.

For fence rows and roadsides, where the vegetation is not made available to livestock, chemicals with more killing power and a longer residual effect are recommended in the publication.

The pamphlet also lists chemicals recommended for use on lawns and garden crops. Bowman says copies may be obtained by writing or calling at his office. The publication may be identified by the number IC-348.

Annual Field Day Set for Thursday

Ways to control insects, diseases and weeds that are harmful to farm crops will be emphasized at the annual field day of the Northern Iowa Agricultural Experimental station at Kanawha on Thursday of next week. Grasshopper control will be stressed by Harold Gunderson, Iowa State college entomologist.

E. P. Sylwester, ISC weed control specialist, will discuss weed control chemicals; and Mal Shurtleff, ISC plant pathologist and field day chairman, will conduct a plant pest clinic to which farmers are invited to bring specimens.

Agronomist Ralph Krenzin will discuss management of forage crops. A special feature will be a noon-hour talk by Iver Johnson, in charge of farm crops at Iowa State college, on "Agriculture in Egypt." He recently returned from a three months' visit in that country.

Following free lunch at noon, provided by the experimental association, a tour of the farm will be conducted from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. Then, from 3:00 to 3:45 p. m., a tour of the Clarion-Webster experimental farm a mile south of Kanawha will be conducted. This will conclude the day's program, which will start at 9:30 a. m.

Institute of Rural Medicine Finds Wright County Response Below Par

IOWA CITY, IOWA, (Special) — Iowa farmers have returned nearly 17 per cent of the health questionnaires which the State University of Iowa's Institute of Agricultural Medicine sent to them in April.

Follow-up questionnaires will be mailed early in July, and Institute officials hope that these will be returned by many who neglected to return the first ones.

Believed to be the most intensive of its kind ever undertaken in Iowa, the survey was designed to give the Institute an insight into the state's rural health picture. More than 5,000 farmers are involved in the study, according to Prof. Clyde F. Berry, associate director of the SUI Institute.

Highest percentage of returns tabulated so far, Berry said, came from Hamilton county, where 15 out of 37 (40.5 per cent) farmers surveyed have complied with the Institute's request for information.

Of the Wright county farmers involved in the study, 13.9 per cent have returned their questionnaires. This was the poorest response in Wright's vicinity, returns from neighboring counties being: Hancock 21.3 per cent, Humboldt 27, Franklin 18.4 Cerro Gordo 22.2 and Kossuth 14.8.

Berry said the purpose of the questionnaire is to determine what aspects of rural health in Iowa are in greatest need of study. The Institute was established at the University's college of medicine last fall to conduct medical and social research on diseases which cause farm people the greatest trouble, and to find new preventive measures for safeguarding the farmer's health.

The Institute was set up with a $109,000 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. The Iowa organization is the first of its kind in the nation.

"We have one goal in mind," he said, "and that is to improve the farmer's health. No one can tell us better than the farmers where we should place our first emphasis. We hope they will help us by returning the questionnaires."

Among the questions asked in the survey are: During the past year, what sickness caused you and your family the most trouble? What accidents caused you the most trouble? Did anyone on your place feel sick or have a bad reaction that you think might have come from using some chemical? Did anyone have a bad reaction to some dust, pollen, plant or other substance?

Mrs. Olin Whitacre of Bakersfield, Calif., is a guest in the M. L. Followwill home.

MRS. H. JOHNSON FINDS FRIENDS READY TO HELP IN TIME OF NEED

Mrs. Herschel Johnson learned recently what many another in the Belmond community had learned before her — that a "friend in need" does not lack for ready helpers in these parts. Her husband died on Tuesday, June 19; and there was work that badly needed attention on the Johnson farm.

On the following Wednesday afternoon, a horde of friends and neighbors assembled to bale hay. Then on Monday of last week they returned to finish up the job, putting up some 1,500 bales in two half-days of joint effort. After the second haying session, they cleaned weeds and corn out of a 40 acre field of soybeans.

Women who served lunches on each of the two afternoons were: Mrs. Clair Hanson, Mrs. Roy Hanson, Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Mrs. Chester Hill and Mrs. Herbert Hill. Others brought food to help feed the workers.

Three Local Boys Ordered to Eldora

Judge G. R. Hill in a session of juvenile court conducted last Friday at Clarion committed three Belmond youths to the Iowa State Training School for Boys at Eldora. All three had previously been on parole and the judge's action took the form of revoking those paroles.

The boys involved were: Michael Dillon, who had been on parole since Oct. 16, 1954, when he was 10 years old; Jon Allen Jenison and Thomas Allen Fleener, both of whom were 15 when they were paroled on Sept. 15 of last year.

It was the court's observation that all three had been guilty of repeatedly violating the laws of the state and were delinquent children, as defined by the law, as charged. Judge Hill ordered the trio committed to the training school until age 21, or such time as released or discharged by the state board of control.

Thief Steals $40 From Thompson's

Approximately $40 in cash was stolen from the Thompson Hybrid Corn company's office on Highway 69 in an unexplained break-in that occurred Sunday night. Examination of the premises by the local police failed to show any evidence that entry had been forced by the thief, leaving it a mystery how he got in.

Although Thompson's various business properties are inspected with regularity by night watchmen every night, the break-in was not discovered until employees showed up for their daytime jobs about 7:30 a. m. Monday. John Byl had the watch duty until midnight, when it was taken over by Ray Nelson.

Officer Doug Walrod said none of the doors or windows showed any sign of having been "jimmied," suggesting that the intruder may have slipped in behind one of the watchmen and then concealed his presence until the watchman had left.

Luverne Lein's office, just inside the south door, was entered and the dial of a small safe knockoff. There was no money in the safe, however; nor in a larger safe in the main office, which was unlocked. The missing money was obtained from a cash box in the larger office.

Studebaker Goes To FHA Meeting

Mary Alice Studebaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Studebaker, Jr., on Monday through Friday of this week is a delegate to the national convention of Future Homemakers of American at the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago.

A senior this fall at BHS, she has served the local FHA chapter as vice president and currently holds the same office in the state FHA organization. Mary Alice will be one of approximately 2,000 FHA members chosen to attend the national meeting.

FHA is sponsored by the American Home Economics association and the U. S. office of education. It's main goal is to teach homemaking pupils to live better today in order that their lives and those of their families may be better tomorrow.

Tena Smidt Rites Held on Monday

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the home and at 2:00 p. m. at the Immanuel Reformed church for Mrs. Etta Smidt, who died last Friday evening at the age of 92. The rites were conducted by Rev. O. G. Poppen and Rev. Ralph Meyer and burial was in the Immanuel Reformed cemetery, with Johnston Funeral Home in charge. Pallbearers were A. C. Hanson, John Dorenkamp, D. A. Pals, Hio Goeman, Dick Barkema and Mike Halfwassen.

Etta Johanna Sterenborg was born Sept. 23, 1863 in Mymeer, Oestfriesland, Germany, one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Elzo Sterenborg. When she was four years old, in 1868, her parents emigrated to the United States. The family made its residence near Ackley, moving to the Belmond community in 1886. The deceased lived in this vicinity the remainder of her years.

On Oct. 12, 1893, she was married to Jacobus Smidt. They farmed until 1923, at which time they moved into Belmond. Mrs. Smidt was a member of the Immanuel Reformed church continuously from the year 1894.

She had suffered from the weakness of old age her final four years, death coming quietly on June 29. Besides her husband, she leaves three children, Johannes Smidt, Mrs. Rena Kuhlers and Mrs. Minnie Daniels; also four grandchildren and one great grandchild. She was preceded in death by her parents; a brother, Harm; and two sisters, Anna and Mrs. Albert Buschman.

Future Farmers On Camp Outing

Fifteen members of the BHS chapter of Future Farmers of America enjoyed a three-day camp outing last week at Clear Lake. They left by school bus for the state park at 8:30 a.m. Thursday and started home at 2:00 p. m. Saturday.

With all taking turns, the boys prepared their own meals, which included a fish fry, wiener roast, watermelon feed, hot cakes, bacon and eggs. They spent their days mainly swimming and fishing, their catch numbered some 200 bullheads. Evenings were spent at Bayside amusement park.

Four Men to Jail On Morals Counts

Morals charges involving a 14-year-old Woolstock girl brought four Wright county men jail sentences when they were heard Monday in district court at Clarion by Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp.

Each was given four to six months in the county jail, with the provision that the men may be placed on parole after serving two months. The defendants were Carl Keller of Goldfield, Calvin Anderson, Don Baumann and Roger Brock of Woolstock, the latter formerly the town marshal.

$500 POSTED NEXT WEEK

Why the weekly Cash Gift Day money is not being claimed with greater regularity has the CGD committee completely perplexed. Although a good crowd was in town Tuesday matching numbers with the winning sets of digits, only Nels A. Nelson had a lucky one. He had a number good for $25 at 2:00 p. m. The committee's changing things around a bit for the drawing next week, determined to cut loose some cash. The total is being boosted from $450 to $500 and will be gathered up in some larger bundles. At 2:00 p. m. there will be four $25's up for grabs; and at 3:00 o'clock, four — that's right, FOUR — big, fat $100's to take aim at. . . . The numbers will all be OUT. Will YOU be IN?

Soil Bank "Info" In Great Demand, ASC Office Says

There has already been a big demand for soil bank information at the Wright county ASC office, Manager O. J. Hanson says, and a number of agreements have been signed. In anticipation of a rush for such service, the county committee has made plans to accomodate all who visit the office.

All Wright county farmers who are interested in the soil bank acreage reserve program for this crop year should keep in mind that there are certain deadline dates which must be met to qualify for payments, it was emphasized this week by the county committee.

July 20 — For signing agreements, by operators.

July 31 — For cutting corn acreage and for turning under or clipping grain sorghum and soybeans on land going into the acreage reserve.

The county committee called the attention of all farmers to a change in rules regarding grazing limitations. The original rules of the program barred from acreage reserve any cropland which had been grazed since last Jan. 1, but a revision of the rules changed the final permitted grazing date to June 22.

Grazing of any acreage reserve land for the remainder of this year — or since June 22 — will not be permitted unless an emergency order to allow such grazing is issued by the U. S. department of agriculture.

The committee also advised farmers interested in the soil bank program to learn exactly what they must do to qualify for acreage reserve payments before they plow up or clip any crop.

To make the contest more interesting, the photographers took the photos strictly at random and mixed in a few pictures taken from the back side of the farms. The pilot flew about 300 miles back and forth over the circulation area of The Independent while taking the photos.

In publishing the series of farm photos, The Independent and the participating advertisers give recognition to the fact that farming is definitely big business today — involving big investment in land, machinery, livestock and buildings. The pictures are intended as a tribute to the agriculture of this community.

SOIL BANK WILL CLAIM MANY ACRES OF FERTILE LAND IN WRIGHT COUNTY

It is surprising how much lack of understanding can exist among persons within a single occupation. What prompts this observation is a recent effort of George Sehlmeyer, Master of the California State Grange, to dissuade senators from passing the soil bank proposal. He made a special trip to Washington, D. C., to express his personal disapproval and that of his organization to congressional efforts to cope with falling farm income by resorting to such artificial stimulants as price supports based on 90 per cent of parity and the soil bank.

Many thoughtful farmers in this cornbelt area will join with the California Grange in its wish to see farm legislation established on a more concrete foundation than stop-gap relief measures. But whatever the picture may be in California, a majority of the farmers in the corn-and-hog area feel with conviction that unless there is a continuing effort to assure agriculture — at least, of the midwest variety — a reasonable share of the national income, the entire nation is very likely to suffer along with the farmer. And until better means are devised, that involves supporting prices and indulging in such experiments as the soil bank.

But where Mr. Sehlmeyer exposes his lack of understanding of the midwest's role in the industrial agriculture is his comparison of the soil bank plan with 1934's Submarginal Land Acquisition Act. He looks upon both simply as "schemes to pay landholders for not using land." Actually, it's an over-simplification to a degree that completely falsifies the facts.

In the words of Iowa's New-Dealing Harry Hopkins, the purpose of the depression-time plan was to "set up submarginal land acquisition projects in regions where local relief problems are most acute." In other words, to take OUT of production poor land incapable of providing a farmer a decent living.

Mr. Sehlmeyer should cruise around Wright county and take a look at some of the land that our farmers contemplate "depositing" in the soil bank. It's not "sub-marginal" land, we can assure you. Its withdrawal from cropping is urged not because it produces too little, but because it produces too much. Obviously, a farmer won't choose to destroy a portion of his very best stand of corn, oats or beans. But farmers in many parts of the country would be delighted to have at their disposal land as rich as the typical acres that our farmers will be clipping or plowing under.

It should be borne in mind that land going into acreage-reserve must consist of acres that have been IN REGULAR CROP ROTATION. Permanent pasture, for example, isn't eligible. And since, in the corn-and-hog belt ONLY the best of the land is cropped, an analogy between the Submarginal Land Acquisition Plan and the soil bank plan does not just border on absurdity. It IS absurd.

Testimony to that fact will lie in refusal to participate in the soil bank program by farmers who can do so only at the cost of sacrificing considerable corn acreage to qualify. Slipping prices or not, investment of seed and labor in our good black soil STILL pays off too well to make the $46-per-acre soil bank gratuity look attractive 'if many acres are involved.

Maybe in California the soil bank idea adds up to "paying less prosperous farmers to hold land idle." But around here? Huh uh!

RESIDENTS WANTING CURB-AND-GUTTER PROGRAM SHOULD MAKE WISHES KNOWN

Recently this writer was approached by a couple of friends who urged that the columns of The Independent be used to instigate a campaign in favor of curb-and-gutter for Belmond. We could only remind them that just a few years ago we gave the most thorough support we could to an effort of the League of Women Voters along this very line.

At that time, the try failed more due to indifference than opposition. Concurrently, the city undertook its present dust-abatement program in the hope that the annual applications of penetrating asphalt might in a period of three or four years produce some semblance of a satisfactory hard surface for our streets.

That hope now seems thoroughly dissipated. Oil is NOT going to give us anything comparable to permanently surfaced streets. And residents in increasing number are coming to the realization that our streets are NEVER going to be any better than at present until curb-and-gutter provides drainage that will make some honest-to-goodness street surfacing feasible.

The Independent will be happy to cooperate to the fullest in any movement that has as its goal better streets for our community. However, the initiative should be taken by interested property-owners. The more of them who make their interest known to the city fathers, the more likely it is that action will be taken in this direction.

We might add that a project of this nature for the improvement of Belmond would most ideally fit into the province of a city planning commission. Such groups have worked wonders in other communities in converting dreams of civic improvement into reality.

VOL. 36 NO. 40 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Sheriff Bob Blecker and his fellow "peace" officers who operated the "Safety Stop" refreshment stand at Greyhound intersection July 3-5 are completely flabbergasted at the public reaction the stand prompted. Bob says newspaper clippings of an Associated Press story on the project and letters of commendation have been pouring in to his office from all over the nation.

We really mean "all over," too. He's been sent clippings from newspapers in Washington, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Michigan, California and Pennsylvania — to mention just a few.

But its the letters that have really warmed the officers' hearts. They've come not just from travelers who enjoyed the stand's hospitality, but from persons who only heard of the "Safety Stop" and thought it such a fine idea that they were compelled to express their compliments. You can pretty well count that the "Safety Stop" has not made its last appearance at the Greyhound "Y."

George Eckhoff, who's raised cattle for a good many years, had never had a set of bovine twins born on his place until the latter part of June when one of his cows gave birth to both a bull and cow calf. On the 4th of July, another of his cows had twins! Whatever George has been feeding those cows, he shouldn't forget the formula. Sounds as if he's got something!

In case you're one of those folks (they're in the majority, we regret to say) who pay no attention to the budgets that are published annually at this time of year, we'd like to call your attention to a phenomenon that appeared in The Independent last week.

The budget of the Wright County Agricultural Extension Council for 1957 was set at $15,770 — which represented a reduction of $774 from the amount budgeted for the current year.

Whenever ANY governmental tax-spending body comes up with a reduced budget, it's worthy of note. C. C. Christie is Pleasant township representative on the council and "Gus" Halverson, Belmond township's. We say, give the council a great big hand!

While a number of entries have already been received for the Centennial amateur show on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 10, there is still room for more on the program. Every effort is being made to produce a truly entertaining show and the generous prizes ([illegible] for 1st) are attracting some talent from quite a distance. If you know of some talented amateurs in this general, north Iowa vicinity why not tip 'em off and see if they wouldn't like to compete?

Officer Doug Walrod had occasion to stop in at the VA hospital at Des Moines last week to make inquiry as to how Joe Santee is making out. He was told that the object responsible for blinding Joe's left eye and necessitating removal of the eyeball appeared to be a jagged piece of brass from a shell casing.

Doug conjectures that when Joe was burning brush along the river bank, his blowtorch overheated an unexploded .22 calibre rifle shell, causing it to explode.

It was reported to Doug that Joe has made a good recovery from the injury. However, considerable concern was expressed over Joe's mental condition and Doug was told that an effort is being made to arrange institutional care for Joe. A lot of snow will accumulate around town next winter, if Joe's gone for good.

Remember the item run in this column last spring when [illegible] Parker's 4th grade class honored her on completing [illegible] years as a local school teacher? We're informed by John M. Henry, the "patron saint" of newspaper columnists, that the story's been picked up for broadcast next week on the radio program, "Quoting Iowa Editors." It will be heard over eight Iowa stations, including WOI at Ames and KJFJ, Webster City, and one Illinois station (Kewanee). . . . Such is fame, Viva!

Could a deer invasion be brewing? Only a few weeks ago we reported the passage of a young deer through the city park. Now we're informed by The Independent's printer's devil, Jim Stadtlander, that he and a carload of friends spotted a full-grown doe in town after dark last Thursday. They gave chase to the intruder in the south part of town, saw it dash across Main street at the Baptist church corner, and finally lost it as it dashed off to the northwest past the L. W. Murray residence. . . . Wolves next?

P. Tegland Guilty On Three Charges

Paul Tegland, Belmond trucker, was sentenced to the county jail for [illegible] days each on two counts and fined [illegible] on another in the court of Mayor Henry Hokel last Saturday.

The jail sentences were meted out on two charges of assault and battery that developed from an altercation that started in a local pool hall and was later continued in a local residence.

Mayor Hokel assessed the fine on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident without leaving proper information. This misdemeanor was committed when Tegland [illegible] his truck into a car [illegible] and failed to inform the [illegible] the following morning.

AN AGILE, ALERT GENTLEMAN OF 87 YEARS—

—DROVE CAR HERE ALONE FROM CALIFORNIA

Tuesday evening of last week a car bearing a California license plate pulled in at Hill motel, completing a four-day journey from Oakland via Los Angeles, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and other way points.

At the wheel was a jaunty gentleman whose briskness and firm step certainly belied the fact that as of last April 29 he attained the venerable age of 87 years. He was unaccompanied. His only complaint about the trip was that so many cars on the road passed him. "Even if I was hitting 80!"

So, back to the place of his birth came Robert W. Rowen, the benefactor who two years ago presented Belmond Community hospital with funds for construction of its new Purdy wing. The bequest was made in the name of his mother, the late Sara Rowen Purdy, and his half-sister, Rena Purdy. The latter, a long-time Belmond school teacher, is currently a patient at the Paradise Sanitarium and Hospital at Los Angeles.

Born here in 1869, Mr. Rowen lost his father in the famed multiple drowning in the Iowa river that took five lives in April of 1870. His mother later remarried, becoming the bride of Wm. Purdy, and in 1875 the family moved to a farm southeast of town. Mr. Rowen recalls that at the time there was only one house on the rude road that connected Belmond and Clarion.

He says that the Iowa river was the source of much of the community's recreation in those early days and that the dam constructed to serve the old mill backed the river water up for a mile or farther to the north. The mill at that time, he added, produced both grist and lumber, the latter by means of a water-powered, reciprocating saw.

The mill pond provided boating, swimming, fishing and trapping. Spear fishing was a favorite pastime, and many a "big one" was impaled as it struggled to swim up the slanting south surface of the mill dam. The old-timer also recalls many trapping expeditions, which paid off at the handsome price of a nickel for adult muskrats, three cents for kits and 35 cents for mink.

Robert Rowen was a member of Belmond High school's first graduating class — but didn't graduate with it. He quit school in his sophomore year. Those who went on to get their diplomas in 1886 were Ern Cameron, Ora Cutler, Grace Richardson, Ed and Blanche Pritchard.

It was not lack of ambition that dictated Mr. Rowen's departure from the local halls of learning, but rather the restlessness of youth. He made a permanent break with his home town in 1888 when he went to Burlington to attend business college. He says he "graduated" six weeks later "for financial reasons;" but the basic knowledge of bookkeeping that he gained served him in very good stead in the years to come. He followed "graduation" with work for about a year in a Burlington shoe store.

Returning to Belmond briefly, he borrowed $5.00 from a friend to pay his way to Chicago — a loan that was repaid soon afterward — and he held a job briefly as shipping clerk for a cotton batting manufacturer. In 1889 he joined the Chicago Engineer Supply company as a bookkeeper, and this connection proved one of remarkable permanence.

This company was owned by three brothers and was largely a "closed concern." But the $10-a-week newcomer made a favorable impression on the brothers and when one of them died, the former Iowa farm boy advanced to the vacated position of secretary and was awarded one share of stock. However, the deceased brother left Mr. Rowen an inheritance of $500 and with that he bought 25 more shares.

By the time Mr. Rowen retired from the firm in 1927, he held a large interest in it and was its president as well as its secretary. He says ruefully that when he retired he thought he had ample to live on the rest of his days — but the depression changed that. Some of his investments diminished to worthlessness and dividends ceased to come even from those stocks held in companies that succeeded in escaping bankruptcy.

One of these stocks was in a company that used thorium in the manufacture of mantles for gas lanterns. Its struggle to survive was transformed in due time into a phenomenal success story; for thorium, cerium and other rare earth chemicals in which it dealt became vital ingredients in atomic procedures that sky-rocketed into prominence in the late war and post-war years. It was stock in this firm, cautiously retained by Mr. Rowen through many discouraging years, that produced the money that ultimately paid for the new addition to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowen moved from Chicago to California to be with a daughter, who sadly lost her life following childbirth just six months later. In 1934, Mr. Rowen found it necessary to start earning a living again and he became a manufacturer's representative for the Shelby Spring Hinge company of Shelby, O. Schooled by experience to "stick to his last," he continued a pleasant association with this concern until his second "retirement" last year.

His beloved wife died Sept. 25 of last year, after a period of invalidism. Mr. Rowen now plans to travel and do as he pleases, with no responsibilities remaining that require he stay close to home.

The day following his arrival here, he made a trip to the cemetery to visit the graves of loved ones and old acquaintances. Forced by the construction work on the cemetery road to take a round-about route via Tyrrell's farm, he found many memories stirred by his drive through the grove. He said to The Independent reporter, with a smile of reminiscence, "I used to court my wife-to-be along that old road out there."

We assured him that some things haven't changed so much as he might imagine.

Sportsman Club Promises Host Of Prizes for Kids' Fish Derby

Prizes galore will be distributed among the children participating in the annual Fish Derby tomorrow, being sponsored by the Sportsman's club as a feature of the PTA summer recreation program. President Lloyd Stevens says that not only will the best (or luckiest) fishermen be well rewarded for their efforts, but about 75 additional prizes will be passed out by draw on the basis of registration.

There will be cash awards for boys and girls, in separate divisions, who catch the largest and smallest fish and the largest strings of fish in four age classifications — six and under, seven and eight, nine and 10, 11 and 12.

Special prizes will go to the youngster catching the first fish, the boy and girl from farthest away in Iowa and to the boy and girl wearing the best Huckleberry Finn costumes.

Site of the Fish Derby will be the same as last year, the north gravel pit at the south edge of town. The Sportsman's club has taken every precaution to safeguard the young fishermen against accidents. A boat and several lifeguards will be on hand. Belmond clergymen have agreed to serve as judges.

Jim Mariga, who has been in general charge of preparations for the Fish Derby, says that local businessmen contributed most generously in support of the event and that refreshments will be provided from funds donated, with plenty left over for prize money. Names of contributors will be found in the Sportsman's club's advertisement in this issue regarding the Fish Derby.

As to how the regular run of recreation attractions are going over, Director Don Hoppel reports: 190 attended Monday's movie (next week's, "Pony Soldier," starring Tyrone Power); 81 boys and 57 girls enjoyed swimming last week; and the peewee and midget ball players are getting set for a pair of games at Webster City next Wednesday.

Superhighway Scheduled to Parallel No. 69 Not Far to East of Belmond

That extra cent of federal gasoline tax that went into effect the first of this month is destined to make Belmond next-door neighbor to one of the three superhighways that are scheduled to cross Iowa by 1969. No. 69, along with No. 6 from east to west and Nos. 275 and 75 along the Missouri river, are the present thoroughfares that are to be paralleled by the federal express roads.

Present No. 69 will continue to be maintained as a state highway, but it can be logically expected that the volume of traffic on it will be reduced greatly when the new turnpike comes into being. The superhighways will by-pass all communities along their route, so the fate of investments along the present routes of heavy travel in the way of service stations, motels and like establishments will not be of concern in Belmond alone.

Present indications are that the superhighway will apparently pass by Belmond about three to four miles to the east. The express highways will require a 250-foot right-of-way, generally, with 300 feet needed for occasional stretches.

These four-lane thoroughfares will each consist of two strips of pavement, each 24 feet wide. There will be a 36-foot strip of grass in the middle. Obviously, considerable quantities of rich farm land will have to be bought up in this north Iowa area to provide the necessary right-of-way.

The proposed routes for the express highways have yet to be voted upon by the state highway commission and its action will then be subject to approval by the federal bureau of public roads. However, the route paralleling No. 69 appears to be quite definitely fixed and the above actions little more than matters of routine.

No information has as yet been released as to when construction of the north-south turnpike is to get underway. First contracts are scheduled for letting in September, but will involve the No. 6 east-west route. However, the three superhighways are to be fully completed in 13 years, according to present plans, so the next decade seems certain to see the construction in this area in full swing.

TOMORROW FINAL DAY TO CAST VOTES FOR ASC COMMITTEEMEN

An appeal for every farm owner and operator in Wright county to participate in the annual ASC community elections has been issued by the county ASC committee.

Ballots have been mailed to every known farmer in every township of the county. Voters have until tomorrow (Friday) to mark their ballots and return them to the county ASC office. To be counted, the envelopes in which ballots are returned must be postmarked not later than midnight Friday or personally delivered to the county office by 5:00 p. m. that day.

Full benefits offered through the ASC farm program depend to a great extent on the selection of competent, qualified men to administer it on the township level, and it is up to the farmers themselves to pick capable men in the annual community elections, the county committee points out.

"It is the duty of every farmer to cast his ballot. He should not only cast his own ballot but also urge his neighbors to vote," the committee statement read.

To be elected in each township are three ASC community committeemen and two alternate committee members. The candidate who receives the greatest number of votes will be chairman of the township or community committee, and the one receiving the next highest number of votes will serve as vice chairman. The third member and the first and second alternates will be similarly named on the basis of votes received.

The newly elected chairman and vice chairman in each township will automatically become delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention at which the county ASC committee for the next 12 months will be named. The convention will be held at Clarion on July 28.

Pleasant — Roger Boelman, William J. Boelman, Jr., Lester Buseman, Robert Cullinan, John Diekhuis, Richard Eckhoff, Donald Friesleben, Hio Goeman, George Mennenga, Albert Rabe.

DRIVERS CAN RENEW THEIR LICENSES HERE TOMORROW

Attention is called to the fact that driver's licenses can be renewed tomorrow (Friday) at the city hall. The patrolman acting as license examiner will be here from approximately 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

This is the first time in a good many years that renewal service has been provided in Belmond. The examiner will be here the second Friday of each month, until further notice. His next appearance here, after tomorrow, will be Aug. 10.

Independence Man 3rd Auto Victim

Head injuries suffered the morning of July 4th when the car in which he was riding struck a steel rail protecting a railroad signal light brought death Sunday to Bernard Norwood, 34, of Independence. He died in the Clarion hospital and was the third person to lose his life in a Wright county highway accident this year.

With his wife, who was driving the car, Mr. Norwood was returning home from Nebraska, where the couple had gone to attend a funeral. Mrs. Norwood failed to make the turn in No. 3 at the Rock Island tracks just west of Clarion but could offer no explanation as to how the accident came about.

Impact of the auto snapped off the steel rail and the stump demolished the right side of the car, striking Norwood in the head. Mrs. Norwood suffered only bruises.

Just 5¼ miles farther to the east, the Norwoods would have reached the refreshment stand operated over the holiday by the sheriff's office, where more than 6,000 persons accepted an invitation to refresh themselves from their travels by stopping for free coffee or milk and a doughnut.

Roberts Funeral Friday Afternoon

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon for Mrs. Milo Roberts, who died early Wednesday morning at Belmond Community hospital after several months illness with cancer.

Rites will be conducted at Fulton Funeral Home at 12:30 p. m. and at 1:00 p. m. at the Methodist church. Rev. M. L. Jones and Rev. William Heinzig, the latter pastor of St. John American Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in the cemetery at Nemaha.

F. Gordon Among Amateur Leaders

Fred Gordon lived up to his reputation as one of Iowa's finest golfers by carding a 73 at Hyperion Golf and Country club Tuesday at Des Moines to tie for 9th place among 264 entered in the qualifying test for the 1956 state amateur.

After a sizzling start that found him three under par at the end of six holes, Fred experienced a bit of difficulty and his final tally was one over perfect figures. Three golfers turned in 71's and there were five 72's.

HELLO WORLD

Lynn Bradford is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Smith of Garner for the baby boy born to them July 4, 1956. Lynn weighed 9 lbs. 2 oz. at birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pringnitz of Kanawha are the parents of a 6 lb. 7½ oz. baby girl born July 5, 1956. They have named her Diane Marie.

City Assuming Initiative in Planning For Needed Platting of Local Property

Under auspicies of the city of Belmond, means have been devised for achieving the platting work recently demanded by the county auditor's office at a minimum cost to the property-owners involved. The work has already been initiated by C. N. Hildebrand, the city's superintendent of installations, through arrangements made by the city council and City Attorney Roy Henderson.

Mr. Hildebrand will do the required platting, working in close cooperation with the Clarion abstracting firm of M. H. Austin and Son. The proposed manner of procedure is expected to make surveying of the presently unplatted properties unnecessary and reduce cost of the platting to a minimum.

The legal descriptions and rough, pencilled sketches of the various properties — 57 in all — have been obtained by Mr. Hildebrand from the abstracting firm and he intends to proceed with a system of drafting and plotting that will provide the auditor with the plats that he needs.

Using this method of platting will assure that the plats are in agreement with legal descriptions of the properties, Mr. Hildebrand says, and a copy of the finished plats will be provided the abstractor as well as the auditor.

Although it will be legally necessary to pro rate cost of the platting among the property-owners, despite city sponsorship of the project, Mr. Hildebrand is confident that the expense will be much lower than if responsibility for the platting was left to the county. The auditor would have had little choice but to engage an engineering firm to undertake the job. This would almost automatically involve surveying the properties and the added cost therein entailed.

The notices from the auditor's office required that the property-owners take initiative within 30 days for having satisfactory plats drafted, or the county auditor would be obliged to make his own arrangements for having the work done. With the city administration stepping into the breech, the effect is the same as if the involved propertyholders individually or jointly were taking it upon themselves to have the platting done.

FORMER RESIDENT DISCOVERS LAW MUCH TOO ALL-KNOWING FOR HIM

A former Belmond resident, passing through his old home town on the morning of July 4th, after an unexpected interruption went his way convinced that "You can his way convinced that "You can't get away with nothin' these days."

Operator Don Bancroft happened to be looking out the station window, witnessed the incident, and immediately radioed a Piper Cub patrol plane aloft nearby to be on the lookout for a blue Buick guilty of illegal passing.

It happened that Clinton Moyer, the state commissioner of public safety, himself, was piloting the plane. Officer Doug Walrod of the local police force was observing traffic at Third street NE adjacent to the highway and overheard the message. When the guilty vehicle hove into view a few minutes later, he took off in pursuit.

About that time, Moyer re-contacted the radio station for a review of the car's description and Walrod piped up to inform one and all that he was on the tail of the car and was instructed to take over.

Just south of town, in front of the power station, Walrod pulled Thayer to the shoulder and as they discussed the business at hand Moyer zoomed low overhead to indicate he could see the situation was under control.

Walrod chided the perplexed Thayer for his illegal maneuver north of town, with Ray responding, "How in blazes could you know about that? You picked me up in town!"

Nodding at the receding plane, Walrod explained to Thayer the net of law enforcement in which he'd been caught. Without argument, the culprit posted a $5.00 bond and continued on his way — watching his P's and Q's.

LODWICK LEAVES R-M

B. W. Lodwick of Des Moines, one-time state director of the Farmers Home Administration who for the past two years has been employed as a contact man by Rowat-Murray, Engineers, has resigned from that position. He has accepted a position as executive assistant to L. G. Keeney, president of the Farmers Mutual Reinsurance company of Grinnell. He has already taken up his new duties with the insurance firm.

Only One Change In Queen Line-Up

One change has occurred in the top rankings of the Belmond Centennial Queen candidates since the first report was made two weeks ago. Mrs. Jim Cairns, chairman of the Queen committee, announces that first place is still held by Sandra Swenson and second by Betty Dempsey.

However, third place — based on the sale of Centennial badges— has been taken over by Corrine Davenport. This position was previously held by Vicki Wolfe, candidate of the General Mills Men's club. Sandra is being sponsored by the Belmond Fire department, Betty by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Corrine by the Odd Fellows lodge.

Trailing the leaders (in alphabetical order) are Monica Jones, Judy Larson, Phyllis Lee, Marilyn Mennenga, Shirley Pals and Sondra Stoltenberg. The three top finishers in the Queen contest are destined to reign over the Centennial as the Queen and her two Princess attendants, with other candidates in their retinue.

Since gifts will be awarded to all candidates on a set percentage of their total badge sales, though, all will be "winners," Mrs. Cairns emphasizes. She also stresses that with four weeks to go until celebration time, not a single placeholder can feel at all certain of holding her present standing at the end of the contest.

"Baby Haven" Incubator Added to Hospital's Nursery Through Funds Luick Trust Provided

Funds provided by the Luick Trust recently enabled Belmond Community hospital to add to its nursery equipment the very latest thing in the way of baby incubators. Called a "Baby Haven," the new incubator was obtained at a cost of $588 and has several advantages over the older model — which nevertheless served its purpose well and will continue to be used when needed.

Other than the usual hazards of prematurity, an incubator baby in times past always risked falling victim to a fearsome ailment that left many "preemies" with serious eye defects or totally blind. Called "retrolental fibroplasia," the disease mystified physicians for many years; but finally its cause was discovered to be too rich oxygen content in the infants' incubators.

Concentration of oxygen in the Baby Haven is automatically controlled so it is impossible for the oxygen mixture to become too rich. Administrator Stuart Kutz says the introduction of oxygen was manually controlled in the older incubator, but that a device has now been ordered that will give it the same advantage of automatic control as the Baby Haven. The device has been on the market for only three or four months.

Special equipment on the Baby Haven also permits introducing a fog of water, if the condition of the occupant should require this. In similar fashion, new medical detergents can be admitted to the incubator to cut mucous if it gathers in dangerous quantity in a baby's respiratory system. These detergents also are a medical innovation of comparatively recent development.

Another new feature of the Baby Haven is the nylon stretcher upon which the infant lies, in lieu of a mattress. In the older-style incubator, it was necessary to circulate air around the baby. The porous stretcher permits a blanket of air—scientifically enriched with oxygen and heated to the precisely required temperature — to literally envelop the tiny patient.

Armholes with elasticized sleeves in the sides of the Baby Haven permit the baby to be tended without opening the incubator and causing temporary change in temperature and oxygen concentration. Double sets of arm holes permit two persons at once to work with the infant, if this should be necessary.

Besides its automatic oxygen control, the Baby Haven also has controls to keep both temperature and humidity in the incubator at desired levels. Altogether, says Mr. Kutz, the Baby Haven gives a premature infant a maximum chance to survive its precarious start in life.

He emphasizes that manual operations permitted the old incubator to serve practically all the purposes of the new and it will be valuable as a stand-by if two "preemies" require incubation at the same time. The hospital has had a remarkably fine record in saving premature babies and it is the staff's belief and hope that acquisition of the new incubator will permit that record to be continued or even improved upon.

TINY JAMES BEN Lamfers, the premature son born June 26 to Mr. and Mrs. Seabo Lamfers of Kanawha, is the first occupant of Belmond Community hospital's new "Baby Haven" incubator. Weighing only 2 lbs. 10 oz. at birth the tyke's fight for life stands a maximum chance for success thanks to the latest word in incubators being at his disposal. He's fed by means of the syringe needle lying above his head, through a tube inserted down his throat. Note armholes in side that permit tending him without opening up the incubator. James Ben is the Lamfers' sixth child. He was born about three months prematurely.

County Obtains Youth Assistant

Gerald K. Anderson, a native of Humboldt county and graduate of Renwick High school, has been engaged by the Wright county extension council as youth assistant for this county. He took up his duties on July 1.

A graduate of Iowa State college, Mr. Anderson was awarded a bachelor of science degree and then took additional work in vocational agriculture in 1954-55. The past year he has been instructor in vocational agriculture at Story City.

Mr. Anderson saw service in the armed forces during World War II. He is married and the Andersons' first child, a daughter, was born to them on July 4. He plans to move his family to Clarion as soon as he can obtain housing.

J. M. Berry Dies June 24th In S.D.

J. M. Berry, who practiced law here for several years some 40 years ago, died on June 27 at Ipswich, S. D. Funeral services were conducted there on July 1. He is survived by his widow and a married daughter.

Mr. Berry for a time was in partnership with G. R. Hill, when the present district court judge was an attorney here. He was an original member of the city library board of trustees.

CONVENTION DATE WRONG

Date of the state Republican convention at Des Moines was inadvertantly published incorrectly in last week's issue. It will be held on July 20.

DOES $100 BAIT WORK BETTER?

Main street was really buzzin' Tuesday afternoon. Which set the Cash Gift Day committee wondering if the money-hungry public likes to pursue cash in $100 chunks better than $50. For the 3:00 p. m. prizes this week were a "century" apiece. To see if this is the case, they're laying three $100's on the line at 3:00 o'clock next Tuesday — and six $25's at 2:00 p. m. Despite the large crowd on hand, only two persons turned up with pay-off numbers this week. H. B. Gruis collected $25 and Mrs. Roger Toft was sent home smiling with 100 lovely greenbacks. You gotta — you JUST GOTTA — be on hand to win that dough, though.

happy vacations begin in a Chevy

You'll love to travel in it, because it loves to travel! When you get this Chevrolet out on the road, you'll want to keep going—and so will the whole family.

Of course, even in a Chevrolet the happiest vacations may involve one or two minor problems. Like fidgety small fry who want gallons of water and keep asking if you're almost there. The big things, though, are beautifully taken care of by this roomy Chevrolet's smooth and easy way of going. That's for sure.

The fact is, few cars at any price hold the road with Chevy's grace, with its solid feeling of stability. And with horsepower up to 225, Chevrolet moves out like a whiplash, for safer passing. It's no wonder that so many people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet! Stop by soon for a ride.

Des Moines, a university col- law, is a fellow who learns Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod behind Strand on south of Belmond last and watched with inter- as the young man threatened and time again to pass a car on the yellow line.

Strand got the job done, four miles south of town, Walrod promptly invited him visit to the court of Mayor Hokel. That cost him $10- for improper passing.

The Des Moines man went he again passed a car on line right in front of radio station north of Operator Don Bancroft was out the window at the time a description of Strand's car on the air.

Near Ventura, on No. 18, a patrolman again put the arm on Strand. He was handed a summons for a repeat performance in the Belmond mayor's court. Passing back through Belmond on Sunday he found Mr. Hokel out of town, but Mayor Pro Tem H. J. Classick stood ready to do the honors. This time it was $15 and costs.

Whether Strand thereafter got all the way back to Des Moines without further ado, the local minions of the law are not in a position to say. They kinda wonder, though.

ALICE KOPPERNAGEL, RICHARD CHRISTENSEN SPEAK NUPTIAL VOWS

Before an altar decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and lighted candelabra, Miss Alice June Koppernagel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Koppernagel, became the bride of A3/c Richard D. Christensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Christensen of Klemme, at the St. John American Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. William Heinzig performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white ballerina-length dress of imported lace and nylon tulle over satin with inverted pleated front of tulle. It had a yoke of tulle with scallops of pointed lace, Queen Anne collar and long sleeves. Her finger-tip veil fell from a nylon headpiece. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Sharon Marie Koppernagel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue ballerina-length formal and carried a colonial boquet of white carnations with red roses. Patricia McMurray and Velma Christensen of Klemme, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They were also dressed in blue ballerina-length formals and carried colonial bouquets of white and blue carnations.

The groom wore his Air Force uniform. Jack Spitler, cousin of the groom, was the best man, and David Christensen of Scarville, cousin of the groom, and Jerry Toft were the groomsmen. Ushers were Herbert Pals, Airell Clark and George Crawford.

Susan Thompson was the flower girl and Bobby Christensen, brother of the groom, was the ringbearer. Allen Koppernagel, brother of the bride, and Larry Cooper of Hampton were the candlelighters.

Mrs. Paul Watnem, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Paul Watnem as he sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother chose a navy linen dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a blue nylon dress with white accessories. Both wore red rose corsages.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlors for the 190 guests. Doris Reed of Greene had charge of the guest book and Mrs. Jeanette Hall, Ardith Johnson and Kay Wagner had charge of the gifts.

Mrs. H. J. Classick cut the wedding cake, assisted by Mrs. Warren Thompson. Gloria Rabe served the punch, Beverly Sheriff served the ice cream and Mrs. Fred Pals poured the coffee. Waitresses were Helen McNulty, Mrs. Joanne McHale and Betty Jo Bohning.

The bride is a 1955 graduate of Belmond High school and is now employed as a stenographer at General Mills, Inc. Mr. Christensen graduated from Belmond High school in 1954. He is at present in the U. S. Air Force and will soon be leaving for Japan for 2½ years.

HAVE OUR COUNTY ROAD MAINTENANCE COSTS BEEN OUT OF LINE? READ THIS!

This column's contention that the portion of road funds habitually spent in the past by Wright county for road maintenance has been grossly out of line was impressively borne out last week by a table released by the Iowa Taxpayer's association. This table showed the 1954 road expenditures of Iowa counties and the per cent thereof spent for maintenance.

Wright county's total expenditures on roads came to $456,421 that year and 90.07 PER CENT OF THAT AMOUNT WENT INTO MAINTENANCE! There was not another county in the state that came really close to matching this horrible example. Only five other counties in the 99 devoted more than 80 per cent of their road funds to maintenance, and the highest in this group was Louisa with 82.78 per cent.

For the state as a whole, the average per cent of road monies expended on maintenance was ONLY 59.39 PER CENT! What more convincing evidence would you want that Wright county has been ridiculously out of line in the amount of money spent on maintaining its road system?

Comparison with neighboring counties on the per-mile cost of maintenance makes crystal clear how absurdly extravagant Wright county's past practices have been in this regard. Take a look at these figures, derived from those 1954 road expenditures:

County	Per Cent Spent for Maint.	Maint. Cost Per Mile
Wright	90.07	$429
Franklin	38.89	220
Kossuth	40.96	235
Hancock	63.85	253
Hamilton	58.12	287
Cerro Gordo	54.53	288

In undertaking the 10-year road construction program that is being launched upon this season, the board of supervisors has tacitly acknowledged that past road maintenance practices should and MUST go out the window. As we have pointed out before, they must start preserving more construction funds for CONSTRUCTION than ever before, or the surfacing program will turn out to be nothing but a pipe dream. With budget time once more at hand, they will do well to draft a budget they intend to abide by — at least, where road expenditures are concerned.

McNEAL SHOULD QUALIFY EXCELLENTLY FOR POST OF SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

The Independent would like to say "Good success!" to the Wright county Republicans' campaign to win support for Clark McNeal as next Speaker of the Iowa House of Representatives.

Relatively few young legislators in the history of the state general assembly have acquired such stature in so short a length of time as has our own Wright county representative.

His ability has been recognized in the form of increasingly responsible committee assignments and he has accomplished his appointed tasks with dispatch and efficiency.

No small part of the high esteem which he has won stems from his unquestioned integrity. He's no compromiser where principles are concerned; and he's no opportunist, in the political sense.

There should be a bright future for Mr. McNeal in Iowa politics. His selection as Speaker of the House would comprise an important stepping stone toward achieving that future. It will be Iowa's gain if the county GOP's aspirations for Clark bear fruit.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THOSE JAYCEES, A BUNCH OF EVERLASTING LIVEWIRES

The recent, remarkable achievement of the Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce in winning the third-place award in the national J. C. C. Milestone competition should rightly be a matter of personal pride to every member of this fine organization. And it should be a point of pride to every person in this community, for Belmond as a whole has been the beneficiary of their outstanding efforts as a civic force.

We are fortunate to have such a vital and ambitious group in our midst. The Jaycees give promise of being a steadily increasing influence for community betterment and we're confident that their star has by no means reached its zenith yet.

It is our hope that the citizens and organizations of Belmond will readily give this group of young men their full cooperation and support whenever and however it may be asked in the weeks, months and years to come. They've earned it. And we're confident they'll make the most of it in making Belmond an ever better place to live.

COMPETENT LIP-READERS DON'T CALL DOOR-TO-DOOR SEEKING OUT CHARITY

We noted with regret last week of the criticism leveled at D. W. Overbeay, superintendent of the Iowa School for the Deaf, at the convention of the Iowa Association for the Deaf at Ottumwa. Presumably as a qualified spokesman for the association, its secretary demanded that the school use a 50-50 combination of instruction in lip reading and sign language. He deplored that the school now devotes 90 per cent of its instruction to lip reading.

Probably we're in no position to enter the never-ending wrangle over this policy that Mr. Overbeay has so staunchly defended time and time again. It's been going on for years. But it strikes us as elementary that a deaf child well taught in the art of lip reading is much better equipped to take a normal place in society than one isolated by ability to communicate fluently only with others trained in the use of sign language.

When Mr. Overbeay appeared before a local group here several years ago, he presented a strong case for the advantages of lip reading over sign language. Like so many other things in this life, the arduously gained skill is the more valuable, Mr. Overbeay determinedly contends. It seems clear to us that the measure of a teaching method for any handicapped persons should not be how fast they are taught, but how well.

We predict it will be an unhappy day for Iowa's deaf children if Mr. Overbeay is ever overruled on his enlightened teaching philosophy.

VOL. 36 NO.41 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA— THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

While a certain percentage of refusals is always expected when solicitations for any purpose are made, the Centennial committee has been deeply dismayed over some of the very noticeable omissions that are presently in prospect from the sponsor list for the Centennial book. This historical book on our community's background and growth is going to be a valued keepsake in many hundreds of homes. The book represents a compromise to supplant a historical edition of The Independent, which would have required much heavier financing. Only $5.00 per name is being asked of the book sponsors — not a patch on what advertising support would have been needed to underwrite a Centennial newspaper.

Contributions toward financing of the book are needed as a hedge on the cost of producing it. Many hours of contributed labor have gone into its preparation. But no one can predict in advance whether its sale will result in its paying for itself.

If the book turns out to be a financial success and actually nets some profit, that money will go into the general Centennial fund to meet the over-all cost of the August celebration. A further "if" is covered by articles of the Centennial corporation to the affect that should a final profit be produced by the celebration, those proceeds will be divided among non-profit organizations of Belmond — with our churches likely the major beneficiaries. It is most certainly the personal privilege of an individual or firm to join the list of book sponsors or not. But the Centennial committee fears that some who have stayed out may come to regret their decision. Reconsideration is invited.

The sponsor page in the book will be going to press this weekend. Any businesses that were inadvertantly missed —or that may decide at this point to revoke a previous refusal of sponsorship — may still join the ranks by phoning The Independent office before 5:00 p. m. this Friday. Definitely NO OBLIGATION is involved. But the Centennial committee truly considers that —considering the nominal sponsorship charge — it could correctly be deemed a privilege to have a small part in helping to make possible the publication of this important memento of our 100th birthday.

In case our readers wonder how come The Independent had no advance story last week on Sunday's dedication of the hospital's new Rowen Room, we'd like to let them in on the explanation. After last Thursday's issue came out, Administrator "Stu" Kutz was dismayed to find no announcement of the dedication and inquired "how come?"

To Ye Ed he said, accusingly, "You were with Mr. Rowen and me when we were discussing the ceremonies." . . . In reply, Ye Ed insisted he'd been told not a word that the dedication had been scheduled.

It turned out that Mr. Kutz and Mr. Rowen had been talking over the proposed dedication while Mainstreeter No. 3 was busily engrossed in photographing them in the Rowen Room for the picture on last week's front page. Their conversation on the subject was concluded by the time the camera work had been completed — and no subsequent mention of it was made.

That constitute's a rather classic example of why stories sometimes don't appear in the paper that certain of our subscribers are apparently looking for. The simple fact of the matter is, we've not been informed as to what happened or is planned. Our "miss" on the dedication story involved a rather unusual set of circumstances.

Our reporter was THERE, but absorbed in other matters and not a party to the pertinent discussion. Often times he's not even exposed to the facts of a story, to any degree — and yet the interested parties are miffed that the story doesn't appear in print.

The moral to all this is, if there is something you want publicity on drop in at the Independent office or give us a ring to inform us of the facts. We'll be delighted to come up with a story. Don't count on getting the information through other channels. Those "other channels" may not produce it. And in that case, obviously, there'll be no story.

Press work on the Centennial history booklet was started last weekend and is being rushed in order that the book will be completed before time of the celebration. The supply is limited and no reprints will be possible, once the printing is completed. All of which means persons anxious to obtain copies of the book to reserve them now, to make certain they aren't left out.

The printing order may be ample. Then, again, it could turn out to be several hundred less than enough to satisfy the demand.

The way to insure against disappointment is to order a copy (or whatever number you may want, perhaps also sending some to relatives and friends) right away. Advance orders may be placed with [illegible] up to July [illegible]. After that, it's first come, first served. The Culture Study club has done a fine job in preparing [illegible] the book. We foresee [illegible] will go like the proverbial

County Budget Entails Tax Boost

Estimate of Wright county's budget for 1957 released this week by County Auditor Myron Price shows a proposed increase in funds raised by taxation of $36,000, as compared to the amount that had to be raised by taxes during 1956. This boost brings the total amount to be raised next year by taxation to $474,000. Proposed expenditures run only $5,777 more than for the current year, totaling $920,104.

None of the fund increases involved items over which the board of supervisors could have exerted tighter control, it might be noted. Next year $20,000 must be raised for the poor fund via taxes, whereas none was required this year due to $30,500 unencumbered balance that was available at the start of the year. No levy was made this year for bovine tuberculosis, but $11,000 must be raised in 1957 at the demand of the state department of agriculture.

Levy for the county school fund was increased from $5,000 to $11,000 when the state auditor recommended the county abide by the state law requiring a ¼-mill levy. Since the need regularly runs lower than that amount, the county had been ignoring this stipulation in past years.

Due to the bonds sold to finance building of the new jail, $7,000 will have to be raised for bonds and interest, whereas no money was needed for that fund previously.

Tax requirements of the other county funds remain the same as during 1956, except that the amount being appropriated for the general fund has been reduced $10,000 — from $98,000 to $88,000. Auditor Price says this was possible because there will be no election expense next year.

Funds budgeted for road work next year were the same as during the present year — a total of $535,000, plus $13,000 for road ing.

Mr. Price figured tax millage under the new budget estimate at 11.62 mills for rural tax payers and 6.90 for city. These figures are up from 10.15 and 5.46; but the auditor says that new assessed valuation was not taken into consideration in estimating the millages. Since assessed valuation of real and personal property will be over $675,000 more this year than last, the actual millages will likely be a bit smaller than the estimates.

Public hearing on the 1957 budget, at which objections can be registered or questions asked, has been set for 10:00 a. m. on Monday, July 30, at the courthouse in Clarion.

Members of the Eastern Star lodge will prepare and serve refreshments at the third, Tuesday "coffee break" of the series being sponsored by the Sisters of the Swish as promotion for the upcoming Centennial celebration. This project is proving a highly popular one and bringing good crowds to the Odd Fellows hall, many of the women being dressed in their Centennial regalia.

First of the coffees was served last week by the Culture Study club and Newcomers club, jointly. Hostesses for this week's refreshment period were the Rebekahs. Only a 10 per cent commission goes into the Centennial fund from proceeds of the "coffee breaks," so they are proving an excellent means for the hostess organizations to make a bit of money, also.

Costumes both especially made for the Centennial and resurrected from attics are being displayed by the Sisters of the Swish at the get-togethers and contribute much toward creating a gala mood. A number of mother-daughter combinations have particularly evoked comment.

The "coffee breaks" will be regular weekly occurrences for the remainder of the pre-celebration period and the Sisters of the Swish are also at work on plans for special Saturday events for the two weeks immediately preceeding the celebration.

Methodist Church Filled for Funeral Of Mrs. Roberts

Attendance at the funeral for Mrs. Milo Roberts last Friday filled the Methodist church to capacity, bespeaking the high regard in which the deceased was held by a host of friends. Cancer had taken her life on Wednesday of last week.

After enduring much ill health for a period of five years, Mrs. Roberts learned four years ago that she was afflicted with cancer. It was thought that x-ray and surgery had stemmed the disease; but at Christmas time of last year it was discovered that she was again suffering from the dread ailment. Drastic surgery at the University hospital, Iowa City, this time proved to no avail.

Born at Nemaha

Rev. William Heinzig and Rev. M. L. Jones conducted the funeral rites, which were preceded by a brief service at Fulton Funeral Home. Burial was in the cemetery at Nemaha. Pallbearers were: Gail Thayer, Roger Johnson, Edward Stoffer, Alfred Mennenga, Howard Jacobmeyer and Russell Dougherty.

Marjorie Vanelda Wedeking was born July 28, 1917, on a farm near Nemaha, daughter of August and Hazel Wedeking. She was graduated from Nemaha High school in 1936 and received an elementary teaching certificate from Buena Vista college, Storm Lake, in 1938.

After teaching school for two years, she was married on June 30, 1940, to Milo Roberts and they made their first home at Gowrie. Exactly a year later, Mr. Roberts entered the U. S. Coast Guard and she taught in Oregon during his period of service. Upon his discharge, they moved to Belmond to make their home. Two children were born to them — Raymond Ralph, who is 11 years old, and Timothy Van, age seven.

Methodist Church Member

Mrs. Roberts had become a member of the Methodist church at Nemaha at the age of 12, and she participated extensively in activities of the church throughout her lifetime. She transferred her membership to Belmond and here she was active in work of the Sunday school and Women's Society of Christian Service.

She was a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, Progress club, the Woman's club, Parent-Teachers association and other social organizations. She was ready to take part in work for the betterment of her community to the fullest extent that her health would permit and remained uncomplaining and cheerful in spite of the suffering that was her lot.

In addition to her husband and two sons, Mrs. Roberts is survived by her parents and a brother, Raymond Wedeking of Nemaha.

Centennial Time Should See All Detasseling Done

Charles Wilmarth of Thompson Hybrid Corn company reported Monday that about 225 detasslers were at work in the company's fields after detasseling operations had reached more or less full swing last week. He expected the peak of the season's work to be reached about the end of this week, with perhaps 400 field hands engaged in the assault on tassels at that time.

As was the case last year, planting of male-sterile female seed parent stock is materially reducing the need for detasselers that existed in some earlier years. Once again, about 60 per cent of the seed acres were planted with the male-sterile strain that does not require detasseling.

Mr. Wilmarth says the fields are tasseling out on somewhat better schedule this year than last. A good share of the work was clustered within a period of a relatively few days last July, as both early and later plantings came into tassel at almost the same time. But this season, the earlier varieties kept closer on schedule and it was possible to work these fields a couple of times before the later varieties demanded much attention.

Whereas cool weather at the start of the growing season had Thompson officials somewhat concerned that detasseling might run late this year, the fine growing weather of the past few weeks largely overcame this slow start and field work was launched about at the normal time.

Earliest of the fields required initial clean-up of tassels on July 2 last year, and only three days later this season. Mr. Wilmarth predicted Monday that detasseling will be almost wholly completed by the end of week after next.

If this prediction holds good, it will be a matter of relief to both Thompson's and to the Belmond Centennial committee. Dates for the Centennial celebration were chosen to cover the second weekend in August with the expectation that detasseling work would be out of the way and no conflict would exist between the best interests of either the celebration or the hybrid corn company.

$25 GIFT TO HOSPITAL

Belmond Community hospital has received a $25 memorial in the name of the late Herschel Johnson from the Women's Missionary Federation of St. Olaf Lutheran church.

NEW ROWEN ROOM OF HOSPITAL FORMALLY DEDICATED ON SUNDAY

Rowen Room of the Belmond Community hospital was dedicated Sunday afternoon during ceremonies attended by the donor, Robert W. Rowen of Oakland, Calif. He gave the equivalent of $10,000 in stock to the hospital in the summer of 1954 to finance construction of the multi-purpose room and it was completed and put into use this past spring.

A native of this community, Mr. Rowen made the bequest as a memorial to his mother, the late Sarah Rowen Purdy, and his half-sister, Rena Purdy.

Formal presentation of the Rowen Room to the hospital was made by the donor and the gift was acknowledged by Mrs. George Hansen, a member of the hospital's board of trustees. She accepted it in behalf of the board, the hospital staff and the community.

Rev. William Schorman of the Congregational church, of which Mrs. Purdy and her daughter had been members, gave the invocation and then spoke on the significance and lasting value of a "living memorial" such as the Rowen Room constitutes. Administrator Stuart Kutz unveiled a plaque that commemorates Mr. Rowen's generous gift and its purpose.

The message on the plaque reads: "The Rowen Room, Given by R. W. Rowen in memory of Sarah Rawen Purdy, His Mother, and Rena Purdy, His Half-Sister."

Preceeding the unveiling of the plaque, a littany was read by Mr. Schorman, with responses given by those attending the ceremonies. The Congregational pastor offered a prayer of dedication and Rev. M. L. Jones of the Methodist church concluded the dedicatory rites by pronouncing the benediction.

An informal reception was held following the ceremonies, during which the friends of the hospital who were present had an opportunity to meet Mr. Rowen personally.

Fish Uncooperative, But Kids Still Had Plenty of Fun at Annual Derby

Although the fish were not so cooperative as they might have been, a large crowd of youngsters nevertheless enjoyed themselves at the annual Kid's Fish Derby held last Friday afternoon at Nelson's gravel pit. Unlike previous years when the most expert fishermen caught strings of bullheads that were almost embarassing in length (considering legal limits), Richard Hoppel led the field this year with just nine fish.

Allen Koppernagel started proceedings by catching the first fish not long after lines went into the water at 2:00 o'clock. He also took second prize in the 11-12 age group for the most fish. To the dismay of members of the Sportman's club. sponsors of the fish day, quite a number of the prizes went begging.

In fact, only two of the numerous prizes posted for the best fishing performances by girls were claimed. Marilyn Beavers picked off an easy $3.00 for most fish among girls of 11 and 12 and Theresa Quigley did likewise in the 9-10 age bracket.

Little Billy Broshar was the only youngster of age six or under to hook a fish and he went home with $3.00 for that achievement.

Age 11-12 — most fish, Richard Hoppel 1st, Allen Koppernagel 2nd, John Dannewitz 3rd; biggest fish, Bobby Negrete; smallest fish, Jerry Jenison and Roger Collier (tie—prize to each).

Prize for the boy from the farthest away in Iowa went to Ronald Ayers of Iowa City; and for the girl from farthest away, to Judy Weeter of Humboldt.

Joey Kelley took down the $5.00 prize for having the best Huckleberry Finn costume among the boys and Rose Quigley among the girls.

In the drawing for merchandise prizes and show tickets, the choicest awards went to Dennis Steenblock, a 22-piece fishing outfit; and Larry Beek, a Brownie camera.

$330,000 Outlay For Construction In Belmond Alone

Probably the "biggest building year" in history was experienced in Belmond. Clarion and Eagle Grove during 1955, as indicated by the figures on assessed real estate valuations for 1956 recently completed by County Assessor Ross Henry.

A peak in post-war building was reached in the three communities in 1950 that was startling in comparison with earlier years that had seen extensive construction; but each of them last year surpassed their 1950 achievements by sizeable margins. Actually, Belmond's 1954 building also surpassed its 1950 "big year," but by no such margin as in 1955.

Assessed value of new building done in Belmond in 1950 was $72,025, in Eagle Grove $117,155 and in Clarion $137,364. During 1955 building was done in Belmond that had an assessed value of $99,217, in Eagle Grove $128,764 and in Clarion $153,716.

Belmond Investment, $330,000

Converting these assessed valuations into estimated, actual outlay of cash for new building, Mr. Henry puts Belmond's investment in new construction at nearly $330,000, Eagle Grove's at $427,496 and Clarion's at more than $510,000. Cash cost of building in the entire county surpassed $1,975,000.

Altogether, assessed valuation of new building done in Wright county during 1955 came to $595,584 — and the three, largest communities accounted for nearly two-thirds of the total. In 1954, new building in the county had assessed valuation of $450,698 and just over half of it was done in Belmond, Eagle Grove and Clarion.

This could either indicate that the farm people have gotten pretty well caught up on building that had to be postponed during the war — or that they had to retrench some for the time being in the matter of new buildings.

1950 and '55 Totals "Same"

It is noteworthy, in comparing construction done in 1950 and 1955, that the county totals in the two years were almost identical. New building in '50 had a total assessed value of $595,830 as to last year's $595,584.

Total assessed valuation of real property, thanks to all the new building done, reached a new high of $38, 242,882. In Belmond assessed real estate valuation climbed to $1, 943,140, in Eagle Grove to $3,656,518 and in Clarion to $2,963,608.

Last year saw new building slack off a bit in the townships surrounding Belmond, although Belmond township again had a good year — industrial construction accounting for a good share of the gain. Assessed valuation of its new building was $49,891 compared to $40,037 in 1954. Pleasant township's new building also was up, from $8,860 to $16,313.

Small Personal Property Gain

But the comparable figures in Iowa township were down to $10,992 from $11,241; and Norway, down to $9,892 from $14,925. Belmond township's new building figure is the equivalent of nearly $165,000 in cash cost and Pleasant's, $54,150.

Assessed valuation of personal property in the county showed a very modest increase last year, achieving a gain of only $81,817. This brought the county's total to $8,021,835.

Personal property in Belmond increased in assessed valuation from last year's total of $595,593 to $617,207; Eagle Grove from $1,242,626 to $1,331,376; Clarion from $928,498 to 998,910; Belmond township $355,359 to $395,352; Pleasant from $257,343 to $259,284; Norway from $258,453 to $263,509: and Iowa down from $299,889 to $283,853.

$150 in Prizes Set Up by Centennial Committee for Sports-Games Program

Some genuine, old-fashioned fun is promised by the games and sports program that is scheduled for the morning of Friday, Aug. 10, during the Centennial celebration. Close to $150 in prizes will be awarded to the fastest, the strongest and the loudest (there's a hog-calling contest included). The Belmond Lions club will be in charge of proceedings.

Meservey High school's fine band has been scheduled for a concert to start at 9:30 a. m., preceding the games program. The sports competition will get underway at 10:00 a. m. sharp.

A feature that promises to attract lots of attention is a tug-of-war, in which the Belmond Jaycees have been invited to be one of the combatant parties. The Junior Chamber hasn't definitely accepted yet, but the Jaycees are nonetheless muttering challenges to the effect that they could whip any farm group of comparable age and weight in a 10-man duel with a rope. More will no doubt be forthcoming on this event in the next week or two. A prize of $25 will go to the winning team.

That hog-calling contest is expected to induce some of the old masters of the art to dust off their tonsils and get in good voice. The committee points out that this is an opportunity to make those hogs pay a profit, if only indirectly. Awards of $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50 will go to the three top place winners, which can be regarded as well worth taking a yodel at.

Married women will get their innings in the slipper kicking contest and rolling pin throw. In each of these competitions the prizes will be $5.00 for 1st, $3.00 for 2nd and $2.00 for 3rd. Only women who have said "I do" before the parson or J. P. will be eligible. It'll provide a cinch way for a half-dozen to pick up some pin money.

Those old stand-bys, the sack race, three-legged race and wheelbarrow race, will have a place on the program. The sprint in gunny sack hobbles and the three-legged affair will be open events, with anyone of any age welcome to take part. The wheelbarrow race, however, will be a coeducational proposition with a girl required to do the wheeling and a boy the barrowing; but there'll be no age restrictions.

Prizes in the two events involving pairs will be $8.00, $5.00 and $3.00 for the first three places; and in the sack race, $5.00, $3.00 and $2.00. It is recommended that teams contemplating entering the three-legged race and wheelbarrow race will do well to get in a little practice. It might pay off.

There will be a slate of straight sprints scheduled, besides the novelty events. Open sprints for both men and women will pay off $5.00, $3.00 and $2.00. In addition, there will be running races for boys in the 12-14 and 9-11 age brackets and for girls of the same ages. These will offer prizes of $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00, with elmination heats planned to give everyone a fair chance if too many enter to be worked into a single race.

For kids of age 10 or under, there will be a watermelon-eating contest, hands barred. This too, will pay off to the tune of $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00.

Entries will be limited in all events but the sprints, to keep the program from running over-long. Consequently, persons interested in competing in contests other than the foot races can enter in advance if they want to be sure of a chance to shoot at the cash prizes. Entries can be addressed to Centennial Games, c/o Belmond Independent.

Karen Azeltine To Health Camp

Wright county will have two delegates at the state health camp for 4-H'ers to be held July 30 through Aug. 4 at the state 4-H camp near Madrid. They are Karen Azeltine of the Iowa U-Go-I-Go club and Delmar Duitscher of the Lake Livewires.

This camp session will be for 100 club boys and girls representing 50 counties in the northern half of the state. It is sponsored by the Iowa State college agricultural extension service.

SISTERS, NOTE!

Sisters of the Swish announce that a "kangaroo court" is being set up for next Tuesday afternoon, with the S. S. P. (Sisters of the Swish Patrol) serving as a posse. The Patrol will levy nominal fines against Sisters found wearing make-up, modern jewelry, out of costume or otherwise violating the spirit of the day. Make-up permits may be purchased from members of the S. S. P.

Jaycees to Have "Dip" In Action

Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce, in hope of reducing a fractured budget and seeking surcease from the hot weather, plan to operate their "African Dip" on Main street Saturday night. This paraphernalia, it will be recalled, permits a well aimed baseball to drop the brave individual serving as target into a tank of water. The Jaycees promise an "added attraction" during their evening activity — but wouldn't elaborate.

Belmond, Vicinity Demonstrate Appreciation Of License Examiner's Service by USING It

Every evidence that the monthly visits of a driver's license examiner and his staff to Belmond will fill a very genuine need was supplied by the steady stream of persons that filed into the city hall last Friday. It was the first day that motorists were offered license renewal and examination service locally under lately completed arrangements with the state department of public safety.

Patrolman Mel Allen of Hampton and his two assistants — Clerk Bill McDowell and Typist Lee Lemke — accommodated 144 individuals during the 7½ hours they were on the job here.

Services performed were as follows: operators' licenses renewed, 102; operators' examinations given, 10; chauffeurs' licenses renewed, 24; chauffeur examinations, six; instruction permits issued, two.

Patrolman Allen reports that he and his aides were kept busy throughout the day. By noon they had some 60 persons appear for renewals or examinations, and the pace continued unabated throughout the afternoon.

The patrolman believes that some misunderstanding may have existed regarding his staff's readiness to give license examinations, as well as renew licenses. He emphasizes that examinations for either operator's or chauffeur's licenses can be taken on any day that he and his assistants are in Belmond.

He considered the turn-out remarkable for the first day at a new location and reported that 22 of the persons served were from outside Wright county.

Every second Friday of the month will find Patrolman Allen and his aides at the city hall under the licensing schedule that extends through October. Their next appearance at Belmond will be on Aug. 10, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

• • •

10¢ INVESTMENT BROUGHT $100

Mrs. Duane (Virginia) Nelson of San Fernando, Calif., paid 10 cents for the purchase of a Belmond Independent on Tuesday morning and at 3:00 o'clock that afternoon realized a nice return of 1,000 per cent on her investment. The Cash Gift Day number her paper bore turned out to be a $100 bell-ringer. Mrs. Will J. Boelman pulled down a similar prize on no immediate outlay of cash. She is a subscriber to the newspaper. These two were the only readers of The Independent or Buyers Guide to strike CGD gold this week — but that combination $200 jolt was sufficient to set the Cash Gift Day fund somewhat back on its heels. Consequently, a bit of retrenching was deemed by the committee to be in order for next week. At 2:00 p. m. next Tuesday there will be four $25 numbers posted; and at 3:00 o'clock, four worth $50 apiece. Incidentally, Mrs. N. is a daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Marson Nelson and is enjoying her first visit to Belmond, accompanied by her husband and her four children. That $100 is coming in mighty handy to defray expenses of the trip, she admits.

Teacher Will Get Delayed Diploma

Mrs. Carl Robbins, who teaches in the Goodell grade school, will belatedly graduate from Mason City Junior college at summer exercises held at Mason City tomorrow. Actually, she completed her credits for a pre-professional teaching certificate at Mason City J. C. four years ago, but illness in her family prevented her from participating in the graduation exercises at that time.

Severseike Given $500 Scholarship

Odean Severseike, son of Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Severseike, has been informed that he has been awarded a freshman scholarship of $500 by the Minnesota Medical Foundation. It will be applied on the expenses of his study in the University of Minnesota school of medicine, in which he is enrolled for the coming year. Only six out of 120 first year medical students are to receive freshman grants.

He was advised that formal presentation of the scholarship will be a feature of Minnesota Medical Foundation Day activities on the medical school's opening day, Oct. 1. Special ceremonies are to be held at Mayo Memorial auditorium at 11:00 a. m. Scholarship winners are invited to bring one of their parents as a guest at a luncheon to be held following the program and the Rev. Mr. Severseike hopes to be able to attend.

A member of the St. Olaf college Class of '56, Odean was graduated with the highest honors and was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He expects his medical training to cover a period of eight years. His present plan is to take two years of special study in [illegible] his four years of medical school, year of internship and year of hospital residency.

E. King Appointed Mayor of Goodell

Emmett King, chief of the state police radio station south of Goodell, at a special meeting of the city council last week was appointed as mayor of Goodell. The appointment was made to fill a vacancy left by resignation of the former mayor, J. J. Cook, at the regular July meeting. MR. AND MRS. BERT LAUEN

BERT LAUENS MARK THEIR 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lauen are invited to help them celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary this Sunday afternoon when they hold open house in the Trinity Lutheran church basement between the hours of 2:30 and [illegible] p.m. A short program is planned at [illegible] o'clock. The Lauens say that no personal invitations are being sent and that this announcement may be regarded as directed to all their relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. (nee Annie Meinderts) Lauen were married in Meservey July 19, 1906. Both have lived all their lives in the Belmond-Meservey vicinity. They have four children: Mrs. Lyle (Janet) Sands and Harry Lauen of St. Paul, Minn.; Marie Lauen, at home, and Marvin Lauen, Mason City. There are also six grandchildren and four great grandchildren. All of the children and grandchildren plan to be present to join in celebrating the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauen, whose ages are 72 and 68, respectively, retired from farming near Meservey about 10 years ago and moved to Belmond. Since 1945 they have operated a nursing home at their residence, with the assistance of their daughter Marie. They enjoy good health and find satisfaction and pleasure in providing for the needs of their patrons.

The parents of both Mr. and Mrs. Lauen were emigres from Germany, coming to this area in the days of relatively early settlement. Mr. and Mrs. John Lauen settled south of Belmond in 1882 and the Henry Meinderts just three years later. Both later followed their occupations of farming in the Meservey neighborhood.

Queen Candidates Tightening Race

Competition for first place and for third place in the Centennial Queen standings tightened up considerably during the past week, reports Mrs. Jim Cairns, chairman of the Queen committee. While an accurate report on the various candidates' correct placings is difficult because a considerable amount of money for sold badges has not been turned in, Mrs. Cairns says that the number of badges issued to the various girls indicates two "hot" races in the making.

Sandra Swenson continues the leader in the contest, but Betty Dempsey has been gaining considerable ground. They are the candidates of the Belmond Fire department and Junior Chamber of Commerce, respectively.

While exact order of the next four candidates is a matter of some conjecture, one of the following is in possession of third place now and the others are close behind: Corrine Davenport, sponsored by the Odd Fellows; Judy Larson, Lions club; Marilyn Mennenga, Belmond Co-op Creamery; and Vicki Wolfe, General Mills Men's club.

Little Tot Takes Tumble from Car

Little Janelle Judson, two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Judson, escaped with only minor injuries Sunday afternoon when she fell from the family car when out for a ride with her parents. She and two other Judson children were in the rear of the car.

Mr. Judson was driving a moderate speed along No. 69 just north of Tyrrell bridge when the little tot apparently unlocked the rear door of the car and managed to get it open. When the wind caught the door, she was hurled to the concrete.

Taken to Belmond Community hospital, she was found to have suffered only a bump on the head and bruises and abrasions on her back. She was held for observation, but was released from the hospital Tuesday.

Clarion Plumber Sues Friend Bras

A petition for damages has been entered by Joe Campbell of Clarion in Wright county district court against Friend C. Bras of Belmond asking judgement of $1,713. The suit is an outgrowth of an accident that occurred a mile west of Clarion on April 15, which the plaintiff contends was due to negligence and carelessness of the defendent.

According to the petition, Mr. Bras drove into the rear and left side of the pick-up truck Mr. Campbell uses in his plumbing and heating business when the truck had signalled and made a left turn.

Included in the claim for damages are $363 for repairs to the truck, plumbing tools damaged or lost to the value of $450, $60 for five days truck was not usable and $140 for seven days work lost by plaintiff because of injuries.

Series of Garden Clinics Scheduled

Ben Vance, well known horticultural specialist from Iowa State college, has been engaged by the Wright county extension service to conduct a series of four garden clinics in the county tomorrow (Friday). Information will be presented on raising both vegetables and flowers.

Times and sites of the clinics are to be: 10:15 to 11:45 a. m., the Francis McAlpine farm a mile north and one east of the Drury mink ranch; 1:30 to 3:00 p. m., Anderson greenhouse at the south edge of Dows; 4:00 to 5:30 p. m., the Lyle Gross farm located two miles south of Eagle Grove on Highway 20, across from Fischer's dairy; 7:15 to 8:45 p. m., gardens south of A. R. Bowman residence located a block south and three east of the Clarion post office.

Mr. Bowman, county extension director, says anyone interested in the management of vegetable or flower gardens will find the clinics of value and interest. Gardeners are invited to bring along specimens of plant disease or insect damage for Mr. Vance's inspection and advice.

County Purchases Of Savings Bonds At 59% of Quota

Individual owners of Series E and H savings bonds in Wright county invsted $88,063 during June to bring the total for the first half of 1956 to $923,215.

Charles Kramer of Clarion, Wright county volunteer chairman for the savings bonds program, said the county now has reached 59 per cent of the 1956 quota.

Average attainment in Iowa for the six-month period was 54 per cent, while the national average was 48.6 per cent. The chairman said that 53 counties in Iowa exceeded the state average, while 80 counties were above national average.

Six-month total investments throughout Iowa in 1956 were $90,103,091, a decrease of approximately 10 per cent from the 10-year record set in 1955. However, the chairman pointed out that first half investments for this year were the second highest since 1949. Comparative figures by counties were not available.

Total investments from January through June, and per cent of quotas reached, are shown for counties in this area: Hancock county, $675,176, for 65 per cent; Franklin, $509,084 for 49 per cent; Hamilton, $918,661 for 62 per cent; Kossuth, $904,666 for 53 per cent; Humboldt, $559,353 for 56 per cent.

E. R. Stahly Dies At Age 66 Years

E. R. Stahly, 66, father of Mrs. Don Nolan, died on Tuesday of last week of a coronary embolism while visiting at the home of a brother-in-law at Manson. He had visited in Belmond on a number of occasions, most lately the early part of this month. He had been hospitalized by illness here last December and had been in failing health for about the past year.

For 12 years, Mr. Stahly served in the Pocahontas county sheriff's office, first as deputy and later as sheriff. He was retired at the time of his death. Funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church at Pocahontas on Sunday.

In addition to his wife and the daughter living here, Mr. Stahly is survived by a son, D. W. Stahly of Vermillion, S. D.

No Cash for Fine; 15 Days In Pokey

James B. Day, 18, of Rowan drew a choice of a $25 fine plus costs or 15 days in the county jail when heard Thursday morning befor Mayor Pro Tem H. J. Classick on a charge of drinking beer on a public highway. Being unable to pay the assessed amount, he is currently "laying out" the fine in the jail at Clarion.

Arrested with Day on Wednesday night here in Belmond was Bernard Sweet, 32, of Galt. Officer Harold Erdman entered two charges against him — the one same as Day faced, plus careless driving. Sweet, a recently released convict, paid a fine of $25 plus costs on each of the counts.

Tall Corn Blamed For 3-Car Mishap

Tall corn played a major role in causing a three-car accident about 12:15 p.m. Monday at a rural road intersection two miles east and three north of Belmond. No one was injured, but, some $1,500 estimated damage wa sdone to the timated damage was done to the Willis Marshall of Algona was driving west and watching carefully to avoid running into a tractor and combine — driven by Lambert H. Pals — that had stopped at the south side of the road to allow the Algona car to pass.

Keith Madsen, driving a new Chevrolet station wagon owned by his father, Fred Madsen, approached the intersection from the north and could not see the car approaching from the east on account of the corn.

Meanwhile, a third car driven by Malinda Pals had come to a stop west of the intersection. Madsen's car collided with Marshall's and spun it into the Pals auto. Sheriff Bob Blecker estimated damage to Marshall's car at $850, to Madsen's at $450 and to the Pals car at $200.

Now's Best Time To Hit Ragweed For Good Results

Wright county farmers can put themselves in solid with their brethren who are hay fever sufferers, says Extension Director Aaron Bowman, if they can steal enough time away from oats harvesting and hay-cutting to get some licks in on ragweed in the near future.

Control measures begun now, Bowman notes, will eliminate the troublesome pollen that can cause such agony to hay fever victims in coming weeks. He says that both giant ragweed or horseweed and small ragweed can be controlled effectively this month by close mowing to kill the plants and prevent seed production.

Ragweed is also extremely susceptible to chemicals. E. P. "Dutch" Sylwester, Iowa State college weed control specialist, recommends a quart of 2,4-D per acre for field use, mixing with enough water to allow application at the heaviest rate the sprayer allows.

For fence rows and similar limited areas, he suggests a mixture of a quart (or pound) to 50 gallons of water. He offers a reminder that 2,4-D will do in other broad-leafed plants just as quickly as it does ragweed, so mowing is the best bet in pastures containing legumes. And where spraying must be done close to soybeans or other such broad-leafed crops, Sylwester recommends employing the amine form of 2,4-D.

Centennial Theme For Last Concert

Arrangements have been made for the final concert of the BHS band next Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. to take the form of a special Centennial Concert.

All persons having equipped themselves with Centennial apparel are urged to wear their old-fashioned grab when attending the concert in the park. Long dresses, bonnets, string ties and derbies will be official costume of the day."

Director Roland Brom has the musicians polishing up on some old time song favorites and community singing will occupy a portion of the program. There may be some special, vocal features, also.

3 Tractor Tires With Single Shot!

Two Belmond boys were hailed before Mayor Hokel last week on account of a careless prank that could have had tragic consequences. After a severe talking-to by County Sheriff Bob Blecker and County Attorney Ralph Austin, the boys were released with a warning that any future complaints against them would put them in serious trouble.

The pair of youngsters had been pigeon hunting in barns northeast of town and had been asking permission to do so, wherever they found the farm families at home.

On the Marlin Willey farm, however, no one was around when they investigated a shed for pigeons. In the shed they found a shotgun. The gun was loaded, and as the boys were playing at shooting it the gun discharged and ruined three tires on a tractor setting in the farmyard.

It was pointed out to the youngsters that one of them could just as well have been in the gun's sights when it went off, very probably bringing death to the victim.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletis Hundertmark of Ottosen were Sunday afternoon and supper guests in the Earl Swenson home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lieuwen and children of Holland, Mich., were overnight guests Monday in the A. C. Lieuwen home.

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank relatives and friends for cards, flowers and visits while in the Belmond Community hospital and since coming home. Also thanks to the doctors and nurses for their fine care. Arthur Schlawin, Goodell. 41t1*

Thanks for the food, flowers, memorials, and all other expressions of sympathy. A special thanks too, to the Doctors and Nursing staff of the Belmond hospital who gave Marjorie such marvelous care. Decide to Cancel Parade Scheduled Friday Afternoon

Because of the kiddies' parade planned as a feature of the opening day of the Centenial celebration, the parade that has been scheduled for tomorrow as a special event of the summer recreation program has been called off. Director Don Hoppel says that instead an informal soap box derby (one boy driving, one pushing) will be held at the high school athletic field. It will be followed by a baseball game between two, picked teams.

Yesterday, the Belmond peewees and midgets were slated to play at Webster City. Hoppel anticipated some tough competition, and the Webster City midgets were unbeaten for the season and the peewees had lost only one game.

Hoppel this week was looking for four motor boats that the recreation committee might obtain the loan of for the family picnic at Morse lake that is planned as a special event on Friday of next week. They will be needed at 5:30 p. m. to provide free rides for the youngsters. Offers of boats should be made known to the program director by phoning the Adolph Wenzel residence.

A crowd of 140 boys and girls attended the movie shown Monday at the New Belmond theater and 154 participated in summer recreation swimming last week. Next Monday's special film will be Rudyard Kipling's "Kim," with Errol Flynn and starring Dean Stockwell in the title role of the little beggar boy.

WALROD NEW CHIEF

A shift in assignment made recently by the city council as of Monday of this week gave Doug Walrod the title of "chief of police." Gil Paxton had previously served as chief, filling the vacancy left by resignation of Art Awe early this year. Paxton is night officer, and it was felt by the council that it would be advantageous to have the day officer serve in the capacity of chief.

Propose Closing Hours for Stores

Lloyd Lewis, chairman of the retail bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, announces that his group has drafted store closing hours which it is hoped a large majority of Belmond business houses will observe during the Centennial celebration.

These proposed hours are: Thursday, Aug. 9 — open day and evening, until 9:30 p. m.; Friday, Aug. 10 — open until 3:00 p. m., then closed for balance of day; Saturday, Aug. 11 — open until 9:30 a. m. (parade time), close till 1:00 p. m., then open until 7:00 p. m.

The bureau realizes, says Mr. Lewis, that some businesses have special problems to contend with; but all stores and business places are being urged to give the most complete cooperation possible.

20 Deadline Comply With Bank Pacts

...mers who have signed or ... to sign soil bank agreements ...ld keep in mind that they ... either comply with their a-...eements or terminate them by ...morrow, July 20, if they wish ... avoid certain penalties provided ... the soil bank law.

... cases of willful failure to car-... an agreement, the law pro-... for a civil penalty of 50 per ... of the payment which would ... been due had the agreement ... carried out, it was empha-... this week by the Wright ... ASC committee.

They said their announcement ... directed particularly to any ... who have signed or plan to sign acreage reserve agreements calling for greater cut-backs in corn acreage than the farmers would actually expect to make.

Under the law and department of agriculture regulations, the farmer who signs an agreement prior to July 20 has only through July 20 to decide whether or not he will comply with his agreement. If he decides he cannot or will not comply fully, he must terminate his agreement by July 20 at the county ASC office.

Up to and including July 20, he may terminate his agreement and retire from the soil bank program for 1956, or he may terminate his original agreement and enter a new agreement which he intends to carry out fully.

Although July 20 is the final date for termination, for making original agreements and for making new agreements, Iowa farmers have until July 31 to make any corn acreage adjustment required under their individual agreements. However, the decision to do so must be made by July 20.

July 15 was the deadlin for clipping oats on land going into the acreage reserve. July 31 is the deadline for clipping grain sorghum and soybeans on land going into the acreage reserve, as well as the deadline for making any necessary adjustment of corn acreage.

DES MOINES (Special) — During 1955, petitions for adoption of 1,767 children were filed with the District Courts of Iowa, according to a study completed by the research division of the state department of social welfare and based upon information submitted by Clerks of Court in the various counties.

Out of this number, 464 children were placed for adoption by properly organized and approved child placing agencies, both public and private. The rest of the children, 1,303, were being adopted independently of the authorized agencies.

Many Adopted by Kin

Of these 1,303 children, 829 were in homes of relatives who were providing a normal home background for the child and were asking for right to adopt in order to clarify and make more secure the child's status in the home. Actually, 775 of the children had always been with one parent, usually the mother, and were being adopted by the step-parent in order to unify the family group, legally change the child's name, and give him full legal rights to both parents.

The balance of the 1,303, or 376 children, came to the non-related adoptive parents through means generally referred to as "gray" or "black" market methods. The child's needs and rights to a good home had not been assured through proper pre-placement investigation. Neither had the natural parents or the adoptive parents had the benefit of wise counselling in understanding the legal, social, and emotional implications of adoption.

County Responsibilities Cited

In releasing this information, Rolla R. Glenn, chairman of the state board of social welfare, points out that the state and county departments of social welfare are not child placing agencies. "However, by law we do have certain responsibilities in licensing the 15 voluntary private agencies now approved for placing children in adoptive homes, in authorizing other states and countries to place children in Iowa, in reviewing all adoptions for the purpose of reporting to the attorney general illegal practices and in promoting good adoption procedures throughout the state."

Mr. Glenn said that county welfare workers are often asked by the district courts to make investigations of adoptive homes before final adoption decrees were granted, adding that "Generally, these requests for adoption studies are in cases where propery authorized agencies have not participated in the placement plan. While our workers are not permitted to place children for adoption, an important part of their work lies in the field of child welfare, which includes cooperation with the courts and other agencies and individuals in protecting children where ever they may be. This work is carried on by our county offices in addition to their responsibilities in connection with the public assistance program."

Wright Grants Outlined

Under the public assistance program, in June the state granted Old Age Assistance to 39,613 individuals in an amount totalling $2,416,030, or an average of $60.99 each. In Wright county there were 197 recipients receiving an average grant of $58.02 each, or a total of $11,430.

Aid to Dependent Children grants benefited 6,826 families including 24,702 individuals. June payments totalled $762,926 or an average of $111.77 per family, or $30.88 per person. In Wright county the total cost was $1,178 and averaged $98.17 for each of the 12 families, and $28.05 for each of the 42 individuals included.

In June, Aid to Blind grants totalled $111,432 and were paid to 1,494 persons at an average of $74.59 each. In Wright county the total was $331.50, paid to six individuals at an average of $55.25 each.

PREVENTION OF HIGHWAY CASUALTIES CALLS FOR MORE POTENT "MEDICINE"

We read an editorial recently in the column of W. Earl Hall of the Mason City Globe-Gazette that suggested that public indifference is not so much responsible for the tragic toll of our highways as absence of any means to channel public indigation into action. Surely it cannot be said that the general run of the public is calloused in its attitude toward tragedies that are being played and replayed on our thoroughfares. But even the most outraged individuals feel at a loss as to how to attack the problem.

Reaction to the Wright county peace officers' "Safety Stop" over the July 4th holiday made very manifest that the public is deeply grateful for any concrete effort to enhance highway safety. That the intermission for refreshment offered by the officers DID constitute a very worthwhile safety precaution was, we feel, emphasized by the one fatal accident that occurred in the county. We can readily believe that the victims life might have been saved if his wife — the driver of the car — had enjoyed a few minutes' respite from the strain of a long trip by a "coffee break" a few miles back of the accident site.

Abhorrence of the needless killing and maiming done on our highways would, we feel certain, win the public's support of more vigorous measures on the part of our highest officials to punish violators of traffic laws. Mr. Hall pointed out that the best safety records are produced by those states whose administrations most stringently enforce driving regulations.

Conparisons have been drawn repeatedly between the stiff fines levied for hunting violations as compared to the inconsequential penalties assessed for speeding and other infractions of the traffic code. A man thinks twice before shooting what may turn out to be a $100 pheasant. But he may willingly gamble against having to pay a $5.00 speeding fine. Several states have found prompt suspension of speeders' driving licenses the most effective deterrent of all.

How often a speeder represents an accident hastening on its way to happen! But he isn't going to be dissuaded from his dangerous foolishness by a casual, financial slap on the wrist.

To steal a line from the "Mikado," it seems most likely that real progress on diminishing the shameful toll of our highways will be made only when it becomes prevailing practice to "make the punishment fit the crime." "And we honestly believe the large majority of motorists would thoroughly approve this practice.

PONDERING IMPONDERABLES HAS BECOME NECESSITY FOR CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE

There's an ancient joke about "unscrewing the the inscrutable" which is a matter of little humor with the Centennial committee these days. They have been obliged to ponder the imponderable on so many occasions during preparation for the big celebration in August that it's become a special treat to order pork chops for supper with complete certainty that the number obtained will suffice.

An example of the mysteries which the committee must engage with is, "Given X number of people, how many barbecued beef sandwiches should be prepared to staunch the crowd's hunger?" You must concede that this presents a nice problem. It would be most embarrassing to fall 2,500 short of enough bar-b-q's to satisfy the demand. On the other hand, it would be financially disastrous to have a thousand left over. Present plans call for "setting plates" for 3,600. If the sun shines brightly, 5,000 could be a better figure. In case of rain, barbecued sandwiches could be a drug on the market.

And how about copies of the historical booklet being published as a memento of the Centennial? How many will sell? It would be unfortunate to have the supply fall away short of the demand. On the other hand, several hundred too many would put a painful kink in the budget. How would 1,500 do? That's the guess that was finally settled upon, for better or for worse.

Then, would people of the Belmond vicinity sufficiently favor a rodeo as entertainment to warrant a fairly fancy outlay of cash? Is there adequate amateur talent available to make up a really tirst-class show? (This had the committee troubled for several weeks; then entries started to pour in so steadily that it's feared there may be more worthy acts applying than can be accommodated.)

Will the populace respond to the attractions of an old-fashioned games and sports program in numbers that would make it a worthwhile feature of the Centennial celebration? And will the organizations and firms of Belmond buckle down to the responsibility of planning and preparing entries so we'll have a parade that will measure up to the significance of our 100th "birthday?"

Anyone with a smooth-working ouija board or crystal ball of reasonable dependability can do the Centennial committee a big favor by making same available to obtain some sorely needed answers to the questions above. AND dozens more, just as bothersome!

Social Security Benefits in Wright And Adjacent Counties Up by 25%

The number of individuals receiving monthly social security benefits in the area served by the Fort Dodge office of the Social Security Administration was 25 per cent higher at the end of 1955 than at the end of 1954, Clifford W. Swedlund, manager, has announced. The total amount of benefits paid last December was 32 per cent higher than the amount paid in December the year before.

These increases were substantially higher than the national increases in the same period: 16 per cent in number of beneficiaries and 21 per cent in benefit amounts. Swedlund attributes the higher percentages in the Fort Dodge area to the extension of social security coverage to additional groups in recent years, which has had greater impact in agricultural regions than in sections which are highly industrialized.

The tabulation of benefit statistics for all counties in the nation, which has just been completed, shows that monthly benefits totaling $395,473 were paid to 8,472 residents of the Fort Dodge area last December. A year earlier, benefits amounting to $298,573 were paid to 6,764 persons in the area.

The Fort Dodge office serves 11 counties in northwest Iowa, including Calhoun, Clay, Dickinson, Emmet, Hamilton, Humboldt, Kossuth, Palo Alto, Pocahontas, Webster and Wright.

Benefits in December were distributed among the 8,472 residents of the area as follows: $277,076 was paid to 5,046 reired workers over age 65; $44,376 was paid to 1,530 wives or dependent husbands of retired workers; $39,174 was paid to 1,113 children under 18; $23,607 was paid to 531 widows or dependent widowers over 65; $10,506 was paid to 239 widows with children under 18; and $734 was paid to 13 dependent parents.

Nationwide, there were almost 4½ million retired workers receiving old-age benefits at the end of 1955 and an additional 3½ dependent and survivor beneficiaries. In Iowa 124,919 beneficiaries received $6,125,171 in December.

Pointing out the significance of federal old-age and survivors insurance as basic financial protection for the aged, Swedlund said that over half of the non-working aged people in the nation are eligible for monthly social security benefits and that in the years ahead the proportion will steadily increase as a result of the extension of coverage to the farm population.

While benefits can now be paid retroactively for as many as 12 months preceding the month of filing an application, Swedlund urges residents of the Fort Dodge area to contact his office in the State Bank Building: (1) when they reach age 65, even if still working; (2) at age 72, regardless of the amount of earnings; or (3) when the family breadwinner dies.

Residents of the area who have worked in covered employment or self-employment at least five years but who have become totally disabled before age 65 should also contact the office.

The HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

This accident traveled around for years in three parts. Then came a day and a moment when the three parts came neatly together.

One part was a man who would not put out his hand to signal a turn if he had a better than even chance of plucking a $10 bill out of the air.

The second part was a careless man who brought neglect and decay to everything he owned. His property simply went to pot for lack of care. His car had no tail light.

The third part was what the patrolman telling the story called "a city driver." He was a hurried, hard-pressed man — or he thought he was — who always followed the car ahead by as close as 5 or 10 feet.

Taken separately, each man, each part of the accident to come, would have excused himself as not so bad.

The man who never signaled could say, "But they can see my tail lights go on." The man who had no tail light could say, "But I seldom drive at night." The man who followed too closely could say, "I've got good brakes."

Then came the day and the moment. The man who would not signal stopped in the middle of the highway to make a left turn. Right behind him, the man who had no tail light jammed on his brakes. Right behind him, the man who followed too closely had no warning, no chance to use his good brakes.

He crashed into the car ahead and his three-year-old son, riding in the front seat, was thrown through the windshield. His life was lost before he could be taken to a hospital.

Clarion, Iowa, June 11th, 1956

I, H. E. Sullivan, Treasurer of Wright County, Iowa, do hereby certify that the sheet shown above is a correct summary of the business transacted by me as said treasurer during the period therein specified.

H. E. SULLIVAN, County Treasurer.

Collins Appointed As Committeeman For Loan Agency

F. Bernard Collins, who lives southeast of Clarion, is the newly appointed member of the Wright county committee for the Farmers Home Administration. Mr. Collins' appointment is for a three-year term. He succeeds Floyd E. Robie of Clarion, whose term of office expired June 30.

The Farmers Home Administration has a local committee of three members in each county, two of whom must be farmers. Other members of the Wright county committee are James Payne of Belmond and Oscar A. Holmes of Dows.

The committee determines the eligibility of applicants and helps the county FHA supervisor adapt the agency loan policies and services to fit local conditions. The FHA makes supervised loans to farm operators living on family sized farms for the purpose of buying necessary livestock, machinery and equipment and for operating expenses.

FHA also makes loans to farm owners for soil improvement, drainage, terracing and building improvements. In some cases loans are made to purchase additional land. It is possible for tenant operators to buy a farm if it can be purchased for a price near the long-time appraisal figure.

Harry L. Ladman, county FHA supervisor, whose office is located in Clarion, states that all applications are processed through his office. He also states that the agency does not make loans of any type to applicants whose credit needs can be handled through local banks and lending agencies.

Exchange Student Visitor at Bruhls

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruhl of near Clarion are having as a guest in their home for three weeks a Scottish girl who is in the United States as an International Farm Youth Exchange student.

Nan Wilson Anderson comes from Hurlford, Kilmarnock, Ayrshire, Scotland. She arrived in this country in early May and since then has spent her time at Washington, D. C., and in Kentucky. She came to the Bruhls' home Monday of last week and will remain until about July 28.

Miss Anderson says her family lives on an 80-acre farm and engages mainly in dairying. The Andersons have a heard of about 100 head of Ayrshire cattle, 40 of them being milk cows. Nan is the eldest of five children. She has three brothers and a sister.

She will sail for home on the HMS Britannic on Sept. 6.

Armed Forces Set Physical Standard For Military Draft

"The Armed Forces, not the Selective Service system, prescribe the physical, mental and moral standards, and conduct the examinations, for determination of acceptability for military service," said H. V. Schoonover, chairman of the Wright county local board.

Normally registrants who are classified in Class I-A, I-A-O, or I-O are ordered for Armed Forces physical examination when their turn is reached, although registrants in any class may be ordered for a pre-induction physical examination if induction is reasonably imminent.

No thorough physical examination is attempted at the local board level. If a registrant has an obvious physical or mental defect which very clearly disqualifies him for military service, such as loss of an arm or an eye, he may be ordered by the local board for a medical interview with the local board medical adviser and upon the basis of such interview may be classified in Class IV-F without being forwarded to the Armed Forces examining station for final determination of physical fitness.

The normal procedure, however, is for the registrant to take his pre-induction physical at an Armed Forces examining station. Examinations to check acceptability for military service involve a determination of physical, mental and moral fitness. Registrants who cannot read or write are disqualified for service. Registrants with criminal records are not acceptable although, in meritorious cases, moral waivers may be obtained permitting induction. No appeal to the state appeal board may be taken from the determination of the registrant's physical or mental condition.

Registrants may be ordered for a second or even a third preinduction physical examination. This is made necessary by two conditions: (1) A registrant may have corrected or recovered from a disability which previously disqualified him; or (2) Armed Forces physical and mental regulations change from time to time and a registrant not acceptable six months ago may be acceptable today by a change in physical or mental standards.

A registrant may transfer for his Armed Forces physical examination from his own local board to another if reporting to his own local board would result in a hardship to him. However, he always remains under the jurisdiction of the local board with which he is registered. He cannot transfer his records or file from his own local board to another local board even though he may change his place of residence.

Those physically, mentally or morally disqualified for service are classified in Class IV-F.

Work Progressing On Running Track

Work on Belmond High school's new running track at the athletic grounds northeast of town has been making steady progress and Coach Dick Hobbs foresees that the oval will be one of the finest tracks in this vicinity when it is completed.

Mr. Hobbs, with help from some of his athletes, has done a major portion of the work. The quarter mile track now has a cement curb around the infield and an opposite curb will be constructed the length of the straight-away.

The track has been made sufficiently wide that it will easily accommodate competitors in a good-sized meet and Belmond sports fans will have the privilege of seeing Bronco runners perform at home in seasons to come.

Buffalo Center has had the only really adequate track in the North Iowa conference; but Belmond will hereafter be in a position to bid for NIC meets and also for district meets.

Pea gravel is being laid over the graded surface of the track to assure good drainage, and four carloads of cinders have been ordered from the American Crystal Sugar company at Mason City. The cinders will be crushed fine before they are spread on the track in order to give it a porous, compact surface.

Local interest in track has increased greatly during Coach Hobbs' regime at BHS, and he is confident that accessibility of a really first-class cinder oval will serve to further popularize the sport — both among school athletes and the sports-minded public.

4th In Qualifying To Mary Gordon In Women's Meet

Mrs. Fred Gordon played as fine golf as she's ever achieved in tournament competition to finish in a three-way tie for fourth place when she qualified in the Iowa Women's Amateur with an 83 Monday.

In a card she wrote home Sunday evening after a practice round over the Clinton Country club links. Mary reported, "The course is long and uninteresting, and no good for my game."

Nevertheless, her sparkling 43-40 was surpassed only by three of the state's most outstanding young golfers, all much longer hitters than the petite Belmond club-swinger.

Humboldt Amateur Taken by Gordon

Fred Gordon picked off the championship at the Humboldt Amateur golf tournament Sunday with a three-under-par 105 for 27 holes. A fine 33 on his second round was bracketed by a one-under 35 and one-over 37. He finished two strokes ahead of John Marschall, young Hampton star, and two ahead of John Eymann of Forest City and George Lee of Humboldt.

The victory provided some "sweet revenge" over Lee, who had nosed Fred out by a stroke in the recent Clarmond Amateur. Eymann had the most spectacular round of the day. After an out-of-bounds shot on the very first hole gave him a seven, he clicked off six of the last eight holes with three's to finish with a 33.

Fred didn't fare so well in last week's Iowa Men's Amateur at Des Moines. After surviving the first round, he bowed in the second to Jim Hoak of Des Moines, 2 and 1. After being four down at one point, Fred sliced the margin to a single hole to lose the 17th with a bogey.

H&L WINS ANOTHER

Helland and Long's softball team posted its second straight win of the season last Thursday night by whipping Woolstock 13 to 8. Ken Loats paced the victors with four hits as the Red Caps racked a total of 19 safe blows. H&L will play a return game with Woolstock on the General Mills diamond Monday night at 8:15 o'clock.

Trail Ride Held Despite Weather

The hottest weather of the summer did not deter the Belmond Rough-riders from enjoying their scheduled trail ride last Sunday, with Avery Bier as host.

For a number of the riders, it was a 15-mile jaunt; but Sondra Kamm and her horse put 17 miles behind them. After the ride, the group met at the Paul Jenison farm and were served lunch by Merideth Jenison, Larry and Lynn Jenison.

TOURNEY STARTS SOON

Qualifying deadline for the annual Clarmond Country club golf tournament, originally set for last Sunday, has been extended to the end of this week. Men planning to compete are required to post scores for three rounds of play in order to qualify. More than 50 golfers had qualified by last weekend.

VOL. 36 NO. 42 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA— THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

CONSTRUCTION STARTED ON CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH YOUTH CENTER; COMPLETION DATE ABOUT NOV. 1

Work was started on July 16 by Henry Becker of Sheffield on construction of the new youth center being built as an addition to the Congregational church. The expense of the building is being met mainly by a gift of $25,000 received from an unidentified donor. He specified that not more than $20,000 was to be used for construction of the building — the rest being earmarked for equipping the building — so the church will meet th balance of the $23,383 building cost.

Architect who designed the youth center was Donald McKeown, head of the department of architecture at Iowa State college.

The structure will be L-shaped and will be one story in height with a full basement. It will extend parallel to the north and west walls of the church and an interconnecting door on the west side of the church will join the two buildings. The north-south length of the addition will be 44 feet and the east-west, 33 feet. Its width at the south and east ends will be 21 feet.

Poured concrete will form the walls of the basement and the upper walls will be cement block. Interior walls will be of acoustical block. The north and east ends facing First street SE and Third avenue will be faced with brick similar to that of which the church is built. Both the south and east ends will be comprised mainly of plate glass, with ventilating windows to provide circulation of air in the warm months.

Pre-cast beam tile will be used in constructing the floor and roof. So near as Mr. Becker knows, the youth center will be the only building in town with this type of construction, although it has been quite widely used elsewhere in this general area of the state. The pitch and gravel roof will be level.

Mr. Becker expects the building to be completed about Nov. 1, or possibly earlier. He has also been engaged to replace some deteriorated brick on the bell tower and to hang another bell in the belfry to replace the present one, which has been cracked for some time and unusable.

Rev. William Schorman says the youth center will be used for both recreational and educational purposes. The upstairs space will consist of a single, large room that will be used for parties, youth meetings, dances and like activities.

Most of the basement will be in one, large room, also; but it will be divided into compartments by moveable partitions. It will also provide storage space and have a rest room. It will be adaptable to use by Sunday school and Bible classes and can serve as a nursery.

Time for Signing Soil Bank Pacts Reset at July 27

Because the time for making soil bank acreage reserve agreements was extended to this Friday, July 27, more Wright county farmers will be able to participate in the program for the current year, according to the county ASC committee.

A total of 797 agreements had been signed at the ASC office in Clarion by last Friday and many more are expected to be signed before the new deadline tomorrow.

When it was reported that many farmers had been unable to get the necessary information or to fill out agreements because of the rush of applicants at ASC offices, the Department of Agriculture directed that the sign-up date be changed to July 27.

The department also gave state ASC committees authority to allow more time for meeting certain requirements of soil bank agreements, and the Iowa committee immediately directed that additional time be granted in Iowa.

July 27 — Final day for clipping barley, oats and rye on land going into the acreage reserve. July 15 was originally fixed as the deadline for these operations.

Aug. 3 — Final day for cutting back corn acreage to meet soil bank requirements and also to meet corn price-support eligibility requirements. Aug. 3 is also the final date for plowing under or clipping flax, grain sorghum and soybeans on land going into the acreage reserve. The original deadline for these operations was July 31.

Arlen Pals One Of 100 Selected For Leader Camp

Arlen Pals of Belmond has been named to attend a State Young People's Leadership conference to be held July 31 to Aug. 4 at the state 4-H club camp near Madrid. Total attendance at the conference will be 100. Selection of the delegates was made by members of the extension youth staff at Iowa State college.

The conference is held annually to give these young leaders an understanding of an individual's role in a group. To attend, a delegate must have completed at least his junior year in high school or, if not in school, be of equivalent age. Most of the delegates are in their early twenties.

Arlen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pals. He is 21 years old, has been in 4-H for eight years and has served as president of his local club — the Pleasant Pioneers — for two years. He also was Wright county 4-H boys' vice president in 1954.

Freshwater Gets Gift From Scouts

Robert "Jake" Freshwater, Scoutmaster of local Troop 16, was presented with a camper's ice chest by the troop members in appreciation of his leadership during the past year. He left this week for the General Mills experimental farm at Indianola, where he will continue in his work as chemist for GMI.

Troop 16 will not have a meeting this coming week, but will gather on Aug. 6 for a hike to Morse lake. Their new Scoutmaster is Rev. William Schorman. At the lake, the boys will clean up rubbish and then enjoy a swim and wiener roast.

CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE SETS UP HEADQUARTERS AT CITY LIBRARY

Official Centennial headquarters were opened Monday in the city library basement and will be maintained for the next three weeks, through the period of the Aug. 9-12 Centennial celebration. Margaret Mussell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mussell, has been engaged by the Centennial committee to serve as secretary.

Miss Mussell, a 1955 graduate of Belmond High school, was a freshman this past year at Graceland college, Lamoni, and will continue her studies there this fall. She is majoring in education and plans to transfer to a four-year college after her two years at Graceland. She has not decided, however, where she will complete her college work in preparation for a teaching career.

Centennial headquarters will use the same phone number as the library and can be reached by dialing 545. Any questions or requests for information regarding any phases of the Centennial program can be directed to the secretary.

The Centennial headquarters will hereafter serve as a clearing house for all Centennial planning. All committees are asked to keep the secretary informed of their activities. Groups planning reunions or open houses are also requested to keep Miss Mussell posted as to when and where their activities are to be held so that she will be prepared to pass the information on to any who might request it.

Registration during the Centennial celebration will be conducted at the headquarters and it will be possible to check there regarding the presence or absence of former residents who might be returning for the festivities.

"It has been the experience of other communities conducting Centennial celebrations that a general headquarters can serve a most useful function if full use is made of it," says J. R. Gallagher, co-chairman of the general committee. "If you need to know something about the Centennial plans, give the secretary a ring. If she hasn't the information right at hand, she'll obtain it for you and see that you get it."

Judging of Sisters of the Swish and Brothers of Brush Scheduled in City Park Friday, Aug. 10; $140 in Prizes

Plans for judging the Brothers of the Brush and the Sisters of the Swish were near completion this week. The whisker contest and costume parade will take place on the city park bandstand on Friday afternoon, Aug. 10, winding up a full afternoon of entertainment that will open at 1:30 o'clock with a concert by the Alexander High school band. At 2:00 o'clock the Centennial Amateur Talent show will be presented.

Prize categories for the two contests have been more or less completely drafted by the two sponsoring organizations and the Centennial committee has promised them at least $70 apiece to be distributed among the prize winners.

While the prize divisions of the Sisters may be subject to some minor change, they have been announced by Mrs. Grant Chapman of the steering committee as follows: (1) oldest woman in costume; (2) youngest girl in costume; (3) youngest boy in costume; (4) best mother and child costume combination; (5) best authentic oldtime costume; (6) best replica of oldtime costume; (7) oldest authentic costume.

The Sisters' committee-in-charge asks all women with costumes to be dressed in them for the two Tuesday afternoon "coffeebreaks" that remain to be held prior to the celebration, for the two Saturdays immediately preceding Centennial-time and at church the Sunday before the celebration. It goes without saying, that costumes will be official "uniform of the day" during the four days of the celebration, Aug, 9-12.

Judges are being appointed well in advance, so they will have opportunity to make preliminary and informal inspection of many of the costumes on those days they are to be worn in advance of the contest day.

Sisters of the Swish are reminded that a "kangeroo court" went into operation this past Tuesday to assess fines against wayward members who so forget themselves as to use make-up, wear modern jewelry or fail to dress in costume on the days that is required. The court is being administered by a Sisters of the Swish Patrol.

For those sisters who regard make-up a "necessity," Make-Up Permits may be purchased from members of the committee at the price of one dollar.

Eldon Boyd, president of the Brothers of the Brush, reports that prize categories for the whisker contest are still somewhat tentative and that some changes may be made and possibly one or two more divisions added. There will, of course be a sweepstake prize for the beard judged the finest of them all.

Other prize categories stand at present as follows: (1) oldest person with beard; (2) youngest person with beard; (3) longest beard; (4) wierdest beard; (5) fullest beard; (6) best goatee with mustache (Kentucky Colonel style); (1) best Abe Lincoln-type beard. It is rumored there may also be recognition for the individual with the poorest excuse for a beard, but Boyd would not commit himself in this connection.

Judging of the Sisters will take place starting at 4:00 p. m. on the appointed day and whisker judging will start at approximately 5:00. The latter contest might be subject to slight delay to enable General Mills personnel whose work shift ends at 4:30 o'clock to compete. Clark McNeal has agreed to em-cee these two contests.

Guy Withers Dies Of Heart Attack

Funeral services for Guy Withers, 66, were held at 9:30 a. m. Monday at Johnston Funeral Home with Rev. R. A. Ormsby officiating. Mr. Withers died very suddenly at his home from a heart attack on Thursday afternoon of last week. He had apparently been in excellent health and had been working that day prior to the time he was stricken. His unexpected death came as a great shock to his family and many friends.

Born near Hampton on Sept. 26, 1889, Mr. Withers was the son of John and Mary Withers. He entered the occupation of telegraph operator at an early age and came to Belmond as an assistant to the Rock Island depot agent more than 40 years ago.

In 1906 he became an agent of what was then the Germania station, near here. His job as telegrapher took him and his family to many parts of the state before their return to Belmond about 1930.

He was married in 1915 to Ava McAlpine of Belmond. She survives, as do five daughters and two sons: Mrs. Harland (Ione) Eide of Adel, Mrs. Melvin (Irene) Swenson and Mrs. Albert (Ava Marie) Luick of Belmond, Mrs. Jerry (Rita) Beenen of Alexander, Mrs. Dan (Delores) Boone of Gilman, Wis., Wayne and Faye Withers of Belmond. One sister, Alice Rhutasel of Chapin, also survives.

Preceding him in death, besides his parents, were a son Raymond, two brothers and a sister.

Mr. Withers followed a number of occupations upon his return to Belmond, including that of relief operator at the Great Western station, and had most lately been employed by Belmond Auto company.

Following the rites Monday, burial was made at St. Francis cemetery. Pallbearers were fellow employees from Belmond Auto company: Lloyd Cunningham, Lloyd Buterbaugh, Johan Pals, Maynard "Gus" Taylor, Theodore Kaduce and Luke Wessels.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Oliver Goodwin and Glenn Rierson attended the Locksmith convention at the Sherman hotel in Chicago from Saturday until Tuesday. They also visited the Archie Rierson family at River Forest, Ill.

Two Picked Off $25 Apiece

Two possessors of prize-winning Cash Gift Day numbers were present with their lucky digit combinations Tuesday afternoon and consequently went home richer by $25 apiece. They were Mrs. Clarence Fleener and Mrs. Lester Buseman. The other two $25's and all four $50's were left hanging on the limb. The CGD committee is making up the missing 50 dollars and adding another 25 for next Tuesday. That will make five $25's up for draw at 2:00 p. m. and four $50's, again, at 3:00 o'clock. Be on hand with those numbers! You will never find a quicker way to pick up 25 or 50 bucks.

Methodists Will Lay Cornerstone Sunday Morning

Following next Sunday morning's services at the Methodist church, members of the congregation will go to the site of the new church at the east end of Main street to witness laying of the cornerstone. The ceremonies will be held starting at approximately 11:00 a. m.

Rev. M. L. Jones says a short dedicatory service will be held, including a littany in which the spectators will take part, and a box will be placed in the cornerstone that will contain momentos of the occasion.

In the box will be copies of current church periodicals and this week's issue of The Independent, a list containing the names of the pastor and the trustees and also a list of all those who have contributed to the building fund. Other miscellaneous items that might subsequently prove of historical interest will also be secreted in the cornerstone.

Arlo Stoltenberg Given Scholarship

Arlo Wayne Stoltenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg, was informed last week that he has been awarded a $250-per-year scholarship by Central college, Pella. He has accepted the scholarship and will enroll at Central at the beginning of the fall term.

A 1956 graduate of Belmond High school, Arlo Wayne was a participant in a wide range of activities. He was a varsity letter-winner in both football and track, was a member of the concert and marching bands and the pep band, and was also a member of the "Hoofbeats" staff.

MEYER TO CONFERENCE

Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Meyer will leave Monday for Lake Forest, Ill., to attend an international missionary conference at which they will represent Classis Pleasant Prairie. From the conference, July 30 through Aug. 3, they will go to Wisconsin for a brief vacation. Rev. John Hiemstra of Waterloo will preach at the Bethany Reformed church on Aug. 5.

Sewer Extension Mainly Accounts For Jump in Tax

Belmond municipal taxes would be increased by the moderate amount of approximately 3.2 mills by the budget estimate for 1957 that was approved by the city council Monday evening. Proposed expenditures would be increased from this year's $242,702 to $314,934, but tax askings would be boosted by a little less than $8,000 — or from $58,472 to $66,339.

Sewer improvements account for the over-blown appearance of the expenditure proposal. These are primarily responsible for the $169,838 budgeted for municipal enterprises — and $150,600 of that amount will be derived mainly from bonds, so this fund distorts the picture to appear that the city's operating costs are far more than is actually the case.

Most Funds Nearly Same

In general, most of the funds will require approximately the same in taxes next year as they did this year. Debt service tax needs are up from $10,159 to $16,140 due to the general obligation bonds that had to be issued to finance the expansion in the sewer system.

In addition, a new contract with Iowa Electric Light and Power company goes into effect with the installation of new light fixtures along the highway and on Main street to the Rock Island tracks and the general step-up of street corner illumination all over town. This called for a jump in taxes for the utilities fund from $3,531 to $6,226.

Assessed Valuation Up

The tax appropriation for the street fund has been dropped about $1,300, from $8,829 to $7,506. Sanitation, recreation and the trust and agency funds remain materially the same. Part of the difference in the street fund will be made up by an anticipated increase of $800 in Belmonds share in the state road use tax, from $8,000 to $8,800.

Estimated millage required to meet the new budget is set at 27.05, compared to last year's 23.84 levy. Helping to keep the millage down is an increase in taxable real property valuation of nearly $100,000 — $97,435, to be exact. Real estate valuation, excluding $38,763 in agricultural lands, comes to $2,452,150 for the next year. There is also a slight increase in moneys and credits, from $604,159 to $606,764.

Hale Mason New Post Commander

Hale Mason was elected commander of Eimbrink Post No. 35 of the American Legion for 1956-57 at a regular meeting of the organization held at the Veterans' hall Monday evening. He succeeds M. E. "Gus" Taylor as head of the local Legionnaires.

Others elected to office for the new year were: Carl Brennan, 1st vice commander; Marvin Meinders, 2nd vice commander; Kenneth Lerdal, adjutant; "Gus" Taylor, chaplain; Marvin Pals, finance officer; Arnold "Barney" Alderson, sergeant-at-arms; Fred Fulton, service officer and historian.

George Baxter and Mr. Alderson were elected to the board for one-year terms as trustees.

Commander Mason reminds all members that dues are payable.

PAPER DRIVE FRIDAY

Friday evening the Junior Chamber of Commerce will conduct one of its periodical paper drives. The Jaycees ask that scrap paper be left on the curbings, preferably tied for easy handling.

Meservey Reform Church Honors Kampmanns On Retirement After Serving for Over 25 Years

Approximately 700 persons gathered at the Meservey school gymnasium last Friday evening to pay their respects to Rev. and Mrs. E. Kampmann and bid them farewell on the occasion of his retirement as minister of the First Reformed church. Mr. Kampmann ended his active ministry Sunday after a little more than 25 years of filling the First Reformed pulpit.

Mr. Kampmann's separation from the church became official Monday. He and Mrs. Kampmann came to Meservey on April 15, 1931, and he was installed as pastor of the church on the following May 25.

During the period of his ministry, 180 young people completed courses in the Heidelberg catechism, 285 infants and adults were baptised, 188 members were received into the church on confession of faith or by transfer of certificate and 95 marriages were performed.

A new entrance was built onto the west side of the church in 1941 and on the east side last year. Rest rooms were built in the basement in 1948 and the kitchen was completely remodeled in 1955.

Although services were conducted entirely in German at the time of the Kampmanns' arrival, this practice was gradually displaced until with the start of the new year in 1943 a complete conversion was made to the use of English.

In addition of his many pastoral duties, Mr. Kampmann has kept the church pianos tuned and painted both the interior of the church and the basement. Mrs. Kampmann has beautified the sanctuary with generous use of many lovely flower arrangements from her own, large garden. Both of them taught catechism and Sunday school classes throughout the years they have made Meservey their home.

When Mr. Kaufmann had completed 25 years of ministry, last spring, the church honored the anniversary of his installation by presenting him and Mrs. Kampmann with a cash gift and a bronze plaque.

Last Friday's farewell courtesy took the form of a "This is Your Life" program, covering the Kampmann's period of ministry in Meservey. Appearing on the program were members of their first and last catechism classes, first and last children baptized (Melba Ruigh Muhlenbruch and Angeline Schulte, the first; LuAnn Kae Kalkwarf and Beverly Kay Stadtlander, the last), the first and last couples married (Mr. and Mrs. — nee Lebina Halfwassen —Dan Ramsay of Des Moines, the first; Mr. and Mrs. — nee Joan Pals — Arden Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. — nee Marilyn Pals — Irving Banning, the last); and the first and last consistories were given recognition.

Rev. Ralph Meyer was in charge of the program. Rev. O. G. Poppen of Grundy Center and Rev. Johann Schmidt of Chapin, who were present at Mr. Kampmann's installation, attended the farewell; also Rev. Peter Koenen of Aplington and Rev. P. W. Pfaltzgraff of the Meservey EUB church.

Supt. Lovell Diddy represented the school system and Dr. G. E. Jurgenson the professional men. A tribute from Rev. Herman Dirks of Monticello, Ind., a Meservey native, was read by Mr. Meyer. Also as part of the program, Mrs. Kampmann's beginners Sunday school class sang two songs and presented her with a handkerchief.

The Kampmanns' only child, Mrs. Stanley Brandt of Aiken, S. C., was unable to be present due to sickness in her family. However, a highlight of the program was a surprise telephone call from her that came through while her parents were seated on the stage.

Mr. Kampmann began his ministerial career at Lennox, S. D., in 1923. He served there four years, then answered a call at Everly before coming to Meservey. The Kampmann's are moving to Ackley, where they formerly resided, to make their home.

To the farmers, working against time and weather, delay can mean the difference between a crop and no crop, a good year or a lean one. So accidents have no place in his schedule; they cost money, delay production — and the growing season keeps rolling along.

There's Going To Be A Change . . . .

Yes, there is going to be a change at Berns D-X Service starting today when we hope you'll bear with us as we go through a period (short we hope) of putting in a new drive, a new floor in our service station and a general remodeling and redecorating program.

ALSO, in two to three weeks time we will change over to a complete line of CONOCO Petroleum Products.

Our decision to handle Conoco Products is not sudden—but has been necessitated by Sun-Ray D-X Co.'s decision to build in Belmond. If you haven't used Conoco products in the past, we hope that when the time comes you'll give them a try here. We know you'll continue to be a satisfied customer.

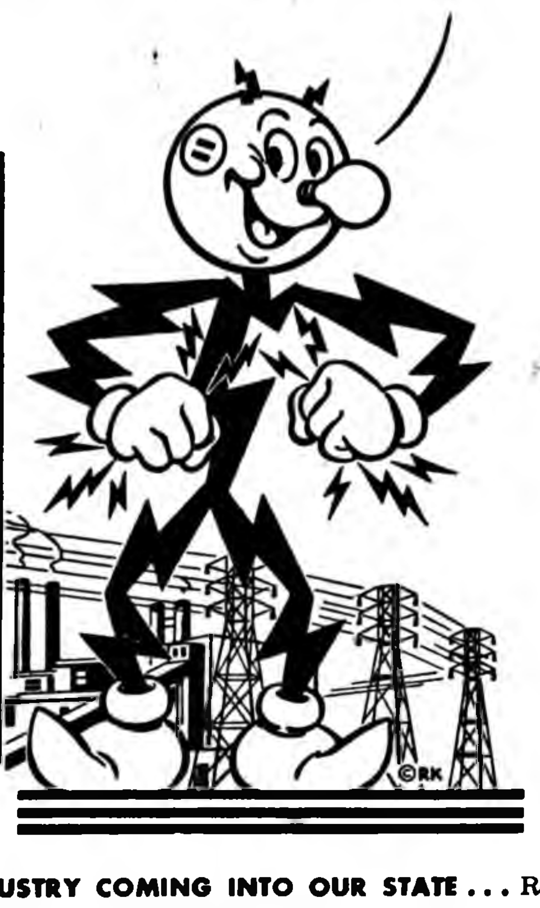
Speaking of "INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT . . ."

Who Brings a $40,000,000 INDUSTRY* to Iowa Each Year?

INVESTOR-OWNED UTILITIES ADD 30 to 40 MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR TO SERVICE FACILITIES IN IOWA

During 1955 six investor-owned utility companies in Iowa added more than $30,000,000 to their operating facilities. About 40% of this sum went into added payroll. This increase in investment adds real value to the industrial worth of the Hawkeye State. About $12,000,000 extra payroll dollars helped increase business of all kinds in Iowa . . . and the progress continues year after year.



MORE THAN A MILLION DOLLARS OF LOCAL TAX REVENUE IS GAINED EACH YEAR FROM UTILITY SERVICE EXPANSION

During 1955 the investor-owned utility companies paid local taxes amounting to over $1,300,000 more than they paid in 1954. Their local tax bill totalled $13,800,000, an increase of about 10% for state tax revenue. No new industry added that much new income to local and state government funds during any year in Iowa history.

* LIKE A BIG NEW INDUSTRY COMING INTO OUR STATE . . . Reddy Kilowatt's growing activity and service is an economic boom to Iowa. This multi-million dollar expansion that occurs every year means more jobs . . . more income . . . more business and a higher standard of living for Iowans all across the state. This expansion means More Power to Iowa! It makes possible the growth of new industries attracted to our state and paces a healthy economy. Capping Exercise Marks End of 1st Year of Training

A local student nurse at St. Olaf college, Carol Ann Leinbach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Leinbach, is one of 40 in her class who was honored at ceremonial capping excercises last Friday in Minneapolis. The event closes their first full year of training both on campus and at Fairview hospital, where the ceremonies took place.

The St. Olaf nursing program, established just four years ago, recently won both national and state accreditation from professional nursing associations. At the close of their fourth year of study, each successful graduate earns a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing and becomes eligible to take state board of nursing examinations.

Until this year, however, students in the St. Olaf nursing school were without a distinctive nursing cap. Undaunted, a committee of the girls themselves combined fashion ideas and agreed on a simple white head band designed for easy washing and low cost.

Miss Leinbach became a member of the first freshman class to don the official new cap at Friday's ceremonies.

J. Lansing Again Top Life Insurer For His Company

Jack Lansing, Belmond agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, was cited Monday at Milwaukee, Wis., for having led all the company's 3,500 agents during the past year in number of lives insured. Announcement of this honor won by Mr. Lansing was made at the 76th annual meeting of the association of agents of the Northwestern company.

By insuring 168 1/6 individual lives in 12 months — the one-sixth being accounted for by shared credit on a policy — Mr. Lansing became "leader in lives" and earned presidency of Northwestern's Marathon club, the company's top club which is open only to agents who insure 100 or more lives annually.

This was the third consecutive time that Mr. Lansing has won membership in the Marathon Club.

At the agents' meeting, it was announced that Northwestern set an all-time company production record for the 12-month period ending May 31. Its agents sold a total of $644,388,000 in life insurance, exceeding by $93, 343, 000 the previous high established last year.

LOOKING OVER HANCOCK'S '57 BUDGET HINTS OUR BOARD'S DONE A GOOD JOB

For a number of years past, The Independent has periodically hurled comparisons at the county board of supervisors that reflected no credit on the manner in which affairs of government in Wright county were being administered. It has been a source of much pleasure in the course of the past year to observe with growing frequency evidences of increased administrative efficiency. This reflects credit on the board members and their obvious resolve to amend certain extravagant practices and policies that have prevailed in our county for all too long.

We have made a point of calling these improvements to the attention of our readers, regarding that the privilege of criticism should be attended by the obligation to commend when commendation is warranted. We're most happy to say that the county budget estimate that was published in last week's issue impressed us as continued indication that the supervisors are sincerely determined to see our county business affairs carried on at a higher level of efficiency than in times past.

True, $36,000 more must be raised by taxes in 1957 than was required from tax sources in 1956; but a feasible explanation lies behind every fund increase. This is not to say that there isn't any "fat" that could still be trimmed. For example, we remain convinced that an analysis of policies that govern our soldiers relief would likely reveal administrative laxness that should be corrected. BUT, in general our proposed county expenditures for the coming year will bear comparison with many of our neighbors. And that, in our book, is GOOD!

While Wright county never yet has found a million dollar budget necessary (one was proposed in 1951, but taxpayer remonstrance led to $249,000 being pared from the tax askings), we note that Hancock county's budget estimate for 1957 proposes expenditure of $1,354,840, following on the heels of a $1,126,706 budget for the current year. This year, our Hancock neighbors were asked to dig up $656,206 in taxes compared to $436,000 here in Wright county. Their pocketbooks are to be nicked for $739,190 next year, while the total taxes asked of us come to "only" $474,000.

It's no concern of ours what all that Hancock county money is going for, thank goodness. But we're mighty gratified that a healthy comparison in OUR favor can be drawn from the two budgets.

COULD IT BE THAT OLD SAINT PETER WAS ONCE A NEWSPAPERMAN, HIMSELF?

The man advanced toward the Pearly Gates with eager feet,
Slapped the gatekeeper on the back and said, "Hiya, Pete!"
There was no question in his mind but what he'd get in.
Hadn't he spent a lifetime jousting with sin?
Saint Peter eyed him uncertainly, then he asked, "Why
Are you so uncommonly sure of your Place in the Sky?"
"I'm an old newspaperman," the gent impatiently said.
"Never once let slip with a garbled head;
"Mistakes just didn't get by in that sheet of mine—
"No typos, no fouled-up dates, no transposed line.
"Ad prices were always right. Never a kick!
"Never had news crowded out — always room for it all.
"Never misunderstood a name via telephone call.
"Don't like to brag," said he — and proceeded to do so —
"Never once did I get tripped up describing a trousseau.
"Births . . . deaths — THE NEWS — was duly reported,
"Complete, yet succinct, and NEVER distorted!"
Saint Peter raised his hand to quiet the scribe,
Then placed finger to lips and silently eyed
This paragon of journalists, plainly perplexed.
Then Pete waved him aside and murmurred, "Next!"
Flabbergasted, the editor shouted, "Wait!
"You mean I'm to be left standing here at the gate?"
"Not exactly," Saint Pete replied, "The truth to tell,
"I believe you need some seasoning yet, in Hell."
Then relaxing a bit, he added with ill-disguised mirth,
"The fact of the matter, my friend, YOU had Heaven on earth!"

(Ed's note: You readers needn't fear a regular repetition of this sort of thing. These pre-Centennial days have been a bit rough around The Independent and Ye Ed simply developed a temporary gasket leak. It's been fixed.)

Mary Gordon On Board of IWGA

Mrs. Fred Gordon was honored at Clinton last week by election to the board of control of the Iowa Women's Golf association. The board consists of five members, only two positions on it being elective. The others are filled by the president of the women's organization at the club to be host to the state tourney the following year, the president of the current host club and the woman in charge of the state junior girls tournament.

After having the fourth lowest qualifying score in the state tourney, Mrs. Gordon was eliminated in the first round of play.

Considerable excitement was brewed at Clinton when the board of control voted to exclude junior golfers from future women's golf tournaments. Mrs. Gordon was not at the session when this action was taken. Subsequently the decision was revoked and a questionnaire is now being circulated to determine if the junior girls will be permitted to play in both junior and senior tourneys or must make a choice of one or the other.

Janelle Johnson will spend from Wednesday until Friday with friends in Vinton and from there she will go to Minneapolis, Minn., to attend a wedding.

Final Recreation Movie on Monday

Last PTA recreation movie of the season will be shown at the New Belmond theater next Monday at 1:30 p. m. It will be that children's classic, "The Wizard of Oz," starring Judy Garland and an all-star cast that includes Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr and Jack Haley.

Don Hoppel reminds the children participating in the recreation program that this week's special event day, tomorrow, will take the form of a family outing at Morse lake. Picnic lunches are to be brought and there will be free boat rides for the boys and girls. The affair is to get started at 6:30 p.m.

With detasseling cutting into the turn-outs somewhat, the recreation movie this week drew attendance of 94. Last week's attendance for swimming was 122 boys and girls.

The two baseball games scheduled with Webster City a week ago Wednesday had to be postponed on account of rain and were rescheduled for Wednesday of this week.

GORDON AMONG WINNERS

Fred Gordon added more golf laurels to his string for the current season when he placed among the amateur prize-winners in last weekend's Waterloo Open Golf tournament with a tie for 6th place. He had trouble during his morning round, coming in with a 76; but in the afternoon he tied for low score on the final 18 with a scorching 69 for a 145 total.

Mrs. Rena Landon spent Thursday and Friday with the A. G. Thompson family in Mason City.

VOL. 36 NO. 43 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA— THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

We were told that at the recent state Republican convention at Des Moines, Delegate Russell [illegible] lofted a number of trial balloons to test sentiment toward Clark McNeal's candidacy for Speaker of the House during the next General Assembly. Russ tells us that his investigation and inquiries left no doubt as to Clark's popularity around the state house and the high opinion in which his qualifications are held. It was too early to get anything resembling commitments — but Russ was convinced that Clark can win the most serious kind of consideration when the job goes up for grabs.

Belmond Community hospital arrived at a significant milestone a week ago Sunday when the 1,000th delivery was made since the hospital opened its doors on June 23, 1952.

Administrator "Stu" Kutz emphasizes that the figure refers to deliveries, not births. Several sets of twins boost the actual count of babies beyond the thousand mark.

Parents whose baby opened the way to the second thousand deliveries were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wirtz of Dows. Mrs. Wirtz gave birth to a 6-lb., 15-oz. baby girl, who was given the name Candis [illegible].

Members of the Belmond Centennial committee were pleased beyond words at the excellent turnout at the Centennial Band Concert in the park last week. They report that the enthusiasm and interest displayed augur well for the success of next week's four-day celebration. It was truly an "occasion."

That the people of Belmond are really getting into the spirit of the occasion was made highly apparent by the large number of persons who appeared in costume.

This was, incidentally, the last concert in the annual summer series and — excepting for several appearances scheduled during the Centennial — marked the band's last regular performance under Director Roland Brom. He can be proud of the musical organization he's leaving to his successor.

Belmond's veterans' organizations are understandably disturbed that a great many valuable items from their sick-room loan closet are missing and unaccounted for. Even such major articles as hospital beds and wheelchairs seem to have passed into limbo. They would appreciate it greatly if ALL families in possession of borrowed items would report them — and return them, if no longer in use. The usefulness of the loan closet to the community has been drastically reduced by the disappearance of these borrowed articles.

Some of the major closet items were contributed by the Red Cross, the American Legion and VFW Auxiliary members have worked hard at special money-raising projects to purchase others. Some were bought with money received from grateful borrowers.

Loan closet items can be borrowed for a period of 60 days, completely rent free, by any home in the community in which illness would make their use helpful. A borrower may renew the loan for another 60 days if the article is still needed at the end of that time. All that is asked is that the items be returned, in good condition, when no longer needed. Inquiries regarding loans — or reports on articles at present in borrowers' possession — should be directed to Mrs. Paul Couchman (8511), Mrs. Glen Eccles (228) or the Vets' hall (275).

A reader of Main Street suggests that a life or two might be saved in Wright county between now and harvest time if farmers would cut all corn that at present obscures vision at rural intersections. Last weekend a Wright countian and another person lost their lives near Humboldt, with tall corn a major factor in the fatal accident. Three cars were recently damaged — but no one hurt, fortunately — near [illegible] at an intersection where corn blocked the vision of drivers involved. . . . Better to get out and chop that corn off than possibly to wonder later if YOU shared responsibility for a death!

"Wizard of Oz" Pulls Big Crowd

Director Don Hoppel reports that swimming attendance held up well last week, with 142 in all taking advantage of the opportunity to cool off in the Clarion pool.

Belmond's peewee and midget baseball teams got their first taste of competition Wednesday of last week at Webster City. Though they lost both games — 5-3 and 3-0, respectively — Hoppel considered that the boys did very well for not having met any earlier opponents. [illegible] Jenison and Neal Wadding[illegible] comprised the peewee battery and the midgets' consisted of Rog[illegible] Knapp and Bob Lerdal.

Yesterday afternoon the local teams were slated to play host to the two Webster City teams. A North-South game will be played tomorrow evening at 6:15 on the local diamond to give dads an opportunity to see their boys in action.

COSTUME NOT REQUIRED

Mrs. Grant Chapman, head of the Sisters of the Swish steering committee, says a misunderstanding has arisen that Centennial costume is obligatory for women attending the Tuesday afternoon coffee [illegible]. She assures this is not [illegible] and "non-Sisters" need [illegible] appearing in pres-

Opening Day of Centennial Celebration Now Just One Week Away

Historical Pageant Will Feature Local Cast of 200

"Journey into Yesterday," the Centennial historical pageant that is to be presented on a specially constructed stage at the high school athletic field on Friday and Saturday nights of next week, was well into rehearsal this week. It is being directed and produced by Rowe Million of the Hal Garven Production company, Minneapolis.

More than 200 local persons will appear in the cast and with committee chairmen, production crew members and musicians, the number of Belmond residents directly involved in presenting the pageant will exceed 300.

Belmond churches are giving wholehearted support to the undertaking. They have been responsible for casting, costuming and ticket sales; and in return for their very active participation, they are slated to share in the receipts of the pageant if the Centennial celebration as a whole is the financial success that is anticipated.

Because of the large number of persons involved in the production, participants are being asked by the Centennial committee to buy one pageant ticket apiece to help insure meeting of the pageant's cost. The committee points out that scores of other individuals who will be buying tickets are giving even more hours to Centennial assignments than are the pageant cast members and production crews. For this reason, the committee members feel confident that those involved in the pageant will appreciate the fairness of the ticket arrangement.

Mr. Million says that the Belmond pageant promises to be the most unusual, from a number of standpoints, of the many he has produced for Hal Garven. For one thing, much of the script was produced in poetical meter by local writers, whereas scripts are ordinarily written almost entirely by Garven writers.

This poetry, which Mr. Million praised as being of "amazingly professional quality," was written by the late Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans, by Mrs. Ella Luick, and by Maude Rankin Leonard, a native of Belmond who now lives in California but is back in these parts for the Centennial period. Much of the verse lends itself ideally to choral reading, and consequently the Belmond pageant will be unique among the many that Garven has produced in that generous portions of the script will be spoken by a choral reading group.

Most of the action will take place on a 40x60-foot stage, but some bits will be performed in front of the stage. Smaller platforms on either side of the stage will provide seating for the choral group and for the Centennial Queen, two Princesses and their retinue. Crowning of the Queen will be a highlight of the Friday night performance of the pageant. She and her attendants will be publicly presented at the Saturday performance, also.

Another distinction of the Belmond pageant lies in the fact that the parts of some dozen and half of the community's prominent early settlers will be played by direct descendants of the pioneers portrayed. Members of the Henry Luick family will be played by Cortland Luick, Mattie Farmer, Bruce Leinbach, Michael Luick, Joan Leinbach and Sam Leinbach, all direct kin.

Others appearing as forebears of their own are: Judy Oberhauser as Emily Dumond; Nellie Smith as Grandma Gray; James W. Barry as James Barry; Duane Anderson as Judge John L. Morse; Paul Oberhauser as J. S. Pritchard; LeRoy Christie as Frank Christie; Steven Hinman as S. N. Hinman; Harold Simerson as Fred Simerson; and Kenneth Jenison as J. B. Jenison.

Still another unique feature of the Centennial production will be the inclusion of a song written especially for the pageant by Mrs. R. W. Courson. She has set to music one of the scripts most lovely poems and the song will be heard as a solo presented by a vocalist not yet named. Mrs. Courson has written quite a few musical numbers, but relatively few persons in town have hitherto been privileged to hear any of the selections produced by her talented pen.

Altogether the pageant will consist of a prologue and six episodes made up of 19 separate scenes. Playing time of the production will be two hours.

Only early reports have been received on ticket sales, but Chairman Bob Garms is looking forward to a heavy advance sale. Tickets purchased at the gate will cost $1.25, but those bought in advance will be only $1.00. This is the adult price and applies to all persons 14 years of age or older. There will be no children's tickets sold except at the gate. Their price will be 50 cents.

Bleachers will comprise most of the seating, but arrangements are being made to provide 200 chairs as reserved seats at an additional charge of 50 cents.

Kiddies' Parade, Musical Program And Dance Slated

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the complete program of events for Belmond's Centennial celebration, which will be launched one week from today. While the multiple committees were still engaged this week in smoothing out final details, plans were sufficiently developed to forecast with certainty four jam-packed days of entertainment that should make the Belmond Centennial a fittingly memorable event.

Next Thursday morning the celebration will commence informally with the Kiddies' Parade, which is to get underway at 10:30 o'clock. Entrants should assemble at the city park an hour in advance so the line-up can be formed in time for the parade to start at the appointed hour. Don Hoppel, summer recreation director, will be in general charge and will be assisted by the recreation committee.

$35 in Cash Prizes

With $35 in prize money awaiting the best entries, it is anticipated that a great deal of interest will be shown and that the biggest parade of its kind in Belmond's history will follow the line of march down Main street from First avenue to the Belmond hotel corner, then north a block and back to the park.

At the parade's completion, prize-winners will be announced at the park and the Centennial committee will set up treats for all of the youngsters who take part.

Any and every type of entry will be accepted, but appropriateness to the Centennial theme will score heavily in the judging. Old-time costumes will appreciably increase the youngsters' chances of figuring in the prize money. The first four winners will receive $10, $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50, respectively; and those in the next five places will receive two dollars apiece.

Opening Ceremony Planned

The children may enter with pets, decorated bicycles or tricycles, wagons or doll buggies, individually or in groups. Ingenuity displayed, rather than elaborateness, will be particularly considered by the judges. All entrants should report at the bandstand, where they will be given number cards to determine their place in line and to enable the judges to identify the winners at the end of the parade.

In the afternoon, at 1:50 o'clock, the official opening of the Centennial celebration will be marked by a brief ceremony conducted from the park bandstand. Mayor Henry Hokel will express the city's welcome to the host of guests who will be enjoying Belmond's hospitality during the four days' festivities and proclaim the celebration to be formally under way.

Concert, Musical Pageant

At 2:00 p. m. the Belmond High school concert band under direction of Roland Brom will present and hour's concert. This will be followed at 3:00 p. m. by a performance of the musical pageant, "I Hear America Sing," by the Wright County Women's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Robert Kay of Clarion.

This musical organization has won wide praise for its excellence, but has never before given a performance in this part of the county. The pageant it will present is made particularly colorful by generous use of costumes and will be an especially appropriate feature for the Centennial occasion.

No seating arrangements could be feasibly made for this afternoon of entertainment, so the public is

Wright county recorded its 11th traffic fatality of the year — and its 9th in a period of 23 days — when Betty Jane Kuehn, 21, of Clarion lost her life last Thursday in an intersection collision. She suffered a broken neck as her mother was driving her to the Clarion telephone office, where the victim was employed as an operator.

Mrs. Clara Kuehn had driven just 109 feet from the driveway of her home in east Clarion when her auto — headed north — collided with a Jenkins Truck Line truck driven west by Junior Dishman, 26, of Clarion. Miss Kuehn was hurled from the car. Apparently impact of the crash snapped her head back violently, killing her instantly.

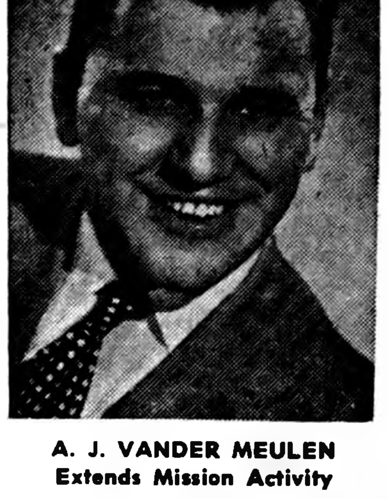
J. Van Gerpens' Son-in-Law, Daughter Open New Rescue Mission—Their 3rd

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold J. Vander Meulen, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen, have announced the opening of another rescue mission, located in Battle Creek, Mich. They now operate, in addition to the Battle Creek mission, similar organizations in Grand Rapids, Mich., their headquarters, and Bristol, Va. Each of thes establishments bears the name Haven of Rest Rescue Mission, and ministers primarily to homeless and unfortunate men and women of "skid-row."

Mr. Vander Meulen is executive director of the Grace Gospel association, which is the non-profit corporation which governs the operations of these various ministries. He has been actively engaged in prison evangelism for over six years and travels some 40,000 to 60,000 miles a year visiting all types of penal institutions in his evangelistic capacity.

He serves on various boards which direct various religious enterprises in America. He is a member of many lay organizations including the Gideons International, Christian Business Men's Committee International, and of the Fishers of Men, Inc., a southern lay movement. Both he and Mrs. Vander Meulen are members of the local Fundamental Baptist church.

The new rescue mission in Battle Creek will be headed by the Vander Meulens, but actively supervised by Rev. and Mrs. Donald Chalfant of Webb, Ia. Rev. and Mrs. Chalfant have been active in the Grace Gospel association for nearly 18 months, spending most of this time in the Grand Rapids mission ministry.



A. J. VANDER MEULEN
Extends Mission Activity

The Vander Meulens tenatively plan to return to Belmond for the Centennial celebration and class reunions next week.

Belmond's 1st Quarter Trade Volume Shows Upward Trend Here Continuing

Retail sales tax figures released last week by the state tax commission for the first quarter of the current year show that Belmond business continued in its upward trend that has prevailed the past eight or 10 quarters. Although gross taxable sales slipped beneath a million dollars for the first time since the January-March quarter of last year, a nice gain over the sales volume of the corresponding quarter of 1955 was registered.

First quarter sales regularly are lowest for the year, following the annual Christmas buying spree, but nevertheless an increase comparing favorably with neighboring communities was enjoyed by local merchants.

The quarterly figures, which exclude new car sales, revealed that Belmond did business amounting to $914,931 in the first three months of this year. That compared to $895,531 in the first quarter of 1955, the $19,400 gain representing an increase of approximately 2.2 per cent.

Once again Belmond outstripped Garner's trade volume for the quarter by an appreciable margin. The Hancock county seat experienced almost a three per cent drop in trade volume as compared to its first quarter of last year, its taxable sales being down to $843,975 as to $869,783 in January-March of '55. Only one quarter in the past 10 has Belmond failed to surpass Garner in trade volume, whereas in the years preceding our neighbor to the north had regularly shown a larger total of taxable sales.

In Wright county, only Clarion showed a better quarterly increase in business than Belmond. The county seat showed a $32,821 or 2.6 per cent trade gain over the first quarter of last year, the respective totals being $1,278,839 and $1,246,018.

Eagle Grove's taxable sales for the first three months of this year were only about one-half per cent more than the previous year's total, $1,327,630 as compared to $1,321,379.

A drastic drop in trade volume was revealed in rural Wright county, which includes all retail sales outlets except those in the three largest towns. Whereas the balance of the county did a retail business amounting to $775,002 in the first quarter of 1955, the total was down to $692,993 for January-March of this year. This represented a decrease of more than 10.5 per cent.

Long-Time Record Books Picked Out

The special chairman of the girls 4-H county committee judged the long-time expense books on Thursday of last week. Two of the top blue ribbon books were Beth Robie of the Dayton Dandies club and Mary Alice Studebaker of the Belmond Busy Bees. Beth's will go to the Iowa State Fair and Mary Alice's to the Eagle Grove fair.

Others who received blue ribbons were: Joan Mathre, Colleen Sellers, Arlene Woodley, Ilene Woodley, Carmen Rietz, Deanne Azeltine, Ellen Smith, Joyce Callies, Arlene Boyington, Delores Marker, Marlene Coltvet, Marilee Olson, Shirley Ann Christenson.

Also, Lynne Arends, Gloria Arends, Sharon Hilpipre, Deloris Miller, Carrie Richardson, Elyse Schutt, Karen Duitscher, Lana Stavnheim, Helen Miller, Karen Azeltine and Suzanne Meier.

● ● CENTENNIAL NOTES ● ●

A plea for help is issued by the Centennial Hospitality committee that has been lining up sleeping rooms for out-of-towners who will be visiting here during the celebration. Only a handful have been registered, and a number more are needed. A moderate charge for the rooms ($2.00 suggested) is perfectly permissable. If you have an extra room, call Centennial Headquarters and list it with the secretary, please.

Don't forget that information regarding the Centennial can be readily obtained by phoning Centennial Headquarters in the library basement. Just dial 545.

Women of the antique committee report that a good many more items are still needed for the downtown window displays. What do you have in the way of heirlooms? A boot-jack, candle mould, spinning wheel? Family keepsakes will be carefully looked after, so don't hesitate to loan them for this big occasion. But they're needed NOW. Call Centennial Headquarters and inform the committee what YOU have.

Linda and Mike Elliott, the pair of Mason City youngsters entered in the Centennial Amateur Show, are a niece and nephew of Mrs. Ed Kennedy. They should be (and we're told ARE) good. Their mother is a professional teacher of tap dancing.

Several manufacturers who supply local storekeepers with merchandise have "kicked in" some of their wares for Centennial contest prizes. As a result, the "champeen" hog caller picked a week from Friday morning will get not only a cash prize of $7.50, but ALSO a fine, new pair of work shoes. How about that? Worth going after, you hard-up hog-raisers? Oil those tonsils and get ready!

In similar fashion, the prize pay-off for the tug-of-war has also been "upped." Not only will the winning team receive $25 in cash, but each of the 10 members will get a handsome pair of new socks. The tug-of-war's to be a feature of Friday's program of races and contests, too.

You couples who think you can caper a mean waltz, don't forget that Waltz Contest that will provide intermission entertainment at next Thursday night's Bowery Dance on the park tennis courts. If you win the $7.50 first prize, it will be DOUBLED if you're in Centennial costume. And you get to dance FREE, just by wearing your Centennial Badge! But don't forget that badge.

The Centennial committee has the pageant and rodeo rain-insured to a point that they hope the weatherman will think he's being perverse by keeping the sky clear. You have to play your cards cageylike against that fellow.

You'll find the complete program for all four days of the Centennial celebration in the big ad in this issue that tells all about the fun that's planned. Look the schedule over carefully and resolve to take in "the works." We are a hundred years old only ONCE. So take time off and have yourself a ball!

Next week's coffee hour at the Odd Fellows hall, under sponsorship of the Sisters of the Swish, will be conducted by the Federated Women's club. Good food. Good company. And the price is right.

There have been no radical changes in the standings of the Centennial Queen candidates. Sandra Swenson remains in 1st place, followed by Betty Dempsey. Third place is held by Corrine Davenport, followed closely by Marilyn Mennenga and Judy Larson. The Queen committee anticipates plenty of activity between now and the deadline. A good week on Centennial badges could make a Princess out of ANY of the remaining five contestants — Monica Jones, Phyllis Lee, Beverly Pals, Sondra Stoltenberg and Vicki Wolfe.

WILL OPEN OLD DUMOND HOUSE TO PUBLIC DURING CENTENNIAL

An unusual treat is to be offered Centennial fun-seekers next week in the form of a guided tour of "the Old Brick House" on the hill. This residence was built by Archibald Dumond 100 years ago next year and is Belmond's most historic landmark.

In the true spirit of the Centennial, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moe — present owners of the home — have consented to put the house on public display for two one-hour periods. It will be open from 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. next Thursday and again during the same time on Sunday, Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Moe possess the original abstract for the property, which shows its transfer from the Morse brothers to Archibald and Elizabeth Dumond. The house is still sturdy and appears destined to serve as a comfortable home for many more years to come.

Queen of Furrow Winner Selected

Glenda Wilson of Eagle Grove and Beth Robie of Clarion were named winners of the Wright county "Queen of the Furrow" contest conducted last Thursday at Moore hotel, Clarion. They will contend with winners of 10 other district contests next Wednesday at the North Iowa Fair, Mason City.

Miss Wilson is a former county and state 4-H girls president and Miss Robie was county president last year. In the Wright county district contest they were chosen over Sandra Swenson of Belmond, Linda Huntley of Goldfield and Sharon McCormick of Clarion.

Centenarian's Kin Dies at Age 103

Word was received last week by Mrs. Mamie Chase of the death of her sister, Mrs. Ane Kathrine Hansen, the early part of last month at Odense, Denmark. Mrs. Hansen had reached the age of 103 on Feb. 23 of this year.

It will be recalled that Mrs. Chase celebrated her 100th birthday at her home here on Feb. 10. Other survivors of Mrs. Hansen, in addition to her sister, are two brothers — Fred Johnson of Mindon, Neb., age 98; and Lars Johnson of Britt, 91.

No details regarding Mrs. Hansen's death were received, other than that she passed away on a Friday. Date the letter was mailed indicated her death occurred on either the 6th or 13th of July.

LAREDO AIR FORCE BASE, TEX., — Second Lieutenant Curtis C. Mennenga of Belmond, Ia., received the silver wings of an Air Force jet pilot recently at Laredo Air Force Base. His graduation culminated 14 months of intensive pilot training in both propeller driven and jet type aircraft.

LT. CURTIS MENNENGA
BHS Alumnus Now Jet Pilot

Lieutenant Mennenga is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mennenga also of Belmond. The 25-year-old jet pilot graduated in 1955 from the Iowa State college, Ames, where he acquired a B. S. degree in agricultural engineering. At the same time, he also received his commission through the Air Force ROTC program.

While attending college, Lieutenant Mennenga was an active member of the Arnold Air society, the Farm House fraternity, Alpha Zeta fraternity and the American Society of Agricultural Engineering.

Lieutenant Mennenga has been assigned to Moody Air Force Base, Ga., where he will take a course in F89D and F94C type aircraft. Upon completion of this course, he will be permanently stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base in California, with the 78th Fighter Group (Air Defense).

His mother and his sister Marilyn were at Laredo to attend Lieutenant Mennenga's graduation and then accompanied him by auto to Moody AFB.

Vanderlip Again Head of County ASC Committee

Hiram B. Vanderlip of Blaine township was reelected as chairman of the Wright county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee at the annual convention of township ASC delegates held in Clarion last Saturday.

C. C. Woodin of Grant township was elected vice chairman and Martin O. Thompson of Troy township was named third member of the county committee, reversing the positions they held during the past year. Named as first and second alternates were Cleo J. Bisgrove of Lake township and Loran L. Hadley of Iowa township, both new on the committee.

All were elected for one-year terms of office starting Wednsday, Aug. 1. All of the county committeemen are experienced farmers who are familiar with ASC activities.

As committeemen, they will be responsible for the operation on the county level of government farm programs dealing with price supports, cost-sharing conservation and production adjustment, including acreage allotments and the new soil bank. Their official duties will consist principally of policy-making and decision-making functions in the administration of the ASC programs.

Centennial Books Placed on Sale

Mrs. Merle Bonte, head of the Culture Study club committee that prepared and published the Centennial History book, reports that early sales have been good locally and that mail orders are being received in increasing quantities.

These books may be purchased at $1.00 each at Centennial headquarters, located in the library basement. They include 44 pages of historical data regarding the community, its early settlers, organizations and like information and are profusely illustrated.

There is no advertising in the books, but the names of 88 sponsoring individuals and firms who contributed $5.00 each toward the cost of producing them are printed on one page.

Included are congratulatory messages received from President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. Leo Hoegh on the occasion of Belmond's Centennial, reproduced in facsimile.

Although material for the books had to be gathered and prepared for publication in a relatively short period of time, the volume has won generous praise from all individuals who have already had an opportunity to see it, Mrs. Bonte says. She believes it will be regarded as a highly valued memento of Centennial Days and that persons planning to buy copies would do well to make their purchases promptly.

WILL ATTEND SIMPSON

INDIANOLA, (Special) Elna Jenison of Belmond has been accepted for admission to Simpson college this fall, according to Dr. Oliver H. Bimson, vice president and dean of the college. Approximately 175 new students have been accepted as of July 25. This number is approximately 15 per cent more than the figure of a year ago. Elna is a 1956 graduate of Belmond High school.

Dippel Takes Job At Clothing Store

Vernon Dippel began work on Monday of this week as sales clerk at Thompsen and Keleher clothing store. Since his discharge from the Army on April 6 he had previously been mainly engaged in doing carpentry for Ted Meyer.

A 1950 graduate of Belmond High school, Vernon saw 38½ months' Army service. This time included two years of overseas duty in Alaska.

18 Young Entertainers to Seek Share in $100 Prize Cash in Talent Show Week from Friday

One of the finest amateur talent shows ever to be presented in this part of the state has been lined up by the Centennial committee for 2:00 p.m. Friday of next week as a feature of the Centennial celebration. Eighteen acts, all of which have had considerable experience in appearing before the public and many of which have won top prizes in similar shows, will be contending for the $100 in cash prizes.

It was impossible to accept all of the entries submitted. Some of the later ones had to be turned down in fairness to those who got applications in early; and others had to be rejected in order to maintain a good balance in the variety of entertainment. The committee is confident that the end result should be a show well worth witnessing.

Don Bunnell will serve as master-of-ceremonies. He and the committee join in regret that so little in the way of local talent is to appear on the program. Only two Belmond entertainers entered the contest. They are Bill Halfwassen, whose skill on the accordion has been enjoyed at many local gatherings; and six year-old Debbie Frye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnelle, who will do a comedy dance.

Order in which the acts will be presented has not yet been definitely determined, but there is very ample variety among them and it should be no problem to plan a well-rounded show.

Following, in addition to the two Belmond entertainers, are the acts that have been accepted for the contest:

Mary Beth Sartor, Mason City, tap dance; Grant Go-Getters and Grant Growers, 4-H dancing group, schottische; Candy Odom, Bill and Glen Endriss, Sheffield, western trio; Sylvia Ann Downs, age nine, Wesley, singer; Linda Meinicke, Mason City, patriotic tap; Audrey Schulte, Dorothy Barkema and Jeanie Schulte, Alexander, vocal trio.

Howard Jeffrie and Dee Ann Dreier, Hampton, tap dance duo; Bill Nelson, Mason City, accordionist; Marlene Risvold, Clear Lake, vocalist; Harlan Smit, Meservey, western singer; Red Shirt Ramblers, western instrumental group; Leona Moeller, Clear Lake, folk singer; Linda and Mike Elliott, Mason City, tap dance duo.

Alan Wentworth of Thompson and Darrell Nordskog of Leland, vocal-instrumental western duo; Becky Beck, Forest City, singer of popular songs; Ron Klipping, Forest City, tenor soloist.

Winner of the amateur talent contest will receive a prize of $50, and the next three place-winners will receive $25, $15 and $10. The generous size of the prizes was clearly responsible for drawing talent from over a much wider area than does the ordinary talent show.

DEPOSITORY INSTALLED

Installation of a night depository in the west wall of the First State bank was completed the first of this week. It will enable business firms to make deposits after closing hours of the bank.

JUST TOO LATE!

Although there was a big crowd downtown, only two Cash Gift Day prizes were paid out this Tuesday. Another lucky number holder showed up at The Independent at 18 minutes after 2:00 p. m. with her number in her hand; but the rules clearly state that claims must be made within five minutes after the hour. Too bad! Eugene Guth of Meservey took home $25 and Nellie Negrete fell heir to $50. Next Tuesday — four $25's at 2:00 o'clock; four 50's at 3:00 p. m.

778 Wright Soil Bank Pacts Will Bring in Over $440,000

Soil bank acreage reserve agreements had been signed by 778 farm operators by the time last Friday's participation deadline had passed. ASC Office Manager Oscar J. Hanson reported to The Independent this week. These contracts involved 9,477.5 acres of Wright county land and represented ultimate cash to the operators of $440,730.94 if all the agreements prove valid.

Mr. Hanson said that only two farmers put their full allowable maximum acreage into the soil bank reserve, and between them they accounted for a large majority of the total corn acres "deposited." The one operator put 42 acres of corn in reserve — along with 18 acres of clipped oats; the other destroyed 16 acres of corn.

While he couldn't give the exact figure, Mr. Hanson said he expected the total corn acres banked would run less than 100. The rest of the land placed in the soil bank reserve was in clipped oats, unharvested hay, or pasture that had been left ungrazed since June 22.

Whereas in the drouth period when the soil bank provisions were first announced it was thought quite a few damaged acres of Wright county corn might be placed in reserve, this did not come about, Mr. Hanson said. Only two farmers banked small amounts of damaged corn, on which payment will have to be adjusted. One of the parcels was damaged by drouth, the other by hail.

Full payment is made on oats, whether lodged, hail-damaged or otherwise harmed, so no check on crop condition had to be kept in this connection.

VAN GERPENS BACK HOME FOR ONE-YEAR FURLOUGH

Rev. and Mrs. Emory Van Gerpen and children, who have returned to the United States from Kano, Nigeria, in Africa, for a year's furlough from their missionary duties, spent several days recently in the parental John Van Gerpen home. On their departure from here they went to Sibley to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shubert Zylstra, while Mrs. Van Gerpen recuperates from a long illness.

urged to come equipped with blankets, camp stools or whatever else may be privately available to provide comfort during the two-hour program.

Dance, Waltz Contest

In the evening, starting at 8:30 o'clock, a Bowery Dance is to be held at the park tennis courts. Calvin Smith's orchestra from Britt, which plays for both old-time and modern dancing, will provide the music. There will be no admission charge for the dance, but only persons wearing Centennial badges will be admitted to the "floor."

A highlight of the Bowery Dance will be an old-fashioned waltz contest at 10:00 p. m. Any couples may enter who wish to, and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners. It is the committee's hope that contestants will dress in Centennial costume, and to encourage them to do so the prizes will be doubled if the winners are aptly attired. First, second and third prizes will be $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50, respectively; but they will be increased to $15, $10 and $5.00 if the dancers who win them are dressed in Centennial regalia.

The dance will conclude the first day of the celebration. Full details regarding the succeeding days will appear in The Independent next week.

Heykants Report On Visit In East

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Heykants and son Rennie left July 20 aboard the SS. Amsterdam from New York for Holland after an enjoyable tour of the East. A letter to The Independent received Monday of last week told of their travel experiences since leaving Belmond.

Highlights included a visit to Washington, D. C., which included an opportunity to see both the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives in session.

They visited the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va., and were told that mass funerals are conducted every Wednesday, at which time bodies of servicemen returned from Korea are interred.

En route east the Heykants visited Gettysburg National cemetery in Pennsylvania. Their sight-seeing itinerary at Washington included the White House, bureau of printing and engraving, Washington monument and Lincoln memorial.

During four days in New York City they visited the top of the Empire State building, toured Harlem, Chinatown and the Bowery, saw many other places of interest and experienced a ride on the subway.

They were particularly impressed with the express highways that are so common in the east, and expressed the hope that Iowa can someday catch up in this regard. But they added, "None of us would trade any part of our living in Iowa for this city life."

But let each man prove his own work, and then shall he have his glorying in regard of himself alone, and not of his neighbor. — Gal. 6:4.

HOW ABOUT USING STATE ROAD USE TAX MONEY TO MAKE OUR STREETS BETTER?

There is talk of an effort being made in the next session of the state legislature to divert a larger share of income from the state road use tax to cities for street funds, by reducing the share now received by the counties for secondary road construction. It cannot be denied that the urban motorist has long contributed money in road use tax far out of proportion to that handed back for financing street improvement. But how the city folks will come out in convincing the farm bloc that a change in distribution formula should be effected remains to be seen.

By and large, the counties have not made too efficient use of the money they've received in road use tax funds. Too many, like Wright, have poured exhorbitant amounts down the "maintenance" rat hole, at the expense of permanent construction. On the other hand, the example provided by Belmond leaves it an open question as to whether the cities and towns, in general, would make any better use of the money than the counties have.

It strikes us that the funds we receive locally from state road use tax could very appropriately be employed to give Belmond a start on a long-range street program. Instead, we're actually surpassing the county example by using them up EXCLUSIVELY on street maintenance.

We were unhappy to see even less money budgeted for our streets during 1957 than for the past year. Belmond's municipal budget is, year after year, an exceedingly modest one for a town that is growing as we have been. We can't help but feel that a mapority of the taxpayers might very willingly see some money budgeted for permanent street improvement.

On the other hand, precedent suggests that if we were to receive a larger share of the state road use tax fund for street use, the money more likely than not would be utilized simply to reduce locally-financed cost of street maintenance.

It's our private thinking that diversion of more road use tax money to towns and cities could be best defended if communities like ours could point to permanent improvements achieved through use of the money we're getting NOW.

PREVENTABLE ACCIDENTS MAKE FARMING OUR MOST HAZARDOUS MAJOR INDUSTRY

On the theory that late is better than never, we'd like to make up for our editorial disregard of Farm Safety Week, which extended from July 22-29, and still put in our two-bits' worth.

It's been noted by Norval Wardle, extension safety specialist at Iowa State college, that the number of farm workers killed by accident last year gave farming a higher accident fatality rate than ANY OTHER MAJOR INDUSTRY! That is indeed a sad commentary on the alertness and good sense of farmers as a class. Of course, the vast majority of farmers ARE keenly aware of the hazards of their occupation and govern themselves accordingly. But there are still far too many who persist in trying to "save" a few seconds or minutes at the risk of maiming injuries or death.

This carelessness very apparently carries over into their off-work hours, for 40 per cent of all accidental deaths involving farm people result from motor vehicle accidents.

Last year, about 14,000 farm residents in the United States lost their lives in accidents. Another 1,200,000 were injured seriously. Besides the pain and grief these mishaps produced, the National Safety Council estimates they cost an economic loss that averaged about $275 per farm family.

It goes without saying that an overwhelmingly large share of these farm accidents are completely preventable, which makes their toll all the more tragic. Falls, alone, kill 2,000 to 2,200 farm people yearly — falls from hayracks, haystacks, scaffolds and in barns and other outbuildings. Even in farm homes, slipping, tripping and tumbles down stairs add materially to the casualty list.

Perusal of The Independent's files would reveal, we suspect, that machinery accidents regularly claim the largest number of farm victims in this particular vicinity. Many an empty sleeve and stump-fingered hand speak for a few moments saved — at a terrible price. On the positive side, our area seems to fare better than many in regard to tractor mishaps. We can't recall a fatal tractor accident in this immediate vicinity in some years' time, though our columns have reported a few major injuries from tractor operation.

Obviously, the farmer himself is the only person who can reduce the dreadful toll of farm accidents. It will take 52 Farm Safety Weeks per year to really do the job.

VOL. 36 NO. 44 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1956 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Just a year ago, this vicinity was being parboiled by the hottest stretch of weather in nearly 20 years' time. For seven consecutive days the mercury spurted above 100, with a top of 110 being reached. Seems the weatherman often is bothered by sticky controls about this time of year.

We don't go much for 100-plus temperatures. On the other hand, the rain that's been prevailing of late doesn't exactly make for what you might call "Centennial weather."

One thing the Belmond Centennial committee put off until the very last thing was a decision on alternate location of events programmed for the park, in case of rain. It's the sort of thing you just don't like to think about.

Waverly, which is also celebrating its Centennial this week, had all of its elaborate street decorations shredded by a limmycane as the festivities were about to get underway . . . to say nothing of having trees down all over the place! The committee here is hoping for better luck than THAT.

Iowa Development Commission relates that in 1955 the "effective buying income per capita" (whatever that might exactly mean) in Iowa was $1,591, which was $107 per person more than the previous year. Thirty counties in the state have a higher "ebipc" than the national average; and although the release didn't say so, we'd be willing to gamble that Wright's one of 'em.

It's noteworthy that the Hawkeye state ranked above Texas and Oklahoma, notwithstanding their oil millionaires. Some of those Oklahomans and Texans must not be doing so hot, to pull down the average in such a manner.

As we say, we don't know just what they're getting at with that "effective buying income." We know a buck isn't very doggone effective these days. Another thing that bothers Mainstreeter No. 3 a mite is the fact that he's got six "capita's" in his household—which should have given him over $9,500 "effective buying" dollars last year. SOME stinker got a chunk of Ye Ed's share!

Those "Morris Lake" signs pointing the way to Morse lake are as unsettling as a fingernail scraped on a blackboard. We hope it isn't one of those mistakes that will prevail as long as the signs are up. We're for either seeing the signs torn down or the error corrected. Somebody REALLY goofed!

Those happy "halleluiah's" you might have heard emanating from the east part of town Sunday were inspired by departure of the cement plant from the west edge of Kirkendall Addition. If ever a blight was thoughtlessly inflicted on a bunch of innocent citizens, it was when the city fathers permitted that highway-widening contractor to set up shop right in the middle of a residential area! Floor, window and furniture fabrics in many a home have been so thoroughly infused with cement dust that they'll NEVER be the same.

And you don't scour it off of woodwork like you can plain dust. Mix water with cement dust and what have you got? Cement; that's what!

The peace and quiet that descended upon the area after the cement mill was disassembled and carted away was a golden silence, indeed. To make the happiness of the neighborhood quite complete is the added assurance that the stockyards will soon follow the cement plant. No more loading of porkers at 1:00 a. m. No more germ-laden flies from manure piles to share meals with; no more pig aroma to make hot nights the more unbearable! Is it any wonder those "easterners" are hepped up over zoning and planning? They feel like they're just about to be annexed as part of the city of Belmond — for the first time!

FFA Boys Enjoy Tour of Projects

Annual project tour of Belmond High school chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held Wednesday of last week, with 27 boys taking part.

All members of the tour brought a sack lunch and, after starting their trek at 8:00 a. m., the boys enjoyed their noon meal at the city park. The tour ended about 2:30 p. m. and the group finished off the day with a swim at the Clarion pool.

Taking the tour, which was directed by Adviser Francis Kelly, were the following: Larry Schimp, Steve McLaughlin, Russell Ver [illegible], Ronnie and Dennis Vanness, [illegible], Larry McLaughlin, Paul [illegible], Loren Payne, Merrill [illegible], Harold Thompson, Gerald Thompson, Ron Thompson, Russell [illegible].

$75 Skimmed Off

Two number-holders skimmed off some money to celebrate the Centennial with, but six of the Cash Gift Day prizes went unclaimed Tuesday afternoon. On hand with the right combinations of the right digits were Helen Busick and Bill Kaduce, who were rewarded to the extent of $25 and $50 respectively. The CGD committee is putting an additional $75 on the line next week to bring the prize list up to the same as this week's — four $25's at [illegible] p. m. and four $50's at

Sports, Contests And Talent Show Friday Features

Two extremely full days of entertainment are scheduled tomorrow and Saturday for the crowd participating in Belmond's Centennial celebration, before activities taper off on Sunday with a second performance of the Centennial Rodeo and holding of reunions by high school classes and various organizations. Belmond's "biggest time ever" seems in certain prospect, if the weatherman gives proper cooperation.

First-day events were yet to take place when The Independent went to press for this week, so no report can be made on those activities. However, the various Centennial committees had everything in readiness for launching of the celebration and is was anticipated that a day of fair weather would see the four-day fun fest gotten off to a good start.

Contest-Sports Program

Tomorrow's program will open in the morning with a concert by the Meservey High school band, under direction of Alice Ruiter. This will be held on the park bandstand at 10:00 o'clock and will be followed at 10:30 by a hour and a half of contests and sports under the direction of the Lions club. More than $150 in prizes will be paid to winners of the various events.

On the sports program, prizes will be awarded as follows: wheelbarrow race (girl and a boy) and hop-and-skip race (two-man), 1st $8, 2nd $5, 3rd $3; sack race, 1st $5, 2nd $3, 3rd $2, slipper kick and rolling pin throw (married women, only), 1st $5, 2nd $3, 3rd $2.

Hog-Callers, Note

Watermelon-eating contest (10 years old and younger), 1st $3, 2nd $2, 3rd $1; hog-calling contest, 1st $7.50 and new pair of work shoes, 2nd $5, 3rd $2.50; tug-of-war (Belmond Jaycees vs. farmers' team), $25 to winning team plus pair of new socks to each individual member.

Men's sprint and women's sprint (no age limit) each, 1st $5, 2nd $3, 3rd $2; boys sprints (two age divisions, 12-14 and 9-11) each, 1st $3, 2nd $2, 3rd $1; girls sprints (12-14 and 9-11) each, 1st $3, 2nd $2, 3rd $1. Contests will be held in the park; races on First avenue, just west of the park.

Outstanding Amateur Show

What will unquestionably prove the most outstanding amateur talent contest ever held in Belmond will get under way at the park bandstand at 2:00 p.m., following a half hour concert by Alexander High school's band led by Sonia Wilson.

Eighteen contestants drawn from over a wide area of north Iowa will compete for the $100 worth of cash prizes that will go to the four, top place winners. The Centennial committee believes the audience will find this an unusual entertainment treat and looks for a large crowd to witness the show.

Belmond's many charming Sisters of the Swish will pass in review on the bandstand beginning at 4:00 p.m. and vie for cash prizes amounting to $70.

Judging of Dresses, Beards

A good many women have unearthed authentic, old-time dresses and accessories to wear for the contest, and others have made garments in early-day style. There will be prize categories for both.

Specifically, prize divisions will be: (1) oldest woman in costume; (2) best mother-and-child set of costumes; (3) best boy's costume; (4) best girl's costume; (5) best authentic costume; (6) best replica of old-time costume; (7) oldest costume.

Beards will be judged at 5:00 p. m. Clark McNeal will serve as master-of-ceremonies for judging of both the Sisters of the Swish and Brothers of the Brush. Belmond's bewhiskered brotherhood will contend for $70 in cash, with $17.50 going to the sweepstakes winner and $7.50 to the winners in seven individual categories.

These prizes will go to: (1) oldest person growing beard; (2) youngest person growing beard; (3) longest beard; (4) wierdest beard; (5) fullest beard; (6) best goatee with mustache (Kentucky colonel style); (7) best Abe Lincoln-type beard. Special recognition to the possessor of the poorest excuse for a beard is also said to be contemplated.

Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. the Centennial pageant, "Journey into Yesterday," will have its first showing at the high school athletic field. Directed and produced by Rowe Million of Hal Garven Productions, Minneapolis, this attraction promises to be unique in the annals of local entertainment. It will touch in dramatic fashion on many highlights in Belmond's history and depict a number of the pioneer leaders who played key roles in founding this community.

Tickets $1.00 in Advance

The pageant has as a distinctive feature a choral reading group that will introduce a number of the episodes with poetry written by Mrs. Ella Luick, Maude Rankins Leonard and the late Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans. Adult tickets for the pageant may be purchased for $1.00 in advance, but will be $1.25 at the gate. Children's tickets (under age 14) are being sold at the gate only, at 50 cents each.

On Saturday morning, starting as nearly as possible at 9:30 o'clock the Centennial parade will pass down Third street NE from Sixth avenue to 1st avenue, cross to Main street and proceed east back to Sixth avenue. Although Parade Chairman Dwight Tyrrell was disappointed in the late withdrawal of entries by quite a few business firms, he still expects the parade to be the longest and most interesting that Belmond has ever seen.

$315 in Parade Prizes

Prizes amounting to $315 will be awarded to winning entries in two classes — commercial and organizations. It was urged by the committee that the Centennial theme be stressed in planning the parade entries and the majority of them are expected to dramatize in some fashion the progress that has been made since the days of Belmond's early beginnings. Many vehicles of earlier times will be driven in the parade; and more fine horseflesh will be on display than Main street has seen since the auto attained popularity.

"The Song of Belmond"

Following is the poem, written by the late Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans, which was set to music by Mrs. R. W. Courson and serves as theme of the Centennial Pageant, "Journey into "Yesterday." It is sung by Lowell Trafford and Clark McNeal.

Should you ask me, whence these stories,
Whence these legends and traditions,
I should answer, I should tell you.
T'was the end of icy winter,
T'was the rushing of the springtime,
When they crossed the Esconawabaw,
Crossed the mighty Mississippi,.
Tramped and trapped, still going westward;
Found a river running southward.
Through the evening twilight
Went they ever southward,
Till they came to where the waters
Of the Iowa met to mingle
With this river.
Then they left the flowing southward,
Followed back the lovely river,
Fished and hunted, coming slowly
To a woodland.
Here they camped and smoking campfires
Sent a beckon to a stranger,
Found upon the Iowa river
The welcome shelters of Franklin Grove.

Barbecue Saturday Noon

Miss Iowa of 1956, Martha Barsness of Decorah, will be given a place of honor in the line-up through arrangements made by the Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Austin (Minn.) Clown club, some 15 or 20 strong, will provide fun and frolic for the occasion. And, of course, the Belmond Centennial Queen — crowned the previous night — with her two Princesses and retinue will ride the route in royal style.

At 11:30 a.m., succulent barbecued beef sandwiches — accompanied by baked beans and potato chips — will be served at the city park by the Jaycees at the break-even cost of 25 cents per plate. Meat for the sandwiches will come out of a pit where it will have been simmering since 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon. Hickory wood will be started burning in the pit at 5:00 a.m. tomorrow.

Two specialists from Norway, Ia., long experienced in conducting public barbecues of gigantic proportions, have been engaged to supervise the Centennial Barbecue. They are "Pinky" Primrose and Henry Montague. "Swede" Smith heads the Jaycee committee that will assist the experts and feed the expected throng. While preparations are being made to serve 4,000 plates, the Centennial committee suspects it will be wise to get an early place in the barbecue line.

Whisker Shaving Contest

While the barbecue is being served, Remington Rand, Inc., at 12:30 p.m. will conduct a whisker-shaving contest on the bandstand. Owners of eight of the most lush beards entered in the previous day's whisker judging will battle it out with electric shavers to see which can hack through the underbrush and come out with clean jowls in the shortest time. Four Official Centennial Shavers will be awarded as prizes, each worth $29.50.

At 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, the first performance of the Centennial Rodeo will be held at the high school athletic field. Marvin "Slick" Pals has been in charge of arrangements and reports that the sharpest sort of competition is in prospect among the classy bronce busters, calf ropers and Brahma steer riders who have assured him of their presence.

Roping, Riding Exhibitions

There will be both bareback and saddle bronc bustin' and two sections of Brahma steer riding. "Slick" says that some of the "West's" best calf-ropers have submitted entries and will vie for the day's biggest prize money. There will be a trick roping exhibition by the Saddlement Twins, well known throughout this part of the midwest for their skill; and trick and Roman riding by Maynard Thornbury, another widely recognized expert.

A special exhibition of precision riding will be given by Algona's 24-horse flag drill team, which is reportedly beautiful to watch. There will also be a girls' cloverleaf race, in which local talent will take part. The same show will be put on Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock as the final entertainment on the Centennial program. Adult tickets (age 14 and over) for the rodeo will be $1.00 and children's 50 cents.

Dance Saturday Night

While the second performance of the Centennial Pageant is under way at the athletic field Saturday night, the Centennial Dance will start at 9:00 o'clock at Veterans' Memorial hall. The popular Country Clubbers orchestra from Mason City will provide the music.

Sunday will find the pace slacking off, with reunions and renewing of old acquaintances the order of the day. Belmond High school's Alumni association will meet at the school gymnasium at 1:00 p. m. and individual class get-togethers will follow at the close of the general meeting. Other organization open houses and reunions are planned for Sunday or earlier in the weekend. Details regarding them can be learned at Centennial Headquarters.

- - - - CENTENNIAL NOTES - - - -

Figuring that the better they are prepared for inclement weather during the Centennial celebration, the more likely it is the sun will shine, the Centennial committee has arranged "rain locations" for all outdoor events that could possibly be held inside.

They are as follows:

This (Thursday) afternoon's Belmond High school band concert and musical pageant by the Wright County Women's Chorus, 2:00 p. m.; preceded by formal opening ceremony at 1:50 p. m. — high school auditorium.

Tonight (Thursday), Bowery Dance at 8:30 p. m. — Veterans' Memorial hall.

Friday, 10:00 a. m., games and contests — this feature will have to be cancelled, should rain interfere.

Friday afternoon, amateur show 2:00 o'clock, judging of Sisters of the Swish at 4:00, judging of Brothers of the Brush at 5:00 — high school gymnasium.

If Jupiter Pluvius keeps his rain bucket steady, all of these events will be conducted in the city park as scheduled.

Arrangements have been made to give a performance of the Centennial pageant on Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock, IF either the Friday or Saturday night performances should have to be cancelled due to rain.

That about covers the wet weather alternatives.

1856-1956

Arrangements have been made for public rest room facilities to be available to the Centennial crowd at five locations for the balance of the week. Supplies and custodial care are being supplied by the Centennial committee. These rest rooms are at: the city hall, city library, Mennenga's Sinclair Service, Lloyd's Standard Service and Joe's Skelly Service.

1856-1956

Entrants in Friday afternoon's Centennial Amateur Talent Show should be well satisfied with the competence of the judges that have been obtained. The winners will be picked by: Bob Clausen, radio program director for KGLO, Mason City; Rowe Million, director-producer of the Centennial pageant; Earl Dunn, Minneapolis, promotional director for Hal Garven Productions and an experienced radio and television entertainer in his own right; and Don Kruetzian, electrician for Hal Garven Productions, who has been connected with show business for a good many years.

Belmond Community hospital is planning open house for the benefit of Centennial visitors on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, 1:30 to 4:00 o'clock.. Tours of the building will be conducted, starting at the alley door at the northwest corner.

1856-1956

There's a bit of added entertainment on this afternoon's program at the park that doesn't appear on the celebration program, as earlier publicized. Seven accordion pupils of Mrs. Dean Fitz, Rowan, will give the listeners a treat with a number or two on their squeezeboxes. And they really make the music pour out! All the boys are between eight and 10 years of age, but they perform like a bunch of "pros." They are Steven and Donald Hinman, Keith Sheller, Douglas Pals, Dallas Hopkey, Dwight Morris and Paul Green. You should hear 'em beat out "Du, Du, Liegst Mir Im Herzen"!

1856-1956

There'll be no arguments over judging of the beard contest. Not with one of the judges, anyway. With Lois Hammond, perhaps; with Earl Sheller, possibly. But when Sheriff Bob Blecker says, "Here's how they rate" — that ought to stick!

1856-1956

For the benefit of homecomers back for the Centennial and other guests, church services will be held this Sunday at the following hours: Methodist and Congregational, joint services 8:00 and 10:00 a. m., Methodist church.

Bethany Reformed, 10:45 a. m.; Fundamental Baptist, 10:30 a. m.; Immanuel Reformed, 10:30 a. m.; St. Francis Catholic, 9:00 a. m.; St. John Lutheran (ALC), 10:00 a. m.; St. Olaf Lutheran (ELC), 9:30 a. m.; Trinity Lutheran, (ELC), 8:00 a. m.

Anticipating that business at the courthouse was bound to be mighty slim anyway, the county board of supervisors on Tuesday declared that all county offices will remain closed Saturday morning so the officers and their aides can join the mass movement to Belmond for the Centennial celebration. The offices usually close at noon, Saturday.

Ah, yes. That QUEEN contest! The candidates have been decidedly secretive during the final stages and little more light can be shed on the standings than was revealed last week. Sandra Swenson in 1st place, Betty Dempsey in 2nd and Corrine Davenport still holding down 3rd place.

But these placings can be subject to considerable scrambling during the two days remaining, and identity of the Queen and two Princesses will be a genuine mystery until the coronation ceremonies in conjunction with the pageant tomorrow night. Final reports of all candidates must be in by 6:00 p. m. Friday; and not until then will even the Queen committee know what the score is.

It's anticipated that Centennial badge sales will suddenly shoot up again as guests arrive to enjoy the celebration — and those sales can tell several tales. So don't forget that the coronation tomorrow night will comprise a very, very special added attraction during the pageant performance.

1856-1956

Director Rowe Million reports that if the Centennial Pageant isn't presented before a couple of SRO (standing room only) crowds, it won't be the fault of Francis Morris. Mr. Morris is a member of the Trinity Lutheran congregation and clearly believes that ticket sales represent a good way for his church to pick up a bit of money. By Tuesday noon he had sold 76 tickets — and was in at Centennial Headquarters to pick up some more!

Although little mention of it has been made, due to the profusion of home-talent entertainment that will be provided during the Centennial celebration, an added attraction

GUEST OF HONOR at the Belmond Centennial on Friday evening and Saturday will be Martha Barsness of Decorah, who last week was crowned Miss Iowa of 1955 at the annual state beauty contest conducted at Clear Lake. Miss Barsness will appear in the parade Saturday morning under sponsorship of the Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce. A talented coloratura soprano, she is the tiniest beauty ever to win top honors in the state. She is only four feet, 11 inches in height.

Scouts Clean Up Debris at Lake

Boy Scouts of Belmond Troop 16 put in a work session Monday afternoon at Morse lake, cleaning up litter an debris. A pick-up truck, furnished by Clarence Hoppel, was well filled with cans and bottles gathered from the east and south shores. Don Hoppel was the volunteer driver.

Upon completion of their labors, the Scouts enjoyed a swim and then ate a picnic supper at the lake. Scoutmaster William Schorman says there will be no more meetings of the troop for two weeks. The next meeting is scheduled for the first day of school, Aug. 27.

Clarion Pool Site Of Narrow Escape

Jeff Hansen, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hansen, had an uncomfortably narrow escape from death by drowning Tuesday afternoon at the Clarion swimming pool. Quick work on the part of a couple of his buddies and Life Guard Bob Sharp averted the near tragedy.

With Johnny Murray, Jeff had been practicing swimming under water and had made a complete crossing of the pool and gotten half way back when he became unconscious from the exertion and pressure.

Momentarily, the boy rose to the surface, then sank to the bottom of the pool. Mike Gowdy noticed Jeff's submerged body and called his companion's plight to the attention of Johnny Murray. The latter dove to the bottom and brought his friend to the surface.

Sharp immediately went to Murray's assistance and got young Hansen out of the pool. Life Guard Glenn Sizemore applied artificial respiration and soon brought the youth around. Jeff was taken to Belmond Community hospital for observation overnight, but was sufficiently recovered from the mishap to be released Wednesday morning.

He was left unharmed by the experience, except for some sore spots that resulted from the application of artificial respiration while he was lying on the concrete at the side of the pool

Driver's License Examiner Coming

Tomorrow the highway patrolman with the famous radio name, Mel Allen of Hampton, and his examining staff will be at the city hall to renew driver's licenses and give examinations for new ones

When they set up shop here for the first time on July 13, a total of 144 drivers availed themselves of the newly-offered, local service.

Their schedule calls for appearances in Belmond the second Friday in each month. That will bring them back here again on Sept. 11 — too late to be of any help to those with renewal birthdays falling before that date. The examiner's hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

CHICKEN SUPPER

Dorcas Society of Immanuel Reformed church will serve a chicken supper next Wednesday at 6:00 p. m. at the church basement. The price for adults is $1.25, for children 12 years old and under 50 cents.

Robert Rodemeyer Gets T-Man's Job

Robert D. Rodemeyer, son of Mrs. Lester Buseman, on Monday of this week assumed duties as criminal investigator in the alchohol and tobacco tax unit of the U. S. Treasury department. His first assignment as a "T-Man" takes him to Detroit, Mich., which Bob describes as "the worst spot in the U. S. for violators" of alchohol and tobacco tax provisions.

Mr. Rodemeyer was graduated from Michigan State college in June with a Bachelor of Science degree in police administration. He helped to work his way through college by serving on the staff of the Michigan State Vocational School for Boys at East Lansing, Mich. He was employed by the school for three years.

His assignment to Detroit will place him in familiar territory as he underwent field training there as part of his course requirements during his final semester in college.

He had a good opportunity to learn first-hand how "tough" a law officer's job is in Detroit. He was attached to the city police department's homicide bureau for his training and reported afterward to his mother that murders in the Michigan metropolis averaged no less than one a day.

Music Symposium Includes Original Work by Hanson

An original composition by Daryl Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hanson, was among 26 included Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in two concerts presented by the chamber orchestra of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. All of the selections were composed by students taking composition at the Eastman school.

The work of Mr. Hanson, "Short Piece for Flute and Strings," won praise from Conductor Frederick Fennell as one of the finest offered in conjunction with Eastman's Third Annual Summer Symposium of Orchestral Music.

This fall Mr. Hanson is joining the music staff of Geneseo State Teachers college at Geneseo, N. Y., which is a branch of New York university. A former Clarion High school music teacher, he was on the faculty of Upper Iowa university, Fayette, last year.

BETTY CLARE HENDERSON RECEIVES DEGREE AT SUI

Among the 495 graduates of the State University of Iowa who received degrees at the summer commencement exercises held Wednesday evening at the university fieldhouse was Betty Clare Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Henderson.

Miss Henderson's parents and grandmother, Mrs. Molly Barry, were present to see her receive her diploma. Betty Clare has accepted a position as instructor in speech at Forest City for the coming school year.

SUBSTITUTING for an earlier entry, Janet Jo Biddle of Rowan will be one of the contestants in the Centennial Amateur Talent Show tomorrow afternoon at the park. Though she won't be 13 until January, she has been dancing for nearly eight years and has done quite a bit of teaching in recent years. However, she is eligible as a competitor since she doesn't make a livelihood as a professional teacher. Incidentally, Janet Jo is a semi-finalist in KRNT-TV's Teen-Time Talent Show and will make an appearance over the Des Moines television station this Sunday afternoon, seeking to advance to the finals. She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Biddle.

2 More Teachers Added to Faculty Of Local Schools

Two more teachers have been added to the Belmond school staff, leaving only one spot possibly vacant as the start of school approaches. Supt. Don Faris says that the status of the junior high principalship is still uncertain, as the man whom the board of education thought had been definitely hired for the job has lately indicated he may not obtain release from the school which he served last year.

Contracts have been signed by Mrs. John Duncan, wife of the new band director, and Paul E. Hickman of Ashton. Mrs. Duncan will teach high school English and Spanish. Mr. Hickman will teach social studies in the junior high school and also act as junior high coach.

Mrs. Duncan, who is a native of Tipton, taught in a Davenport junior high school for five years and comes highly recommended by Supt. Harold J. Williams, who once held a similar position at Belmond. While her husband was in military service and stationed at San Antonio, Tex., Mrs. Duncan taught for a year and a half in a junior high school there. She is a graduate of the University of Iowa and has completed much of the work required for a Master's degree in education. She has been continuing her graduate work at Iowa this summer, as has her husband.

Mr. Hickman is a alumnus of Morningside college, Sioux City, and also took part of his college work at Northwestern Schools, Minneapolis. He saw about three years of military service during World War II and was recalled to active duty as a reserve for about another year's service during the Korean war.

Following his graduation from Morningside in 1952, he was employed for three years by J. C. Penney company. During the past year he was teacher of social studies in junior high school and also junior high coach at Madrid. He takes the place of Dick Evenson, who asked to be released from his contract here to accept a teaching position in Minnesota. Mr. Hickman is married and has two children.

'10 on No. 8 Hole Smashes Gordon's Hopes at Spencer

Proving that it happens even to the experts, Fred Gordon scored a nightmarish 10 on the 8th hole during his first 18 holes of qualifying in the Northwest Amateur Golf tournament at Spencer last Saturday. That, alone, sufficed to make him miss the championship flight by one stroke as qualifying play continued on Sunday.

Fred posted an unseemly 83 for his first two tours of the tough nine-hole layout. He rallied nobly on Sunday with a four-under-par 68, being one of only five golfers in a field of some 250 to beat 70, but it took a 150 to make the title bracket.

Belmond's links ace nevertheless did not return home without having received some recognition. The Spencer Country club presented to 15 golfers and golf enthusiasts gold cards symbolizing life memberships in the club. As a former Northwest title-winner, Fred was one in the group so honored at a banquet held Sunday evening.

"North" Peewees In 17-9 Victory

A good-sized crowd watched the peewee ball players wind up their summer recreation season last Friday with a North-South game that saw the North boys win by a 17-9 score. A 12-run third inning put the winners on top to stay.

Wednesday of last week on the local diamond, the Belmond peewees and midgets were handed another pair of losses by Webster City. The peewees dropped a 13-9 decision and the midgets were beaten 7 to 2. Jenison and Gallagher formed the peewees' battery. Ginap and Lerdal the midgets'.

Weak hitting hampered both the Belmond teams. Mark Mason and Bob Lerdal were standouts for the local midgets.

Bowl-Mor Under New Management

Cecil Winbigler, one of Wright county's top bowlers, has leased Bowl-Mor Lanes from Mayor Henry Hokel and will personally manage the alleys during the coming season. Mr. Winbigler comes from Eagle Grove, where for the past six years he has been in the jewelry business.

He moved with his family to Belmond a week ago last Friday. They are making their home at 703 Seventh street NE. The Winbiglers have two sons; Terry will be 10 years old Sunday and Randy is five.

Mr. Winbigler says he plans to open Bowl-Mor Lanes for the season on Monday. Aug. 27. Regular league play will start the first week in September, but with Labor Day an open date.

Bronco Grid Schedule Lists 9 Games

Nine foes are listed on the Belmond Broncos' 1956 football card, released this week by Supt. Don Faris. That provides for one more game than was played last fall, and the schedule includes two new gridiron rivals.

Absent from the list of opponents is Hampton, which has met Belmond in the Broncs' opening game for some seasons past. A shift in North Central conference scheduling for this fall made it necessary to drop the Bulldogs.

New on the card are St. Edmund's, the recently established, Fort Dodge parochial school; and Livermore, a rival of some years ago who Belmond hasn't met in a good many seasons. Coach of the Livermore Community school — which is a product of the recent consolidation of the Livermore, Bode and Ottosen districts — is George Tideback, BHS gridiron star of the middle 'forties.

Clarion remains on the Bronco schedule, along with Belmond's six North Iowa conference adversaries. Belmond will play its NIC rivals in the same order as in recent years, except that Garner is carded for the opening game on the slate instead of the final one.

Although without as many returning lettermen as have graced Bronco squads for the past several seasons, Coaches Dick Hobbs and Jack Steinberg expect to receive a great deal of help from "graduates" of last autumn's strong frosh-soph aggregation. Among the junior contenders for varsity positions is to be found a good deal of speed, some pretty fair size and a habit of winning (the Junior Broncs had a 4-0 mark last fall).

All of the lettermen are seniors with the exception of Tom McNulty, a junior. The other B-men are: Gary Ersland and Bill Murray, who have each lettered three times in football; Jerry Chandler, twice a letter winner; Merrill Jenison, Roland Jenison, Larry Kinseth, Steve McLaughlin and Larry Steenblock.

Sept. 14—Garner, here.
Sept. 21 — Britt, there.
Sept. 28 — Northwood, here.
Oct. 5 — Buffalo Center, there.
Oct. 12 — Lake Mills, there.
Oct. 19 — Forest City, here (Homecoming).
Oct. 26 — St. Edmund's, Fort Dodge, here.
Oct. 31 — Livermore, here.
Nov. 7 — Clarion, there.

Promotion Makes Roger Pals Head Basketball Coach

Roger Pals, who was a member of the BHS basketball team that won the North Iowa conference title in 1945, last week was named varsity basketball coach at Manchester High school. Manchester is a community just slightly smaller than Eagle Grove. Roger has been on the faculty at Manchester since 1952-53.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pals, Roger was a star Bronco athlete, competing in football and baseball as well as basketball. He attended Iowa State Teachers college, graduating in 1951 after Navy service caused a two-year interruption in his studies. The following year he was assistant coach in football, basketball and baseball at Fayette.

At Manchester he was originally hired as junior high coach in football, basketball and track. Two years ago he was advanced to freshman-sophomore coach in football, continuing his junior high assignment in the other two sports.

His cage team was Delaware county runner-up in basketball in 1952-53 and won the unior high championship in 1953-54. His 1952 football team had a perfect, 5-0 record.

Roger has been active in community affairs at Manchester. He is chairman of the Manchester Country club golf committee this summer and for several summers headed the City Softball league. He belongs to the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Lions club and also is a member of the Congregational church. He is married and has one child, a 5½-month-old son.

IOWANS ACQUIRED $449 MILLION IN LIFE INSURANCE DURING 1955

Iowa families owned 2,840,00 life insurance policies providing $5,119,000,000 of protection at the start of this year, a new high record, the Institue of Life Insurance reports.

This compares with $4,670,000,000 owned in this state a year before and $2,249,000,000 at the start of 1946. The 10-year rise in this state was 128 per cent.

"The years since the end of World War II have seen more life insurance added to their personal programs by American families than had been built up in all the previous century of the life insurance business," Holgar J. Johnson, Institute president, commented.

Of the total life insurance owned Jan. 1 in Iowa $3,902,000,000 was in 1,584,000 ordinary life insurance policies. Purchases of new insurance of this type in this state amounted to $471,257,000 in 1955, exclusive of credit life insurance.

An additional $225,000,000 of life insurance protection was owned at the start of the year in this state in 659,000 industrial policies, the type generally bought in units of a few hundred dollars. Another $811,000,000 was in group life insurance under 319,00 individual certificates.

In addition, there was $181,000,000 of credit life insurance, under 278,000 individual policies and certificates in this state.

For the nation as a whole, life insurance ownership was at a record $372,332,000,000 on Jan. 1, under an aggregate of 251,089,000 policies, an average of more than four policies per family. The aggregate owned was $38,613,000,000 more than a year before and nearly 2½ times the amount owned at the start of 1946. This brought per family ownership for the U. S. to $6,900, compared with $5,800 in this state.

Delaware led the nation in family ownership of life insurance at the start of the year, with a figure of $9,800 per family. Next in order were Connecticut, with $9,700 per family and New Jersey, with $9,300 per family. New York was fourth among the states, with $8,500 per family.

Earnings of GMI Hit All-Time High During Past Year

MINNEAPOLIS (Special) — General Mills reported this week that for the year ending May 31 the company reached the highest earnings and highest dollar sales volume in its history. Net earnings of $14,057,000 represented an increase of $1,674,000 over last year.

Taxes paid to local, state and national governments totaled $20,476,000, amounting to $9.00 per share of common stock compared to earnings per share of $5.68 this past year and $5.02 the year before. (GMI's facilities at Belmond will pay $18,270.70 in local taxes for the current year.)

Harry A. Bullis, chairman of the board, and President Charles H. Bell credited the improved earnings to two principal factors: 1. increased capital investments in previous years for new and modernized facilities (Belmond's new formula feed mill and improved equipment in the Belmond soybean processing plant being examples); and 2. the fine performance of the company organization in face of difficult problems.

Among the factors influencing General Mills' fine record for the year recently concluded were growing sales and a strengthening of programs and competitive position of the company's formula feeds and soybean products.

States the annual report, "Formula feed deliveries were greater than the previous year and impressive gains were made in feeding formula. The widespread acceptance of the General Mills farm program is further evidence of the value of research in animal feeding."

The report added, "General Mill's Soybean Division became the first processor west of the Mississippi river to produce 50 per cent protein dehulled soybean oil meal. High energy poultry rations are now formulated with this type product."

4-H Boys Launch Judging Workouts

On the strength of these try-outs, a judging squad of five or six boys will be named as members of the county team. The HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

There may be a false impression current that a highway patrolman's rating with his superiors is based entirely on the number of contacts the patrolman makes with the public.

As a matter of fact, the patrol has a standard rating sheet containing 14 items for the evaluation of each officer. Supervisory officers complete a form on each patrolman twice a year. Here are the areas of evaluation:

Knowledge of work — does the patrolman know his job?

Carrying out orders — is he dependable?

Enforcement effort — weak, satisfactory or good.

On the job — does he loaf or is he a conscientious worker?

Contact with radio — is he in his car to receive radio calls?

Personal appearance — careless or neat.

Courtesy — is he discourteous or always courteous?

Deportment in public places — is he a loud show-off or does he [illegible] a good impression?

Ability to take constructive criticism — does he resent it or does he want to improve?

Loyalty — does he knock the organization and other officers or is he proud of the patrol and loyal to members?

Public speaking — does he prepare for speeches and do his best to get across a safety message when called on?

Operation of patrol car — is he sometimes careless or always careful?

Promptness with reports and cost per mile or operation of his patrol car complete each patrolman's rating. Enforcement is only one out of 14 items used in evaluating a patrolman's worth to the taxpayer.

Sudangrass Doing Damage by Poison; ISC Seeking Why

An increasing number of farm operators have been turning to sudangrass for emergency forage during the current and past dry seasons; and periodic instances of sudangrass poisoning have resulted, according to Extension Director Aaron Bowman.

Harvey Thompson, Iowa State college extension agronomist, is compiling information on these poisonings in an effort to discover under just what conditions they occur.

He and Mr. Bowman say that Wright county farmers who have been the unhappy victims of sudangrass poisonings can perhaps help avoid their repetition by making details known to Mr. Thompson and his fellow specialists at ISC.

It is known that prussic acid is the poisoning agent, but just how and why it occurs is not clearly known. Farmers who have had stock poisoned by sudangrass are urged to submit all the information they can regarding their experience to the county extension office.

Family Enjoys Outdoor Supper In Backyard on Summer Evenings

How cool and refreshing the backyard or park is after a stifling hot day. Why not enjoy supper outdoors more often!

Kabobs are the perfect food the outdoor meal. Here's how make the kabobs in the photo. balls of seasoned ground centering them with small of sharp Cheddar cheese. each ball with a half-slice bacon. Alternate these on with mushroom caps, or onion wedges, and kabobs from 10 to 15 Baste the vegetables with butter while cooking. This gives extra good flavor to each bite.

If you want the meat to be rare, slip the morsels rather close together on the skewer. For well-done meat, separate the pieces slightly.

Make the meat balls about one and a half inches in diameter. If they are too large, they won't be cooked through by the time the other food on the skewer is done.

Start thinly sliced potatoes frying in butter in the skillet on the grill before cooking the kabobs. The potatoes will take about 20-30 minutes to cook over a moderate heat.

To round out the menu, munch on relishes of green onions, celery, carrot sticks, and radishes. Serve herb butter French bread to go with the kabobs.

Pour fat mugs of milk when you're ready to eat. Leave the milk in the refrigerator until the last possible moment so it will be served icy cold.

HERB BUTTERED FRENCH BREAD

and major source of fun on Friday and Saturday will be the presence of Merriam's Midway Shows. This carnival has made several stands in Belmond and is regarded as one of the very finest operating in this midwestern area. It has plenty of good rides, clean concessions and has always pleased fun-seekers when it has been booked here. It will help provide "entertainment every minute" during its two-day appearance.

1856-1956

Don't forget the tours through "the old brick house on the hill" — the 99-year-old Dumond home—this afternoon and again on Sunday afternoon from 4:00 to 5:00 o'clock. The hospitable Louis Moes, present owners of this sturdy, old residence, will be glad to have you inspect it.

1856-1956

Unless the Centennial crowds surpass all expectations, none should have to go without good, home-cooked food at mealtime. On Friday and Saturday, the Methodist women will be serving meals at the church; the Legion Auxiliary at Veterans' Memorial hall; and the Catholic women from a stand on Main street.

In addition, the Hospital Auxiliary will be set up to fill short orders at their stand in the city park on those days.

All have been directed to LAY OFF, though, while the Centennial Barbecue is in progress at the park Saturday noon. The Centennial committee wants NO competition until those 4,000 servings of barbecued beef sandwiches, baked beans and potato chips are disposed of. At only two-bits a plate, they should go all right if a crowd's on hand.

Parade Chairman Dwight Tyrrell says the patients at Belmond Community hospital are not to be forgotten while the town is whooping it up over its Centennial. Saturday's giant parade will jog south from Main street at Third avenue, pass in front of the hospital on First street SE, then return to Main via Fourth avenue. SOMEBODY was thoughtful!

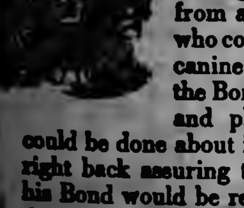
This shaggy dog story has a moral for you-



One day the U. S. Treasury received a letter enclosing fragments (only) of a $50 Savings Bond. The letter came from a distressed dog owner who confessed that his shaggy canine companion had given the Bond a thorough chewing, and plaintively asked what could be done about it. The Treasury wrote right back assuring the unhappy man that his Bond would be replaced upon presentation of satisfactory evidence — and enclosed the proper form to be filled out.

Several days passed. A second letter arrived — enclosing fragments of the Treasury's letter and bits of the enclosed form. You guessed it. The shaggy dog had done it again. Could the Treasury please send along another application form?

The Treasury could — and did — and eventually the chewed up Bond was replaced.

Nothing further has been heard from the man — or from the shaggy dog. (The Treasury is hoping that no news is good news.)

This true story illustrates the safety — the indestructibility of U. S. Savings Bonds. Just remember this. Any of your Bonds that are lost, stolen or destroyed will be replaced by the U. S. Treasury without charge. That's why Bonds are said to be, "Safer than cash."

U. S. Savings Bonds are not only safer than cash, but one of the best investments you can make. You can be sure of the principal, sure of the returns (an average 3% interest when held to maturity) — and sure of the future when you invest regularly in Savings Bonds.

So don't stash cash in sugar bowls and mattresses. Start investing in Savings Bonds today. That's the safe and sure way to save.

ASC Sees Many More Wright County Farmers Resealing Corn This Year

Far more price-supported corn will be resealed on Wright county farms in 1956 than in either 1954 or 1955, it was predicted this week by the county ASC committee. They said the possibility of a feed shortage in some areas and the high storage payment being offered to producers should result in a much higher percentage of eligible corn being kept on the farms another year after the present loans and purchase agreements mature on July 31.

With the new reseal storage payment which farmers can earn fixed at 16 cents a bushel, the committee expressed the opinion that Wright county will "certainly do its full share" toward meeting the state corn reseal goal of 60 million bushels. The committeemen pointed out that the payment for keeping corn on the farm an extra year, or until July 31, 1957, is one cent higher than paid in the 1954-55 reseal programs.

Storage Space Insufficient

The 1956 resealing program has been made necessary by the fact that over 165 million bushels of price-supported Iowa corn is eligible for delivery to the government after July 31 and the total amount of empty binsite and commercial storage space is insufficient to handle that much grain. This situation has developed in spite of the fact that the government is now adding over 25½ million bushels of space on Iowa binsites and commercial warehousemen in the state have indicated they will expand their facilities by at least 30 million bushels.

The seriousness of the government storage problem is shown by a recent announcement that loans on 1953-crop corn still on the farms of Iowa under reseal will be eligible for another year's extension under the 1956 reseal program. It was previously announced that only farm-stored 1954 resealed corn, 1955 farm-stored corn under original loans and 1955 farm-stored corn under purchase agreements converted to loans would be eligible for reseal at this time.

Loans May Be Paid Off

The committee emphasized that producers are not required to deliver to the government in order to receive an earned storage payment. Instead, a participating producer may pay off his loan at the end of the extra year, keep the corn and still receive a full storage payment. A producer who reseals also may redeem his corn at any time prior to July 31, 1957, when the extra year ends, and receive a pro-rated payment for the period of storage after Oct. 1 of this year.

"These provisions are especially appealing to the farmer who desires to keep his old corn as protection against a feed shortage and resulting higher feed costs," the committee pointed out. "Thus he not only assures himself of a supply of feed right on his farm, but he also puts himself in a position to sell at a gain if he doesn't need the grain and the market price climbs above the loan. In the meantime, of course, he is earning a worthwhile storage payment."

Crib Building Encouraged

Noting that the payment rate of 16 cents per bushel will go a long way toward the cost of a new crib or bin, the committee urges farmers in need of additional grain storage space to consider use of the facility loan program. Under this program, the committee explains, farmers may obtain loans for as much as 80 per cent of the total cost of needed new farm storage structures.

These loans draw four per cent interest and are repayable in four annual installments. A total of 622 such loans were made in Iowa last year to help finance nearly 1½ million bushels of new on-farm storage space. Present federal income tax law permits a fast write-off of the cost of cribs and bins erected before Jan. 1 of next year.

Reprove not a scoffer, lest he hate thee: Reprove a wise man, and he will love thee. — Prov. 9:8.

100 "GOOD" YEARS LIE BEHIND US; THE NEXT 100 CAN BE BETTER YET

By the time this comment is being read, the climax of many weeks of effort by many earnest workers in behalf of Belmond's Centennial will have been reached and the celebration will be well launched. The weather will be either fair or otherwise, as the fates declare. We hope everyone's having fun — yes, including the inevitable minority of crepe-hangers, foot-draggers and gripers whose offstage burblings are always a distraction to the faithful host who do their full share and more when there are civic chores to perform.

We'll make no effort to hand out bouquets to the many who so rightfully have them coming for service "beyond the call of duty" in making the Centennial celebration the memorable event it gives all promise of being. They'll have their best reward in the satisfaction that comes with a job well done.

It's a good thing for a community to "point with pride" now and again, as Belmond is doing in marking the 100th anniversary of its founding. Frankly, we believe that Belmond has a good deal to be proud of. While its growth has by no means been phenomenal, it has been steady. Some luck has entered into this. No one could have foreseen, for example, that the defunct sugar factory of the 'twenties would provide the key to a sound industrial future two decades later. But we ARE blessed in having two, thriving General Mills facilities to provide us with important economic ballast

In the Tomahawk Hybrid Seed Corn company we are associated with one of the most rapidly expanding businesses of its type in the nation. R. B. "Rich" Thompson has been a wonderfully good friend to his home town and Belmond can expect to benefit increasingly in the years to come from the circumstances that placed "Rich," the Thompson Hybrid Corn company and the Tomahawk company headquarters in our midst.

Ris-Van Liquid Fertilizer company is a newcomer to Belmond; but it can be, and promises to be an important factor in our future. We are fortunate to be so closely affiliated with this rapidly rising, infant concern. It is noteworthy that Ris-Van was born of a remarkable new technique in agricultural chemistry that is in a way reminiscent of the revolutionary hybridization processes that produced Thompson-Tomahawk.

If there is any one way in which Belmond has failed to keep pace with the times, it is as a municipality. Our city government has too often been fearful of the future, lacked confidence in the willingness of our citizens to follow aggressive leadership, and waited for utter necessity to force necessary improvements that foresight could have anticipated.

But even in this connection, it might be observed that our current administration has shown a new progressive-mindedness that augurs well for the future. It has frequently shown commendable disregard for the stand-pat element that has retarded our civic growth over the years and it has pointed a way for coming administrations to foster the greater growth and development of Belmond.

All in all, Belmond presents a satisfying picture today; one that denotes a century of considerable achievement and foretells a brighter future to come.

ZONING-PLANNING STACKS UP AS KEY FACTOR IN PLANNING FOR OUR FUTURE

It is no secret that a zoning and planning ordinance for Belmond is unalterably opposed by some individuals of considerable influence in the community. It is perhaps less well known that this opposition has directly cost Belmond several prospective residents, could very well cause the departure of some recent newcomers to our town, and threatens to place serious limitations on our prospects for future growth.

There is good reason to believe that a decision must soon be reached by those who want to see Belmond grow and prosper as to WHO is to have the privilege of speaking for them. Certainly matters have reached a critical state when persons who would make valuable citizens of our community avoid moving here because they're convinced Belmond hasn't matured enough in 100 years to plan sensibly and systematically for the future.

The ONE THING that will assure us of continued community development is a zoning and planning ordinance. We can survive without it. But it appears crystal clear that the time is not far distant when we'll cease to THRIVE without it.

Some of these newcomers of whom we speak have been misled to believe that the city administration, itself, opposes zoning and planning for Belmond. We say "misled" because it's our firm conviction that our mayor and the majority of our councilmen are too far-sighted to be blind to the NECESSITY of zoning and planning.

Last week the zoning and planning committee of the Chamber of Commerce civic bureau had ready to submit to the council a list of nominees to compose a zoning and planning commission. Those nominees had been given prior approval of the council as candidates. In addition, some months ago the Chamber agreed to underwrite the $1,600 cost of a land-use survey that would necessarily have to be made before zoning could be intelligently pursued.

The business and professional men who have aggressively sponsored zoning and planning know full well that the direct benefit will lie not in short-term, material gain to themselves, but in the long-term pride and satisfaction of living in a GOOD town.

There are always those who have as their highest goal to "keep things as they are." Communities where they are allowed to play a predominant role are invariably DEAD or DYING TOWNS. We don't believe they represent anything resembling a majority in Belmond. Further, we're confident that the city council shares this belief and considers itself pledged to do what is BEST for Belmond.

That's why we feel so certain that despite misguided leadership that would like to block it, the next 10 years will witness a decade of progress in Belmond ABETTED by zoning and planning.

Colorful Pageant, Giant Parade Hits of Centennial Celebration

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Among the blessings enjoyed by spectators at the Centennial pageant along with a fine show and breezeless evenings, was a noticeable absence of mosquitos. The latter was no mere happenstance of [illegible] conditions. It was the result of an unsolicited and unrequested "good neighbor" deed on the part of Thompson (or should it be Tomahawk?) Hybrid Corn company and some of its personnel through the thoughtful arrangement of "Rich" Thompson.

The Centennial committee had discussed the need for mosquito elimination at the athletic field, but with the flood of last-minute details requiring their attention had not gotten around to doing anything about it.

"Rich," however, was not about to see the pageant spectators distracted from the action on the stage by the necessity of waging mosquito warfare. On Thursday, without a word to the Centennial powers, he had a crew take one of the Thompson spray outfits to the field and give the entire area — including adjacent trees — a thorough dousing with insecticide. It was a mighty kindly gesture, Mr. T. It most CERTAINLY was!

To the unidentified gent who left that delivery of horse manure on Ye Ed's front porch Monday night, the latter wishes to express his thanks. With the bag of Vigoro that Mainstreeter No. 3 won in the beard contest, things are looking up for the Gallagher garden. Previously, fertilizer had to be obtained from the neighboring stockyard supply. Ye Ed's wife has one minor suggestion to offer, however. She'd appreciate it if future deliveries are made on the BACK porch. Closer to the garden.

Not knowing what size the winner's foot might be, the games committee did not have one of the prizes on hand for the champion hog caller in last Friday morning's doin's in the city park. But the winnah, Duane McCormick, has a new pair of work shoes coming to him in addition to the $7.50 check he picked up at the time of his victory. Those brogans can be obtained at Thompsen & Keleher Clothiers, Duane. That was a mighty profitable dinner call you let loose with, was it not?

Also undelivered was part of the prize winnings of the victorious farmers' tug-of-war team. Each of these work-hardened Atlases has a pair of $1.00 socks coming to him — as announced. Said socks are all the RIGHT size; they're of that stretchy variety. Just come sign your name at the Independent office, gentlemen, and you can pick 'em up.

About that duck . . . The fashion-plate fowl who aroused so much comment in her doughty attire as she waddled through the Centennial crowds was the pet of former Belmondites Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baldridge of Crosslake, Minn. They were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hanson. And in case you wondered, Petey (he's actually a she) possesses quite a wardrobe of garments, since some must be kept circulating through the laundry.

Petey is just over a year old and was rescued from almost certain death at her mother's beak when her egg was the last of a clutch to hatch on the lake front near the Baldridge's home last summer. Such late emerging offspring, says Petey's mistress, are often killed by their mother — apparently in fear that they will turn out to be defenseless weaklings.

Last winter, Petey — already "garment-broke" — accompanied the Baldridges to Florida. In fact, she loves to travel and sits on her [illegible] in the back seat of the car viewing the passing countryside in utter contentment. Mrs. Baldridge, to whom Petey is particularly attached, says the duck is a wonderful means of making new acquaintances. Prancing along on her leash, Petey continually elicits inquiries from complete strangers — who are soon friends.

A very unfortunate omission led to the name of Cecil Carstens being left off the list of general Centennial committee members that appeared on the Centennial Pageant program. Certainly no member of the group contributed more to the success of the Centennial celebration than did "Cec." He never said "no" to an assignment — and did 'em all well. In the words of Jack Pearl, he "vass dere;" and pitching all the time!

An inquiry of particular interest regarding a Centennial book was received by The Independent this week from Mrs. Robert Espe of Hubbard. She particularly wanted some such memento of the occasion for her mother, the former [illegible] Chase.

Mrs. Chase is a granddaughter of the late, beloved "Father" Sands, who was such an influential figure in the early days of this community.

It was a pity Mrs. Espe's mother was unable to witness the Centennial pageant and see her forebear so ably portrayed by Fred Gellett — and her grandmother by Mrs. [illegible]. Fred, with a beard, held a marked resemblance to the old gentleman.

ONE ITEM MISSING

Of the many hundreds of antique items that were displayed in local store windows at Centennial time, all were accounted for when the exhibits were dismantled except one. An old-fashioned apple peeler belonging to Mrs. Sam [illegible] was missing. Mrs. H. J. [illegible], chairman of the display committee, would appreciate information in regard to it.

Two Fine Crowds See Performances; Weather Behaves

An acid test to determine if a show is good or not is whether the audience includes a goodly number of persons so highly pleased with it that they feel compelled to see the production twice. By this measure the Centennial pageant, "Journey into Yesterday," must be accounted a resounding success — for a surprising number of spectators who attended the first performance on Friday night were back the following evening to see the pageant a second time.

No complete accounting on ticket sales was yet available the early part of this week, so attendance could be arrived at only on an estimate basis. It was the guess of the pageant committee that at least 1,500 persons must have witnessed the opening night's performance. Attendance was smaller by perhaps 200 to 400 on Saturday evening, but there was nevertheless a good crowd.

Surprising Talent Shown

It was the expressed opinion of many of the spectators that the excellence of the pageant far exceeded their most optimistic expectations. It was extremely colorful, most ably enacted, and the smoothness with which it was presented both nights spoke extremely well for the ability of Rowe Million, producer-director for Hal Garven Productions.

Every one of the 19 scenes in the six episodes contributed effectively to the pageant's backward look into the past. Lovely costumes, striking settings and well planned lighting and musical background added materially to the over-all, dramatic affect.

Truly surprising talent was exhibited by members of the cast of approximately 225 and the various musical interludes displayed voices and instrumental adeptness that earned the enthusiastic praise of pageant-goers.

"Belmond Song" Pleases

It goes without saying that much hard work went on behind the scenes under the joint chairmanship of Luin Cox and Neil Flanagan The clockwork precision with which scene followed scene without a hitch vouched for the efficiency with which the off-stage crews performed their appointed tasks.

From the fine, choral reading group — which presented so beautifully the lovely poetry of Mrs. Ella Luick, Mrs. Maude Rankins Leonard and the late Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans — to the tiniest toddler who appeared on the stage, the cast members handled their parts with skill that well surpassed mere competence.

The striking, musical setting given "The Song of Belmond" by Mrs. R. W. Courson made a musical high point of the production in the form of a duet sung by Lowell Trafford and Clark McNeal.

All in all, the pageant was indeed a memorable event that will long be recalled as an outstanding highlight of the Centennial by local residents and the many persons from out of town who shared in the festivities.

Whisker Shaving Won by Ketchum

A mattress manufacturer would have found a bonanza on the city park bandstand Friday noon after completion of the Centennial whisker-shaving contest. Seven lush beavers bit the dust as that many contestants mowed down their beards with electric shavers.

After the last of the chin hedges had wafted earthward, A. K. "Kay" Ketchum was declared winner of the contest. Second finisher was Eddie Albers, third was Bob Watermiller and fourth, Dick Smit. Remington-Rand, Inc., conducted the competition and awarded to each of the winners an official Centennial Shaver, a prize worth $29.50.

Some of the gentlemen's jowls looked a little scuffed up after the ordeal, but the sponsor of the contest assured the winners that with less heavy underbrush to contend with, they could count on slick shaving hereafter with the electric chin mowers.

GAMES-SPORTS AT PARK PRODUCE PLENTY OF FUN AND EXCITEMENT

A good-sized crowd gathered at the city park Friday morning for the Centennial sports and games program, amply demonstrating that such "old fashioned" fun has by no means lost its appeal with the passing years. A super-abundance of entries in the various events caused the program to extend well through the noon hour before the last of the more than $150 in prize money had been handed out.

Whereas the Lions committee-in-charge harbored some passing doubts whether such events as the married women's slipper-kick and rolling pin throw would attract adequate entries they found contestants actually responding in gratifying number. Although the rolling pin throw introduced a considerable hazard to life and limb of the spectators, it was one of the program's outstanding attractions.

Slipper-Kick — 1. Mrs. Milton Followwill, 2. Mrs. Bud Meyers, 3. Lydia Baker; rolling pin throw — 1. Mrs. Stanley Ahlstrom, 2. Mrs. Alex Zeiger, 3. Mrs. Gail Thayer.

Hop-and-skip race — 1. Danny Nelson-Joe Brady, 2. Janice Porter-Mary Arthur, 3. Gary Obrecht-Randy Thayer; wheelbarrow race — 1. Shirley and Linden Proeger, 2. Bobby and Stella Negrete, 3. Bob Lerdal and Marcia Stoltenberg; sack race — 1. Carnita Trager, 2. Evalyn Eygabroad, 3. Bob Lerdal.

Men's sprint — 1. Dale Caquelin, 2. Leroy Smith, 3 Bill Murray; Boys' sprint (age 12-14) — 1. David Suntken, 2. Lynn Jenison, 3. Mark Mason; boys' sprint (9-11) — 1. Chuck Studebaker, 2. Jack Olson, 3 Daryl Suntken.

Women's sprint — 1. Nancy Gallagher, 2. Shirley Proeger, 3. Margaret McGraw (Des Moines); girls' sprint (12-14) — 1. Marilyn Suntken, 2. Carnita Trager, 3. Stella Negrete; girls' sprint (9-11) — Lucia Lynner (Des Moines), 2. Evalyn Eygabroad, 3. Beverly Buseman.

Hog calling contest — 1. Duane McCormick, 2. Herb Muhlenbruch (Alexander), 3. Andy Miller; watermelon-eating contest (children under age 10) — 1. Walter Mason, 2. Jimmy Pasquarilla, 3. Tony Mossman.

In the tug-of-war between the Belmond Jaycees and the farm ex-servicemen, the farmers quickly demonstrated that doing field work and chores develops more muscle than the "soft life" of the city. They gave the Jaycees a thorough soaking in the stream from a fire hose that marked the middle line and picked up $25 for their trouble.

Hampton Tap Dance Team Wins First Place in Centennial Amateur Show

Advance publicity that had promised Belmond's "best ever" amateur talent show as a feature of Friday afternoon's Centennial program from the city park bandstand proved no exaggeration in the estimation of the crowd of many hundreds that enjoyed it. Consistently good from start to finish, the 17 competing acts left the judges with an extremely difficult choice in arriving at the four, top place winners.

Howard Jeffrie and Dee Ann Dreier, a pair of 14-year-olds from Hampton who have been dancing partners for nine years, took down the $50 first prize with a tap routine that would have done credit to a professional team. Almost any kind of tap one might see on the big-time circuits was to be found at one spot or another in their act, and all were presented competently.

Little Sylvia Ann Downs, age nine, of Wesley all but stole the entire afternoon's show with her highly entertaining rendition of a number that could have been written expecially for her, "A Sweet, Old Fashioned Girl." She "belted out" the amusing lyrics with volume, poise and humor that suggested another Sophie Tucker in the making.

Alexander's fine vocal trio consisting of Audrey and Jeanie Schulte and Dorothy Barkema took third place with two lilting numbers that made a big hit with the audience. They won the hearts of the judges with their charm and poise as well as the sweetness of their voices. They are proteges of Mrs. Robert Wilson of Belmond, who serves as Alexander High school's music instructor.

Becky Beck of Forest City won fourth prize with the operetta selection, "Song of Love." Though she didn't boast the professional training that some of the other contestants had obviously benefited by, she displayed a voice of real promise and won generous applause from her listeners.

It was the concensus of even the most experienced of the talented contestants that they had never competed in an amateur show that had the top-to-bottom quality of the Centennial show.

Clair Finn Given Postal Clerk Job

Clair Finn last Saturday was added to the post office staff as a substitute clerk, filling a vacancy on the force left by the elevation of George Jenison to the postmastership. Simultaneously, Carroll Bamford was promoted from substitute status to the position of regular clerk.

A native of Belmond and graduate of BHS with the Class of '37, Mr. Finn has lived all his life in this vicinity except for a little over four years in military service during World War II and three years' time farming near Defiance. The latter community was the home of his wife, the former Irene Coenen.

The Finns have five children — Kathryn, 11; Jeanne, nine; Thomas, seven; Barbara Ann, five; and Mary Colleen, one. They have farmed the past three years on the place owned by his mother, Mrs. James Finn, east of town.

After entering the Marine corps as a private in October of 1940, Mr. Finn had advanced to the rating of staff sergeant by the time he was commissioned in June of 1942. He had reached the rank of captain in the Field Artillery of the 2nd Marine division when he was discharged in December, 1945. He saw Pacific action in the Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian campaigns.

Mr. Bamford has been on the postal force since appointment as a temporary carrier on May 24, 1948. His classification was changed to that of substitute clerk on Oct. 1 of the same year.

Gabrielsons Win Waltzing Contest

A carefree crowd of several hundred enjoyed the free Bowery dance (admission by Centennial badge) that was held last Thursday night at the city park as Centennial entertainment. Much interest was shown in the old-time waltz conducted at intermission time as a special feature.

All of the prize-winners were attired in Centennial garb, and consequently collected the maximum prize money of $15, $10 and $5. Prizes were to be halved if the winners were wearing modern apparel.

First place was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gabrielson. Second prize went to a pair of former Belmondites — brother and sister of W. P. Tyrrell — David Tyrrell of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. W. W. (Carol) Kyle, Jr., of Beaumont, Tex.; and third to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson.

MENNENGA CHILDREN WIN 1ST IN KIDS' PARADE

What the spectators thoroughly agreed was the finest kiddies' parade Belmond has ever seen got the Belmond Centennial celebration off to a very proper start last Thursday morning. Don Hoppel, the parade chairman, reports that close to 100 entries took part and the very large share of them followed the Centennial theme.

So difficult was it to arrive at a decision as to the winners that the judges — Mrs. Roy Henderson, Mrs. Lewis Formanek and Rev. O. M. Severseike—had to take a second look at some 20 of the better entries before they would make a final choice.

A cleverly constructed tepee accompanied by four "friendly Sioux" Indians finally was awarded first place. The redskins were Janis, Jerry, Jean and Jack Mennenga, children of Mr. and Mrs. Al Mennenga.

Second place went to a wagon float upon which a diminutive tot representing "the Present" viewed through binoculars the "Rosy Future" as depicted by a foil-wrapped "crystal ball." Three youngsters in dress of the 1800's portrayed Belmond's "Past." Jane Hill, Sharon, Glenn and Jimmy Gabrielson comprised the entry's personnel.

Bob and Debra Misner, as early settlers bound for the west, took third place. They are the children of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Misner. Fourth place went to Dudley Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Thompson, and his handsomely caged white rabbit. His "float" informed onlookers that times may change, but pets don't.

In the last five money-places were: Randy and Jim Thayer, with a clever, horse-drawn cart; John and Rick Bonte with a covered wagon; Tom Lerdal, Larry Ackerman, Keith Boller and Ron Ginapp, also with a covered wagon; Bob Gemms, Bill Jenison and Jeff Kessler with — a covered wagon.

BELMOND
WE'VE SHARED 35 YEARS

FLOAT THAT WON BELMOND AUTO COMPANY FIRST PRIZE IN COMMERCIAL DIVISION

No Money Went

Apparently exhausted by all of their merry-making during the Centennial celebration, people were absent from downtown Main street in droves Tuesday afternoon — with the result that not one of the Cash Gift Day awards was claimed. In hopes of enticing a bit more traffic along "the main drag" next Tuesday, the CGD committee is adding an extra $50 to the 3:00 o'clock prize money. That will make four $25's at 2:00 p. m. and FIVE $50's at 3:00 o'clock. Worth taking a crack at!

Alumni Meeting Draws Big Crowd

An estimated 750 to 800 persons assembled at the high school gymnasium Sunday afternoon for the Centennial meeting of the BHS Alumni association. Approximately 425 alumni signed the register, but it is certain that others were present who failed to do so. The rest of the crowd was comprised of family members of the former BHS graduates.

Oldest class represented was that of '93, with A. W. Martin and Laura Martin Ketchum, the latter of Pactola, S. D., present. Maude Rankins Leonard, who shares her time between California and Thornton, was on hand from the Class of '94; and A. Lee Luick, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Walter (Jessie) Pritchard, Long Beach, Calif., from the Class of '95.

Brief talks were given at the general meeting by Randall Klemme of Oklahoma City, Okla., and W. P. Tyrrell. When the meeting at the gymnasium broke up, the balance of the afternoon was devoted to separate class reunions and renewal of old acquaintances.

It was unnecessary to elect new officers, since this had been done at an earlier alumni meeting this summer. Jack Johnson, who last year taught at Radcliffe but will teach this coming year at Schumberg, Ill., is president; R. H. Gowdy, vice president; and Ethel Brunes, secretary-treasurer.

Green Rites Held Here Wednesday

Following earlier rites at Webster City, services were held yesterday afternoon at Fulton Funeral Home for Kenneth Green, 32, Belmond native who died very unexpectedly Sunday evening following a heart attack. He had been employed by Morton's food supply house at Webster City. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery.

The deceased was the son of Ray C. Green and the late Mrs. Green. He was a Belmond High school graduate and had made his home here until four or five years ago.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife (nee Donna Fleener) and three children; also two brothers — Harry of Webster City and LeRoy of Belmond; and four sisters — Mrs. Ray (Marian) Pals, and Mrs. Leland (Betty) Barkema of Belmond and Mrs. Harold (Marcella) Cunningham and Mrs. Lee (Deloris) Robbins, Jr., both of ell.

Jones Winds Up Active Duty Tour

Rev. Maurice L. Jones, pastor of the Methodist church, has just completed a short tour of active duty as a reserve officer at Fort Crowder, Mo. He reported for duty Aug. 2 and returned to Belmond Wednesday of this week. He is a lieutenant colonel in the Chaplain Corps of the U. S. Army Reserve.

A World War II veteran, he served as a chaplain in the Northern Solomons, Bismarck archipelgo campaign, and was awarded the Asiatic-Pacific service medal and the Phillippine Liberation ribbon.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS SALE

Everett Anderson announces in this issue that he is holding a public auction of household goods Monday evening at his home three miles west and one and three-fourths north of Goodell, starting at 7:30 p.m. Everett explains that he has bought a trailer home, necessitating the sale.

Best Beard Award to L. Gabrielson; Mrs. Piper Wears "Oldest" Costume

Friday afternoon saw the climax of months of whisker culture and weeks of sewing fine seams as Brothers of the Brush and Sisters of the Swish matched their efforts before judging panels at the city park. The large throng that had enjoyed a concert by the Alexander High school band and the amateur talent show earlier stayed well intact for this twin highlight of the Centennial celebration.

Lester Gabrielson, with a chin fringe that would have made the manliest of his pioneer ancestors green with envy, was major winner of the whisker judging. He won the sweepstakes prize and also took home the money for having the fullest beard.

Hugh McMannus was awarded the prize for being the oldest Brother of the Brush in the competition. He reached the age of 76 last Feb. 4. Gus Ziska was Hugh's closest competitor. Seventeen-year-old Gene Quigley made many of his elders look scraggly-jowled with the luxuriant beaver that gave him the prize for youngest Brother with a beard.

A couple of face mops that made their owners look like they'd been lost in the hills over winter left the judges unable to make a choice as to the longest beard. So the four-inch growths of Eddie Albers and Dave Sappenfield brought each of them half of the prize money for the longest whiskers.

George Kyser, attired in his wedding suit of — well, several years back, had little competition for the best Kentucky colonel goatee and mustache. He even talked Southern, when he acknowledged his prize. Jack Ketchum, his appearance abetted by a stovepipe hat, presented a remarkable resemblance to Honest Abe in winning honors with the most Lincolnesque beard.

"Most Distinguished Beard" brought a check to Bob Watermiller, whose hirsute adornment impressed the judges with both its quality and quantity. The "Wierdest Beard" prize went to young Ron Smith, his Charlie Chanish model having no really close competition. Last and least, Pat Gallagher took home the sack of Vigoro for having the poorest excuse for a beard.

Mrs. Marvin (Minnie) Christie won by a generous margin the prize for being the oldest woman in costume as judging of Sisters of the Swish got underway. She admitted to having attained the age of 89 on July 26th. Award for the oldest costume went to Mrs. R. B. Piper. Her dress was 120 years old.

"Best Authentic Costume" was judged to be that of Mrs. William Purcell and Mrs. Ralph Jenison received the prize for having made the best replica of an old-fashioned outfit.

Mrs. Dale Kessler and her daughter Connie Jean, charming in matching attire, won first among the large number of contenders for "Best Mother and Child Costumes." The prize for youngest girl in costume went to 13-month-old Kaye Bode, daughter of Mrs. Darwin Bode; and Mrs. Maurice Buckley's four-month-old son Mark was the youngest boy in centennial dress.

Amos Sann Hurt Badly in Crash

Amos Sann, 46-year-old farmer who lives just east of the Solberg underpass, was in "fair" condition at Clarion Memorial hospital Tuesday after suffering serious injuries in a collision Monday evening on Highway 69. Nearly a half hour was required to free him from his car when he was pinned in the front seat after running into the rear of a parked semi-trailer 1½ miles south of Greyhound junction.

Driver of the "semi" was Henry F. York, Jr., 33, of Dothan, Ala. He had stopped his rig on the right lane of the highway adjacent to Clifford's Standard station in order to go to the aid of a fellow trucker whose tractor-trailer had mired down in soft earth adjoining the recently widened highway.

Sann suffered a brain concussion, broken ribs, a fractured left kneecap and multiple facial lacerations. Dothan was hailed before Mayor Pro Tem Clifford Evans at Clarion on a charge of illegal parking and released upon posting $25 bond. Both Dothan and Sann were driving north, the latter being little more than two miles from his home.

$50 Fine Levied Against Francis

Russ and Jan's Tavern was fined $50 and costs in the court of Mayor Henry Hokel on Monday morning of this week, charged with maintaining a disorderly house. Russell Francis, who with his wife has been operating the tavern, pleaded guilty to the charge.

It grew out of an altercation at the tavern about 6:00 p.m. Saturday. When Everett Hyde of Waterloo, occupant of one of the booths, objected to a remark made in the presence of his wife and step-daughter by Francis, the latter threw a punch at the visitor.

About the same time, Mrs. Francis engaged in a scuffle with the step-daughter, Patricia Jo Ayers, and hurled her to the floor, according to Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod.

Belmond Auto Co., Jaycees Take Top Prizes in Parade

Belmond's Centennial Parade, approximately 100 units long, won the praise of an estimated 7,000 onlookers last Saturday morning — and left the panel of judges regretting that they didn't have double or triple the number of prizes to award when they were faced with the necessity of picking the eight best entries.

Four awards were made in the organization division of the parade and four in the commercial, amounting to $60, $45, $32.50 and $20 in each. The judges were: Mrs. Don Faris, Mrs. John Greenlander, Mrs. George Hansen, Dr. A. L. Pitcher and Ernest Kalkwarf.

Place-winners in the two divisions were: organizations — 1st, Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce; 2nd, Belmond Community hospital; 3rd, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary; 4th, Belmond Busy Bees and Pleasant Pioneers 4-H clubs. Commercial — 1st Belmond Auto company; 2nd, North Iowa Sewing Machine company; 3rd, Tip Top Super Valu grocery; 4th, First State Bank.

Point System Used

According to the judges, many of the other entries were regarded as very outstanding and there was a good deal of friendly disagreement over what ones should receive the cash prizes. Top placings were finally arrived at by a point system, which combined the positions in which the various judges rated the most highly favored floats.

The Jaycees' float was a handsomely constructed one that carried out the theme, "We Build for the Future," depicted by several young boys constructing a foundation out of brick.

"We Are Always There To Give You Care," advised the hospital float. It was built in two parts, demonstrating the advances that have been made in medical facilities over the passing years.

Hoop-Skirted Lady Wins

An old-fashioned lady in an immense hoop skirt created from crepe paper streamers constituted the entry that won third for the VFW Auxiliary; and the effect of the changing times in producing guided occupational training for today's farm youth was portrayed by the cleverly conceived 4-H float.

Belmond Auto company's beautiful float of white, decorated with pink, emphasized the anniversary motif with a large birthday cake boasting 100 candles. In acknowledging the "Belmond Centennial," it boasted modestly, "We've Shared 35 Years."

North Iowa Sewing Machine company's entry demonstrated the development in its chief sales product by presenting a lovely, modern miss at an up-to-date zigzag sewing machine, a "flapper" at an old-style pedal machine and a pioneer woman with a spinning wheel.

Ingenuity Displayed

Tip Top grocery presented in amusing detail a grocery store of earlier days when the cracker barrel held sway; and First State bank portrayed the advancement that has been made in banking methods over a century's time.

Any number of the floats showed great ingenuity and made very apparent that many, many hours of time had gone into their construction. Examples were those of the Bethany Reformed and St. John Lutheran churches, both of which were in the form of scale replicas of the churches, themselves. Old vehicles of various descriptions lent much interest to the parade, and appropriate marching music was provided by the high school bands of Belmond, Alexander, Kanawha and Meservey.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 6—

The Ladies Aid of Immanuel Reformed church will hold their annual bazaar at 8:00 p. m.

Title of "Queen" to Sandra Swenson

Sandra Swenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Swenson, was crowned Queen of the Belmond Centennial last Friday night as an added feature of the Centennial pageant performance. Mrs. Vivian Cairns, chairman of the Queen committee, says that Sandra won by quite a wide margin in the Centennial Badge sales campaign that determined outcome of the Queen contest.

First runner-up was Betty Dempsey, who held almost a correspondingly sizeable edge over the second runner-up, Corrine Davenport. Queen Sandra and Princesses Betty and Corrine received handsome statuettes denoting their winning places in the Queen contest. Mayor Henry Hokel performed the coronation honors, crowning the Queen and placing a royal robe about her shoulders.

Miss Swenson was sponsored in the contest by the Belmond Fire department, Miss Dempsey by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Miss Davenport by the Odd Fellows. Queen Sandra responded graciously to the honor bestowed upon her. The following day she was paid further homage with a place of honor in the Centennial parade.

All of the Queen candidates received in beautiful Samsonite luggage the equivalent of no less than 15 per cent commission on their badge sales, with Miss Swenson and Miss Dempsey also getting quite sizable checks to fulfill their promised commissions. Miss Davenport and Marilyn Mennenga, the Belmond Cooperative Creamery's candidate, received checks of smaller denomination.

Other contenders for the Queen's title were: Monica Jones, sponsored by the American Legion and VFW; Judy Larson, Lions club; Phyllis Lee, Chamber of Commerce; Shirley Pals, Belmond and Pleasant township Farm Bureaus; Sandra Stoltenberg, Sportsman's and Vicki Wolfe, General Mills Men's club.

Both Miss Swenson and Miss Dempsey were presented with four pieces of matched luggage, Miss Davenport with two, and each of the other girls with one case, equivalent in cost with the number of badges sold.

Mrs. Cairns says that approximately 3,000 badges were sold by the 10 girls during the Queen campaign.

Two Fines Cost Goodellian $15

Carol Ann Poulson, 18, of Rowan suffered a broken arm and two other young people sustained minor injuries in a collision Sunday afternoon a mile and a half east of Clarion. The mishap occurred when brakes on a car driven by Ron Johnson, 18, of Goodell failed to hold when a car pulling a boat slowed to turn north on the road adjoining the Catholic cemetery.

Larry Hanson, 19, of Belmond was treated at Belmond Community hospital for cuts and bruises and Janet Aldrich, 17, of Rowan got a rather bad bump on her head.

Johnson and the car with boat trailer, driven by Kenneth Hanson of Jewell, were both headed west. When Johnson was unable to stop his car he turned into the south lane and collided with a station wagon — also pulling a boat — driven east by Donald Pope, 15, of Waterloo.

Patrolman Jerry Kramer hailed Johnson before Mayor Henry Hokel for hearing on charges of driving a vehicle with defective brakes and failing to give right-of-way. The Goodell youth was fined $5.00 and $10 respectively, plus costs, on the two counts.

YERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY TAKE D BUDGET BULL BY THE HORNS

better-late-than-never basis, we would congratulations are in order for the arousyers of Hancock county whose protests re- a $233,690 reduction in tax askings for Hancock budget. Last year, a budget of $1,125,000 (requiring over $656,000 from iled to stir our neighbors to the north into this year's $1,354,840 budget, asking ,190 in taxes, brought some 150 persons the budget hearing — with the result above ned.

We would like to call attention to the fact mond Edwards, executive secretary of the Taxpayers association, assisted the protestayers in working out the compromise budgwas the case when $249,000 in tax askings cked from the 1952 Wright county budget, bodings were expressed by various and county fund administrators as to what serductions in services could be expected as of the tax slash. For what consolation it prise, we can report to the embattled taxof Hancock that Wright suffered no apparconvenience in doing business as usual dethe introduction of sanity into its '52 budget. development of the Hancock hearing that considerable satisfaction was a remark Engineer Charles Paulson — prompted a $171,690 cut in his road allowance — to the that "Wright county is the only neighboring with a lower levy for roads than Hancock." what do you know about that!

Mr. Paulson did not point out that the Wright road budget, as it stands, is intended to the most ambitious program of road surever undertaken in this county — IN ADDI- to paying for maintenance. Of course, being to this program and achieving it are not the same thing. But the Wright supervisshown admirable resolve since our own over the '52 budget to make road dollars go farther than ever before. If Engineer Paulson feels inclined to view the future too darkly, maybe our board can suggest to him some holes that possibly could be plugged.

THE SHOW'S OVER; BUT IT WAS A GOOD ONE — THANKS TO THE FAITHFUL "MANY"

To steal the title from that wonderfully successful Centennial pageant, Belmond last week enjoyed a "Journey into Yesterday" that should provide pleasant memories for many a year to come. Ours wasn't the "biggest" Centennial celebration ever, by a long shot; and contemplating oversights, omissions and wrong guesses, the general committee would be first to concede it was no contender for "best" honors.

But thousands of people found fun, good comradeship and a spur to happy reminiscing in the four-day program. The weatherman was kind. Friday night he crowned the pageant grounds with stars even as lightening flashed menancingly to the north and south; and when Sunday afternoon's threatening weather reduced the rodeo crowd to disastrously small numbers, he cooperatively produced enough precipitation to make the rain insurance pay off without requiring cancellation of the show.

It is heart-warming to the Centennial committee to look back upon the unstinting efforts of the many individuals and groups whose cooperation made the entire affair the success it was generally regarded. Unquestionably the pageant and the parade were the highlights that "made" the Centennial celebration.

To Rowe Million, Hal Garven Productions' director-producer, goes a great share of the credit for the beautiful pageant. Equal shares should go to Luin Cox and Neil Flanagan, the general chairmen. But the literally hundreds of persons who took part in the performance and its preparation — most assuredly including the authors of the lovely poetry — should also share generously in the plaudits.

Dwight Tyrrell and his parade committee also did a phenomenally fine job. While some Centennial parades in this area may have been longer, we'd wager that few have matched Belmond's from the standpoint of adhering so remarkably to the Centennial theme. It was a parade that will be long remembered. It reflected much credit on our community, and the many hard-working people who contributed to its success can rightfully take pride in the parts they played.

There were so many jobs well done that it would be impossible to make a comprehensive acknowledgement of all of them. Such things as the fine job of traffic control done by the VFW during the parade and pageant performances; the readiness of the local lumberyards and the school to give the Centennial committee access to anything an deverything they required to "put on the show;" the multitude of ways that those tireless Jaycees got in and pitched; the grand job the Lions did on the sports and games program; the Culture Study club's praiseworthy job of preparing, publishing and then "peddling" that fine historical booklet.

Right at this point, any number of organizations and individuals might feel entitled to say, "Looks as if we were forgotten." But that is not the case. The writer of this column wishes to take the liberty of speaking for the entire Centennial committee in expressing a deeply heartfelt "thanks" to ALL who generously gave of time and effort — or in any other way — to produce for Belmond a Centennial celebration worthy of the occasion. To each and every one of whom space prevents private mention, the committee can only say with the utmost sincerity, in Eddie Cantor's familiar sign-off words, "And we DO mean YOU!"

ONE CRITICALLY INJURED — Dick Betten, Britt, was brought to the Belmond Community Hospital in a critical condition with skull and chest injuries following the collision of Betten's pick-up and a Hancock County truck which resulted in the above picture. The accident occurred last Thursday, August 16, at a rural intersection 10 miles north and six miles west of Belmond. Elmer Carr, driver of the truck, and his grandchild riding with him, were uninjured.

Latest report Tuesday on Mr. Betten is that he is still in a very critical condition.

Karen Azeltine Served as Secretary Of "Board of Health" at 4-H Camp

Following is a report from Karen Azeltine of Rowan, a member of the Iowa U-Go-I-Go 4-H club who was Wright county's delegate to the 1956 state 4-H health camp:

I returned home Saturday, Aug. 4, after a most enjoyable week of camp life. The theme of this year's camp was, "Health is a Personal Thing." We were privileged to hear many wonderful speakers from the field of health.

Two speakers whom I especially enjoyed were Dr. Leonard Murray, who is a member of the State Board of Health and from Des Moines, and Dr. G. P. Invanice, instructor in dentistry at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

The entire week was dedicated to the study of health. We also had interest groups in which we discussed prevention of diseases, water safety, posture, personality, family relations, and their close relationship to health.

Each year a Board of Health is chosen at the camp to set up rules and regulations for the current session and the camps to follow. There were 10 members of the 100 delegates elected to this board and I had the great honor to be one of them. As board members we met with our advisors to elect a chairman and secretary. A girl from Woodbury county was elected chairman and I was elected secretary.

Each morning there was a flag raising ceremony and each evening a flag lowering. The morning sessions were devoted mainly to speakers. During the afternoon we enjoyed crafts, sports, swimming and free time. I made a pair of pottery earrings and a key chain.

Each evening a party was held in Hickory Lodge, where we enjoyed square dancing, party games and refreshments. Our food for the week was prepared at Iowa State college and transported to the camping area by trucks. These meals were served in Hickory Lodge. We girls slept in Hickory Cabins and the boys slept in tents.

I would like to thank Mrs. Geraldine Steele and the county committeewomen of Wright county who gave me the opportunity to attend camp this year. I know I have gained much in the way of health, leadership and friends. Yes, "Health is a Personal Thing." Only we as individuals can train and keep our bodies as we want them to be.

Walter J. Kahl of Britt was appointed on Aug. 9 by Judge J. M. Schaupp as receiver in the foreclosure action entered in Wright county district court by the First State Bank of Britt against L. O. Mussell, Belmond auto dealer.

Accident on 69 Was 13th Wright County Fatality

James T. Flynn, 25, of Webster City, manager of the Lampert Lumber company, was killed early Saturday morning when his car went out of control on Highway 69 six miles south of the Greyhound station.

Sheriff Robert Blecker reported that Flynn was thrown from the car and it then ran over him. Flynn's wife was taken to the Clarion hospital where she was treated for back injuries and shock.

The Flynn car was going north, according to Blecker. After passing a car driven by Joan Mills of Carlisle, the Flynn car turned back into the right lane to keep from hitting a car going south, driven by Francis Mosser of Leland, then went in the ditch.

Neither of the other two cars touched the Flynn car, but when Mr. Mosser applied his brakes he skidded into the Mills car, hitting it on the left side.

According to Sheriff Blecker, there was $450.00 damage to the Flynn car, $350.00 to the Mills car and $10.00 to the Mosser car.

Over Million Corn Crop Acres Are In Iowa's Soil Bank

More than 68,000 soil bank acreage reserve agreements to reduce acreage in 1956 were made by Iowa farmers by the deadline sign-up date of July 27, according to information received this week by the Wright county ASC committee.

The agreements covered 1,277,480 acres. If all the corn agreements are carried out fully, corn acreage reserve payments in Iowa will total $54,403,699. Corn acreage reserve agreements were signed in every county of the state and wheat acreage agreements were signed in 35 counties.

Wright's Share 9,453.5

In Wright county there were 773 corn acreage reserve agreements covering 9,453.5 acres and providing for total possible soil bank payments of $439,883.34. Woodbury county led the state for number of corn acreage reserve agreements with 2,457 on 81,370 acres.

The total number of wheat acreage agreements in the state was 299, covering 5,667 acres and having a total possible payment value of $111,572. Although these statewide figures were based on "final" reports of the 1956 acreage reserve sign-up in all counties, the committee pointed out that they are subject to revision if any errors are found in paper work handled in the rush which marked the closing days of the sign-up.

Vaccine for Polio In Ample Supply

Wright county parents are being urged to protect their children and themselves against paralytic polio by making prompt use of the Salk vaccine. This appeal has been issued by the Wright County Medical Society and the Wright County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. They say that vaccine is available for immediate use as a result of recent large shipments of vaccine into Iowa.

Doctors at Steele Memorial clinic and the Belmond Community hospital have checked several patients here within the past week, mostly from the Kanawha area, with polio-like symptoms. Some were sent to Blank Memorial hospital in Des Moines for further examination and observation. To date, there have been no proven polio cases. According to Dr. A. L. Pitcher, the illness may have been caused by an "orphan virus", symptoms of which are similar to polio.

"The season of greatest polio danger will begin here in a few weeks. Let's get the vaccine out of the refrigerators and into the arms of the highest incidence groups before his crippling disease can strike again," a spokesman for the two health groups asks.

Because the supply of vaccine can soon be expected to meet all needs, all age restrictions on its use have been lifted by the State Health Department.

Families will have only themselves to blame if they do not get protection against polio this year. Infants and teen-agers, especially, have not yet taken advantage of available vaccine, the medical society declares.

"Now that parents are eligible for Salk shots, they should realize that next to children under five years, the greatest and most severe polio incidence strikes adults over 20."

For the medically indigent, free vaccine is available through the county welfare department (or the county nurse). All other parents should contact their family physicians immediately.

Rowat-Murray, Engineers were engaged Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week in making a traffic survey and parking study for the city of West Des Moines.

TWO WINNERS

After missing a week when no money went out of the Cash Gift Day treasury, two winners were on hand Tuesday afternoon to collect $25.00 each at the 2:00 o'clock drawing They were Mrs. Walter Boyd of Belmond and Mrs. Engle Fekkers of Meservey. No lucky number showed up at the 3:00 o'clock drawing when five $50 prizes were offered. This means that next week's 'pot of gold' will include four $25.00 gifts and four $50.00 prizes which would make good pickings for some lucky persons.

Cramped Space Helped Some With New Shop Ready

Belmond Community School district enrollment will reach its highest peak to date with registration for the 1956-57 school year, Supt Don Faris predicted this week. Whereas students totaled 1,010 at the start of last school year, Mr. Faris expects 1,048 to enroll this year.

His estimate for the various grade divisions runs as follows: high school, 280 — the largest student body ever, by quite a margin; junior high, 144; grades one through six, 454; kindergarten, 78. The Goodell enrollment is expected to be 80 in the grades and 12 in kindergarten.

New Buildings in Use

Going into use for the first time are the new vocational shop building and bus barn, on the property acquired across Third street NE from Kirkendall addition. Also located here are a new football field, which will not be used until next year; a new running track, which will be ready for use next spring; and a large practice field.

The former shop room in the gymnasium addition has been converted into an art room, replacing the cramped quarters in the high school basement that have served the purpose the past year or two; and the vocational agriculture room under the gym will be used as a science room.

Two Jobs to Buck

Continuing the program of replacing outmoded classroom furniture and incandescent lighting, new seats and desks have been obtained for three junior high classrooms and the same number of rooms were equipped with fluorescent lighting fixtures.

Because of the late withdrawal of the intended junior high school principal from the contract he had signed here, the responsibilities of this position will be shouldered for the current year by Paul Buck, who is also to be high school principal. As a result, the faculty will number only one more than last year's 43.

Faculty Members

As released by Mr. Faris, the 1956-57 faculty will be as follows: Ramsay principal, Mrs. Frances Quenett; kindergarten, Lorraine Seim and Helen Haupt; 1st grade, Mrs. Mary Formanek, Janet Hammer and Mary Marker; 2nd grade, Mrs. Nannette Hildebrand, Carolyn Olson and Mrs. Douglas Schmidt; 3rd grade, Mrs. Gladys Kline, Marian Peterson and Pansy Larsen.

Fourth grade, Mrs. Viva Parker, Mrs. Nettie Watermiller and Janice Stokke; 5th grade, Mrs. Arba Selegleid and Mrs. Minnie Haas; 6th grade, Bonnie Evenson and Judith Gilbertson; junior high, Jeannette Van Drie, Paul Hickman, Bethel Haberkamp, Mrs. Cecil Elgin and Paul Buck.

New Music Teacher

Elementary music, Marleen Meyers; principal, Paul Buck; vocation agriculture, Francis Kelly; band, John Duncan; athletic director, boys' physical education and shop, Dick Hobbs; history and driver training, Ed Bruner; mathematics, Ernest Doeringsfeld; girls' physical education, Myrtis Drevs; vocal music and English, Ivan Kortkamp.

Vocational homemaking, DeOn Nelson; commercial, Marlys McGarvey; biology and science, Robert Wilson; dramatics and English, Mrs. Gertrude Hoffman; English and Spanish, Mrs. Audrey Duncan; social studies and physical training; John Stenberg; bookkeeping, Harold Eiffler; art, Thaeron Doolittle.

Goodell Teachers

Teachers at Goodell will be — kindergarten, Mrs. Clarice Carlson; 2nd and 3rd grades, Mrs. Agnes Robbins; 4th and 5th, Mrs. Lucile Chapman.

Mrs. Alta Smith will continue as school nurse. And again comprising the janitorial staff will be Philip Erdman, Adolph Wenzel, Chris Friesleben and Henry Nolte, the latter at Goodell. Bill Smith will be superintendent of the busses.

Book fees will be the same as last year: grades 1 through 3, $2.25; 4 through 8, $2.50; and high school, $2.75. Special courses will require small additional fees, as usual.

Hot lunch fees will be $1.25 by the week and 30 cents for individual meals. Mrs. Mattie Farmer will once more head the Belmond cooking staff, assisted by Mrs. Cleo Nicholson, Mrs. Viola Dempsey and Mrs. Esther Stoltenberg. At Goodell, the hot lunch cook will be Mrs. Roy Foss.

Airell Clark Duplicates 1955 Top Lamb Choice

With judging and award lists still incomplete by press time, on all entries and classes in the 4-H Club Fair at Eagle Grove, BHS Future Farmers of America and 4-H boys in the Belmond vicinity had already won an enviable share of awards in the livestock show.

STEENHARD-KLING WEDDING WAS EVENT OF AUGUST 4TH

Miss Marilyn Kay Steenhard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Steenhard, became the bride of Richard Harlan Kling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Kling, Saturday evening, Aug. 4, at 7:30 o'clock at the St. John Lutheran church. Rev. William Heinzig performed the double-ring ceremony before a candle-lit altar decorated with baskets of white gladiolas.

Mrs. Bert Kalkwarf, organist, played traditional nuptial music and accompanied Arnette TerHark as he sang, "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. It was styled with a short, lace jacket over lace bodice; the sleeves coming to a point at the wrists. The net skirt cascaded into fullness with rows of gathered net ruffles.

Her veil of imported French illusion edged with Chantilly lace was attached to tiers of lace formed into a pointed crown with a single strand of pearl trim. She carried a white prayer book, gift of the groom, which bore a white orchid tied with satin streamers.

Sharon TerHark of Kanawha was matron of honor. She wore a white nylon street length gown over green taffeta and carried a colonial bouquet of green and white carnations tied with green satin ribbon. Sharon Steenhard, sister of the bride, and Shirley Soma, who were bridesmaids, wore gowns of light green over white taffeta, and carried similar bouquets.

Geraldine Didio, flower girl, wore a dress of white nylon over green taffeta and carried a basket of assorted flowers. Lindsey Morris, a cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin pillow with green bows.

Rolland Kling of Marion served his brother as bestman. Groomsmen were Arnette TerHark of Kanawha and Ardell Kaduce of Belmond. Kenneth White and Miran Kling served as ushers and candlelighters were Randall Langlitz of Klemme and Lynn Jurgens of Thornton.

The bride's mother wore a beige flowered dress with matching accessories, and the mother of the groom chose a navy dress with white accessories. They both wore corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was decorated with her colors and the centerpiece was the wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Lloyd Jurgens of Hampton and Mrs. Henry Pals, Jr., of Sheffield, aunts of the bride, cut the cake. Mrs. David Steenhard of Latimer, also an aunt of the bride, poured.

Della Harty of California had charge of the guest book and Elaine Reichardt and Sandra Didio were in charge of the gifts. The waitresses for the bride's table were Elna Jenison, JoAnn McMurray, Marlys Steenhard and Wanda Pals. The dining room hostess was Mrs. Henry Pals, Jr., of Sheffield.

The bride's grandfather, John Wieman of Thornton, and grandmother, Mrs. K. K. Steenhard, were honored guests.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore an off-white suit with beige accessories. After a short trip, the couple is now at home in Belmond where Mr. Kling is employed by Packard and Jenison Electric Co.

LOTS OF IOWA CITIES ARE FINDING BONDS BEST WAY TO OBTAIN A POOL

While the issue appears to be a dead one here for the time being, we can't refrain from observing that any number of Iowa communities no better equipped financially than Belmond are destined to enjoy the benefits of new, community swimming pools next summer. Among them is Lake Mills, which just recently approved a bond issue for that purpose.

We note that Iowa Falls has a bond election coming up on Aug 31 intended to provide funds to build a new and larger pool there. The pool it has at present has been outgrown. But despite its inadequate size, it has operated at a profit for the past seven or eight years and City Manager Angus Crawford expressed the confident belief that a new pool costing $140,000 "would pay its own way financially."

Grinnell, whose municipal tax millage regularly surpasses Belmond's, recently approved a bond issue for building a swimming pool, the affirmative margin being 11 to 1. Nevada is another town that lately voted itself a pool. It's happening all over the state.

How much does a pool cost in millage if you bond for it? Well, Iowa Falls figures it won't run over two mills; probably less. At such modest expense to the taxpayer, these progressive communities are showing no hesitance over providing their children the healthful and recreational benefits of a swimming pool.

Very apparently we went at it the wrong way in last year's effort to obtain a pool here. But maybe we could line up with those cities and towns who feel they OWE their kids a swimming pool — and have DONE something about it — if we tried it the bond issue way.

It's so much bosh to say we "can't afford it." Neither can it be truthfully said that to bond ourselves for a pool would prevent us from undertaking other civic improvements that call for attention. No less than private resources, municipal funds are OUR money—to raise and spend as we see fit.

It doesn't seem right that we should be endlessly satisfied to leave ourselves in a "poor relation" status where this important recreation facility for our children is concerned—sending them off to "the neighbors," because we refuse to provide for them ourselves. One good way to find out if the bulk of us ARE satisfied with this state of affairs would be to petition for a swimming pool bond issue and see what happens.

10 YEARS FOR $800,000! PRETTY EASY? WELL, PERHAPS NOT SO EASY, AT THAT

A chance conversation we were a party to the other day rather changed our line of thinking on a matter. It had to do with that ex-auditor of the state of Illinois, who got light-fingered with some $800,000 in public funds and has been given a penitentiary term of 10 years.

There are lots like us inclined to look at such a penalty as pretty light punishment for a crime of such magnitude. And maybe, in a manner of speaking, it is. Many a youg punk has drawn more time for an amateurish break-in that netted no more than $40 or $50.

Then this conversation we were engaged in turned to a Wright countian who some time back got "careless" in doing business with the government and was unable to cough up a large a sum of money when it was needed to save his skin. He received, as a penalty, a ridiculously short term in the federal pen; and there was lots of critical talk when he was released after serving less than half of his time.

"Pretty soft," was the general opinion of those familiar with the crime and its punishment. But we wonder. Today the man's broke. He needs a job—desperately. His condition of health eliminates the possibility of resorting to physical labor. For a while he had employment as a sales clerk in a store; but many stores insist on their sales help being bonded. This one did, and of course no bonding company would consider the fellow as an applicant. So be was let out.

He's asked friends for "character references" in his effort to line up another means of earning a livelihood. They can say he's "very likeable;" that he's a "good, hard worker." But honesty compels them to remark in passing, "Of course, there WAS that difficulty he was as involved in . . ." And what sort of "character reference" is that?

Ex-Auditor Hodge was regarded as having good prospect of becoming governor of his home state in 1960. Of course, THAT'S all over. His outlook, when he's done his time, will be the same bleak future that the Wright countian has found as his lot.

Many a peniteniary inmate never had much of a chance to be anything else. When he "comes out" he's not too much worse off than he was before. Maybe he's even profited by acquiring knowledge of a gainful occupation—something he never possessed before, perhaps.

But the man who had enjoyed a position of public trust and violated that trust emerges from prison with all hope for the future, as measured by his past, utterly gone. He's a derelict with no prospect of ever reaching a safe and friendly harbor. Two years . . . five years . . . 10 years? The length of his sentence has little bearing on the price he's required to pay. The real punishment comes when he's permitted to step from behind the bars; and we suspect that more often than not, it amply fits the crime.

Annette Swenson Dies Wednesday At Hospital Here

Annette Swenson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Swenson, died about 6:10 a. m. Wednesday at Belmond Community hospital from injuries suffered in an auto accident just south of Klemme on Highway 69 early Sunday morning. Three other Belmond young people also were injured in the car in which Miss Swenson was riding and are hospitalized here.

Arrangements for Miss Swenson's funeral were still incomplete at press time. Information can be obtained from Fulton Funeral Home.

Two young men from Hayfield, occupants of the auto that collided with the Belmond car, also sustained minor injuries that placed them for a short time in Mercy hospital at Mason City. Patrolman Elmer Engel of Garner informed The Independent that Mark Mary, 22, and his companion, Dean Geddes, suffered facial lacerations and shock but were released from the hospital early this week.

Johnson Was at Wheel

Arlen Pals, 21, was owner of the 1956 Chevrolet in which the Belmond party was riding, but Terry Johnson, 19, was at the wheel. Also a passenger in the car was Sandra Didio, 18. The boys, who are employed at Tip Top grocery, and the two girls, who clerk at P&G grocery, had gone up to a Clear Lake eating place after work Saturday night for a late snack and were returning home when the accident occurred about 12:45 a.m.

Latest report from the hospital gave the conditions of Miss Didio and young Pals as "good" and that of young Johnson as "satisfactory." Miss Didio suffered a fracture of the left forearm, minor facial abrasions, a contusion of the back and abrasion of the right knee. Johnson suffered a moderate cerebral concussion, chest contusions, minor facial lacerations and fracture of a small bone in one foot. Pals' injuries were limited to a chest contusion and minor lacerations.

Annette's Injuries Numerous

Miss Swenson's injuries were numerous and several were of a critical nature. She suffered a severe cerebral concussion and possible skull fracture, pelvic fracture and serious internal injury. In addition, she suffered fractures of the thigh bone, left ankle and left hand, minor facial lacerations and very severe contusions about the head that caused extreme swelling.

All the occupants of the Pals car were reportedly dozing at the time the accident occurred, except for Johnson, so they have been unable to give any information as to how the collision happened to occur. Miss Didio was in the front seat, Pals and Miss Swenson in the rear—the latter seated on the left. Up to mid-week, Johnson remained groggy from the effects of the concussion and had had little to say as to the cause of the mishap.

Car Reported "Weaving"

He did inform a member of his family that the car approaching from the south appeared to be weaving across the road as it neared the newly widened highway bridge where the two vehicles crashed. The collision apparently took place near the north end of the bridge.

Patrolman Engel told The Independent that cans of beer were found in Mary's car and that beer was detectable on the breath of both Mary and Geddes. The officer stated that it was possible that charges would be filed as an outgrowth of the collision, but would not elaborate on the nature of the charges contemplated.

No official statement as to the probable cause of the accident would be issued, the patrolman said, until he had an opportunity to question young Johnson. That would not be before this Thursday (today), he added, due to the youth's physical condition. Engel had questioned Mary at Mason City before his release from the hospital there.

Trucker First on Scene

First person to arrive at the scene of the accident was Lawrence Giesenberg of Garner, driving a semi-trailer for the Merchants Motor Freight. He came to the bridge an estimated four or five minutes after the collision and first noticed the Belmond car resting partly on the highway shoulder and part on the concrete at the south end.

He was almost upon the Mary car, sitting crossways of the highway at the north end of the bridge and extending a bit over the center line of the road, and barely managed to swerve his rig around the disabled vehicle. Giesenberg had the next passer-by notify the law and obtain medical aid while he endeavored to control traffic and made certain that the injured young people were not moved as a crowd began to gather.

Morse Speedboat Races Sunday Promise Thrills

Racing fans are promised one of the biggest treats ever offered thrill-seekers in this area when speedboat drivers from three states gather at Morse lake Sunday for an afternoon of competition under auspices of the Belmond Junior Chamber of Commerce and Belmond Lions club. The event will start at 1:30 p. m., rain or shine.

Many hundreds of spectators gathered for a similar program held at Morse lake last summer. However, Promoter Lewis Nichols, Jr., of Webster City promises that Sunday's meet will see more drivers and more classes of speedboats in action and that the program in general will far surpass the one that thrilled the very sizeable audience a year ago.

All of the speedboat racing associations of this midwestern region, with the exception of the Mid-State Racing association that is sponsoring this weekend's event, have ended their '56 season. As a result, outstanding drivers from a number of the other race organizations are planning to take a final fling at prize money by entering the Morse lake races.

Nichols says there will be 12 events, involving six classes of crafts. These will include A, B, and C utility boats and the same classifications of hydroplanes. Considerably more of the speedy, loud-roaring hydro's will be on hand than last time; and it was these that provided the afternoon's top thrills before.

Most of the drivers who hauled down major portions of last year's prize money will be back. They have been making impressive records in Mid-State meets during the current summer, again. They will include Dewey Christopherson of Austin, Minn., Bob Stevens of Omaha, Neb., Jim Melone of Des Moines, Lewis Nichols of Webster City and a pair of water speedsters from this general vicinity—Bob Johnson of Humboldt and Glade Hiechel of Greene.

Since the races are conducted on a state-owned lake, an admission fee cannot be officially charged; but the Lions and Jaycees are again asking spectators to pay a voluntary fee of $1.00 apiece to defray the heavy cost of the entertainment. The two organizations must post more than $500 in prize money to attract the prominent drivers who will be competing.

To make it a good attraction for all comers, the Jaycees and Lions—in addition to paying the cost of setting up the meet—will award a number of gate prizes during the afternoon. They believe it will make an afternoon jam-packed with fun and thrills and anticipate a good turn-out for the race program.

Such net proceeds as the event may return will be devoted by the two sponsoring organizations to their respective public service projects.

Belmond Shows Largest Business Gain Of Any Trading Center in Local Area

Figures released last week by the retail sales and use tax division of the state tax commission for the fiscal year that ended June 30 showed Belmond making the largest trade gain during the four-quarter period of any trading center in this immediate vicinity. The quarters involved were the four that ended March 31 of this year.

Belmond enjoyed a nine per cent gain in trade volume over the preceding four quarters, the tax figures revealed. From a total of only $3,870.293 for the fiscal year that ended March 31, 1955, business increased by $346.896 to reach a gross of $4,217,189.

This constituted the first fiscal year that Belmond has ever exceeded four million dollars in retail trade volume. New car sales are not included in the figures, as they are listed in the use tax division of the report.

No neighboring community that might be considered an immediate competitor of Belmond's for trade was able to match the volume gain achieved here. Hampton was the only nearby trade center that approached it.

More than twice Belmond's size and having the added advantage of being the Franklin county seat, Hampton's retail sales for the latest fiscal tax year far outstripped Belmond's; but it's $10.093.901 gross represented only a five per cent increase over the previous fiscal year.

Further evidence to the effect that Garner's 500 to 600 smaller population is no longer cancelled by its county seat advantage was provided by comparison of its taxable sales with those of Belmond. Whereas the Hancock county seat had a larger sales volume in 1954-55 by more than $230,000, the latest fiscal tax year found its gross trailing Belmond's by close to $50,000.

Garner showed a decline in gross sales from $4.169.835 to $4,100,699, a drop of a little more than 1.6 per cent. Clarion had the same experience but its decrease in retail sales was smaller, amounting to only 13 hundredths of a per cent or $7,502. This put the Wright county seat's taxable sales for 1955-56 at $5,649,504.

Eagle Grove stole a march on its No. 1 county business rival by posting a 2 8 per cent gain in trade and surpassing Clarion in actual retail trade volume. Whereas Clarion did a 1954-55 volume of retail business that came to $5,657,006 to Eagle Grove's $5,578,150, the latter's gross jumped to $5,734,542 in the last fiscal year —or $85,038 more than Clarion's.

Rural Wright county, which encompasses all retail sales outlets except those in the three largest communities, showed the biggest loss in trade between 1954-55 and 1955-56. It dropped $165,465, down to a total of $3,828,386, representing a 4.1 decrease percentagewise.

There appear to be several possible explanations for the remarkably consistent gains in business volume that Belmond has made in the past several years, in the opinion of Luin Cox, Chamber of Commerce secretary. One may be that the community simply has grown in population since the 1950 census was taken. Another may be that Belmond merchants are keeping a larger share of the local potential trade "at home" than ever before.

And considering the trade losses shown by Belmond's most direct business competitors — Clarion, Garner and the business establishments of rural Wright county — Mr. Cox suggests that Belmond's trade territory may be expanding to take in more area than in the past.

NUMEROUS BLUE RIBBONS EARNED AT E. G. FAIR BY BELMOND STOCK

In adition to the championship honors won by 4-H and FFA livestock exhibitors of the Belmond area, as reported in The Independent last week, a number of other young stockmen ranked high in various divisions at the Eagle Grove fair and brought home blue ribbons representative of their achievements. These honors are outlined below.

Loren Payne had the No. 1 heavyweight Shorthorn and other blue ribbons in this class went to Eric Buseman and David Suntken (2). David also had the No. 2 lightweight Shorthorn.

In the dairy cattle show, Terrill Baker had the No. 1 grade heifer calf and the No. 3 purebred or grade yearling heifer.

Besides his grand champion market lamb, Airell Clark had the champion pen of three lambs and the champion ewe lamb eligible for registry, plus a second blue ribbin ewe. John Studebaker, in addition to taking the sheep showmanship award and having the reserve champion pen of lambs, took blue ribbons in the open market lamb judging and with a second pen of three lambs.

Ronnie Kloberdanz and Larry Mennenga each won blue ribbons with pens of three lambs and Kloberdanz, along with Donald Hanson, Larry Severson and Lynn Mennenga, was among the blue ribbon winners in the market lamb division.

ONE AUGUST INDUCTEE

Donald Ray Shaw of Rowan was the only inductee needed to fill Wright county's August draft quota. He was sworn into military service at Des Moines on Tuesday of last week.

Christopher Asks More from County For Strip of Land

Supervisor and Mrs. A. W. Christopher of Eagle Grove last Saturday in Wright county district court filed an appeal against a condemnation award made to them for a strip of farm property condemned to widen a road right-of-way.

Appraised value of a 33-foot strip of land at the north edge of a quarter section of land owned by the Christophers was first placed at $520.47, but an error in figuring was later discovered and the amount amended to $712.47.

However, the Christophers ask that the award amount be increased to $2,424, with an extra $100 to the farm tenant, their son Russell, for crops destroyed. The condemnation commission had awarded the tenant $41.28.

The Christopher farm is about three miles northeast of Eagle Grove. Amounts awarded for similar 33-foot strips required from adjacent quarters owned by Dennis H. and Ruby Moon and by Dallas and Anna Stapp were accepted by the owners without objection.

Norums Purchase Mosiman Station

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Norum, lately of Dubuque but for a number of years residents of Clarion, on Saturday of this week will become proprietors of the Texaco service station and cafe that has been owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mosiman.

Until the early part of this year, Mr. Norum was a partner in the Firestone store at Clarion. After selling ~~his~~ interest, he accepted a selling job and has since been living with his family in Dubuque.

The transaction transferring ownership of the service station and cafe to the Norums was consumated last week. Mr. and Mrs. Mosiman say that their future plans are uncertain at the present.

BIRTHDAYS OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Middleton of Eagle Grove were Saturday evening guests in the Dick Middleton home helping their grandson Tommy celebrate his 14th birthday which was on Thursday and Ronny his 10th on Sunday.

ONE PLUM FELL

Carmen McLaughlin was the only person to pick a Cash Gift Day plum Tuesday afternoon. She plucked a nifty worth $50 at 3:00 o'clock The departed "fifty" is being replaced so there'll be the same amount hanging on the limb next Tuesday afternoon. That will make four $25's at 2:00 p.m. and five $50's at 3:00 o'clock. You can't pick up those plums though, folks, unless you are on hand to shake the tree!

McKinney Accepts Call of Baptists

Rev. Harry A. McKinney, who has been minister of a church at Farmington the past 3½ years, last Sunday conducted his first service as new pastor of the Fundamental Baptist church. Both he and Mrs. McKinney are natives of Aurora, Ill.

McKINNEY

They have five children: Sandra Lynn, who will be 16 in September; Bunny Louise, age 14; Jeffrey Lynn, 12; Susan Irene, 11; and Candace Naomi, five years old.

Mr. McKinney is a graduate of East Aurora High school with the Class of '39 and attended Augustana college at Rock Island, Ill., for one year. He was employed by an Illinois hatchery when he was conyerted to the Christian faith seven years ago and answered a call to the ministry.

He received his clerical training at Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, graduating in 1954. He served the church at Farmington as a student pastor while attending Moody and assumed full-time duties after completion of his ministerial course.

A spokesman for the Baptist church board says, "Members of the church feel that they have been very fortunate in obtaining the ministry of the Rev. Mr. McKinney."

Jenisons on Long Journey by Cycle

Postmaster George Jenison and his wife on Wednesday of last week returned to Belmond after completing a 1,785-mile motorcycle trip that took them to Denver, Colo., and then back home via the Black Hills. At Denver, the Jenisons visited two war-time buddies of George's and their families.

George says that the lengthy journey on his British-made motorcycle was undertaken "for sport, rather than for economy's sake." Nevertheless, the economy angle was there. The entire jaunt took only 32 gallons of gas, as the machine averaged 56 miles to the gallon.

The motorcycle has a "cruising speed" of 60 to 65 miles an hour, according to George, and managed very well to keep up with the regular flow of traffic. Both he and his wife agreed that "the craziest driving" they witnessed during their entire trip was prevalent right here in Iowa.

WILL OPEN BEAUTY SHOP

A story on the Meservey page of this issue tells of the plans of Mrs. Genevieve Suntken of Meservey to open a new beauty shop here on Wednesday of next week. It will be located in the quarters at the rear of Dougherty Jewelry and be known as Gen's Beauty Shoppe. Mrs. Suntken is a graduate of La-James Beauty college at Mason City and has had seven years experience as a cosmetologist.

Farm Fire Burns Shed, Machinery

An expensive fire at the Alexander farm of H. C. Hansen early Sunday morning completely destroyed a machine shed and all of its contents. Equipment lost included three tractors, a combine and cornpicker. The farm is located three-quarters of a mile west of Alexander.

Mr. Hansen, who lives here at Belmond, is carrier on the Alexanded rural mail route in addition to operating the farm.

Cause of the blaze was not learned. The flames had gained such headway by the time the fire was discovered that nothing could be done by the Alexander fire department toward saving the shed or any of the machinery.

Embolism Causes Teacher's Death

Mrs. Ann Swanger of Clarion, who had signed a contract to teach in the Belmond junior high school during the year just starting, died very suddenly Monday night of an embolism. She had undergone major surgery early this month in what was an unsuccessful attempt to remove a cancerous growth.

This past summer Mrs. Swanger had completed study at Drake university to fulfill her requirements for a Bachelor of Science degree in education and was to have received her diploma this week. In recent years she had been a teacher at Galt.

Mrs. Paul Buck, wife of the new high school principal, is teaching the classes that it had been intended Mrs. Swanger would teach.

Enrollment Hits Total of 1,075

Supt. Don Faris reported to The Independent on Tuesday evening that his advance estimate of enrollment in the Belmond Community schools for the new school year erred somewhat in being too conservative. Whereas he had expected the total number of students to fall slightly below 1,050, by the end of the second day of school the figure stood at 1,075. This is 65 more than enrolled at the start of the 1955-56 year.

An unexpected upsurge in the sixth-grade class total, bringing its size to 80 students, partly accounted for the error in estimate. Also enrollment in the Goodell school, totaling 103, was somewhat larger that Mr. Faris had expected.

Students at Goodell registered as follows in kindergarten through fifth grade: K— 14, 1st—21, 2nd—17, 3rd—18, 4th—21, 5th—12. Belmond lower grade enrollment ran: K—80, 1st—81, 2nd—84, 3rd—83, 4th—72, 5th—62, 6th—80. Junior high students total 147 in number, 75 in 7th grade and 72 in 8th.

FIGURES INCORRECT

Incorrect figures were inadvertantly copied down as the weights of the grand champion baby beef of Larry Schimp and reserve champion of Leslie Mechem, Clarion. In last week's story on the fair livestock show, Schimp's prize-winning medium weight Angus was a 945-pounder and Mechem's heavyweight Hereford weighed 1,015 pounds.

E. G. Fair Auction Brings High Prices

Surprisingly high prices paid at the annual livestock auction Wednesday afternoon of last week that climaxed the Eagle Grove Junior District Fair sent the grand total soaring to an all-time high of almost $58,000. The $57,915.38 gross was more than $10,000 in excess of the sum realized on animals sold following the 1955 fair.

Helping materially in producing the record-breaking total were the prices paid Larry Schimp of Belmond for his grand champion baby beef and to Robert Eckstrom of Vincent for his grand champion market hog.

Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company of Belmond bid in Schimp's 945-pound Angus steer at $52.50 per hundredweight to bring the young stockman $496.12. Eagle Grove Grain company paid the stratospheric price of $112.50 per cwt. for Eckstrom's prize barrow. It weighed 205 pounds, making the selling price $230.62. Last year the champion hog brought $86 per hundredweight and the champion calf, $40.

Airell Clark's champion market lamb topped its auction division, bringing $37 per cwt. from Don Sorenson of Eagle Grove. This was three dollars under what Clark's 1955 champion brought him per hundred, but the 90-pound wooly still brought his owner $33.30.

Second highest baby beef price was paid to Leslie Mechem of Clarion on his reserve grand champion Hereford. Boone Valley Co-op of Eagle Grove bid this steer in at $31 per cwt., paying a total of $317.75.

The record group of 201 calves brought an average price of $27 17, a good $2.00 above regular market price and $3.62 over the 1955 auction average. Total price paid for the calves came to $53,042.28 compared to $44,041.01 a year ago that was brought by 195 steers. This year's entries averaged heavier than 1955's, 971 pounds to 959.

A total of 81 hogs went under the hammer, bringing a total of $3,551.99 on an average price of $21.20. Last year, 77 hogs averaged $18.92 per cwt. and brought in $2,852.77. Average weight ran heavier in the hog division, too, 208 pounds as compared to 1955's 196.

There were 64 lambs offered for sale, 20 more than a year ago; and average price was $22.60 as compared to $19.98, making the respective totals $1,311.11 and $846.19. This year's lambs averaged five pounds less than the 96 that prevailed at last year's fair.

Belmond buyers were well represented among the private concerns — as opposed to packing plants — that helped to make the fair auction such a resounding success. Following is a listing of the owners, per hundred price, and total paid for baby beeves:

Tyrrell Stock Farm — Arlen Pals ($28.50) $307.80; Gary Ersland ($27.50) $268.12; Dennis Hauge ($27) $255.15; Dennis Vanness ($27.50) $284.62; P&G Grocery — David Suntken ($26.75) $219 35; Tip Top Grocery — Larry Ersland ($28 25) $310 75; Randy Braner ($25 75) $240.76; Dennis Barkema ($27.50) $295.62.

Stores to Close

Luin Cox, secretary of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce, calls attention of Belmond shoppers to the fact that local stores will observe their usual custom of remaining closed all day on Labor Day, next Monday. There will be the customary exceptions, some of the eating places, service stations and the like staying open part of the day or observing their regular business schedules. Due to the holiday, The Independent will be distributed a day late next week.

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

A heart-touching story is passed on to us by Ellis Elliott, con[illegible] a elderly minister who took pride in training a fine, boys' choir while he was pastor of the Episcopalian church at New[illegible]. Then the clergyman left New[illegible] and in due time "his boys" entirely lost track of his whereabouts.

Recently one of the Rev. John Wilcox's former choristers discovered that he is currently living in a home for the aged at Boston, Mass.

Some 30 men who once sang in that boys' choir of yesteryear eagerly contributed to a fund to bring the elderly minister back to New[illegible] for a reunion dinner with his former proteges. A week ago Friday, Ellis was one of the group that had the pleasure of breaking bread and reminiscing with the happy cleric.

If you harbor the same curiosity regarding that familiar harbinger of fall — the box-elder bug — that we do, you might tune in on WOI-TV next Monday at 12:00 noon and get the low-down. Harold "Tiny" Gunderson, the popular extension entomologist, will expound on the orange and black critters who'll be coming out of hiding before long to warn us that Indian summer's here and cold weather's just around the corner.

There are Gallagher kittens on the market, once again (for free, of course). Not as long-haired as some litters of the past, they're nevertheless fluffy little fellows. One's a red tiger-stripe, one's red with white markings (or vice versa) and the third is a red. white and black calico. Phone 6107 to get your bid in.

We notice that Joe Duea's offspring continue to track in the footsteps of "the old man." In the 4-H swine division at the state fair, there was Alan Duea at the top of the heap in the Duroc class with the best boar, sow and litter. Both Alan and his younger sister were major winners in the baby beef show at the North Iowa Fair, too. As a former Belmond postmaster (AND master farmer), we still like to claim Joe as one of "ours," despite his desertion to Thornton.

Shirley Proeger informs the Mainstreeters (in re item in last week's column) that, appearances notwithstanding, she did NOT get lost in her capacity of marshal of the Centennial parade. She'd been instructed by the parade chairman to keep going until she'd "[illegible]" all the floats following her lead, the idea being to prevent congestion at the parade's starting point. So she "kept going" — until she got clear out to the skating rink. There she found three floats STILL faithfully following!

Last Saturday when Dave Hickman, who will serve as junior high football coach, showed up at the practice field Coach Dick Hobbs asked him if he wouldn't like to lend a hand with the freshman candidates. Looking at a husky fellow who was with Hickman—and assuming that he, too, was a new faculty member — Hobbs added, "Maybe your friend would like to help out, too."

Both Hickman and his companion were agreeable, and proceeded to put the preps through their paces.

Hobbs was a mite embarrassed to learn later that the unfamiliar "faculty member" he'd drafted into service was in actuality the new Baptist minister, Rev. Harry McKinney. Dick says the clergyman seemed to know what he was doing; which well he might. He played high school ball at East Aurora and was later a squad member at Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., Hobbs learned.

After spending the handsome amount of nearly $500 (to be exact, [illegible]) to purchase the grand champion beef of Larry Schimp at the Eagle Grove fair, the Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company might be forgiven in feeling a bit miffed at the way the deal was reported by the extension office in its newspaper release on the auction.

These commercial firms, when all is said and done, pay the big prices that they do at these fair auctions to gain advertising and good will. "R. B." and his confreres would likely have raised an eyebrow to see their firm identified as the "Tommy Hawk Corn Co."

Incidentally, the Belmond Chamber of Commerce was quite noticeable by its absence from among the baby beef purchasers at Eagle Grove. Listed as buyers were the Chambers of 'Clarion and Eagle Grove, the Kanawha Commercial club — and even the Belmond Junior Chamber. Gents, it pays to let the farmers KNOW you're interested in 'em!

Here's one for old timers, exclusively. C-of-C Secretary Lu Cox last week received from J. G. Nicolosi of Oakland, Calif., a request for help in obtaining for his collection of tranportation tokens a brass one almost the size of a half dollar that once circulated in Belmond. The gentleman must know whereof he speaks, as he quotes the token's inscription; and he is most eager to acquire a specimen.

He says the brass piece reads on one side, "Snyder [illegible] & Transfer Line, Belmond, Ia." On the other is inscribed, "GOOD FOR ONE [illegible]."

Writes Mr. Nicolosi, "I would like [illegible] to obtain one or more of these tokens. I will, of course, [illegible] to pay for any sent to me. [illegible] know of some old [illegible] have one or more, [illegible] of someone who [illegible] no idea, personal[illegible] [illegible] dray business [illegible] here. But [illegible] one of his [illegible].

Meservey Offers 4 New Subjects In High School

Four new subjects are being offered Meservey High school students during the 1956-57 school year, according to Supt. Lovell Diddy. Added to the curriculum are trigonometry, chemistry, physics and shorthand. Driver training, which was introduced last year, is again being provided.

School opened Monday with a half-day session and got into full swing on Tuesday. Faculty members assembled on Friday for two days of meetings prior to the start of classes. Considerable painting was done in the school building during vacation and a number of improvements made in the building and grounds. Also, the busses were repaired and seats in the oldest one recovered. Sufficient new maps and globes were bought to equip the entire school.

Four new teachers were added to the faculty for the current year. They are: Marjery Roseland, Goldfield, who will teach 3rd grade; Raymond King, Iowa Falls, junior high; Perle Schubert, Garner, 6th grade; and Vance Paulson, Forest City, boys' coach, science and driver training instructor.

Lola Harris, Springfield, Mo., English and dramatics (2nd); Alice Ruiter, Meservey, social studies, band and vocal instructor (5th); John Wetzler, Meservey, manual arts, science and mathmatics (2nd); Robert Perkins, Meservey, commercial instructor and principal (2nd).

Hot lunch cooks will again be Mrs. Mel Smith, Mrs. Gordon Greer and Mrs. Lester Hopkey. Mrs. Smith will be serving her 11th year in this capacity and the other two each their second.

Five busses will transport 180 students daily to the Meservey school. Their drivers will be Harm Groen, Jr., Henry Behrends, Ben J. Boelman, Daniel Pals and Lester Hopkey.

Johnine Brown Writes Briefly Of Experiences

From Johnine Brown, who has been a U. S. representative in Europe this summer to attend an international Junior Red Cross training school under auspices of the American Red Cross, The Independent last week received a postal card telling of some of her experiences.

"Never have I seen such a beautiful setting for a training center as the Bavarian Alps," wrote the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, "and Lake Chiemsee surrounding us at Chiemsee, Germany.

"The scenery inspired the noblest, most enthusiastic spirit I've ever seen. One hundred and 25 delegates from six countries attended, and you can imagine how interesting it was to compare the different backgrounds and to conquer the slight language barriers!

"In Stuttgart we evaluated our training center experiences for the European area staff and discussed life behind the iron curtain with refugees from East Germany at an evening picnic.

"We have been received as official guests of the Belgian and Luxembourg National Red Cross societies. Am enjoying all the new experiences and the countryside immensely, for the people are so friendly."

"I am preparing a story for your paper to be submitted upon my return."

Miss Brown's card was received from Brussells, Belgium, and mailed on Aug. 16. She is due back in the United States early in September.

Wright Ranks Among 100 U.S. Top Crop Producers

Wright county in 1954 ranked among the top 100 counties in the nation in production of both corn and soybeans, according to a news release received last week from the U. S. Department of Commerce. It was in 58th place in regard to number of acres planted in corn, but ranked 33rd in yield. In soybean acreage it stood 90th; but good average yield brought it up to 47th place in number of bushels harvested.

In that year, Wright had 126.804 acres planted in corn and harvested 7,736,987 bushels for an average yield of 61 bushels per acre. The county's soybean planting amounted to 45,959 acres. These yielded 1,325,941 bushels for an average of just under 29 bushels to the acre.

Counties adjoining Wright figured prominently among the 100 top producers in both corn and soybeans, also. Over-sized Kossuth was near the national top in both grains, ranking 6th in regard to corn acreage and 7th in number of bushels yielded (202,794 and 12,-490,208); 23rd in number of acres in soybeans and 14th in bushels harvested (83,101 and 2,252,132).

Franklin county was 52nd in number of corn acres with 129,362, but a yield average of 61.6 bushels gave it 29th place in total bushels harvested — 7,968,670. In soybeans, Franklin didn't rate among the top 100 producers.

Hancock ranked 98th in corn acreage (113,508) but was up in 45th place on bushels harvested (7,206,066). It was not among the 100 leading counties as to soybean acreage but ranked 43rd in bushels harvested, with 1,010,390.

Humboldt, likewise, missed the charmed 100 on soybean acreage but nevertheless was in 71st place on yield with 1,097,947 bushels. It didn't figure among the leading counties on either acreage or total yield where corn was concerned.

Webster county was 30th in number of corn acres and 25th in yield. In addition it ranked 31st in soybean acreage — and 16th in bushels harvested. Hamilton was No. 46 in corn acres and 52nd in bushels produced. It failed to make the top 100 in soybean acreage but was 59th in soybeans harvested.

Hardin county was 82nd in corn acres and 58th in total yield. Cerro Gordo ranked 88th in corn acreage and 48th in bushels harvested.

There were 37 Iowa counties among the top 100 in corn acreage. Considerable difference in yield was shown among those counties, however. For example, Woodbury had 167.863 acres planted, for 15th place; but an average below 44 bushels per acre cut the total yield so drastically that this county ranked only 40th in total bushels harvested.

Iowa had only nine counties in the top 100 as to soybean acreage. Besides Wright, Webster and Hamilton, these included Calhoun, Monona, Greene, Pocahontas, O'-Brien and Palo Alto. Yields were good in Iowa, though, giving it 21 counties among the leading hundred counties in regard to bushels harvested.

It should be of local interest that the leading county in the nation in both corn acres planted and bushels harvested was McLean in Illinois, where Lexington — home of Tomahawk Seed company — is located. Though a huge county of 1,173 square miles area (compared to Wright's 577 and Kossuth's 979), McLean did not attain its leadership on size alone.

Its 278,291 acres in corn produced 17,559,360 bushels for an average yield of 63.1 per acre. That was slightly over two bushels per acre more than Wright averaged in 1954.

That McLean farmers rotate their crops in the recommended manner was evidenced by the fact that the county also rated 15th in the nation as to soybean acreage (89,706) and was clear up in 6th place in total bushels of beans harvested (2,726,928). That figures out to an average yield of 30.3 bushels per acre, or better than 13 more than Wright's 1954 performance.

This would suggest that R. B. Thompson, Chuck Wilmarth, et al got set up in the center of some mighty fine farm land when they purchased the Iowealth company of Lexington several years ago.

FHA Credit Rules Lately Broadened

Recent changes in the laws governing the Farmers Home Administration will enable the agency to serve the credit needs of a larger number of farm families, according to Harry L. Ladman of Clarion, area supervisor. He and his staff attended a policy meeting held in Mason City on Monday and Tuesday of last week.

The new law provides broader authority to assist family-type farmers. Operating loans may now be made for refinancing of current debts as well as for the purchase of livestock, equipment and payment of operating expenses. These loans are repayable over periods up to seven years and initial operating loans may be made in amounts up to $10,000.

Farm ownership loans bearing 4½ per cent interest may be made for the purchase of farms, buying additional land, building improvement and soil and water conservation. It is also possible to refinance present real estate loans and may include the refinancing of other indebtedness.

All loans made by the Farmers Home Administration will be scheduled for repayment in accordance with the borrower's ability to pay. New loans will be made only to applicants who are unable to obtain local credit necessary for efficient operations. No loans will be made unless certified by the local County FHA Committee.

New John Deere Going on Display

Bob Garms, proprietor of Farmers Implement store, announces that the new model 620 John Deere tractor will go on display at his establishment for the first time this Saturday. Open house for showing of the new machine, which boasts a number of major advancements in design, will be conducted between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m.

The 620, along with the 520 and 720 series, is entirely new, Mr. Garms says. While the engines retain the basic two-cylinder design of past John Deere, they deliver much more power, according to the local John Deere dealer. An advanced hydraulic system is outstanding among the 620's new features, he adds.

Commercial Beef Honors to Wepel

Although he placed first in neither judging category — daily rate of gain and margin of selling over purchase price — Roger Wepel of Woolstock took top honors in the commercial beef competition at the Eagle Grove district junior fair. His steer showed the second highest gain among 12 entries and was third in margin of selling price over purchase price.

Average daily gain over 280 days of feeding shown by the dozen steers was 1.79 pounds, and average hargin of sale price over purchase price was 3.1 cents per pound.

The entry of Ronald Scott, Eagle Grove, wound up at 1,818 pounds, just three more than Wepel's. A steer entered by Paul and Patricia Waters of Dows brought an average of 4.99 cents per pound more than purchase price to head that judging division. An animal entered by Ilene and Arlene Woodley of Rowan ranked second with a price gain of 4.65 cents and Wepel was third at 4.31.

Entries of Wepel, Scott and the Woodley twins earned blue ribbons on point totals of 183, 165 and 164, respectively. Among six red ribbon winners was Larry Mennenga of Belmond and a white ribbon went to Kenneth Halfpap.

New Tuning Device For TV Available

Ray Haugland of Ray's Radio and TV Service believes that Zenith has come out with a gadget for television tuning that will prove highly popular. Called "Space Command TV," it's a remote control tuner that can be held in the palm of the hand.

Without batteries, electricity, light or radio waves, the four-button affair enables a listener to operate a TV set located clear across a room. You can turn the set on or off, dial right or left to bring in a desired channel, and even silence commercials! The "Space Command" weighs only eight ounces.

Ray foresees that a favorite use of the device may be to bring poorly timed and poorly written commercials the fate they properly deserve. He cites a statement by Larry Wolters, Chicago Tribune TV editor, to the affect that, "If such devices ever achieve mass circulation as commercial killer, TV sponsors may have to give very serious thought to good taste and moderation in their advertising appeals."

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1956

Better is a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king, who knoweth not how to receive admonition any more. — Ecc. 4:13.

—o—

FOLLOWING DON FARIS'S LEAD ANOTHER EIGHT YEARS SHOULD JUST ABOUT DO IT

Patrons of Belmond Community school district should have been little surprised at the announcement last week that enrollment in the district's school system has reached an all-time high as the 1956-57 year gets underway. When only 54 seniors graduate — as was the case last spring, and a kindergarten class of 96 is launched on its educational career — as is the case this fall, the handwriting regarding the future is legible enough for anyone to read. The peak of our school enrollment has by no means been reached, as yet.

But it is not our purpose to comment upon the future, except in the degree to which we can face it with calm confidence that we'll measure up to its demands. We believe we can enjoy such confidence because Belmond has done an admirable job of keeping pace with its educational responsibilities during the challenging, post-war years that have left many a school system floundering and resorting to makeshift planning of a purely temporary nature.

Belmond school patrons may pat themselves on the back for this state of affairs insofar as their congratulations are limited to their readiness to accept the extraordinary leadership with which they have been provided. But the bouquets should rightfully go to one man, and he is Supt. Don Faris.

Don would be the first to point out that the backing of a forward-looking group of school directors during the eight years he's headed the Belmond and Belmond Community schools was critically essential to accomplish everything that's been accomplished. Also, that creation of the Belmond Community School district was achieved so promptly and efficiently only through the marvelous cooperation of the citizens committee that helped launch the reorganization movement and worked strenuously for its success.

But the plans, the inspiration and the driving force that have transformed the Belmond school system in 10 years' time from one possessing an enrollment of 480 and a faculty of 22 to a community school system with almost 1,050 students and a teaching staff of 44 were provided by Mr. Faris. In that same time, the physical plant has grown from one consisting of two buildings to one of six fine units — plus the beginnings of one of the finest athletic fields in north Iowa.

It would not be amiss at this time to recall that current plans instigated by Mr. Faris call for yet another, major addition to the school system in the near future. Land has already been acquired for the new school building with attached gymnasium-auditorium that will have to be built in the next two or three years. Contemplate that our high school enrollment is currently 280, and that kindergarten classes in the neighborhood of 90 pupils have been starting school regularly in recent years, and the necessity of the projected expansion becomes highly apparent. In addition, the entire community drastically needs an auditorium capable of seating audiences of a size that was never envisioned when the present school auditorium was planned in 1916.

On second thought, maybe "we" school patrons DO have at least a nosegay coming. "We" DID hire Don Faris; "we" HAVE kept him here; and "we" HAVE shown the good judgment of accepting his wise guidance. If we just do as sensibly for another eight years, we should REALLY have an educational system of which we can be proud.

GUESS WE'RE ELIGIBLE TO BRAG A BIT ON BELMOND'S '56 FAIR ACHIEVEMENTS

Certainly congratulations are due Belmond's Future Farmers and their advisor, Francis Kelly, and the 4-H'ers from this vicinity, along with their leaders, for the exceptionally fine showing these young people made at last week's Eagle Grove fair. It's been quite a while since the Belmond area cut such a wide swathe at the junior district fair.

We were particularly proud to find the Belmond banner flying over two grand championship pens in the livestock competition. It was a new experience for Larry Schimp, owner of the fair's No. 1 baby beef, to find himself at the head of the parade; but conquests in the sheep division are becoming more or less of a routine matter for Airell Clark, who showed the grand champion market lamb for the second year in a row.

It was pleasing to find John Studebaker rated the best sheep showman (he barely lost out to Clark in pursuit of that honor a year ago); and it was undoubtedly accepted as a matter of course by her friends when his sister Mary Alice was judged to have one of the two best long-time record books among the 4-H girls of the county.

Belmond achievements in the baby beef and sheep divisions were literally too numerous to permit individual mention in the limited space here available. Suffice it to say that Belmond's entries returned home in a blaze of glory and trailing yards of blue ribbon.

We must confess that it gets under our hide a bit to see Eagle Grove endlessly monopolizing the top ranks in the swine division, believing as we do that our young farmers can raise HOGS just as good as the rest of 'em, too. But we suppose it's only fair that ONE field be left open to the rest of the county. We're convinced, nevertheless, that if our boys start CONCENTRATING on pigs one of these times, that Eagle Grove crew had best look to its laurels.

62 BHS Gridiron Candidates Report For Opening Practice; 20 Freshmen

Compared to last year's starting [illegible] of 50, a total of 62 football candidates responded last week to Coach Dick Hobbs call for opening practice and there appeared to be prospect of perhaps another dozen reporting during the current week. First drills were held last Friday and Saturday, and Coach Hobbs expressed satisfaction with the spirit shown by the gridders as they started preparations for their nine-game campaign that opens here against Garner on Sept. 14.

Eighteen senior prospects are on the roster, including eight lettermen. The returning veterans are Jerry Chandler, Gary Ersland, Merrill Jenison. Roland Jenison, Larry Kinseth, Steve McLaughlin, Bill Murray and Leonard Steenblock. Other seniors contending for positions are: Jim Fetrow, Duane Lowenberg. Dave Long. Jim Stadtlander, Larry Flanagan, Bud Lerdal, Marlin Daniels. Gordon Sandman, Jon Mehus and a recruit from the basketball ranks, Larry Schimp.

Fifteen Juniors Report

Tom McNulty is the only one of the 15 juniors who is a previous letter-winner. However, the junior ranks are loaded with talent from the froshmore squad of last fall that racked up a 4-0 record. These 11th graders include: Bill Ayers, Terrill Baker, Dave Crawford, Ron Courson, Donovan Goeman, Clem McLaughlin, DaDean Obrecht, Gaylon Roberts, Larry Severson, Dick Smith, Larry Stadtlander, John Studebaker, Ted Thompson and Ronnie Vanness.

Only nine sophomores reported for the squad last week, and Coach Hobbs is hoping to see more representatives from this class in uniform before the end of the current week. Those who have been working out are: Allen Flanagan, Allen Fuller. Kenny Hawley, Roger Hoppel, Ronnie Kloberdanz, Bob Kurtz. Bob Lerdal, Tom McLaughlin and Frank Mussell.

Freshmen Please Hobbs

Coach Hobbs is decidedly enthusiastic about the turn-out of 20 freshmen. which includes any number of excellent varsity prospects for the years immediately ahead. The prep ranks include good size, a reasonable amount of speed and some boys who showed to excellent advantage in junior high play last fall.

Freshman candidates are: Wayne Boatman, Jim Crotty, Larry Crotty, Marvin Gimer, Roger Ginapp, Jeff Hansen, Myrl Henderson, Lynn Jenison. Bruce Leinbach. Mike Long, Mark Mason. Clark McNeal, Randy Mussellman, John Murray, Dean Pals, Dennis Pastour, Gary Porter, Merle Robbins, Marlan Stadtlander and Larry Tideback.

Assistant Coach Jack Steinberg is coaching the backfield, permitting Hobbs to concentrate on line play. Paul Hickman, who will be junior high mentor, has been lending a hand with the freshmen. Coach Hobbs has indicated he plans to run his offense mainly off the split-T this season, deserting the Notre Dame box that has failed to produce too satisfactory a running game the past couple of seasons.

Humboldt took the team championship. thereby acquiring a second leg on the traveling trophy which must be won three times to be retired. John Anderson and Rev. Elmer Strelow, along with Thomas and Lee, comprised the winning team. The Clarmond team finished well out of the running. Humboldt won on a four-man 18-hole total of 295

Only one Clarmond golfer, other than Gordon finished among the tourney winners. Dr. P. A. Rietz tied for fourth place in the 6th flight and received the prize — a tackle box — on the flip of a coin.

It was announced that no decision had been reached by the directors of the Boone Valley Golf association as to the site of next year's tournament.

Belmond Hotel Changes Hands

Mr. and Mrs. William Grimes of Des Moines, and her sister, Mrs. Emma Liekweg of Oelwein, recently purchased the Hotel Belmond from its present owners, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Preston. The new owners will take possession Sept. 1.

The Prestons have owned and operated the hotel for the past three years and three months, and have sold it because of Mrs. Preston's ill health. They will go to Des Moines for a short time and then to Rochester where Mrs. Preston will undergo surgery. Mr. Preston plans to travel for the DeSoto Tool Co. of Albert Lea, Minn. He will cover Wright, Franklin, Hamilton and Hancock counties.

Gloria Arends and Collene Sellers of the Iowa U-Go-I-Go club ranked second and will be sent to the International Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo.

Three State Fair "Blues" to Roble

She had three exhibits at Des Moines for judging and won blue ribbons on every one of them.

In general, though, Wright county home furnishing exhibits did very well in state competition. With 16 entries at the state fair, girls from this county brought home 13 blue ribbons and three reds. None rated so low as a white ribbon.

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Something-for-nothing-itis is a disease to be found with increasing prevalence among the American public. That its symptoms are sometimes ridiculous in the extreme will be vouched for by Sheriff Bob Blecker. He can illustrate his testimony with an incident that occurred while the Wright County Peace Officers association and the sheriff's office were operating their nationally famed "Rest Stop" at the Greyhound intersection over Labor Day weekend.

One gentleman who had stopped to enjoy the officers' hospitality was invited to sign the register. The fellow hesitantly picked up the proffered pencil and inquired: "Do you have to be here to win? . . . And when's the drawing?"

Conservation Officer Bill Ayers overheard Bob's story and remarked that the conservation booth at the Eagle Grove fair ran into the same proposition. At so many of the booths there was registration for prizes that fair visitors could hardly believe the conservation exhibit had nothing to give away. Time after time the booth attendants were asked, "Where do you sign up?" Finally Bill got 'em a book to sign. Seemed to make 'em happier, he says.

Don Faris tells us that one of the Bronco football opponents was not correctly identified on the BHS schedule handed to us. Livermore (coached by George Tideback) School district passed out of existence when it was consolidated with those of Bode and Ottosen via reorganization. It is now a part of Twin Rivers Community School district. We note that George is working toward a relatively "big time" schedule, compared to the level of opposition that Livermore used to meet in football. Besides Belmond, Humboldt appears on the Twin Rivers card this fall.

Although Centennial bills are still coming in, the general committee became convinced at a meeting held last Friday night that the bookkeeping on the big affair will be finished up in black ink. There won't be as much left over as it was hoped, for a time. It might be of general interest to know that the entire budget for the Centennial celebration ran somewhat under $10,500. Considering the budgets of close to $50,000 that some nearby communities have spent in observing their Centennials, the local committee believes a pretty fair show was put on for the money.

Last Sunday's speedboat races at Morse lake turned out to be something less than a fund-raising venture insofar as the Belmond Lions and Junior Chamber of Commerce were concerned. A loss of about $150 seemed probable as total expense was being totaled up this week. Had all the adult spectators tossed into the kitty the suggested dollar voluntary admission instead of 50 cents, 25 or even NOTHING, probably the project would have broken even.

It might be mentioned that the Lions generously agreed to shoulder what loss was incurred, in recognition of the many hours of work that their young partners contributed to the effort.

That the races were well worth the modest fee the public was invited to pay is indicated by the fact that one carload of four people drove all the way from KANSAS to watch the water-borne egg-beaters perform! And they went their way well satisfied with the entertainment. In the party was a former speedboat racer, who retired from active competition several years ago. They drove on to take in a similar race program at Rutland on Labor Day. Then—back to Kansas.

That rain Tuesday night was the first "respectable" one that Belmond and immediate vicinity had enjoyed for MUCH too long. Claude Larkin tells us that Thompson Hybrid's rain gauge showed a total of two inches fell. That was 1.35 more than we got during the entire MONTH of August!

Manager Cecil Carstens says the storm caused highline short circuits near Kanawha and at Rowan, accounting for the brief period of darkness here—and much longer ones at Goodell and Rowan. While IEL&P patrons are disposed to yelp when power service is interrupted in such a manner, they might take a moment to be thankful that they don't have to DO something about it. Mr. C. says he got something like an hour's sleep, what the lights comin' on and goin' off almost the whole night through. It's times like that when "Cec" wishes he was a barber or a paperhanger.

Wright Boys 34th Out of 91 Teams

Wright county's 4-H livestock judging team, of which John Studebaker of Belmond was a member, took 34th place among the 91 teams that competed at the Iowa State Fair on Tuesday of last week.

Cecil Hill of the Iowa Hawkeyes had the highest individual score among the Wright team members with a total of 518 out of a possible 600. Others on the team besides Hill and Studebaker were Ronnie Swanson and Jim Weld, with R. E. Aldrich, another Iowa Hawkeye, as alternate.

It will start at [illegible] m. and Ray Frye of Belmond will be auctioneer. A full [illegible] farm machinery and a [illegible] of miscellaneous [illegible] offered for sale.

AN EDITORIAL--

WHAT'S THE PRICE — IN LIVES — OF A STRONGER TRAFFIC CODE?

A typical example of the kind of tragic and needless death that is making Iowa highways among the more dangerous in the nation to travel was offered by the accident a week ago Sunday that claimed the life of a Belmond girl. Local principals in the mishap can take satisfaction that NO charges of responsibility for the fatal collision hang over the owner or driver of the Belmond car. But regardless of what court action ensues in the case, the circumstances dramatized—as only death can—the highly critical need for traffic accident prevention in Iowa to take an entirely new tack from what has been followed in the past.

Teeth—biting teeth and grinding teeth—to MAKE our traffic laws more effective are critically needed. Teeth that will give a careless offender a sharp enough slash to alert him to his responsibility as a driver. Teeth that will grind as irrevocably fine as the "mills of gods" when a person has proved himself too habitually negligent to be trusted at the wheel of a car.

Whether facts speak for themselves or not, it seems justified to cast a glance over the driving record of the man at the wheel when a fatal accident occurs. In the case of the Hayfield driver, it would read like this: last Oct. 15, convicted of reckless driving; May 20, involved in an accident; June 27, involved in ANOTHER accident. Then came Aug. 26th.

Ironically, most of the restrictive precautions needed to safeguard life and limb on Iowa highways DO exist in the traffic code; but all too often they are simply disregarded. Worst offenders in reducing our traffic laws to ineffectiveness are the lower courts that hear routine violators. But the laxity is by no means entirely limited to the courts of mayors and justices of the peace.

For example, the law requires that the department of public safety review a driver's eligibility to possess a license if within a year's time he is involved in three accidents or moving traffic violations. Why the qualifications of the Hayfield driver were not investigated after that accident in June is a question that deserves an answer.

A step farther down the ladder of traffic law enforcement finds the county attorney who is too frequently hesitant to get tough with drivers whose licenses have been made subject to suspension by serious violation. The highway patrolman and other enforcement officers will tell you that "another chance" is meted out in such instances far too often.

Perhaps the weakest link of all, though, exists in the courts of our mayors and justices of the peace which hear the vast majority of traffic cases. These well intentioned gentlemen often seem to regard as their first responsibility that of "protecting" the driving public from the officers who patrol our streets and highways. Until the law is rewritten so these magistrates of our lower courts have NO CHOICE but to assess punishments appropriate to the seriousness of the charges that they hear, we can expect little reduction in the mayhem that is revoltingly prevalent on our traffic thoroughfares.

These lower court magistrates also extensively defeat the intent of the traffic code by their common failure to report actions in their courts to the state safety department. As a consequence, a driver may be PROVEN guilty of more than enough offenses to warrant review of his license eligibility without the state headquarters even knowing that this is the case.

By this time it should be grimly apparent that our existing traffic code is NEVER going to achieve a satisfactory level of safety on our highways. We need a code whose penalties are not potential but CERTAIN. And we need one that is equal in severity to the seriousness of the situation it must combat.

When suspension of a driver's license becomes AUTOMATIC rather than optional in face of established irresponsibility and recklessness, THEN and only then will the senseless and ruthless slaughter on our highways be reduced to a minimum.

HOW MANY LIVES MUST BE PAID TO MAKE THIS CLEAR?

Swenson Rites Attended by 800

How keenly the entire community felt the tragic death of Annette Swenson, who died at Belmond Community hospital Wednesday of last week from injuries sustained three days earlier in an auto accident, was demonstrated Friday by the throng of saddened friends who attended the funeral services at Trinity Lutheran church.

Always a quiet, unassuming girl, Annette clearly had won the affection and respect of all who knew her. It was a hushed and solemn crowd of close to 800 persons that filled the church auditorium, the basement and chapel; and an air of bitter bewilderment prevailed that so promising a young life should have been snuffed out so ruthlessly and needlessly.

The rites were conducted by Rev. O. M. Severseike. Burial was in Belmond cemetery, Fulton Funeral Home being in charge. Serving as pallbearers were Grant Halsme of Blairsburg, Kenneth Loats, Sam Leinbach, Tom Stadtlander, Bradley Hammond and Marlan Cunningham.

Teresa Annette Swenson was born at Belmond on Dec. 28, 1938, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney N. Swenson. She attended the local schools and was graduated from Belmond High school last May with the Class of '56.

During the past three years Annette had found pleasure and satisfaction in serving part-time as a nurse's aide at Belmond Community hospital. Only recently she had accepted employment as a clerk at the P&G grocery, where she had intended to work until beginning her college education next January at Bob Jones university, Greenville, S. C.

She was popular among her school friends, despite her quiet manner; and a hint as to her character was offered by the 1956 BHS yearbook, which observed of her in reviewing her record of activities, "Good humor makes all things tolerable."

The esteem in which she was held by her schoolmates was indicated by her election as a class officer as a freshman and as Basketball Queen in her senior year. She delighted in singing and was for four years a member of the girls' glee club and mixed chorus. The sweetness of her voice won her a place in the girls' sextet as a senior.

Her versatility brought her positions on the yearbook staff during her final two years and on the staff of the student newspaper as a freshman and sophomore, and a role in the class play when she was a junior. She also was a member of the Future Homemakers of America.

Besides her parents, Annette is also survived by two brothers, Sidney and David, and by a sister, Mrs. Joan Watson. Her death was the second tragedy to strike the Swenson family in less than a year's time. Only last November her brother-in-law, Lt. Vernon Watson, a U. S. Air Force navigator, lost his life in the crash of a military cargo plane on Iwo Jima.

Hancock County Attorney Says Charges Against Hayfield Driver Under Study

According to William Templeton, Hancock county attorney, charges will definitely be filed against Mark Mary of Hayfield as an outgrowth of the auto collision on Aug. 26 that caused the death of Annette Swenson. Mr. Templeton has informed The Independent that the exact nature of the charges are not yet certain and will depend upon an investigation of Mary's activities on Saturday evening prior to occurence of the accident.

It is known that the Hayfield man was in Belmond that evening, and an effort is being made to obtain witnesses who can testify as to what degree Mary was under the influence of alchohol at the time he and his companion, Dean Geddes, departed for home. Some cans of beer were found in Mary's car and Patrolman Elmer Angle has reported that beer was detectable on the breath of both men when he investigated the accident, immediately after it took place.

Patrolman Angle has advised The Independent that Mary's record at the state department of public safety shows that he had been twice involved in accidents and once convicted on a charge of reckless driving in less than a year's time preceding the collision a week ago Sunday. On Oct. 15 of last year he pleaded guilty to the reckless driving charge, on May 20 he was involved in an accident, and again on June 27.

When The Independent contacted Attorney Templeton last weekend, he gave no indication that an inquest would be held into the contributive causes of Miss Swenson's death. He did say, though, that he was asking Sheriff L. M. "Dutch" Brower to pursue several lines of investigation in order to determine the seriousness of the charge that might reasonably be filed against Mary.

Patrolman Angle informed The Independent that evidence appeared clear that responsibility for the accident lay with the Hayfield man. Local interest in the hearing against Mary became extremely keen upon the failure of Miss Swenson to survive the injuries she sustained in the crash.

JERRY McLAUGHLIN GETS JOB AS RADIO ANNOUNCER

Jerry McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLaughlin and a graduate of Belmond High school with the Class of '55, has been employed as an announcer by radio station KLOH at Pipestone, Minn. His parents took him up to report for the new job on Wednesday of last week.

In May, Jerry completed a course at the American Institute of the Air, Minneapolis, in preparation for entering radio work. He had been helping with the farm work since his graduation, awaiting the opportunity to make a start in the occupation of his choice.

Mrs. Agnes Grim Died Last Week

Mrs. Agnes Grim, 83, mother of Mrs. Leslie Smith, died Tuesday of last week at the Lauen nursing home. She had made her home with the Smiths the past 2½ years.

She had been staying at the nursing home for several days while her daughter attended the national convention of the Woman's Relief corps at St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Grim had been in failing health for several years.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Methodist church at Morning Sun, Mrs. Grim's former home, and burial was in the cemetery there.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Grim is survived by a son, Verne Grim of Winfield. She also leaves five grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

ST. OLAF BAZAAR

The annual St. Olaf bazaar will be held this evening (Thursday) at 7:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served following the auction. The annual church dinner will be on Sept. 25.

BOYS APPEAR BEST POLITICIANS AS BHS CLASSES PICK OFFICERS

Boys proved the ablest politicians as annual class elections were conducted at Belmond High school last week. They captured three of the presidencies and nine of the 12 class offices, all told.

To Simon "Junior" Negrete went the honor of heading the Class of '57 during its final year in BHS. Boys completely dominated the senior election with Gary Ersland winning the vice president's post and Richard Brooks that of secretary-treasurer.

Sara Simerson was the lone girl who succeeded in breaking the boys' monopoly in the presidential contests. She heads the junior class, but the vice presidency went to John Studebaker and Ronnie Courson was elected secretary-treasurer.

Grandson of Early-Day, China Missionary Will Give Lecture

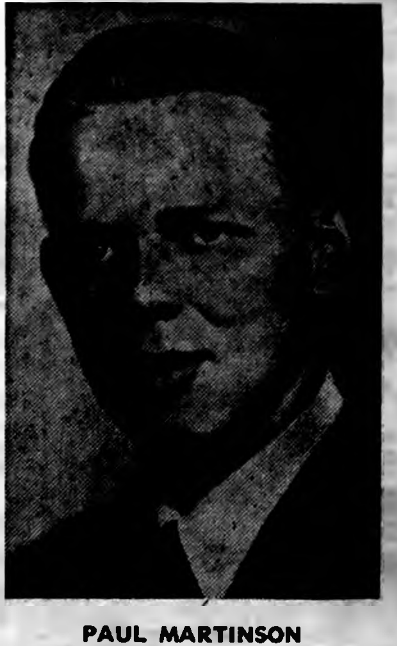
The grandson of a one-time Belmond resident who left this community to make an enviable name for himself in the missionary field will give an illustrated lecture at St. Olaf church on Friday of next week. He is Paul Martinson, a senior this year at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn. Upon his graduation he intends to follow in the footsteps of his grandfather and father as a Christian missionary.

Young Mr. Martinson, whose paternal grandmother was a sister of the late Lewis Hauge of Belmond, left Hong Kong in 1952 to obtain his college education in this country. He will take as his topic, "Christ Among the Chinese of Southeast Asia." His remarks will be generously illustrated with slides. His lecture will start at 8:00 p. m.

Paul's grandfather, Rev. Andrew Martinson, was once a member of St. Olaf church. He pioneered in Lutheran mission work in China in 1902 and died in that country while still thus engaged. The young student's father, Rev. Harold Martinson, has lived in China the greater part of his life. He has just published a book, "Red Dragon over China," dealing with the Communist rule there.

Harold Martinson returned last month to China, the land of his birth, after living in the midwest for two years while writing his book. At Hong Kong he will assume new duties as president of the Lutheran Theological Seminary there. His son's lecture will be concerned with the life, people, scenery and mission work centering in Hong Kong.

The elder Martinson's contact with Chinese Communism goes back over nearly 25 years. During his first term in China, the mission field to which he was assigned was subject to the depredations of the Communists. When China was at war with Japan, he watched them maneuver for their own advantage, without thought of country.



PAUL MARTINSON
To Follow Family Pattern

In 1943-44, at Hartford's Kennedy School of Missions, he did intensive research on the first decade of the Communist movement in China. He has followed and studied the movement ever since—at first hand, through further research, and in gathering stories from eye-witnesses.

Rev O. M. Severseike, the St. Olaf church pastor, expresses the belief that the Martinsons' many friends here will find the book highly interesting. He also says that young Martinson comes recommended as a fine speaker and that the general public will be most welcome to hear his lecture.

GOP Women Will Hear 2 Speakers

Two guest speakers have been obtained for a meeting of the Wright County Republican Women's club that is to held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Christie at 2:00 p. m. on Friday of next week. They are Mrs. James I. Dolliver of Fort Dodge and Alberta Moellering of Woolstock.

Mrs. Clark McNeal, 6th District chairman of the Republican women's organization, obtained the speakers. She says that young women of the community should find the remarks of Miss Moellering of particular interest. The meeting is open to any women having an interest in the Republican party.

Miss Moellering, a graduate of Iowa State college, recently returned from a tour of Washington, D.C. She was sent by the University of Iowa, under auspices of the Iowa Citizens' Clearing House, which every month sends one young person from each of the major parties to the capital to learn first-hand about our government.

Mrs. Dolliver will be pinch-hitting for her husband, U. S. Congressman from the 6th District, who could not appear at the meeting due to a committee session he must attend in Washington on that day. Mrs. Dolliver has earned a reputation as a able speaker in her own right, and Mrs. McNeal promises that Mrs. Dolliver's message will be found interesting.

Peace Officers' "Rest Stop" Serves Estimated 11,000 People in 4 Days

Sheriff Bob Blecker estimated Tuesday morning that approximately 11,000 wayfarers enjoyed the hospitality of the Wright County Peace Officers' association at the "Rest Stop" that was set up at Greyhound intersection on Highways 3 and 69 over the Labor Day weekend.

This number exceeded by some 4,000 to 5,000 the throng of motorists that took a few minutes' rest from the road at the same site over the July 4th weekend. Sheriff Blecker and his fellow officers hope that refreshments and respite from travel that their "Rest Stop" provided may have helped in keeping Wright county clear of major accidents over the holiday.

The rest station was opened for "business" at 5:00 p. m. Friday and continued in operation until it ran out of supplies about 5:00 a.m. Tuesday. During the 80 hours that it played host to weary travelers the officers and their helpers served 12,333 doughnuts, 120 pounds of coffee and 3,000 half pints of milk.

The First State bank and six Belmond insurancemen were among those making donations to help meet expense of maintaining the "Rest Stop." The insurancemen were C. C. Benson, R. W. Courson, Neil Flanagan, Clarence Kirkendall, Jack Lansing and A. W. Loats.

Mayor H. Hokel, Police Chief D. Walrod and Officer Harold Erdman assisted in manning the rest station. Officer Gil Paxton was unable to help due to his overnight duty schedule. Mayor Hokel appeared in a news film picturing the "Rest Stop" in action that was shown over WOI-TV, Ames.

Persons enjoying refreshments at the stop showed their appreciation of the service it rendered by contributing an estimated $200 in small change toward its cost of operation.

A simulated grave, complete with white cross marker, and a "score board" upon which tab was kept of the state's weekend traffic toll impressed travelers with the seriousness of the rest station's purpose.

Sheriff Blecker reports that a number of Iowans expressed the hope that future holiday weekends might see similar "Rest Stops" spotted at 200-mile intervals on all the state's most heavily traveled highways. Many out-of-state guests said they wished the idea would be introduced in their home states.

Quite a number of wayfarers used the rest station grounds as a picnic site and some acted on the suggestion that weariness can be dangerous by parking in the area to grab a few hours' sleep.

Boasts Numerous Advantages Over Former Machine

X-ray equipment that will very considerably expand and improve the x-ray services offered by Belmond Community hospital was installed last weekend. Money for the equipment's purchase — close to $7,000 — was provided by the Chester P. Luick and Vida Luick Memorial Hospital Trust.

Although the machine that was replaced measured up very well to the x-ray facilities provided by most hospitals in communities the size of Belmond, it had simply been "outgrown" by the local hospital, according to Administrator Stuart Kutz.

Addition of Dr. Dean C. Cooper of Fort Dodge to the hospital staff as visiting radiologist, subsequent to purchase of the original x-ray equipment, enabled Belmond Community hospital to provide professional x-ray services that the original installation was not adequately able to accommodate, Mr. Kutz explains.

Excellent Buy Made

Consequently, when the hospital had opportunity to make an excellent buy on the more elaborate equipment now installed, the medical staff was delighted to have the purchase made possible by the Luick Trust. Only one "used" part is included in the new equipment — a control box that is only two years old.

Such a control box ordinarily costs $5,000, alone, and has a useful life of some 20 years before anything in the way of major repairs need be expected. Altogether, the new equipment would have a normal market price of no less than $12,500.

More Maneuverable

He explains that when Dr. Cooper is following the flow of barium through a patient's intestine, for example, a point is sometimes reached when it is highly essential to quickly capture the fluoroscopic picture on an x-ray plate. This was extremely difficult when the old equipment was in use, but now can be accomplished almost automatically and without the slighest delay in the examination.

In addition, the new equipment is so much more maneuverable than the old that the time required for a fluoroscopic procedure will be reduced about in half. This will mean a corresponding reduction in the amount of inconvenience or discomfort to which a patient must be subjected in submitting to an x-ray.

Motor-Driven Table

Although the new equipment is of much heavier construction than the old, the increased maneuverability is made possible by the fact that the examination table is motor-driven, whereas the old had to be adjusted to position by a hand crank.

Another advantage of the newly acquired equipment is its ability to obtain much clearer and more detailed x-rays of obese patients than could the old. The new machine has again as much amperage as the old, generating 200 milliamperes compared to the old's 100.

Other incidental features of the new equipment include its ability to swing into position to take pictures of a person lying on a bed wheeled into the x-ray room. X-rays of a person in a reclining position could be taken with the old only if the patient was transferred to the examination table.

$500 Gift from Cooper

Dr. Cooper was so enthusiastic over the acquisition of the new equipment, Mr. Kutz reports, that he contributed $500 of his own money to purchase a new developing tank for the x-ray dark room. The old one was not large enough to serve its purpose to best advantage.

One attribute of the new apparatus that is greeted with great appreciation by the hospital staff is the greater protection it will give the x-ray technician. It will have a lead-lined booth equipped with a pane of lead glass to keep the machine operator safe from the rays, which can have cumulative effects very detrimental to a person's health.

$400 Next Week

The only money that "fell" Tuesday was from the heavens in the form of that mighty welcome rain. None tumbled into the laps of Cash Gift Day money-seekers Tuesday afternoon. Consequently, the CGD committee is fattening up the kitty for next Tuesday. There'll be $400 on the line; once again four $25's at 2:00 p. m.—and SIX $50's at 3:00 o'clock. . . . Some of it YOURS?

Dear Homeowner:

Every man who has a mortgage on his home and who owns Fire Insurance, but no Mortgage Life insurance is protecting his bank, but not his family. The risk that his banker takes is zero, the risk to which he is subjecting his family amounts to thousands of dollars.

A home owner's greatest hazard is not fire, but death. For every mortgaged home which suffers a fire, there are sixteen which suffer the death of the head of the household before the mortgage is paid.

That is why we are calling this to your attention, with the hope that you will contact us for further particulars with regards to this very important kind of insurance.

Final Rites Held For Herman Tulp

Funeral services for Herman Tulp, 81, of Rowan, a one-time Belmond resident, were held Monday of last week at the Rowan Congregational church. Rev. Harold Sanders officiated and Fulton Funeral Home was in charge.

Burial was in the Rowan cemetery. Serving as pallbearers were James Burt, Henry Arends, George Pritchett, Clarence Lindsey, Frank Drury and Floyd Whitten.

Mr. Tulp died Aug. 24 at Belmond Community hospital, where he'd been brought after suffering a severe heart attack on Aug. 20. He was born July 11, 1875, at Ackley, son of Quintenus and Helen Tulp. One of a family of six children, he was preceded in death by his three sisters and two brothers in addition to his parents.

His family moved to Belmond when he was seven years old. When he was age 16 his mother died. Not long afterward he enlisted in the cavalry of the U. S. Army, in 1895, receiving his honorable discharge at Fort Riley, Kans., in 1898.

For many years Mr. Tulp was employed as a buttermaker by Milton Dairies of St. Paul, Minn. After leaving this occupation, he ranched near Nowlin, S. D. While living there, he wed Eliza Gilmer on March 7, 1906. After his wife's death on Oct. 20, 1925, Mr. Tulp returned to Belmond.

On March 24, 1927, he married Effie Olson and three children were born to them. He and his family moved to North Dakota, until returning to Iowa in 1932 and making their home at Rowan. He farmed near this community until his retirement in 1947, continuing thereafter to live on the farm.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Tulp is survived by a son, Howard of Clarion; and two daughters, Mrs. Herry (Carole) Barrick of Blairsburg and Mrs. Garland (Karna) Brinkman of Klemme. He also leaves six grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

Besides hometown relatives and friends, the funeral services were attended by relatives from Minneapolis, Iowa Falls, Boone, Belmond, Clear Lake, Kensett and Mason City.

Pastor from E. G. Will Speak Here

Guest minister at the Congregational church Sunday will be Rev. Dale Brown, pastor of the Congregational church at Eagle Grove. He has traveled extensively in conjunction with church work and comes recommended as a very interesting speaker. A general invitation is issued by Rev. William Schorman to hear Mr. Brown's remarks during the 11:00 a. m. services.

A native Kansan, Mr. Brown received his undergraduate education at Kansas Weslyan and obtained his seminary training at Yale university, being awarded his B. D. degree in 1940.

For a short time he worked for the American Friends Service committee with refugees in Cuba and from 1941 to 1946 was associated with the YMCA in Canada, helping with prisoners of war and refugees. After World War II he served a year and a half as a leader in the British Christian Student Movement.

He undertook advanced ministerial training in Scotland, serving a church there as pastor for 1½ years. He was a minister at Madrid before coming to Eagle Grove in 1952

Man Breaks Neck In Minor Accident

A very minor accident which did relatively small damage to the two cars involved resulted in a broken neck for Paul G. Griese, 62, of Austin, Minn., shortly before noon last Friday. His car was struck on the left, rear fender by a station wagon driven by Robert L. Gardner of [illegible], an electrician. The vehicle was owned by the Northern Natural Gas company.

The mishap occurred a short distance south of Tyrrell bridge on Highway 69, south of Belmond. According to Gardner, he had overtaken the Minnesota car driving at a speed of about 55 or 60 miles an hour. Griese told Patrolman Jerry Kramer that he had been maintaining a steady pace of 45 miles an hour.

Gardner was attempting to pass Griese about 800 feet south of the bridge and apparently misjudged the latter's speed, coming upon the car more quickly than he'd expected. Impact of the crash snapped the Minnesota man's head back, cracking three vertebrae.

Griese was taken to Belmond Community hospital for examination and x-rays divulged the seriousness of his injury. He insisted, nevertheless, upon being taken on to Austin by ambulance as soon as he had been fitted with a protective collar to minimize the danger of his making the trip.

It was against the better judgement of the local physician who examined him that Griese was permitted to continue on his way and he was required to sign a release absolving the Belmond hospital of responsibility before he was allowed to leave.

Tokman Involved In Odd Accident

Louis Tokman of Belmond Auto company was the strangely incidental victim of a fatal auto accident on Highway 69 about 10 miles north of Des Moines last Friday afternoon. His mishap occurred about three miles south of the site of the collision that 90 minutes earlier had taken the life of Rev. Arnold J. Ahlers, 53, pastor of the Sacred Heart Catholic church at Laurens.

In a statement to Highway Patrolman Darrell Tucker, Mr. Tokman said he was listening to a radio broadcast concerning the accident in which the priest died and failed to notice a line of cars delayed at a highway construction site.

A flagman had stopped three cars to permit traffic from the other direction to move and Mr. Tokman admitted to the patrolman that he "just didn't see the flagman or the cars standing there."

His car momentarily out of control as he attempted to brake it abruptly, Mr. Tokman was unable to avoid crashing into the back end of the rear car in the line and all three were piled together in the resulting crash. Two occupants of the rear car suffered minor cuts and bruises but did not require hospitalization. A charge of failure to have his car under control was filed against the Belmond auto dealer.

Wright Farmers Requesting Many Analyses of Soil

Requests of Wright county farmers for testing of soil samples at the state soil testing laboratory at Iowa State college during July far outnumbered those submitted from any other county in Iowa, the ASC office at Clarion reports.

Farmers of this county sent 521 samples to the laboratory in July compared to 337 from Webster, the next county in line. Sampling in Wright county continued heavy through August, say county ASC officials.

Three men are employed by the county ASC offfice to take soil samples on the farm. Each has been trained in the work by the county extension service. They are Don Flurer, Gaylon Peyton and Rex Thompson.

Only the cost of having the soil samples analyzed at ISC is paid by the farmer. From four to six weeks can be expected to elapse from the time samples are submitted until the complete soil analysis is returned, with fertilizer recommendations.

Farmers who are interested in having their soil sampled for analysis are instructed to contact the county extension office, ASC office or one of the soil samplers.

Congress Boosts Hot Lunch Funds

C. W. Sankey, county superintendent of schools, this week called attention to the fact that children of Wright county this year will benefit by an increase in appropriation for the school lunch program that was voted by the last congress.

The increase to 100 million dollars means that Iowa will receive about 17 per cent more money than it has in each of the past four years.

Supt. Don Faris notes, however, that funds received in federal aid toward financing the local hot lunch program have been insufficient to last through the school year. The federal money has regularly run out about the end of March.

Consequently, the Belmond superintendent points out, the increased appropriation will only have the effect of making federal aid come a bit closer than in the past to fulfilling its objective — if the local situation is any criterion.

In Wright county last year, 1,622 students participated daily in eight hot lunch programs. They were served 285,476 type A lunches, and more than 96 per cent of the meals included milk. Federal assistance to this county amounted to $9,397.-22 for lunches and $3,052.84 for milk.

Five town schools, excluding Belmond, were approved for the special milk program that provides milk for younger pupils at mid-morning in addition to that served with the meals.

Mr. Faris says that Belmond did not participate in this program because Ramsay school under existing circumstances does not have space available to accommodate the special milk program. In addition, the lunch period of the younger children starts at 11:30 a. m. in order that all children participating in the lunch program can be fed before afternoon classes are scheduled to start.

BAZAAR NEXT WEEK

Helping Hand society of the Bethany Reformed church will hold its annual bazaar at the church basement next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served following the auction. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. H. L Pesch Dies at Age 59

Funeral services were to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Rowan Congregational church for Mrs. H. L. Pesch, wife of the superintendent of the Rowan schools. She died Tuesday at Belmond Community hospital, where she had been admitted only last Saturday.

Mrs. Pesch, who was 59 years of age, had been in ill health for an extended period of time and a number of weeks ago had undergone major surgery at University hospital, Iowa City.

Final rites were to be conducted by the Congregational pastor, Rev. Harold Sanders, and Rev. R. H. Lingard of the Methodist church.

Surviving, besides Mr. Pesch, are three children: Mrs. Paul (Dorothy) Kehires of Milwaukee, Wis.; Carl, who is a dental student at the University of Iowa; and Leroy, who is serving his medical internship at a St. Louis, Mo., hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Pesch moved to Rowan in 1929 and he has just commenced his 27th year there as superintendent of schools.

ment as an excellent example of the purpose for which the trust was established. That was, the continued betterment of the hospital and to obtain equipment that could not otherwise be provided.

When a hospital the size of Belmond's succeeds in breaking even on operational expense, it is quite a remarkable achievement in itself. A hospital of such relatively small size can never hope to replace major equipment as it wears out or to finance improvements that might be found essential.

Without a source of financial assistance to pay for such replacements and improvements, the Belmond hospital would be faced with the necessity of either adding to the already heavy burden of the families paying for hospital service — in the form of higher charges — or call on the public periodically for aid by subscription.

Annual net proceeds from the farm that produces the Luick Trust funds would never be sufficient to reduce materially the fees charged for hospital services, the two trustees explain.

However, the Luick Trust serves — in its prescribed fashion — as an asset that any hospital in the position of Belmond Community hospital might well regard with envy, Mr. Hanson and Mr. Hewlett declare. And purchase of the new x-ray equipment provides a perfect example of how well it is carrying out its intended function.

Ill and Crippled Children's Clinic At Webster City

IOWA CITY (Special) — A field clinic for chronically ill or crippled children will be held in Webster City on Tuesday of next week for youngsters from Humboldt, Wright, Franklin, Webster, Hamilton, Hardin, Boone and Story counties.

To be conducted by the State Services for Crippled Children (SSCC), the clinic will be held at the Church of Christ. Dr. George R. Barnes, Jr., assistant professor of pediatrics at SUI, is director of the service.

Each year, at the invitation of the various county medical societies, SSCC sends medical teams from the university's college of medicine to all parts of the state to hold more than 30 such clinics. Last year, 2,785 children were referred to the clinics.

To be eligible, patients must be referred by their local physicians and they must be less than 21 years of age. Consultations and diagnostic services are provided in the fields of pediatrics, orthopedics, speech and hearing, children's dentistry, physchology, and physical therapy. X-ray and laboratory services also are provided.

Following each clinic, the cases are reviewed and findings and recommendations are then forwarded to the local physicians. There is no charge for the service, Dr. Barnes says.

$300,000 Suit Filed on IEL&P

State wire services reported last week that Ben Burma, 28, former Olaf elevator employee, has filed a suit for $300,000 damages against the Iowa Electric Light and Power company in Cerro Gordo county district court. Basis of the suit is an accident last Jan. 3 in which Burma suffered injuries that left him a paraplegic, paralyzed from the waist down.

The young man was taking grain temperature in a storage bin with a metal probe when the rod came in contact with a power line overhead. Burma claims that this was responsible for his being hurled to the ground and breaking his back.

State Per Capita Average Exceeded By Local and Wright Cancer Giving

MASON CITY (Special) — Final receipts in the 1956 Cancer Crusade, officially ended Aug. 30, show that the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society ranked fourth among all ACS divisions in raising dollars over its nationally assigned quota. This is the seventh consecutive year that the Iowa division has ranked in the top four nationally in that category.

In a campaign that saw $26,800,000 contributed nationally, Iowa gave $687,976. This amount includes $23,099 from legacies. It represents a per capita giving of 26.2 cents, as against a national per capita average of 16.1 cents.

(Ed's note: Belmond, giving its customary $700 via the Community Chest, contributed at a per capita rate of 32.3 cents. The Rural Wright County Community Chest — which excludes from its area Belmond, Clarion, Eagle Grove, Goldfield and Dows — gave at a per capita rate of only 25.4 cents; but the other Community Chests contributed with sufficient generosity to bring the county average up to 27.7 cents per person.)

"This record-breaking fund drive marks the tenth consecutive year Iowa has substantially exceeded its nationally assigned goal," stated Charles J. Murphy of Dubuque, state campaign chairman. "Reports show that 85 of our 103 chapters exceeded their quotas, including 49 that raised more dollars than last year."

Going on, Mr. Murphy said, "Three things impressed me, aside from Iowans giving $38,891 more than ever before. First was the willingness of Iowans to increase their giving to ACS, even though personal income of Iowans last year dropped five per cent as against a national increase of seven per cent.

"Second was that our chapters

"Second was that our chapter than ever before was the lowest on record — slightly less than two per cent of the funds raised. Third was the 55 per cent increase over last year in money contributed as "Living Memorials"—a memorial set up for one of every three Iowans who died of cancer."

Keokuk county ranked first in percentage over quota. Rev. Ernest Smith of Sigourney, serving his first year as campaign chairman, raised 169 per cent of quota.

Second place honors went to Sioux county with 164 per cent of quota. Two husband and wife teams from Hull, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Dittmer and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nelson, chairmanned the drive. Third place honors with 163 per cent went to Buena Vista county with Mrs. Marelyne Smith of Storm Lake at the helm.

Although Wright county, under the capable chairmanship of Mrs. Lynn Thompson of Clarion, raised approximately $600 less than in 1955, its total contribution of $5,455 nevertheless exceeded its quota.

Hancock county did considerably better than Wright on the basis of per capita giving, its $5,139 campaign total figuring out to 34.1 cents per person. Franklin county, with a total of $4,192, was below the state per capita average. It figured only 25.7 cents per person.

The Belmond Independent this week received for the seventh consecutive year a Certificate of Appreciation from the Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society "for notable assistance in the Crusade to Conquer Cancer."

In an accompanying letter, Marshall Blake of Mason City, executive director of the Iowa Division, informed Editor J. R. Gallagher: "We should send the attached '1956 Certificate of Appreciation' to almost every news medium in Iowa, but you and your staff are among those we have singled out for special recognition and appreciation, for the seventh year."

Mr. Blake added, "Although the final figures on the 1956 Cancer Crusade in the United States won't be until after Sept. 1, Iowa is in fourth place among the 60 divi- Crusade in the United States won't ta. Iowa was first in 1951, second in 1950, 1952, 1954, 1955, and third in 1953."

Incentive Payment Going To Wool Growers of County

Wool growers of Wright county have already received a total of $28,253.06 in incentive payments for wool they sold in the marketing year which ended March 31, 1956, according to the county ASC committee.

The national average price received by wool growers for the year ending March 31 was 42.8 cents per pound. Based on this figure, the average payment to wool growers to bring the average return to 62 cents per hundred was determined as 44.9 per cent of the price at which the grower sold his wool. Payments now being received by wool growers are based on $44.90 for each $100 the grower received for his wool in the last marketing year.

Applications for incentive payments under the program for the current wool marketing year should be filed with the county ASC office as soon as possible after sales are made.

SPORTS

With about 10 days of practice and them, Coach Dick Hobbs early this week that the BHS otball forces were making a good pression on line play but not apparing so good insofar as backeld work was concerned.

One favorable aspect of the workuts has been the keen competition evidence for most positions. ach Hobbs reports that few, if ny, starting posts have been clinchd and that a real desire to play all is going to be required of any ndidate hopeful of seeing extenve action.

Schimp Showing Well

Roland Jenison appears to have inside track on the quarterback ition, but Assistant Coach Jack Steinberg has also been using Bill Murray; Dave Long and Kenny Hawley at that spot off and on. Although Hawley is only a sophomore, Hobbs regards him definitely as varsity material and particularly has plans for him on defense.

Tom McNulty, lone junior letterman, fills the fullback spot a major share of the time; but Larry Schimp has proven a pleasant surprise as a blocking back and appears certain to see a good deal of use in that capacity at fullback.

Chandler Hurts Knee

Bill Murray at left half and DaDean Obrecht at right half have caught Steinberg's eye, but they by no means have the posts pinned down. Ron Courson, Dave Long and Jerry Chandler are also leading prospects as ball carriers. Chandler was running especially hard until withdrawn temporarily from contact drills due to a minor knee injury. Junior Negrete is slated for use on defense.

Coach Hobs is particularly happy over the outlook at the end and guard positions. There is keen competition for the wing posts, with Jon Mehus, Larry Kinseth, Larry Flanagan, Duane Lowenberg and Terrill Baker battling it out. Bill Ayers has shown promise, too; and Jim Stadtlander, being groomed by Hobbs as a utility lineman, has been used at end, also.

Four Fine Guards

Four really top-flight guards have given Hobbs a lot of satisfaction with the quality of their play. They are Steve McLaughlin, Larry Stadtlander, Merrill Jenison and Dave Crawford. All are fast, rugged, and like to mix it up.

There's a good deal of contention for the tackle berths, too; but Hobbs sees a bit more room for improvement there than at guard and end. Gary Ersland and Larry Steenblock have seen perhaps the most action at tackle; but Hobbs mentioned Clem McLaughlin and Bob Kurtz, a sophomore, as good prospects, with Dick Smith showing consistant progress.

Studebaker at Center

John Studebaker has been switched from tackle to the center position, with Jim Fetrow the alternate pivot. Studebaker is big and active and in Hobbs' estimate may develop into a highly dependable center as the season advances.

Murray and McNulty have been sharing the punting duties, but Hobbs is hopeful that either or both may acquire more consistency than they had at this assignment last season. Roland Jenison has been doing some creditable passing from the newly adopted T formation; and Murray will undoubtedly do some tossing from his halfback position, also.

The Broncos started working under lights Monday of this week, and Hobbs plans four or five night sessions before the opener with Garner here on Friday of next week.

Gridiron to Feed Players Monday

Annual picnic of the Gridiron club honoring members of the BHS football squad is to be held next Monday evening at Morse lake. This event, introduced several years ago, has become highly popular with both the Gridiron members and the players, providing them a chance to get better acquainted.

As usual, "all the fried chicken you can eat" will comprise the main course. In the past, the boys have revealed stupendous appetites and the club members devoutly hope that gridders will have shaken that over-stuffed feeling before they tangle with Garner in the season's opener the following Friday on the local field.

George Hansen has been named by President R. B. Thompson to serve as general chairman of the feed. Co-chairmen in charge of other details of the picnic are: R. W. Courson, chicken; Don Bunnell, potato salad and relish plates; Dick Gowdy, milk and ice cream; Gus Taylor, entertainment; Don Faris, transportation; L. B. Oberhauser, camp fire.

As an opening project to initiate its season of service to the football squad, the Gridiron club has agreed to contimue its purchase of protective eye glasses for such gridiron candidates as may require them.

Two from Clarion To Vie for Men's Golf Championship

Except for a lag in the championship consolation flight, play in the men's golf tournament at Clarmond Country club had advanced to the final round at all flight levels by last weekend. A new champion is assured, since all previous titleholders have been eliminated and it's left for a pair of Clarion clubswingers to battle it out on Sept. 16 for the championship.

They are Clark Holthaus, who dropped Jim Christ 5-4 and Bob Dunker 4-3 to reach the finals, and Bill Wright. The latter downed Jack Lansing in the quarter-finals and then edged Leo Hilton, Jr., 2 and 1.

In championship consolation play, Pat Gallagher has reached the finals with a 2-up decision over Jim Havens and a 4-and-2 win over Jack Row. Progress in the lower bracket has been stymied by failure of Ben Birdsall and "Lefty" Wilson to settle their match. The winner will meet Dwight Tyrrell, who ousted Harold Olsen.

1st Flight

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1956 SUSTAINING MEMBER

WHAT MANNER OF "WRITE-UP" WOULD SCRIBES HAVE GIVEN THE "SHOWS"?

One of our favorite Iowa newspapermen is Ralph E. Shannon of Washington. Ralph was inspired by the recent national, political conventions to contemplate with some regret the passing of that era when writers had to chisel their comments on a rock or sweatingly inscribe them on lambskin. This led him to wonder just how the scribes of that day might have reported the conventions of '56. He then suggested it might have been something like this:

AND IT CAME TO PASS—

Among the nations of that day was one commonly called America, and it was rich and powerful with great wealth in its depositories, and the smell of gasoline abounded in the streets.

And the people were divided into two political parties, one called the Democrats, the other called Republicans, as was the custom of their fathers. And the two parties stood one against the other, and there was great rivalry between them.

And when the time had come that each camp should choose its leaders, counselors were selected and they traveled from afar to meet together in assembly. And it was ordered that the Democrats should meet at place called Chicago. And the Republicans met by the sea at a place named San Francisco.

And there was a mighty tumult.

And the Democrats brought forth a man named Adlai of the House of Stevenson, and they lifted him up with loud acclaim, and his chief assistant was also selected and presented before the multitude. And he was Estes of the House of Kefauver.

And in the midst of the shouting it was charged that the Republicans had governed unwisely, and the spokesmen were exceeding wroth, saying, these evil doers should be rewarded according to their wickedness.

And one counselor, a governor in his own land, said, dost thou not know that the land is impoverished? And dost thou not know that the Republicans have caused this evil to be visited upon us?

And they all dost. And the multitude went away saying, verily the time is at hand for a change.

And it came to pass that the Republicans also assembled, yea with many delegates assembled they them. And they were accompanied by scribes and trumpeters and armor bearers in great numbers. And the place where they met was called the Cow Palace.

And on the eve of the fourth day counselors spake one with another saying, let us name again Dwight David of the tribe of Eisenhower, since he has shown great wisdom and righteousness and wields a mighty power, and no man shall stand before him, not even Adlai nor Estes.

And the counselors cast their lots and not a man nor a woman among them said nay. And Dwight David was chosen.

Then the chief counselor who stood before them said, whom shall we choose to stand at our leader's right hand? And they said, let it be Richard the Nixonite. And he received all the lots save one, and that lot was for a man called Joe Smith. And when Smith could not be found even that lot was cast for Richard the Nixonite, and the choice was unanimous.

And there was one among them named Stassen who went about saying, Richard the Nixonite will be a millstone around the neck of the Eisenhower administration, but they heeded not Stassen, and he fell on his face and craved forgiveness. And it was granted after much muttering.

And the people of the nation heard the proclamations from both camps, and some thought one thing and some another. But the elders and wiseheads counseled, saying, let both camps disagree among themselves if they wish, but let us remain united and strong as a nation lest our enemies from within and without might prevail.

And the people answered, saying, verily it is good that in this great nation we are allowed a choice, and we now have four great leaders from whom we may choose two; for they are all great and good men.

And they further spake among themselves saying, is it not true that to many peoples of the earth it is not given to have a choice? And they said one to another, this is our inheritance and our hearts should be filled with gratitude.

And it came to pass on the days following that many joined the soil bank and hogs went up another ten cents.

Thus endeth the reading. R.E.S.

WE CAN'T HELP BUT VIEW ENVIOUSLY OTHER COMMUNITIES THAT OUTDO US

Just because The Independent harps periodically on civic improvements it regards would greatly benefit this community, we hope no doubts are harbored as to our pride in Belmond. Don't misunderstand us. We LIKE it here! On the other hand, we doubt that the day will ever arrive when we no longer entertain an ambition to see Belmond become a BETTER community than it is at present —whenever the "present" may be.

When we hear of neighboring towns, or communities our size elsewhere in the state, putting us in the shade with civic improvements it arouses our jealousy. We see no reason why we can't be as good as the best of them. It doesn't add up that we are less able to afford modern conveniences as a municipality than we are as private individuals!

What keeps goading us into frequent envious glances at our neighbors is news stories of the sort that twice caught our eye last week. We noted that Goldfield has just completed a $35,000 street surfacing program; and that Lake City (population about 2.300) has just approved a $75,000 bond issue to finance construction of a municipal swimming pool.

What others can do, WE can do too.

By Bob Hullihan

One veteran highway patrolman never makes an arrest without first trying to find out what was in the mind of the driver before he pulled the trick that landed him outside the law. The patrolman's had some baffling answers, as in this story he tells:

"It was one of those beautiful summer mornings, and I was driving north in a long line of cars. Another string of traffic was moving south, toward us. It was the kind of morning when everything seemed right. No reason in the world for anyone to be upset.

"All of a sudden the four cars in front of me took to the ditch. I just managed to squeeze into a farm driveway as a car out of the southbound traffic came slamming down our lane, making the most dangerous pass I've ever seen.

"I chased that car for seven miles until the driver made a wild turn off the highway onto a gravel road. He bounced into a ditch and only a strong fence kept him from turning over. When I walked up to that car I expected to find a driver who was either crazy or drunk.

"Well, he was a man about 50, well dressed, looked intelligent, and said he hadn't had a drink in 20 years. When I asked for his driver's license he made a mistake and gave me an identification card. He was an official in one of the biggest organizations in this state.

"Now here, I thought, is a man who can tell me something I've been trying to find out for a long time. So, before I wrote him a ticket, I asked him just exactly what he was thinking of when he passed against that line of traffic, when he tried to escape an officer.

"He just looked at me, puzzled. I think he really wanted to find a reason, but he shook his head and said: 'I don't know. I don't know.'"

IS YOUR GAS FURNACE LIT?

Those cold days will be here before you realize it and because of the fact we can only light a limited number each day you may be delayed in getting your furnace lighted, if you wait until then.

Right now, we can light up a few every day, and when cold comes, you will be ready — and comfortable. We will also check your filters — and replace them if needed — or clean them if you wish us to.

Last spring, we suggested leaving pilot lights burning in gas furnaces. The trifling cost involved is more than offset, because the small pilot light gives off enough heat to counteract dampness and prevent costly rust in your valuable gas furnace.

Those who have followed this suggestion have not only protected their furnaces, but they are now ready, by only setting their thermostats, to be comfortable in those first chilly mornings and evenings which always precede colder weather.

We would welcome co-operation in lighting furnaces now, in the interest of better service to you — our customer.

VOL. 36 NO. 49 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — BELMOND, WRIGHT COUNTY, IOWA—THURSDAY, SEPT. 13, 1956 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER

12-Year-Old Eagle Grove Girl County's 14th Auto Victim of Year

At Wheel of Car When it Crashes Saturday Evening

Wright county's 14th traffic death of the current year was recorded Saturday night when a 12-year-old Eagle Grove girl, at the wheel of a car occupied by four other young people, was fatally injured when the auto went out of control at a dead-end corner and overturned.

Donna Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Miller, was the youngster killed. The only other member of the party seriously injured was the 21-year-old owner of the car, Ronald Jurgenson of Clarion. He suffered a broken neck and was taken to the Fort Dodge Lutheran hospital. There, the first of this week, he was reported in "fairly good" condition.

Sisters Cut, Bruised

When questioned by Patrolman Al Sparby and Deputy Sheriff Speedling as to how the under-age girl happened to be driving the car, Jurgenson informed them simply that she had asked if she could take the wheel and he agreed to let her.

Also in the car were Jurgenson's brother Richard, 19, and two Eagle Grove sisters, Marilyn and Charlotte Orr, age 17 and 15, respectively. The younger Jurgenson was unhurt; both of the girls escaped with cuts and bruises.

Ineligible for License

Site of the fatal mishap was four miles east of Eagle Grove. It occurred about 9:00 p. m. In view of the fact that a child of only 12 years is not even eligible to obtain a learner's permit to drive, Sheriff Bob Blecker says the case has been placed in the hands of County Attorney Ralph Austin for determination of what charges may be filed against the car's owner.

Mr. Austin has been busily engaged with preparation for and prosecution of cases in district court all this week and at midweek had had no time to devote to the accident case. Preliminary inquiry had been made into the severity of the count that Jurgenson might be liable to, but Mr. Austin planned to make no decision as to possible charges until he had fulfilled his responsibilities in court.

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Sports fans who looked over the football schedules in the sports supplement of the Des Moines Sunday Register may have wondered, as we did, how come Belmond was listed among the Class II schools with enrollment of 225 or under. All the North Iowa conference schools fell in this category except Forest City—but Belmond didn't belong there.

We checked with Supt. Don Faris on the matter, and he confirmed our belief that Belmond ranks solidly among the Class I high schools now.

Fact of the matter is, our enrollment has been above the Class II maximum for at least the past four years—and the classification is made on basis of the past five years' average enrollment. Just how it came about that we were misplaced, we don't know. Anyway, we're one of the "big boys" now. Adding Belmond would place the Class I total at 112 schools.

It is reported by Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, chairman of the memorials committee of the hospital auxiliary, that Belmond Community hospital recently received a $10 gift from Mrs. R. B. Piper. It was given as a memorial in the name of her sister, the late Charlotte Prince of Cherokee. An interesting sidelight is the fact that she had won the money with her replica of an old-fashioned costume in the Sisters of the Swish contest held during Centennial Days.

Through a misunderstanding, Mainstreeter No. 3 got the impression from Patrolman Elmer Angle that the state department of public safety is required to review license eligibility of drivers involved in three accidents or moving traffic violations within 12 months' time. Emmett King, chief of the state radio station north of town, advises us that review in such cases is established practice of the department but is not legally required.

Consequently, we erred in last week's front page editorial in our assumption that the public safety department had been remiss in not re-examining the qualification of Mark Mary, Hayfield driver who was a principal in the recent fatal accident south of Klemme, for holding a driver's license.

We'll say this. If such review is not obligatory, it impresses us it would be a good idea to have it so. When a driver appears to be more or less habitually in trouble, the public safety would certainly be served if the state of affairs would be investigated before the really reckless driver is involved in a mishap that proves "one too many." Meanwhile, the state department apparently is doing the best it can — when it can get around to it.

A local neighbor of Kenny Loats was showing us a card Tuesday that he was about to mail to the former BHS cage star congratulating him on his "success." Just where Ken was "successful," other than making the state papers as the result of an abortive watermelon raid last weekend, we couldn't quite figure. With 10 other Central college students, Kenny learned thhat "crime doesn't pay," when they got caught "red-handed" in a melon patch about 10 miles north of Pella. . . . You just never know WHAT you'll learn in college!

While speaking of watermelon—some very thoughtless guests who made use of the city park last weekend must have felt their ears burning as their boorishness was freely discussed by bypassers after their departure. Rinds from what must have been two or three melons were negligently left on a table top—not more than a dozen or 15 strides away from a trash recepticle. May they all have gotten belly aches from their feast!

When Mainstreeter No. 3 was interviewing "Yoshi" Nishimura for the story which appears elsewhere on this page, the Japanese youth provided refreshments consisting of tea and a concoction less easily identifiable. The latter was a gelatine-like confection of indefinite flavor, about the color of a "black" cherry. Our young host confessed that the very predominating ingredient was "just sugar."

When we asked Yoshi what the flavoring ingredient in the candy was, he had to scurry to get his Japanese-American dictionary. It turned out to be a russet-colored bean, which we gathered to be quite similar to our soybean. We toss out this idea for General Mills to make of, what it will.

Yoshi made his tea in a pot hardly larger than the small, handleless cups in which it was served. We, and others at the "party," were a bit concerned that the strength of the tea leaves would not hold out to provide a libation for all the five of us present. Yoshi reassured us with the declaration that the one pot should be good for 20 cups!

The old order passeth. . . . Postmaster George Jenison tells us that the new, ball-point pens adopted for general post office use went into place in the local PO this week. This will ruin a lot of good (?) jokes; but George anticipates it will keep sweeter the tempers of patrons who have to use the PO-provided writing instruments to make out money order blanks, etc.

WON 10 BLUE RIBBONS

Due credit wasn't given Janice Kalkwarf recently in a story released by the county extension office on blue ribbons awarded 4-H girls at the Eagle Grove fair. She was listed as winner of eight "blues," whereas she actually received 10, and, in addition, five [illegible]

Students Choose Council Members

Student council representatives from the various BHS classes were elected for the current year last week, each home room choosing a council member. Formal organization of the council will take place after a president is chosen for the council He, or she, will be elected by the other members of the council from among three candidates nominated by the senior class.

Principal Paul Buck has also released the names of those students who have been elected as presidents of their respective home rooms. By classes, they are: freshmen — Jeff Hansen, Ardith Pals and Eloise Soma; sophomore — Howard Johnson and Juanita Norris; junior — Terrill Baker, Tom McNulty and Larry Stadtlander; senior — Marlin Daniels and Simon "Junior" Negrete.

Meeting on Farm Outlook Booked; Clarion, Sept. 20

Two of Iowa State college's top specialists — Rex Beresford, animal husbandman, and Herb Howell, farm economist —will be speakers at a meeting scheduled for 8:00 p. m. on Thursday of next week at the Clarion IOOF hall. The farm outlook for 1957 will be the general topic of the meeting and Extension Director Aaron Bowman predicts Wright county farmers will get some valuable tips on what is ahead for them.

Mr. Howell will appraise the present livestock situation, relative to the total meat supply available for consumption. He will include a report on the number of cattle on feed, the position of the cattle cycle and a summary of the hog situation.

An appraisal of the feed grain supply will also be made by the economist. It will include information on the total grain supply, prospective grain prices for this area and the roughage supply available. The soybean outlook will also be reviewed.

Howell, will place special emphasis on the outlook for the fat cattle market. The comparative prospects for feeding heavy cattle, heifers, plain cattle, yearlings and calves, will be considered in specific terms.

Various cattle feeding programs will be discussed by Mr. Beresford, who is well known to cattlemen in the county. He will provide particulars that will help farmers plan feeding programs to fit their feed supply. Utilization of low quality roughages will be another of Beresford's topics.

He says the subject will be approached from the angle of using livestock to salvage drought-damaged feed. Points on stretching the hay supply will also be offered.

General advice on supplementing cattle rations, using stilbestrol and antibiotics, and handling feeder cattle will also be included in the presentation by Mr. Beresford.

HAUGE ENTERS SIX DUROCS AT NATIONAL BARROW SHOW

Dale Hauge of Belmond was among the nearly 400 farmers and breeders from the corn belt states who had hogs entered this week in the National Barrow show at Austin. Minn. Dale took six Durocs to the show, which opened Tuesday and extends through Friday. A total of 3,284 hogs were entered.

The barrow show is called "The World Series of Swinedom." In its 11 years of existence it has gained wide fame for promoting arena approval of hogs bred to produce the meaty, non-fat pork cuts that the consumer prefers.

Awards for next Tuesday will again total $400, with four $25's once more being offered at 2:00 o'clock and six $50's at 3:00 p. m. . . . Time for fall clothes-buying, and that money would come in handy!

Clarion-Webster Test Farm Plans To Hold Field Day

It is expected that an increase in corn yield of 25 bushels per acre produced by varying rates of nitrogen in an experiment at the Clarion-Webster experimental farm will be shown at a field day on the farm that is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 26 The program at the experimental farm, just south of Kanawha, will start at 1:30 p.m.

Special arrangements have been made to provide seating for spectators on flatbed trailers which will not only contribute to the comfort of field day guests but will provide transportation from one experiment location to another. All persons interested are cordially invited to attend the program.

Ranking Specialists to Speak

The farm staff says that use of fertilizer will be only one of the practices demonstrated, which have given increased yields. Insecticides to control corn-rot worms gave spectacular results on the continuous corn plots. Dr. John Lilly of the experiment station staff will explain the results.

Other top ranking specialists from the various Iowa experiment stations and the state extension staff will be on hand to tell the results of research experiments undertaken.

Of particular interest will be the sorghum plot, which will display several varieties of sorghum. Experts predict that Iowa farmers will be growing a million acres of sorghum in a few years. Harvey Thompson, agronomy specialist, will discuss varieties and management of sorghum.

Results of Deep Tillage

Ben Grover of the experiment station staff will explain deep tillage studies, in which soil was tilled from five to 27 inches deep and then planted to corn. Phosphorus was also applied at different depths on this area.

Effects of liquid and dry forms of nitrogen will be compared in their application on corn; and the use of various rates of phosphorus

The Clarion-Webster experimental farm was purchased in 1953 by farmers in 18 counties as a site for drainage and basic fertility experiments on the soil type predominating in this territory. This year provides the third season of experimental results. Many farmers and businesses in Wright county purchased shares of stock to help buy the farm.

1956 Support Rates in Wright County Set at $1.42 for Corn; $2.14 for Beans

Support and loan rates for 1956 corn and soybeans in Wright county were announced this week by the county ASC committee. The rate on corn will be $1.42 for that produced in Wright county in compliance with the acreage allotment program and 25 cents less for that not produced in compliance. The soybean price support-loan rate will be $2.14 per bushel.

The rate for "compliance" corn in 1955 was $1.50 per bushel. No support rate has been available on non-compliance corn in past years.

County support rates for '56 are based on a national average of $1.50 per bushel for "compliance corn" in the officially designated commercial producing areas, which include all of Iowa. In this state, county-by-county rates range from $1.41 to $1.50.

As in past years, price support on 1956 corn will be available in the form of loans or purchase agreements, as desired by the producer, on corn grading No. 3 or better.

Wright county's bean support-loan rate is 11 cents more than for last year's crop. County-by-county rates in Iowa on '56 soybeans will range from $2.12 to $2.16 per bushel, compared to a 1955 range of $2.01-$2.05.

Rates on this year's soybeans are based on a national average of $2.15 per bushel, which represents 75 per cent of parity. The 1955 national crop average was $2.04 and based on 70 per cent of parity.

Support on 1956 beans grading No. 2 or better will, as in years past, be available in the form of loans or purchase agreements, whichever is preferred by the producer.

Stoffer Funeral Held on Monday

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Alexander Reformed church for Simon Stoffer, 66, who was the father of Mrs. L. T. Trafford of Belmond. The rites were conducted by Rev. B. T. Vander Woude, Sr., and interment was in the Alexander cemetery. Johnston Funeral Home of Belmond was in charge.

Mr. Stoffer's death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage which he suffered at his home at Alexander last Saturday. He was born at Belmond on Jan. 13, 1890, but had lived most of his life in the Alexander community.

Simon John Stoffer was the son of John and Anna (nee Ruiter) Stoffer and was one of 10 children, having eight brothers and one sister. He started farming near Alexander in 1915 and on Nov. 23 of that year was married to Gussie Blau.

Seven children were born to them: M/Sgt. John Stoffer, USAF, stationed at Weisbaden, Germany; Mrs. L. T. (Annabelle) Trafford, Belmond; Mrs. U. C. (Grace) Nolte, Holloman Air Force Base, N. M.; Jerry, Ventura; Roger, Chicago; Mrs. G. R. (Mary) Lyon, Findlay, O.; and a son Edward, who died in infancy.

Simon farmed in the vicinity of Alexander for 23 years, moving to town upon his retirement from that occupation in 1938. His death came suddenly, at the age of 66 years, eight months and 24 days.

Besides his widow and the children above mentioned, Mr. Stoffer is survived by 10 grandchildren; five brothers—Henry and Joe of Sheffield, Corneil and Engel of Alexander and George of Oskaloosa; and one sister, Mrs. John (Sophie) Blau of Alexander.

Moral: Don't Leave Keys in Your Car!

Orphie Anderson was awakened from peaceful slumber about 4:45 Wednesday morning to be informed that his car, which had been left in the garage—with the key in it, the owner sheepishly admits—had been stolen The thief was picked up in Des Moines when his manner of driving for some reason aroused suspicions of a capital city cop.

The registration had been thrown away, but a check with Sheriff Bob Blecker via the police radio system identified the owner of the '53 Mercury sedan. Night Officer Gil Paxton bore news of the theft to Mr. Anderson.

Few details of the case were received by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson prior to leaving for Des Moines later in the morning in a borrowed car to reclaim their own vehicle. They were informed that the thief admitted being an escapee from a state institution in Utah and that he took the car about 12:30 a. m.

Orphie's sworn he's going to be more careful about leaving the keys in his car overnight, hereafter.

Roberts to Hold Service Station Opening Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roberts recently concluded 32 years' of residence in Belmond when they purchased from Sam Bohning the D-X Service at Goodell, of which they took possession on Sept. 1.

In this issue, the Roberts announce that they are holding a grand opening of the business under their management on Saturday of this week. There will be open house hours from 9:00 to 11:00 a. m. and 2:00 to 4:00 p. m., during which time free coffee and doughnuts will be served to adults and the kiddies will be given free Frosticks.

During the first 17 years after they moved to Belmond in 1924, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts engaged in the restaurant business. Since they will serve meals at the eating place operated in conjunction with the Goodell service station, they are making a complete turn of the wheel, occupationally.

In 1941 they bought Case hotel, now the Belmond hotel, and then leased it for a period of 10 years. In 1951-53 they operated the hotel themselves, before selling the establishment to Henry Hokel in the latter year.

Since sale of the hotel, Mr. Roberts says he has "just been kicking around." Both he and Mrs. Roberts are pleased to be back in the restaurant business again, in which they enjoyed very genuine success during their earlier years in Belmond.

Association Post To R. W. Rosene

Robert W. Rosene of the staff of Rowat-Murray, Engineers, at a recent meeting held for the purpose of forming an Iowa Association of Consulting Engineers, was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization. The meeting was held at the Cerro Gordo hotel, Mason City.

Guest speaker at the organization meeting was T. E. Roche, a member of the Minnesota IACE. He explained that the principal function of the association is to maintain and improve the quality of professional service rendered to the public by consulting engineers.

Course of Action On Fatal Crash Not Yet Decided

William Templeton, Hancock county attorney, informed The Independent this week that investigation of the auto accident that took the life of Annette Swenson is being continued but that no specific statement as to the probable course of action can be made at this time.

Sheriff L. M. "Dutch" Brower has talked to a number of persons who would be potential witnesses in the case with varying degrees of success as to testimony.

Particulars of the case have become relatively clear cut in the course of the inquiries, Mr. Templeton said, but it is not yet possible to predict accurately what charges will be filed against the driver of the car that collided with the one in which Miss Swenson was riding.

According to the county attorney, there would seem to be a good case in support of a charge of failure to yield half the highway—a misdemeanor; but careful study is being made to ascertain if the charge should properly be a more serious one.

Terry Johnson, driver of the Belmond car involved in the accident, was released from Belmond Community hospital last Sunday morning. Arlen Pals, the car's owner, and Sandra Didie, who were less seriously hurt in the crash, were both released on Aug. 20.

Bohning Receives Higher State Post

Frederic Bohning, former Belmondite who now makes his home at Des Moines, has lately been appointed a supervisor in the transportation division of the state department of public instruction. Though calling Des Moines his home, he spends most of his weekends here with his widowed mother, Mrs. George Bohning.

He has been on the staff of the department of public instruction for six years, having previously been a consultant in the veteran's education and training division. The new job represents a nice promotion. Mr. Bohning was principal of Forest City High school before he started working for the state.

17-Year-Old Japanese Boy, BHS Junior, Finds Big Words Make Questions Harder'n Answers

Belmond High school's enrollment increased by one more student this week with the belated entry of Shigeyoshi Nishimura, 17, a Japanese youth who will be making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Cato Griesy for the next two years. Yoshi, as he is already known to his schoolmates, is a protege of the Griesys' son Paul, who is on the staff of Doshisha university in Japan.

He would have been a senior this year in the high school that is part of Doshisha's educational system. However, due to curriculum differences and the fact that Yoshi is still mastering English, it was deemed advisable that he enroll as a junior at BHS.

He is taking English, U. S. history, typing and shop this first semester, but will likely undertake five subjects the second semester. His present difficulties with his newly adopted language—which he nonetheless speaks with surprising fluency—was indicated by his experience this week in taking the Iowa Basic Skills tests. He explained to your reporter, "The answers were quite easy; but the big words made it difficult to understand what question was being asked."

During the past year, Yoshi was one of three Japanese boys whom Paul Griesy had living with him at Carleton House, Paul's living quarters at Doshisha. During this time he acquired much of his knowledge of the English language. He has to resort quite frequently to his Japanese-English dictionary, but comprehends the flow of an ordinary conversation with relative ease.

Although initial efforts to arrange for Yoshi's coming to America were launched last April, so much "red tape" was encountered that he was unable to arrive until school had already been underway for two weeks. The final delay was caused when the Japanese steamship company upon whose ship he made his trans-Pacific voyage refused to accept yen in payment of his fare. A cashier's check good in American dollars was hurriedly dispatched—and he was at last on his way.

Yoshi says he had had shop training in "middle school" — equivalent to our junior high—in Japan. But he was surprised at the quantity of machinery employed in teaching vocational shop over here. There, students had only hand tools to work with. In fact, Yoshi is quite overwhelmed with the multitude of mechanical conveniences which characterize the American way of living.

He says that his Japanese contemporaries take great pleasure in American jazz—so he should not find adjustment to the juke box world of the American teenager too much of a transition. His personal hobbies are electronics (he likes to work with homemade radios and the like), stamp collecting, swimming and tennis.

Mr. Griesy says Yoshi is a decidedly fast runner, too— for a distance as yet undetermined—and the young fellow showed considerable interest when it was suggested he might be a candidate for the track team next spring. He's looking forward to seeing his first game of American football tomorrow night when the Broncos play Garner. Football in Japan is of the rugby variety, with round ball and no massed formations such as characterize our game.

Yoshi plainly feels very much at home in Belmond, already. He explains, "I have wanted for so long to come to your country;" and he insists he has felt no pangs of homesickness, whatsoever. He is hoping he will be permitted to extend his stay to cover four years of college.

He wants to take business administration as his college major. In this matter, he's not in complete agreement with his father. The elder Nishimura would like to see him enter some phase of the diplomatic service. Mr. Nishimura is a manufacturer of proprietary medicines at Kyoto, where Doshisha university is located.

Yoshi says that all of his schoolmates have been "very kind," and he likes the matter-of-fact way in which he has been accepted. As for Yoshi himself, he gives anything but the impression of a "stranger in a strange land." He distinctly seems to belong.

The Independent regrets it was unable to arrange for a picture of Yoshi to accompany this story. However, his picture will be published next week—along with a very interesting one of him with his family.

FARMWIFE ARRESTED HERE ON DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE

Mrs. Lillian Smith, 40, farmwife residing on Route 1, Rowan, was bound over to the grand jury Sunday morning on a OMVI charge in a hearing conducted by Mayor Pro Tem H. J. Classick. She had been arrested on downtown Main street Saturday night by Officer Gilford Paxton and was held overnight in the Forest City jail, the county jail at Clarion being too full at the time to accommodate a feminine guest. She is scheduled for hearing during the October term of court and meanwhile is free on $500 bond.

Garner to Oppose Broncs in Grid Opener Tomorrow

GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT

Garner at Belmond
Clarion at Britt
Buffalo Center at Thompson
Clear Lake at Forest City
Manly at Lake Mills
Northwood at St. Ansgar

Tomorrow night on the local gridiron the Belmond High Broncos will get their first test of the season, with Garner providing the opposition. Although the Broncs wound up their season last year by blasting the Cardinals 44-0 and only six Garner letter-winners are back in uniform this year, Coach Dick Hobbs is taking nothing for granted in the victory department and has been working his boys hard in preparation for the game. Its starting time will be the usual 8:00 p. m.

Garner's team will be under the direction of a new coach, Roland Gustafson, who last year was at Terril. He will have as a nucleus of his team four veterans in the backfield and two in the line. Terry Greiman and Allyn Baskerville, seniors, will likely be at the halfback spots. At quarter will be Roger Clark and at fullback a converted lineman, Jack Diebler, both juniors.

Two Line Veterans

Garner's backfield ranks have been hurt by injuries during the past week or so. Larry Greiman, a top candidate for halfback, was on crutches last weekend with a torn leg ligament; and Jim Greiman, a reserve ball-carrier, was hampered with a broken finger. One of Gustafson's biggest boys from the freshman class, Dick Conroy, also a back, suffered a broken ankle last week.

Backfield Competition Keen

Line assignments for tomorrow had been quite definitely decided upon by Coach Hobbs the early part of this week, with only one position subject to some doubt. At right end it may be either Jon Mehus or Dave Long. Larry Kinseth will hold down the other wing. Gary Ersland and Leonard Steenblock will fill the tackle slots, Steve McLaughlin and Merrill Jenison will be at guard and John Studebaker at center.

Except that Roland Jenison seems to have the quarterback job nailed down for the present, the backfield combination was very much open to change. Hobbs says Tom McNulty or Larry Schimp will be at fullback; Bill Murray, Ron Courson or Simon Negrete at left half; and DaDean Obrecht or Jerry Chandler at right half.

Powerful Vikings and Fleet Indians Again Rate as Top Rivals for Title

As the North Iowa conference football campaign was getting underway just a year ago, The Independent tabbed Northwood and Forest City as the teams to beat for the title. They finished in 1-2 order, the Vikings with a 6-0 record—and an undefeated season—and Forest City 5-1, the Indians' only NIC loss being in a 20-13 thriller at the hands of Northwood.

There seems no good reason for not applying the same prediction to the 1956 season. Belmond has been touted in some quarters as a serious championship contender, but on the basis of pre-season outlook it seems questionable if the Broncos will have the experience to cope with Northwood's veteran outfit or will be able to hobble the speedy Forest City backs who spelled defeat for Belmond last fall.

Vikings Powerful Again

Northwood should unquestionably rate the No. 1 favorite's role on the strength of talent returning from its championship team of last year. Remarkably enough, two of the five men the Vikings placed on the 1955 1st all-conference team and two of the three they had named to the 2nd are back again this fall.

Mayce Reyerson, hard-running back, and Gary Rapp, who weighed in at 180 at tackle last season, were all-NIC a year ago, while Gary Lee, another 180-pound tackle, and Robert Micklick, center, rated second-team selection. In addition a guard by the name of Victor, who was given honorable mention, will be back at his old post. All told, Northwood has an even dozen lettermen on hand to defend the Vikings' laurels.

Indians Have Hanson, Nilssen

Forest City has only seven letter-winners back, but they include two of the finest ball carriers that saw NIC action last season. Fleet Jim Hanson was a 1st team all-conference choice and Ted Nilssen, who's just as tough to stop, rated a 2nd-team berth although only a sophomore. Kingpin in the Indian line will be Ed Duden, a 183-pounder who was placed at guard on the NIC 1st team.

Wally Stitsworth, who's coaching the Indians for the first time this year, will also have Steve Casperson, Denny Hill, Jerry Dunbar and Denny Hanson back from the 1955 runner-up aggregation.
